Chimney Fire on Water Street

On Thursday morning about 11 o'clock, the firemen were called to the home of John Alcombrack, on Water street. On investigation it was found that the chimney was on fire. A considerable amount of smoke was issuing from the chimney and through the house doors, but no damage was done to the building.

Easter Play, April 6th Under Auspices of V. O. N.

The Mystery Play to be presented at the Town Hall, on Friday, April 6th, will be somewhat similar in character to the one produced here a little over a year ago, being a medieval mystery play telling the story of the Resurrection.

This play was written and all the costumes were designed by Miss Stephanie Jarvis, and the play has received very favourable attention in Toronto, where the Lieutenant-Governor especially requested that it be produced on the night on which he attended the Dramatic Festival.

The beautiful costumes used in Toronto have been made available to the local people who will present this play by Miss Jarvis, who will herself act the part of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The proceeds of this presentation in Napanee will be given to the local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Small Quantity Anthracite Coal Now in Canada

Ottawa, March 21.—A total of 900 tons of anthracite coal was produced last year in Canada, but not until the application to classify anthracite as coal of a class or kind produced in this country came before the Tariff Board did National Revenue Department officials know that this was so. L. F. Jackson, chief appraiser, told the Board yesterday. The board was hearing the request presented by A. W. Neill, member of Parliament for Comox-Alberni.

The anthracite came from the mine of Wheatley & Sons, of Banff, Alta.

The argument before the Board centred on the interpretation put by the Department on section 42a of the Customs Act. Mr. Jackson urged that the only reasonable guide was to ascertain if the coal was produced here in "commercial quantities." Since Canada's consumption of anthracite was more than 2,000,000 tons a year, it was not reasonable for purposes of administration to regard a total Dominion production of 900 tons as establishing a basis for classification.

The total production of the Wheatley mine could be consumed by one-eighth of the population of the small town of Banff. To alter the classification would bring anthracite coal into the same category as bituminous, with the result that Nova Scotia coal mines would be penalized. Anthracite was used for domestic heating; bituminous for industrial purposes. The two were not competitive. The board reserved its ruling.

Grace United Church Father and Son Banquet

About 150 men and boys of the congregation attended the annual father and son banquet in Grace United on Tuesday evening, March 22nd. The woman's organization catered for the dinner, which was served from long, tastefully decorated tables in the Sunday School hall.

Immediately following the dinner a program of music and addresses was presented, with Mr. Fred Knapp presiding as chairman. Mr. Don. Wilson led community singing as the first item on the program, and Mr. G. F. Smith sang a solo. Mr. P. B. Elliott proposed the toast to the boys, which was answered by Gerald Simmons, who is the local member of the Older Boys' Parliament. In his address, which was well delivered, Gerald Simmons told something of the possible probable time parliament session he attended at Christmas time, and explained the five point objective of the parliament.

Mr. Don. Toppin, the premier of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament was an honored guest at the banquet. Mr. Toppin is a student at Albert College, Belleville, and was elected to his present position as premier, at the last session of the parliament. His address dealt with some of the problems under consideration by the boys. It struck a high note of idealism for the youth of the country.

Rev. R. T. Richards, the minister of the church, proposed the toast to the church, which was answered by Mr. James Rempel, minister of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. Dr. Semple's theme was the relationship of men to the church and to the boys. He stressed the importance of companionship between the fathers and the sons and the necessity for setting fine examples. He urged the men not only to see that their sons go to church, but also to go to church with the boys.

Mr. F. W. Barrett proposed the toast to the ladies, and Mrs. J. M. Simpson replied. During the evening the boys of Don Scott's Sunday School class gave a short skit, which was cleverly done and provoked considerable amusement.

From the standpoint of attendance and interest the banquet was looked upon as a decided success.

Busy Session at Provincial Legislature

The Henry Government scored their third overwhelming victory of session when the House divided on carrying the budget by 79-19, this week.

In concluding the debate for the Government, Premier George S. Henry delivered a smashing defence upon opposition criticism on several issues particularly in connection with the recent $40,000,000 loan floatation. Again the Premier drew comparison with the loans floated by the Drury administration, under which the Premier charged their friends had benefited, while under this loan the Government had obtained the lowest rate of any loan floated in over twenty years.

Upon the division being registered the House went into committee of supply to consider the estimates totalling $37,467,519, which are a slight increase over last year. The Premier drew long applause when he announced that the total of supplementary estimates, which is the first time in 21 years this has been accomplished.

On a similar division the Government was also sustained on the issue of use of dogs in deer hunting, the division being requested by D. J. Taylor, Progressive, North Grey, who is maintaining the present law prohibiting the dogs.

Beer and Wine Amendment

Attorney-General W. H. Price introduced the Government wider sale of beer and wine policy in amendments to the Liquor Control Act. The measure provides for sale of beer and wine with meals in dining rooms in standard hotels, and at the option of the Liquor Control Board may include restaurants and clubs.

It also provides for sale of beer by the glass in refreshment rooms in standard hotels, and in veterans' and labour union clubs.

Supplementary legislation likely to be introduced will empower the Liquor Control Board, if it deems it advisable, to make it unnecessary to have a permit to purchase beer and wine, or either of them, as it is carried out under the present liquor law.

The act will not be brought into force by proclamation, which is interpreted to mean not until after the Provincial election.

With a view to establishing control on the measure, the amendments lay down several drastic stipulations. Only British subjects may secure licenses, or as the act terms them privilege licenses. No authority is issued to any one interested in breweries or wineries, neither will sale be permitted to any one on premises who are minors or intoxicated persons. No bars are to be erected. No packages of beer may be removed from authorized sale premises, and no slot machines are to be operated therein. "Notorious by bad characters" are not permitted on premises.

The Board is given power to designate the premises to be used as refreshment rooms; where rooms are to be located; what and how much beer and wine is to be sold, and the perods of the year, days and hours when they may be sold, served and consumed. It permits or authorities must keep books, file returns to the Board.

Attorney-General Price in introducing the bill said that the measure is an aid to temperance and sobriety, pointing out that the free distribution of beer and wine would mean a further decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors and an increase in the consumption of beer and light wine. It would also remove the feeling of the average working man that he has been discriminated against in not being permitted to buy a glass of beer; elimination of the home-brew menace as built up in the Province under Federal jurisdiction and authority.

Permits Liquor Advertising

The bill, Col. Price pointed out, also maintains the Local Option Clause as included in the present act, but they will be extended so that Local Option districts may vote on whether they want beer and wine in dining rooms or beer in refreshment rooms. Authority for permitting liquor advertising in newspapers and by radio and to grant permits for consumption for beer and wine at banquets is now vested in the Board.

"Liquor consumption in the Province has dropped from the peak year of 1929 from $55,000,000 to $30,000,000 in 1933," said Col. Price. "The greatest reduction has occurred in spirituous liquors, a much smaller reduction in the consumption of beer, while the consumption of wine has decreased very little. It is anticipated that with a freer distribution of beer and wine there will be a further decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors and an increase in the consumption of beer and of light wine."

Nearly 175,000 home brew permits granted by the Federal authorities have presented a menace which had to be met," said Col. Price. "This act puts the control of the consumption of beer and wine in the hands of the Board and should be an aid to temperance and sobriety."

Premier Henry agreed with the resolution tabled by A. Russell Nesbitt, Conservative, Lracondale, that some action should be taken into the charge that practically racketeering exists in the sub-letting of contracts by contractors to the detriment of those employed. The Premier agreed that the Labour committee would be called to deal with the matter.

JOSEPH CONRAD'S FATHER

Joseph Conrad's father, Appolo Nalsec Korzeniowski, was a martyr to the cause of letters. He gave up his literary gift to the cause of his country, Poland, and though he was ably versed in other languages he refused to abandon his native tongue in the hope of self-glorification elsewhere.

And there is a silence freighted with the tragedy of genius in the attitude of Joseph Conrad to his father. The vengeful sea kept them apart, these two, and aborted the filial relation into one of bowed into a more constrained silence.

While the one flourished his literary talent by its salty tang, the other flickered and died, leaving a book of poems, several plays and a few translations in the wake of his pen.

The, majority of Korzeniowski's works were published in a group of Polish magazines that flourished in Warsaw during the 50's and 60's. His plays, steeped in the blood wits of the Russian gendarmes and censors, carried a contraband message of cheer to his brethren. They came to look upon him rather as a saviour and a political hero than as an inspired writer who had chosen the theme of patriotism. In the frenzy of rebellion they saw in Korzeniowski the patriot; the deeper vision of the poet and playwright, a man of consequence in letters, vanished from their focus.

Yet, the father of Conrad remains still unknown. His verse is can not be found in the most prolix anthologies of Polish poesy, and his books are scattered and forsaken. His manuscripts are probably smouldering in Cracow University, to which he bequeathed them, untouched by seeking hands.—International Book Review.

"WINDY WILLOWS" PRESENTED AT COBOURG

On Monday night, Rev. R. T. Richards and a number of young people from Grace United Church, visited Cobourg and presented their play "Windy Willows," a stirring provoking comedy in four acts, in Trinity Hall. "Windy Willows" is the name of a rural village in Iowa, and the play centred around the arrival of certain aristocratic ladies to make their home there, and of ludicrous incidents and complications that followed, flavoured with the right amount of intrigue, mystery and crime to make a most interesting and laughable comedy.

There was a large audience present, who showed appreciation by insistent applause throughout the play and continuous laughter. It was no place for anyone nursing a fit of the blues.

Rev. W. P. Woodger, as chairman in opening the evening's entertainment, expressed the pleasure he personally felt, in having Mr. Richards and the young people from his former charge visit Cobourg, after which Mr. Richards, who was the director of the play, introduced the individual characters in the cast.

Mr. Thompson of Napanee, gave a humourous reading before the play, which was much enjoyed and was appreciatively applauded.

Trinity Sunday School orchestra played while the audience was assembling, and their good music was greatly enjoyed.

"Windy Willows" quartette, comprising four Napanee gentlemen, gave several numbers between acts and judging by the applause made an appeal, all their own, to the audience. There was also instrumental music supplied by Napanee talent.

Altogether, it was a highly enjoyable evening and the Napanee entertainers received the thanks of the audience for their good work and mirth-provoking programme.

ADOLPHUSTOWN A. Y. P. A.

The fourth meeting of Adolphustown A. Y. P. A. was held in the parish hall on Tuesday evening, March 20th. The meeting was opened by prayer, led by our president, Mr. R. Daverne. The minutes were then read by the secretary and were adopted. Seventeen members answered the roll call and one visitor.

It was decided to continue with last year's play "Much Ado about Betty," immediately after Lent.

A programme committee was nominated for the next meeting, and the business being settled, the meeting was adjourned.

BRAN NUT BREAD

Quick bran nut bread is easily prepared and it is quite delicious. Use 3 cups of bread flour, ½ cup chopped nuts, one teaspoon salt, ½ of a cup of molasses, 2 cups unsifted bran, one tablespoon melted shortening, ½ teaspoon salt, one egg, and two cups of milk. Sift together the flour, salt and soda. Stir in the bran and nuts. Combine molasses, shortening, eggs and milk. Stir liquid into dry mixture. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake for one and a half to two hours in a moderately slow oven about 325 degrees.

Certified Seed Potatoes

Growers who have not yet secured their seed potatoes are advised to place their orders quickly to avoid disappointment. The Dominion Seed Potato Certification Service reports that the bulk of the seed crop was sold last year at table more than table stock prices and consequently there were two thousand acres less seed grown in 1933. The quality of the seed crop this season is very good. The premium is much higher and the demand is particularly good. The export shipments already exceed 1,200 car lots as compared with 750 car lots at this time last year, and the lots in storage from frost injury has been much heavier this winter than usual, therefore, the supplies now available for home markets is the smallest in many years. Certified Irish Cobblers in particular will be scarce at planting time.

Purchasers should always demand to see the official tag issued by the Dominion Plant Disease Inspection Service, on each and every bag of seed potatoes. The tags are issued free to all stock which qualifies as seed, therefore, if the Government official tag is not on the bag, then the potatoes are table stock potatoes only, and seed prices should not be paid. There are only two grades of seed potatoes. "Certified Extra No. 1" and "Certified Small Seed, No. 2 to 3 ounces"; if the tags do not show these grades, then the potatoes are not seed potatoes.

Lists of growers having certified seed for sale are obtainable free, from the Dominion Botanist, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS EXTENDED TO MRS. PINNEY AND FAMILY

The home of Mrs. M. P. Husband was the scene of a peasant social event on Friday evening, when the friends and immediate neighbours gathered to bid farewell to Mrs. Andrew Pinney and family, prior to their moving to Napanee to reside, and to express their appreciation of their companionship and extend good wishes by presenting them with an occasional chair, an end table and a magazine stand.

Rev. Dr. Smith read an address and Messrs. Fred Husband and Roy McMath made the presentation.

On behalf of the recipients, Mrs. Pinney, while completely taken by surprise, made a suitable acknowledgement.

About eighty guests were present and the evening was spent in games and music, at the close of which delicious refreshments were served.

Following is the address:—

Mrs. Pinney, rEarl and Kenneth: We your friends and neighbours, of Empey Hill, have gathered here this evening to bid you a kind farewell and to extend to you our sincere goodwill in your future home. Mrs. Pinney and boys, you will all be greatly missed from our midst, therefore we extend to you our heartiest welcome to return to this community at any or at all times. As a token of our esteem will you kindly accept these gifts and may they ever remind kindle many happy memories of your old home and friends at Empey Hill.

Signed on behalf of the Empey Hill Community, FRED HUSBAND, ROY McMATH.

The Late Mrs. Sarah E. Babcock

Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Babcock, aged 74, widow of William H. Babcock, died suddenly about 2:30 Sunday morning, March 11th, 1934, at her residence, 407 Grand avenue, Watertown, N.Y., where she resided with her son, Fred Babcock. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mrs. Babcock had been suffering from a heart ailment for years, but was in her usual health and about her home. She retired about 11 Saturday night. Shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday she was suddenly stricken and she called to her son, Fred. He went to her assistance and simmoned Dr. L. M. Vincent. Mrs. Babcock died before the physician's arrival, however.

She was born May 10th, 1859, at North Fredericksburgh, a daughter of the late Jason and Catherine Kellar Hearns. She was married to William H. Babcock at Mountain Grove in 1880. Mr. Babcock died at Mountain Grove in 1899.

In 1900 Mrs. Babcock went to Watertown, N.Y., and had since resided there with her son. She was a member of the Central Church of Christ.

Surviving her, beside her son, is a sister, Mrs. Katherine Thomson, Watertown, widow of Jeneckes P. Thomson; a daughter, Mrs. Wilson Wager, Watertown; and three grandchildren, Harold, Elizabeth and Wilburta Wager, Watertown.

The body was removed to the Northam & Fox funeral home and was taken from there to the family home, where the funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. W. Gair, pastor of the Central Church of Christ, officiated. The body was placed in the vault and will be taken in the spring to Mountain Grove, for burial there.

Accepting The Universe

BY JOHN BURROWS

I see the Nature Providence going its impartial way. I see drought and flood, heat and cold, war and pestilence, that good death, that embitters men at all times, in all lands. I see hostile germs in the air we breathe, in the water he drinks, in the soil he tills. I see the elemental forces as indifferent towards him as towards ants and fleas. I see pain and disease, and defeat and failure dogging his footsteps. I see the righteous defeated and the ungodly triumphant—this and much more I see; and yet I behold through the immense biological vista behind us the race of men slowly, oh so slowly! emerging from its brute or semi-human ancestry into the full estate of Man; from blind instinct and savage passion, into the light of reason and moral consciousness. I behold the great scheme of evolution unfolding, despite all the delays and waste and failures, and the higher forms appearing upon the scene. I see, on an immense scale, and as clearly as in a demonstration in a laboratory, that, good comes out of evil; that the imperishable life of Nature Providence is such that we are made strong by what we overcome; that man is man because he is free to do evil as to do good; that life is as free to develop beasts and worms as to develop friendly; that power which man who earns it;.... that devastating elemental forces have served and all played their part in developing and hardening man and giving him the noble things.

The celestial laws are here underfoot and our treading upon them does not obliterate or vulgarize them ....all the cross-purposes and disharmonies in nature and life do not suffice to break or mar the vast general beneficence; the flowing universal good is observed.

God is the fact of the fact, the life of the life, the soul of the soul, the incomprehensible, the sum of all contradictions, the unit of all diversities; he who knows Him knows Him not; he who is without Him is full of Him; turn your back upon Him, then turn your face and all gravity, upon air, upon light. He cannot be seen; but by Him all seeing comes. He cannot be heard, yet by Him all hearing comes. He is not a being, yet apart from Him there is no being—there is no apart from Him.

DUMPLINGS

Dumplings may be served with soup and are suitable to young and old, and are nourishing and tasty. One or two points should be remembered, however, in order to keep them light. Half as much shredded suet as flour should be mixed together, a little salt and baking powder added, then just enough cold water to form into a pliable dough. Flour the hands well, make the paste into small balls which should be dropped into fast boiling water for twenty minutes. The water should not be allowed to go off the boil, and the dumplings must be served at once, or they will be heavy. The dumplings may be made more savoury by including a little chopped parsley and onion.

NURSERY STOCK

Just as soon as the ground can be worked is the proper time to plant hardy ornamentals, roses, fruit trees, shrubbery and other kinds of nursery stock. Let of course, the stuff must be purchased first. There is a vast range in prices and even a vaster one in quality. Only shrubs and trees that are in good condition should be considered. This means that the stems and bark will be pliable and green and will have plenty of good, live buds. There will be a good root growth and this, as well as the top, will be soft and moist. Each plant should be wrapped separately. Granted that good stock has been purchased, the next thing is to get it as quickly as possible and with absolutely no exposure to the open air, into its permanent quarters. If the ground is still unfit to plant, open the parcel, soak in water, and plant in a shallow trench, covering the roots and most of the stems with earth firmly packed down. Leave here until permanent locations are ready.

GARDEN SOIL

The best location for a garden is an open position sloping towards the south or east and the ideal soil is well drained loam. Of course, it is impossible always to secure these ideal conditions, and Canada is fortunate in possessing a climate which will produce good vegetables on almost any kind of soil. The eastern and southern sun, of course, is recognized as the best for encouraging growth and if possible an exposure of this kind is arranged. But with soil, any kind can be built up to meet the ideal of a loose loam. Sand is better than clay because the former is warmer and it also gives quicker returns from fertilizer. It should be made to retain moisture, and to do this plenty of humus, or rotted vegetable manure must be incorporated. Digging in straw manure, green crops of oats, clover or even weeds, will prove a wonderful help both to sandy and clay soils, especially after this additional material has rotted. If the clay is very heavy, and the garden area small, sand or ashes can be added. Drainage is essential. In large gardens it is advisable to add the under-drainage, but if this proves too expensive, a fair substitute will be shallow open ditches. Well rotted barn yard manure is the best fertilizer, but of course is not always obtainable and it is sometimes objectionable. Commercial, chemical fertilizer will take its place. For general results a well balanced fertilizer should be used, that is one containing a fair proportion of nitrogen and potash. The first named will push the green growth of the vegetables and the potash builds up the roots, hence is imperative for such crops as potatoes, carrots and beets. Even with a regular application of manure or mixed fertilizer, it is good business to add a little straight nitrogen fertilizer during the growing reason. Cultivated in along the rows during the growing season it will hasten growth, and quick unchecked growth it should always be remembered, is the secret of tender, crisp vegetables.

FLOWERS

But it is with flowers that the average person gets an opportunity to really display his personality. Straight rows are not wanted here but just the opposite. In vegetable gardening it is frankly against nature, multiplying the output of a tiny plot of land many times over what would naturally be harvested, but the most beautiful flower gardens are those that appear to be perfectly natural, rather like a distant vista of hills and woods. It is cleverly planned and grown, so that there is abundance of bloom from early in the season until heavy frosts. Every hard line of fences and foundations is broken and verandahs disguised, dog kennels and chicken coops are screened. When viewed as a whole, the garden is a perfect blending of green lawn leading up over tiny flowers, to tall cosmos, marigolds and hollyhocks, and over shrubbery and finally if space permits, with a large tree or two in the background. And just to break too much uniformity in the informality here and there tall things will be drawn a little forward.

SOUP

It is advisable to prepare the foundation of the soup the day before, as plenty of time is then available for cooking slowly. Fresh meat bones or bones from joint or fowl may be used, and the stock should be prepared from them. The next day an onion, carrot, turnip, and leek should be cut into small pieces and put into a saucepan with about two ounces of butter or clarified dripping and cooked gently for about half an hour. Then add a pound of tomatoes cut into quarters, a bay leaf, a few peppercorns, salt and pepper, and a quart of the stock. Simmer for two hours, then put the vegetables through a sieve. If the soup is not thick enough it should be thickened with a little cornstarch. Many variations can be made on this recipe.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

NEWBURGH W. I.

Mrs. W. P. Markle opened her home for the February meeting of the Newburgh Women's Institute on Thursday, February 22nd, with 28 members and eight visitors present. The president Mrs. George Walker, in the chair. After the usual business several acknowledgments of fruit, were read, also a letter from Mrs. Amos Huffman, acknowledging a letter of sympathy and extending best wishes to the society and to each member.

Mrs. Gilbert, convener of relief, reported some gifts during January.

After the roll call, "Don'ts for the sick room," which was responded to by most members, arrangements were made for a play to be given after Easter. The committee are Mrs. Markle, Mrs. Parnell, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Lochead.

A very interesting paper on the anniversaries of this year and their importance, both in Canada and the United States, was given by Mrs. A. Aylsworth. This was followed by a paper on "Health," by Mrs. Stanley Hughes, in which she gave a clear concise outline of colds, rhrumatism, and high and low blood pressure.

Mrs. Shier then gave a number of current events, which was followed by a reading from "The Cattle in the Stall," by Mrs. Alfred Ramsay.

MAPLE RIDGE W. I.

The regular meeting of the Maple Ridge Women's Institute was held on Thursday, March 8th, at the home of Mrs. A. Uens. The president, Mrs. G. Cooke, presided and the meeting opened by singing the Maple Leaf, followed by repeating the Institute Creed. The roll call was answered by "An Irish Joke," and each member brought a relic, some dating back 125 years.

The business part of the meeting was disposed of and several letters of appreciation from sick members, read. Mrs. B. Rimmett gave interesting current events, which were followed by community singing.

Mrs. M. Dennison gave a cleverly prepared paper on "Community Activities." Mrs. Cooke sang a splendid solo and Mrs. Uens gave a very instructive paper on the "Life of St. Patrick," showing how through his influence the Irish people had been brought from Pagan darkness to Christian light.

After a hearty vote of thanks was extended to our genial hostess, a social half hour was spent.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Merle Dennison.

BATH WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of Bath Women's Institute, was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Rich, with a good attendance. Roll call was answered to "An Irish Joke," and caused much merriment.

The minutes were read and approved, and outstanding bills were ordered paid. The members discussed a dance which will be held on April 2nd. The ticket for the quilt will be drawn on the same night.

Owing to several members being absent, who were to take part, the programme was not a very lengthy one. Current events were read by Mrs. H. Collins, and a contest by Mrs. A. Withers, was won by Mrs. H. Collins.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. Collins, when the election of officers will be held and all the members are requested to attend.

ERNESTTOWN W. I.

Though the roads were far from good, the March meeting at the home of Mrs. Anthony Hagerman, was largely attended. The hostess, her daughter-in-law and daughter welcomed everyone heartily. The roll call was answered by a funny story. Mrs. William Kellar read the latter part of the address Dr. Helen McMurchy gave at the Dominion Convention at Winnipeg, and Miss Loraine Hagerman, delighted all with a piano solo.

Mrs. Edgar Thompson, Mrs. William Kellar, Mrs. Bert Smith and Mrs. Fred Hamm accompanied to relate candy making, which all declared delicious.

The April annual meeting, with the election of officers, will be held at the Institute Hall.

TYENDINAGA EAST W. I.

On February 9th, the Tyendinaga East Women's Institute celebrated their Fifth Anniversary, in the form of an oyster supper, the husbands being invited. For the past five years since the organization, this Institute has been very active and has made great accomplishments, and in appreciation of this fact, most of the members braved the cold weather to attend the anniversary. After the usual course of oysters another course was served, including many delicious salads, cakes, pies, etc, which were greatly enjoyed by all. After supper an enjoyable social hour was spent in playing games, etc. At the close of the evening, Mr. Charles Akey extended a hearty vote of thanks on behalf of the husbands and families of the community, to Mrs. J. Germon, for the use of her home and for the generous hospitality of all the ladies for their evening's entertainment.

The February meeting of the Tyendinaga East W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Penney on Friday, February 16. The meeting opened with the singing of the ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The roll call was answered by "The beauty of friendship," and was well responded to by both members and visitors. Many excellent replies were given. A letter of thanks received from Mrs. W. Waddingham, in appreciation of flowers sent, was read. Miss Beatrice Mowers' paper on "The girl and her problems," was very interesting and instructive. A three-piece orchestra was then called on for music, which was greatly enjoyed by all.

The report of the annual convention was read by Mrs. P. Hesband, which proved very interesting. A beautiful guitar solo was rendered by Mr. Harold Winter. Community singing followed with Mrs. F. Kimmerly at the piano. A game "Consequences," followed, which proved very exciting and was led by Mrs. F. Husband. After several numbers by the orchestra, a duet by Mrs. W. Winters and Harold, followed by a solo by Harold Winters, was much enjoyed. At the close of the programme Mrs. Roy McMath moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. W. Penney for the use of her home, which was seconded by Mrs. M. P. Husband. After a dainty lunch the members adjourned.

HAYBURN LADIES' AID

The March meeting of Hayburn Ladies' Aid, was held at the home of Mrs. Almon Wickett, on Tuesday afternoon, March 20th, with twelve members and six visitors in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Henry Loyst, occupied the chair. The familiar hymn "Rock of Ages" was sung, followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The scripture reading was the 12th chapter of Romans. The secretary, Mrs. Adam Howlton, gave a report of the various activities of the Aid, and the financial statement from the treasurers, Mrs. John Dickson, was most gratifying.

Owing to serious illness in the neighborhood, and unfavorable weather conditions, this was the first meeting held this year. Plans were partly made for a pancake social, to be held during Easter week. Several members contributed the money from the holiday cards and the sum raised was most encouraging.

Material for blocks for a quilt was distributed to those present, and the meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction.

Mrs. Wickett served a delightful lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed over the tea cups. The lunch fees amounted to $2.50.

The April meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Leslie Dafoe.

TRINITY CHURCH W. M. S.

On Wednesday afternoon, March 21st, the regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday School room. The opening hymn was followed by the reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report. The latter was read by Mrs. Geo. Switzer, in the absence of Mrs. J. E. Robinson.

The President, Mrs. D. B. Wilson, cordially thanked all those who had so willingly co-operated in making the Birthday Party of March 2nd, and the Presbyterial of last week, so successful.

Ten members had been remembered with flowers since last week and in response, several letters of appreciation were read by Mrs. Gilbert.

It was decided to hold the Easter Thank-offering meeting on he regular day, instead of Easter Monday as in years past.

Mrs. James Vine, who has just made herself a life member, was welcomed by the Auxiliary and warm appreciation of her interest, as stated by this act, was expressed by Mrs. Pawson, who presented Mrs. Vine with the life membership certificate.

Mrs. Switzer paid fitting tribute to the memory of Miss Jennie Clare, a life member of Trinity Auxiliary, who passed away last week.

The president then called upon Mrs. Edward Kayler, who was a delegate to the recent Presbyterial. As the full report appeared in the local papers, Mrs. Kayler just drew attention to one or two points which had particularly appealed to her, and expressed the belief that it was the best Presbyterial she had ever attended. She then read the devotional leaflet and led in prayer at the close.

Mrs. Sinclair contributed to the programme by singing the very beautiful hymn "Softly and Tenderly, Jesus is Calling."

A synopsis of the chapter "Raising the Physical Standard," from the Study Book, "Living Issues in China" was well given by Mrs. A. Fellows.

The closing hymn was followed by the benediction.

TRINITY MISSION CIRCLE

The monthly meeting of Trinity Church Mission Circle was held on Wednesday, March 21st, at 6.00 p.m. in the dining hall. After a delightful supper prepared by Miss Marion Carscallin's group, the meeting opened with hymn 252, followed by the Lord's Prayer. The devotional part was taken by Mrs. Winters, Mrs. F. Mills read the scripture lesson, after which Mrs. Winters gave a very interesting talk, "Jesus and the Rural Life. Hymn 270 was read in unison.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given and business was discussed.

A group of young girls delighted the audience when they rendered two vocal selections.

The Easter Thank-offering was then taken, after which Jean Anderson read an Easter thank-offering story.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

STANDARD SIX NEW CHEVROLET FOR YEAR 1934

The Chevrolet Standard Six for 1934, lowest priced of all Canadian cars, yet very similar to the famous Master Six, is announced by General Motors Products of Canada, Limited.

The new Standard Six has a wheelbase of 107 inches, longer and wider Fisher Bodies, and a greatly improved 60-horsepower motor. The resemblance to the Master Six is easy to follow in the slanting radiator, the smart horizontal hood louvres, the deep-skirted fenders extending well over the tires and covering chassis construction. The new Fisher Bodies have the exclusive Fisher No-Draft ventilating system and many comfort and luxury features.

An ideal car for the fleet user and commercial traveller, the new Standard Six is not only economical from the standpoint of first cost, but also in respect to maintenance and operation. As a companion car to the Master Six, it is sure to have a wide appeal among buyers who want a well-built and economical car in the lowest-priced market. Models available are the five-passenger regular coach, four-passenger roadster with rumble seat, five-passenger special coach, and the two-passenger coupe.

The Standard Chevrolet is being built with the highest possible production content. All cars bearing the Chevrolet name are built of the same materials with the same precision and fine craftmanship and on be same manufacturing and assembly lines of General Motors of Canada, Limited, as a Master series.

The engineering resources of Chevrolet have been directed from year to year toward th perfecting of the valve-in-head engine, with the result that the 1934 Chevrolet valve-in-head power plant is the most efficient and economical engine ever produced by Chevrolet, placing it in a position of mechanical excellence far above that of any engine in the low-priced field.

Some of the features which contribute towards this improvement are the new intake manifold and carburetor, new thermostatic heat control, and new four-point cushion-balanced engine mountings. Sixty cars per hour is developed at 3,000 R. P. M. and a feature of the performance is the smooth acceleration at all speeds.

The Octane Selector is a feature of Standard Chevrolet equipment. This device permits the use of all types of gasoline with the greatest efficiency from the gasoline selected without engine knock.

Improved Huck-type brakes are used and the braking area has been increased. Front and rear treads are now each 56 inches. Another chassis improvement is noted in the stabilized front end construction.

There have been several major changes in the 1934 Fisher Bodies on the Chevrolet Standard Six, all of them adding material strength. As a protection from rain or snow when the No-Draft ventilators are open, a trough has been placed at the top of each front door immediately above the ventilator so that it may be opened four or three inches without admitting moisture when the car is in motion. The screened cowl ventilating opens toward the windshield, assuring improved ventilation through the cowl.

There are many luxury items in this low-priced car; the sun visor is adjustable to the front or the side, and models have rear vision mirror, windshield wiper, dome light and clock. Closed models are wired for radio.

Thought is the property of him who can entertain it; and of him who can adequately place it. A certain awkwardness marks the use of borrowed thoughts, but, as soon as we have learned what to do with them, they become our own. Thus all originality is relative.—Emerson.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

International Plowing Match

The Provincial International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Demonstration will be held on Mary Ellis Farm, the property of Mr. Frank P. O'Connor, York County, Wexford Post Office, Ontario, a few miles outside the City of Toronto, October 9, 10, 11 and 12, 1934.

In 1934 the first Plowing Match was held in York County, near this farm."

Sheep Killing Costs

The damage done by marauding dogs to sheep flocks in Ontario has been estimated by R. W. Wade, Provincial Live Stock Commissioner as at least $30,000. This is the amount of money which municipalities throughout the province have had to pay out in compensation for sheep killed. Provincial and municipal regulations permit the farmer whose flocks have been ravaged to apply for compensation, and settlement is made by mutual agreement or through a provincial expert.

There is little that can be done in preventing such slaughters, authorities agree. The vicious sheep-killers have found access to the most tightly enclosed pens and pastures. They work at night, work noiselessly and leave only a short trail of blood behind.

Harrison, Ont., took one protective step when they passed a by-law, last week, raising the license fee for Alsatian dogs, the breed blamed for the majority of slaughters, from $1 to $17, hopins to reduce the number in the township.

Canadian Grain Successes

Information recently secured from the prize winners at the International Hay and Grain show, held in Chicago in December last, reveals the striking fact that in the hard red spring wheat class, the most important class in the show, all of the prizes were won with varieties of wheat originated and developed by the Dominion Experimental Farms. There were thirty-five awards in all. Twenty-eight exhibitors won with Reward, six with Garnet, two with Marquis and one with Garnet. Thus in Canada's proud record of grain exhibition successes, maintained, and it is noteworthy, indeed, that the Dominion Experimental Farms have contributed so materially towards this outstanding triumph.

Supplying the British Market

The steady job of providing food for the British market depends upon supplying that market with what it requires and a regular supply of quality products. Where Canada has fallen down in the past is probably not so much the matter of quality, although there is still room for improvement, but more particularly in the lack of a regular supply. For a country producing a surplus of farm products, it is a source of satisfaction to remember that there is still available a market which spends daily around five million dollars on imported food.

Early Tomato Production

The best prices for tomatoes are paid for early, ripe fruit, but the grower must not make the mistake of having the plants corst more than is reasonable.

The Dominion Horticulturist recommends early sowing coupled with the use of early maturing, good varieties. The sowing should be made just early enough to have stocky, well grown plants to blow and ready for planting out at the right of settled weather.

Soils unduly rich in nitrogen tend to promote rank wood growth and a small amount of fruit. Low nitrogen, high phosphoric acid and a medium amount of potash are essential to good results.

The Farm Poultry Flock

Poultry is at last definitely recognized as one of the essential departments of every up-to-date farm where a program of mixed farming is carried on. Not only is it recognized as a necessary department of farm work but more and more farmers are coming to realize that for the capital investment and labor involved there are few if any departments that give as high returns. For the mixed farm, general purpose breeds such as the Plymouth Rocks, which are good both for hygeine and for the production of market poultry, are recommended. A flock of a hundred such birds carefully managed are returning to many a farmer a profit over cost of feed of from $200 to $500 a year, which is something not to be disdained by even the most successful farmers.

Reducing Farm Power Costs

Farm power costs may be reduced by making needed repairs and adjustments on tractors, by using proper hitches and operating with an optimum load. Horse labor costs may be reduced by having harness and implements in perfect adjustment, by using proper hitches and loads, by economical feeding and by using mostly young horses raised on the farm.

Drive on Warble Fly Planned In Ontario

All over Ontario farmers are taking steps to eliminate the Warble Fly, report officials of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, who are working with groups of live stock men in an effort to check this pest, which is responsible for a loss of half a million dollars in hides alone and probably five times as much in retarding milk and beef production.

After successfully demonstrating that warbles could be definitely controlled following the original project in Barrie District last year, groups of farmers in Carlton, Perth, Lincoln Ontario, Haldimand, Middlesex, Essex, Huron, Elgin, Oxford and Norfolk, took up the work this winter. Canvasses are being made in each district under the leadership of Dr. Lionel Stevenson, provincial zoologist, and the county agricultural representative, and by the middle of March the first of the three annual treatments will be made. A special powder, investigated and approved by the officials of the Canadian Co-operative, will be used. This is made into a wash which is rubbed into the backs of all cattle. The cost is negligible, probably less than five cents per animal where large groups are treated.

Already there is considerable talk of compulsory province-wide treatment, similar to measures adopted in Denmark, where the warble fly has been almost eliminated. Some idea of the extent of the present campaign is indicated by the report that over 250,000 cattle will be treated this spring. In Oxford County alone, where Agricultural Representative C. H. Green is in charge of organization, 60,000 head will be cleaned up, and in Huron and Elgin, following local farmers' meetings, another 40,000 will receive treatment.

During the summer months the cattle are stung by the warble fly, and as a result carry grubs, with much loss of meat or milk flow, are common. The eggs hatch and grubs make their way into the back of the animal from which the fly forms, emerging through the hide in the late spring. It has been found that rubbing the backs with this special wash destroys the grub and consequently the fly, thus saving the hide and preventing further infestation in the summer. It is estimated that three years will clean up the pest either on individual farms or in large districts.

Between Season Desserts

BY BARBARA R. BROOKS

At this time of year, just before the rush of early spring fruits and vegetables, meal planning is often trying.

The foods we see in our cupboards, and even in the markets, have been with us a long time. We are perhaps tired of eating them and certainly of cooking them.

In months where dessert is an important part of the meal, the following recipes will do nicely to bridge the gap between the mince pie or plum pudding season and the hey-dey of berries and cream and peach shortcake.

Lemon Chiffon Pie is not only a year round standby, but it will complete for honors with the best spring and summertime treats. In most homes this pie is greeted with enthusiasm and is welcome at least once a week. With cornflake pastry, you won't mind making it often. The method is a time and labor saver and it's-a-fail-fool-proof pastry is wholesome, too, and easily handled by even delicate digestions.

LEMON CHIFFON PIE WITH CORN FLAKE PASTRY

One and one-half teaspoons gelatin.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Four eggs, separated.
One-half cup lemon juice.
One teaspoon grated frnd lemon.
One cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Soak gelatin in water. Cook egg yolks, lemon rind and juice and half the sugar in a double boiler until of a custard consistency, add gelatin and stir often while cooking in a bowl of ice. Add egg whites beaten with rest of sugar. Pour into Corn Flake Pastry crust and leave in refrigerator at least three hours before serving.

Yield: 8-inch pie.

CORN FLAKE PASTRY

Mix crumbs with sugar, cinnamon and butter. Press the corn flake pastry firmly into an 8-inch pie tin.

Canned fruits, sometimes monotonous, become more interesting when served with cookies. The spicy flavor and crispness of this cookie make it a perfect accompaniment for bland fruits, such as pears, peaches, or Queen Anne cherries. It may be difficult to keep the cookie jar full, but you can roll the dough in wax paper and keep it for days in the refrigerator, baking the cookies as you need them.

BRAN SPICE COOKIES

One cup shortening.
Two cups sugar.
Two eggs. One-quarter cup milk.
Three and a half cups flour.
Three teaspoons baking powder.
One teaspoon salt.
Two teaspoons cinnamon.
One teaspoon allspice.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Half a cup seeded raisins.
Two and a half cups bran.

Cream the shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs. Add milk. Sift the dry ingredients and add to first mixture. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Roll and store in refrigerator. When needed, slice thin and bake on cookie sheet in hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 12 minutes. Yield: 6 dozen about 2 inches in diameter.

Puddings we have always. Here are two versions that are delicious. They are nourishing, but not so heavy as the truly winter time puddings.

CORN FLAKE INDIAN PUDDING

Two eggs, slightly beaten.
Two cups milk.
Half cup molasses.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
One and half cup corn flakes.
One tablespoon butter.

Combine eggs, milk, molasses and salt in casserole. Pour corn flakes on top and dot with butter. Set casserole in a pan of hot water to bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for two hours. Serve hot, with cream if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

ENGLISH ORANGE PUDDING

Half cup butter. One cup sugar.
Two eggs well beaten.
One and a half cups buttermilk.
One cup bran. Two cups flour.
Three-quarters teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon baking powder.
Half teaspoon salt.
One cup seeded raisins.
One orange, grated rind and juice.
Half a lemon, grated rind and juice
Half cup milk.

Cream butter and sugar and add eggs, buttermilk and bran. Sift dry ingredients and add to first mixture, combining thoroughly. Stir in raisins and the grated orange and lemon rind. Turn into greased pan (8 x 12 inches is a good size) and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes. When pudding is baked, pour over it the fruit juices, combined with the sugar. Serve hot with whipped cream or hard sauce. Note: Dates may be substituted for raisins, if desired. Yield: 12 servings.

RED CLOVER VARIETIES

There are in Canada but two main types of red clover, both hardy, and both suitable for fluttermen, conditions of the late, mammoth or single cut type gives but one cutting per season, with a single growth of leaves only. The common early or two-cut gives two full crops in a season. Seed crops from the former must be taken from the first and only crop while from the latter a hay crop may be taken and the second crop used for seed or hay. By using only certified seed you can be sure you are getting hardy Canadian grown type red clover and can be certain of getting early or late red clover as you may desire.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

GETTING READY FOR THE LAMBING SEASON

Lambing time is the shepherd's harvest, and it is also his most exacting time. Everything must, therefore, be in readiness for the coming of the new crop.

Ewes heavy in lamb require more pen and feeding space, if overcrowding and losses are to be avoided. Two feet of feeding space is the minimum required.

Large flocks should be divided by putting the ewes expected to lamb first in the warmest and most comfortable pen.

Have the floor level, dry, clean and well bedded. If possible provide equipment for making individual lamb pens. Folding hurdles are very handy for that purpose. The ewe is much quieter if kept alone.

EARLY MARKETING MEANS BETTER PRICES

Now is the time to start the long season crops of vegetables required for the early market. At the Central Experimental Farm the following varieties are recommended:

Cabbage: Golden Acre, Copenhagen Market, Early Jersey Wakefield.

Cauliflower: Early Dwarf Erfurt and Snowball.

Celery: Paris Golden Yellow, Golden Plume and Giant Pink.

Onion: Sweet Spanish, Prizetaker (Denia), Southport White, Yellow and Red Globe for growing transplants.

Pepper: Harris Earliest, California Wonder.

Potato: Irish Cobbler, which should be sprouted for four to six weeks prior to field planting.

Tomato: Abel, Alacrity, Canadian, Earliana, Bestal, Bonny Best or John Baer. The two latter are used for the main crop.

COUCH GRASS ERADICATION

After harvest cultivation is one of the most effective methods of controlling couch grass, according to the results of Field Husbandry experiments conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. This method consists of ploughing the infested area immediately after the first cut of hay has been harvested, thoroughly working the land during the remainder of the season and reploughing in the late fall. In the following spring this treatment must be followed by an intertilled crop or a smother crop such as buckwheat.

Couch grass is a most persistent weed and its growth must be kept down for at least six months in order to secure complete eradication. This requires treatment during two seasons where crops are being harvested each year. Twenty-two different methods of eradicating couch grass are under experiment in the hope of discovering more efficient and less expensive methods of eradication.

The Leaning Tower

It has been reported that the Leaning Tower of Pisa was again in danger of toppling over. Mindful of the fate of the Campanile of Venice twenty-five years ago, Italy appointed two commissions to examine the danger at last. The report is that at the moment, and in the immediate future, no disaster is to be feared, but the list of the Tower is slowly increasing, and to ensure its stability the base must be strengthened and the streams which flow underground, diverted. At the present time the Tower is about 14 ft. out of the perpendicular. In 1800 the list was less than 13½ ft. These facts are sufficient proof of the need for watchful care. The Leaning Tower is not merely one of the wonders of the world, for its equilibrium between stability and instability; it is the noblest building of its kind. After the crash the Campanile of St. Mark was rebuilt, to the general satisfaction of the people, in a shaft of brick, and the arches and columns of the Tower of Pisa are all marble. Its date from 1174, it belongs to the golden age of the city, when she was indeed "the proud Mart of Pisa, queen of the Western Wave," when her fleets fought the battle of Christendom against the sea power of the infield. Whether Bonnano and William of Innsbruck, who were the architects, knew before their Tower to lean has been disputed, but the accepted theory now is that after building was begun the foundations on the south side sank, owing, no doubt, to that underground water supply which precautions ar now, seven centuries later, to be taken. Foundations were not the strong points of mediaeval architects. The foundations of the Leaning Tower, which is 180 ft. high, only go down 10 ft., and are no larger in circumference than the building above ground. When the Tower was up to the third storey, the architect seem to have decided that it must be given an inclination in the opposite direction to counteract the subsidence. Nearly two hundred years went by before the fifth and last and the last column were wrought and the eighth bell rang from the eighth storey, where the seven bells hang, and took out over that wonderful panorama of hill and river and mountain. But by that time the golden years of Pisa were over. In the strife of Emperor and Pope Pisa was wounded deep. Her trade rivals, Genoa and Florence, took the chance to strike at her. Malice domestic added its woes to foreign levy. And still, through generation after generation of disaster, the indomitable Pisans labored on to make their city a treasury of art.—London Telegraph.

WHEN SHE LOST 28lbs

SHE GAINED ENERGY

This young woman's method of reducing overweight is simple but beneficial as it is effective, and a letter she writes is therefore worthy of publication :—

"I am 24 years of age; height 5 ft. 5½ ins.; and a short time ago my weight was 28 lbs. above normal. I was listless and without energy. Now, after taking Kruschen Salts regularly I have lost 28 lbs. in weight and have much more vitality. Also I have a very good complexion and I do not have face blemishes of any kind. Surely this must be due to my having pure blood, and I attribute the fact to my taking Kruschen Salts."—(Miss) M. S.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to throw off, each day, those waste products and poisons which would otherwise be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have obtained a small many special "GIANT" packages which make a big saving in price and chance for yourself. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. package.

With this you get the regular 75c. bottle and with it a separate trial bottle—sufficient for about a week. Take a half teaspoonful of this first, put it to the test, and then, if not entirely convinced that Kruschen gives everything we claim it to do, the bottle is still as good as new. Take it back to your druggist and proceed to return your 75c. immediately and without question. We have tried Kruschen for our express. What could be fairer? ERINSVILLE

Erinsville, March 19. — on the 11th inst., there passed away at the home of her brother, Mr. P. J. Houpkins, Tamworth, to which she had gone from Napanee previously a much respected and much loved lady in the person of Miss Mary Hopkins. The eldest daughter of the late James J. Hopkins, she was born in the Clare River district, and spent many years residing for the greater part of her life in this parish. Always of a charitable disposition and kindly attention, she made many warm friends, who came from far and near to pay their last respects to one who was a true friend. Her parents who lived to be well over eighty, were fond and loving in this dutiful daughter. On the death of her parents she turned to the comforts of friends' house-keeper and for eleven years filled this position for Rev. Father Cullenane at Stoco, with much honesty and courtesy. The funeral was held from her late residence in Stoco to the church of the Holy Assumption, where the funeral mass was sung by Rev. J. J. Cullenane, assisted by Rev. O'Riordan of Tweed and Rev. Father Cullenane of Stoco, in the presence of a large congregation and many spiritual offerings bore mute testimony of her popularity. The remains were placed in the vault to await burial in the spring. The pallbearers were her five brothers, William, James, Thomas, Edward and M. J. Hopkins, and a nephew, Michael Hopkins. She leaves to lament her loss, in addition to her five brothers, one sister, Mrs. D. H. McRae, R.N., of Tamworth.

HAWLEY

Hawley, March 26. — Mr. and Mrs. George Creighton spent a recent week end in Toronto, with relatives.

Miss Ida McGowan, Bath, spent a few days with Mrs. Wood.

The St. Patrick's tea, held at Mrs. P. L. Storey's, was very successful, with 35 ladies in attendance. The decorations and refreshments were carried out in St. Patrick colors, and an Irish programme was furnished by Mrs. and Mrs. Smart, Miss Mabel Vankoughnet, Mrs. Guy Huycke, Mrs. W. G. Fretts and Mrs. I. Asselstine. Mrs. Smart and Mrs. O. Fretts poured tea, and the Misses Seeley, Parks, Clement, and McCaughterty served the guests. Altogether it was a most enjoyable affair.

Thursday was a day of celebration for us. On Thursday morning the tenant house of I. Asselstine was burned to the ground. Telephone service promptly brought the neighbors, who formed a bucket brigade, but the fire, which seemingly started from a spark on the roof, made such headway that they presently gave their attention to carrying out the contents, and managed to save nearly everything. Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine and Mr. and Mrs. Stirring extend their thanks to their neighbors who came so promptly to their assistance. Mrs. Stirring and children are visiting her sister, Mrs. Graham, at Selby.

About noon on the same day Mr. M. Kearns was struck by his death at Moody's railway crossing. His funeral was held from his late residence on Saturday morning, to St. Patrick's Church, Napanee. They have been in succesful use for a long time and are recognized as a leading preparation for the purpose. They have proved their power in numberless cases and have given relief to thousands of children, who, but for, the good offices of this superior compound, would have continued weak and enfeebled.

Interesting Letter Recalls Incidents Half Century Ago

F. A. McGuin, a Former Resident, Writes Beaver

Newport, Ore.,
March, 1934

Dear Sir:—

Thank you for your letter of the 15th inst. and your kind offer to assist in locating the sister of Mr. McLaughlin, of whom I spoke in my former letter, but nothing further need be done in the matter as he has had a letter from his sister and made reply thereto. This only goes to show what a valuable asset to any community is its local paper, and I am a hearty subscriber to the fact that The Beaver has, in its long years of publication, rendered a valuable service to the Town of Napanee and helped to make it a most pleasant place in which to live. I first came to know your paper when it was housed in a brick building on Dundas Street, not far east of the corner of Robert St., on which we lived. William Templeton and George M. Beaman were then the owners, and a Mr. Scott was editor. Will Templeton was in general charge of the job printing and compositor room and he was kind enough to permit me to become a printers' devil on Saturdays and during the summer holidays. I was there I learned to set and "dist" type to kick the job presses and to have revealed to me the mystery of "type lice," left handed printers' sticks, etc., etc. At that time the paper was ground out each week by hand power furnished by a huge blind man by the name of Dunham. If my memory serves me correctly; at any rate I can remember this huge man come in each week and stripped down to his undershirt and trousers, he rolled out the whole edition.

Beaver Installs Steam Power

Then we bought a vertical boiler and engine from George Shorey. Shortly, do I recall it, as I was sent to the Mail Office one day to bring back a pulley needed in the installation, it weighing about thirty pounds I believe, but before I got it on the job I would have sworn that it weighed three hundred. How many men then gave me the most convincing proof of why the dog did not catch the hare according to the old saying with which I have no doubt you are all familiar. I by no means know whether an incident of this sort ever took place elsewhere and if it did not, Napanee should take a bow for the credit of originating the expression.

Yours very truly,

F. A. McGUIN.

OBITUARY

REV. JAMES BATSTONE

Suddenly stricken with a heart attack, Rev. James Batstone, retired Methodist minister, passed away at his home, 38 St. Clements Avenue, early Saturday morning. He was in his seventy-third year. The funeral was held from the residence and the services were conducted by Rev. W. J. Johnston of Eglinton United Church, whose church the deceased attended. Pallbearers were six fellow-ministers.

Born in St. John's, Newfoundland, Mr. Batstone received his early education there. He afterwards attended Albert College, Belleville. Following his graduation he took charge of a church at Coe Hill. His next charge was at Bridgewater, and then at Bobcaygeon, Cherry Valley, Yarker, Frankford, Colborne, Stirling, Bayside and Selby, in that order. While pastor of a church at Selby Mr. Batstone was superannuated and moved to Toronto in 1928. He had resided in Toronto since then.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Charles, of Detroit, Mich., and James, of Toronto, and four daughters, Muriel of Edmonton; Mrs. Milan Pond, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. G. R. Bailey and Mrs. E. W. Hanes, of Toronto.

they could charge an admission or take up a collection to repay them for their trouble. I am glad that I had been taken there by my older brother and I was too young to appreciate the whole distance under my own power. I was placed in a position among the top of the timbers so had an unobstructed view of the whole proceedings and the following is what I saw a bit my receptive ability never did develop sufficiently to do it justice.) The fox, in his box, was placed within the boundaries of the track at a distance of about fifty feet so that he would have at least this much start on the dog. They turned them both loose and the fox immediately made for the fence on the far side of the track, the dog in hot pursuit and he seemingly gaining more and more when the most convincing proof of why the dog did not catch the fox according to the old saying with which I have no doubt you are all familiar. By no means know whether an incident of this sort ever took place elsewhere and if it did not, Napanee should take a bow for the credit of originating the expression.

Yours very truly,

F. A. McGUIN.

Recalls Former Teachers

My first and most loved teacher was Miss Aylsworth, closely followed by Miss Jessie Mair and Miss Van Dyke. With what fear and quaking we boys passed through them when we were notified to stay in after school as Mr. Bowerman wanted to talk to us. We, too, well knew what this meant and particularly so when he at that meeting took specimens of our handwriting. Mr. Robt. Mallison was also a very sinister character to us in those days. Mr. "Tilly" I did not know so well; but I have vivid recollections of Miss Walsh, during the grammar lesson and I can still feel the palms and fingers of my hands sting all on account of my daily shortcomings in failing in parsing and the tenses and I am inclined to think that I remember more if you publish this as you did my last, will think she did a good job particularly in so far as the past tense is concerned.

Who can remember Frank Holden who used to work in the shop of Webster and Boyes, played the snare drum in the band and was catcher for the old "Maple Leaf" baseball club. Holden was the first catcher I ever saw come up behind the boys on third strike. Those days, masks, protectors and shin guards had not been thought of. In one game Frank was hit in the forehead on a foul tip and knocked flat on his back. The ball went straight up in the air but Frank got back on his feet and to catch it before it hit the ground, which made an out in those days.

The Days of Real Sport

At the old track, surrounded by a board fence, on Centre St., out beyond the then corporation limits of to Selby, happened an incident which I have always thought should have brought Napanee into prominence for all time, had the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club or whatever answered for those organizations in those days been up on their jobs, a good live reporter could have made a killing and I am sure that if Irvin Cobb had been there and written it up as only he can do, he could have turned in a yarn equal to a Chic Sale best seller. Well, some one in town had a live fox and some other man had what he considered a very fast dog, so they got together and decided they would hold a fox chase within the only unopposed city enclosure in the community and

Unfortunate Accident Takes Another Life

J. E. Redner, Ry. Employe Struck by Train

The second fatal railroad accident in the Napanee district within a week, occurred shortly after eight o'clock on Thursday morning at the Centre Street crossing of the Canadian National Railway. The victim was James Edgar Redner, a section man on the first section east of Napanee, and a resident of the town.

At 8:00 o'clock, Mr. Redner, John Hunter and William Doherty were preparing to go to their work. An east bound freight was passing the section foreman's house only a few feet from the crossing. The three men lifted the small gas car, used for transporting the men and their tools, to the west bound track and did not notice another freight approaching on the west bound track. It is thought that the noise of the passing train made it impossible to hear the other oncoming freight.

Two Workmen Escape

Mr. Redner, it is alleged, was struck either by the engine of the train or the gas car, and was thrown a distance of about twenty feet and air but Frank got back on his feet and to safety. Mr. Redner fell to the ground, which made an out in those days.

The Days of Real Sport

At the old track, surrounded by a board fence, on Centre St., out beyond the then corporation limits of to Selby, happened an incident which I have always thought should have brought Napanee into prominence for all time, had the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Commercial Club or whatever answered for those organizations in those days been up on their jobs, a good live reporter could have made a killing and I am sure that if Irvin Cobb had been there and written it up as only he can do, he could have turned in a yarn equal to a Chic Sale best seller. Little Girl Hurt When Struck By Car

Claire Birtch, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Eirtch, of Napanee, was seriously hurt on Friday afternoon, when she was struck and run over by an automobile driven by Rev. Mr. Webster of Kohlin.

The accident occurred about 6:00 p.m., at the swing bridge, at the foot of Centre Street. A group of children were playing near the bridge and the driver of the car thought all of them had scampered to safety. Unfortunately the one child was still in the road and was struck by the car.

When picked up and taken to her home, it was found that her one leg was broken at the hip and she had severe lacerations on the head which required thirty-six stitches to close. After first aid was rendered at her home, she was removed to Kingston General Hospital.

Her condition was considered very serious for the first few days, but improvement is now being shown.

The circumstances in the mishap are being investigated by the local authorities.

C. N. R. for four years. He was a member of the Napanee Collegiate, quiet and well thought of by his fellow workmen and all who knew him. He was a very active member of Grace Church, where he rendered much appreciated service as a member of the choir.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Jennie Aickley of Belleville, three daughters and one son. The funeral was held at the family residence, Centre Street, on Saturday afternoon, and was largely attended by members of the Napanee section of the C. N. R. and many friends and acquaintances. Rev. R. T. Richards of Grace United Church was in charge of the services.

Following the service the body was taken to Belleville, where interment will follow. The bearers were all fellow-workmen: Earl Clark, Frank Currie, Luke Vogt, Ray Richmond, Herbert Cooke and John Switzer.

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Accidental Michael E. Kearns

No Blame Attached to Anyone

Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith conducted an inquest into the death of Michael Kearns, at the Court House on Wednesday afternoon, March 28th. The late Mr. Kearns met his death on Thursday afternoon, March 22nd, when the horse and buggy he was driving was struck by C.N.R. train No. 5, at Mooney's Crossing, about two o'clock.

The jury was composed of O. S. Davis, Frank Mellow, Andrew Post, Martin Barnhart, Fred Tavener, Albert Bartley, E. M. Joyce and Cyrus Miller, Foreman.

Only One Eye-Witness

The first witness was Ben Sedore, who lives on the Hamilton Road, opposite the railroad crossing where the accident occurred. He testified that he was sitting in his home looking out of the window at the time when the accident happened. He first saw the train when it was about one hundred paces east of the crossing and heard the whistle blow, as usual. He noticed the buggy with one horse attached, being driven west on the road, which runs parallel with the railroad track. He noticed the horse and buggy before seeing the train and observed the driver was travelling very fast. He could not say whether the driver had any control over the horse or not, but the horse and buggy as it reached the crossing but did not actually see the crash.

After the train had passed Mr. Sedore said he saw no trace of any animal, driver or buggy and started over to the crossing and found the buggy lying in the ditch on the northwest side of the track, and also saw bits of the buggy strewn along the track.

The Engineer's Evidence

C. A. Bonnisteel, the engineer in charge of train No. 5, which struck the horse and buggy driven by Mr. Kearns, was the next witness to be sworn. He said that he was on his way to Napanee on time for the crossing as usual. He said he did not see the vehicle on the road until he had no intimation of the possibility of an accident until the fireman pulled the whistle cord when a few yards from the crossing.

He said: "the fireman came over to the cab and I asked what was happening and asked if the rig got over. Then he asked me to stop as we had hit the rig. I immediately put on the brake and we came to a stop about half a mile from the crossing." The train was on time and when the accident occurred was travelling about 55 to 60 miles per hour.

Just before making the stop, he saw the body roll off the bumper of the train and when the train came to a full stop, the body was lying in the ditch about opposite the sixth car. The engineer saw the conductor and brakeman go to the rear of the train and the driver of the train to clear off the wreckage and see what was there.

Engineer Noticed Buggy

A. H. Soon, the fireman, asked when first he saw the buggy, said: "I saw it 150 to 175 yards from the crossing about the time the whistle was being blown." He saw no change in the action of the horse as the result of the whistle. The horse was going an ordinary speed and the fireman thought there would be no attempt to cross the track. He pulled the whistle cord again as a warning and then the driver appeared to make the horse go faster. He slapped the horse with the reins. He then appeared to be excited and the driver apparently lost control. It looked as if the driver did not realize the speed of the train. He could say nothing but that the driver deliberately tried to beat the train. After making the crossing, the fireman saw something dragging from the front of the train and then asked the engineer to stop the train.

P. B. Wellbridge gave evidence concerning the cause of death of the deceased. Traffic-officer L. O. Hawkins told of being called to the accident. George Creighton, E. M. Joyce and Michael Barrett gave evidence concerning the identification of the victim of the accident as Michael Kearns.

The Verdict of Jury

After a few minutes deliberation, the jury returned with the following verdict:—

"We find that Michael Kearns came to his death as the result of being struck by C.N.R. train No. 5 on Thursday afternoon, March 22nd. We hold no one responsible for his death."

Geo. Asselstine Will Observe 99th Birthday

On Sunday, April 8th, Mr. George Asselstine of Moscow will celebrate his ninety-ninth birthday. He is of United Empire Loyalist descent and was born in the year 1835, on his father's farm, near Moscow. For years he was engaged in farming and can tell some interesting tales about the hardships endured during pioneer days in the county.

For several years he has been residing with his nephew, Orval Asselstine of Moscow. A few weeks ago Mr. Asselstine fell while coming down some steps and fractured several ribs. For some time he was confined to his bed but has so far recovered that he is now able to walk down stairs again.

Mr. Asselstine is thought to be the oldest resident in the county and bids fair to pass the century mark.

Bacon Hog Club Organized in the Newburgh District

20 Approved Sows Brought in to Newburgh District

Through the efforts of the local dealer, Mr. J. E. Harrison, and with a view of improving the bacon hogs in the Newburgh district, 20 farmers have each secured a sow of approved type, under the Federal-Provincial Bacon Hog Club policy. These animals were purchased through the Department at Montreal, and are a select lot, purchased at best at the stock yards and often a lot worthy of more are brought in, the freight is paid by the departments.

Arrangements have been made through the Department, for the loan of a boar of approved type, which will be kept by Mr. Vernon Poul, R.R. No. 4, Napanee.

At a meeting of the members presiding the distribution of the sows, the following officers were elected: President—J. Ed. Harrison, Newburgh.

Secretary— George Scott, R.R. No. 4, Napanee.

Keeper and Caretaker of the Boar— Vernon Paul, R.R. No. 4, Napanee.

This is a commendable movement on the part of the farmers of this district to help themselves, enquire the Department, to produce a class of hogs that should bring the highest price on the market.

Mr., Mrs. D. Aylsworth Celebrate Wedding

A very pleasant family gathering took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Aylsworth, Thomas St., on Easter Sunday, when they celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary. The dinner table was very tastefully decorated in pink and white, and the bride cut the wedding cake.

After the dinner an address was read. The bride was presented with a pearl and black mirror, brush and comb, and the groom received a cane. Although completely taken by surprise, the groom replied in a few well chosen words.

Among those present were: Miss Bessie, of Amherstburg, Mr. and Mrs. F. Aylsworth of Bath, Mrs. Eleanor of Napanee, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. L. McLean of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. C. Stevenson of Kingston, Miss Edna of Mimico. Another son, Allan, who is attending the O. A. C. at Guelph, was unable to be present.

Valuable Information For the Local Farmer

Nitre Cultures

The Ontario Department of Agriculture have ordered a supply of Nitro Cultures for Alfalfa, Red Clover and Sweet Clover. These can be secured at the local office at cost price to the farmers. Any farmers contemplating sowing alfalfa as a field for the first time should secure a bottle of this culture.

School Fairs

Applications for seeds for School Fairs have been coming in very well—fifty-seven applications are received to date. There are still a number of schools that we hope will send in their applications, as the seeds at the office are free and it is the wish of the Department of Agriculture, that all schools in the county take advantage of this offer and take part in the School Fair work.

Club Work

In connection with Club Work we have received a number of requests for enrolment in the different projects contained in the outline. We still have a number of Home Garden packages available to boys and girls in the district and will be glad to hear from any who would like to undertake to plant and care for a home garden. Seeds are supplied at cost price, 50c. We have already received eight applications for enrollment in the Potato Club and we hope to have a club of 25 boys in this project.

64 Families Helped

The report for the month of March showed a total number of 64 families receiving help from the town, with a total of 253 individuals. This represents an increase of four families and 14 individuals over last month.

The total expenditure for March was $1467.57, made up as follows:— Food $627.70, shelter $78.77, clothing $111.43, fuel $905.50, drugs $2.67, medical attention $41.50. The cost of operating the food kitchen was $96.25 for March. 723 meals were supplied at a cost of 14.7 cents per meal.

The expenditure for fuel for March which was considerably higher than the previous month, covers the purchase of a quantity of wood which is expected to be sufficient to carry through as long as fuel is needed this season.

Much Clothing Donated.

Prov. Ontario Observes Crippled Children Week, April 8 to 14

Napanee Rotary Club Work Reviewed

Under the chairmanship of the Minister of Public Welfare, Hon. W. G. Martin, all Provincial and local organizations have combined in holding the first Ontario Crippled Children Week. From April 8th to the 14th a special effort is being made to discover children who need treatment to correct their physical defects. The crusade is also bringing to the attention of the parents the need of prevention. It is stated that the principal causes of deformity in their order of importance are Infantile Paralysis, Tuberculosis, Rickets, Accidents, and Birth Injuries.

Every child has the right to look forward to a happy, useful and independent life. If he grows up with a serious physical handicap this may be impossible. Early treatment can often effect a complete cure. Most crippled children can be helped.

There are ninety organizations, including Junior Red Cross, the Shrine and many Service Clubs, who will assist in the care of children already crippled if the parents are not financially able to pay for expert treatment. A very little thought will convince our citizens of the tremendous value of this community service. The facilities for care and treatment are already provided.

Extent of the Problem

Between 6,000 and 7,000 crippled children existed in Ontario in the summer of 1930, according to the report of the Royal Commission on Public Welfare. This large army presents a very serious problem, demanding instant and constant attention. Some of the unfortunate sufferers have parents or guardians sufficiently enlightened to see the necessity for immediate remedial action and possessed of the means to provide it. Many more are not so financially situated.

Reports for the year 1933 show that voluntary organizations provided care for 1,588 children. Of this number 848 were new cases. It is impossible to estimate the number of children requiring treatment, but it is possible that this is in excess of 2,000. Many of them are known only to their own families and immediate relatives and neighbours. It is the duty of every citizen who knows of a crippled child who is not receiving competent treatment to send a confidential report to the headquarters of the Society for Crippled Children Week, Queens Park, Toronto, or to the local organization that is carrying on this work.

Attitude of Parents and Public

It often happens that a child needs treatment badly, that the facilities are offered, but that the opposition of the parents, of one of them, condemns the child to a life of disability and dependence. Too frequently, when an operation is mentioned, the mother says "I couldn't bear to have my child suffer." This point of view is born of ignorance and selfishness. There is no more cheerful place in the world than a children's ward in any of our hospitals. The happy relationship between the little patients and the doctors and nurses would be a delightful revelation to anyone who has not had the privilege of visiting a children's hospital ward.

Special Features for Crippled Children Week

1. A special one hour Radio Broadcast for Wednesday evening, April 11th.

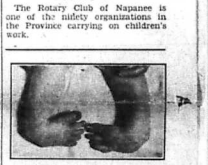
2. Brief Radio announcements, covering the "Week", commencing on Monday, April 2nd, and running along to April 14th.

3. Six fifteen-minute Radio Plays will be presented during the Week from Toronto stations with an Ontario hook-up.

4. As a local attraction, starting April 2nd, and continuing to April 9th, a talkie-trailer will be shown at Wonderland Theatre, Napanee. This is an actual picture taken in one of our leading children's hospitals and will give a true story of the life of the child in such hospitals.

The Achievements of Napanee Rotary Club

The Rotary Club of Napanee is one of the first service organizations in the Province carrying on children's work.



Before Treatment

After Treatment

Above is shown a "before and after" picture of a case that came under the care of the Napanee organization. The child is now walking and would it not have been a real tragedy had this child not received the treatment necessary to correct this condition. This is only one of many cases, some very much more serious, which have received the attention of this Club.

As an example of the tremendous amount of work that is being done throughout the Province we may state that the record of this Club. During the past seven years the Napanee Rotary Club have been carrying on an active campaign in the interest of children with physical defects, and it may be added that they have had the whole hearted support of the people of the County of Lennox and Addington. During this period over three hundred children have received attention for some physical defect, and in only a very small percentage of cases have the results not justified the effort made. In many cases of the more serious type, it has been found necessary to give continued attention to a child for many years, a period as from one to three years.

In the case of the Rotary Club of Napanee, it has not confined its efforts to crippled children alone. The service has been extended along many lines, such as eye defects, nose and throat, commonly called tonsil and adenoid trouble, rupture, goitre, broken limbs, and even to a case of a boy with a badly deformed face. The latter mentioned case called for the services of an outstanding plastic surgeon, and the results have been startling. The transformation in this case has fitted the boy to meet the battle of life on a parity with others.

In discovering these numerous cases, clubs have had assistance from well directed efforts, heads of municipalities, church organizations, school nurses, and many kind hearted people.

The Rotary Club of Napanee face the future with a sure feeling that, as the general public awaken to the importance of this work, they will receive an ever increasing active assistance, not only in reporting new cases but also in financial support, which will insure the proper attention being given to every child which may be brought to their attention.

Record of Births Dates Back 140 Years

Mr. Frank P. Smith is the proud possessor of an ancient family record dating back one hundred and forty years.

Recently, he brought into this office a record of births taken from the family Bible belonging to his great grandfather, who came originally from Germany to the United States and later came to this country. The record is written in German and shows the date of birth of the first child in the family was in 1793. Mr. Frank Smith's grandfather was the youngest member of the family and was born in 1819.

The sheet of paper on which the records were made, is so frayed and brittle with age, that it has had to be fastened to another sheet to make it hold together.

Miss Leamy and her committee of ladies in collecting and remodelling used clothing. The citizens of the town have responded generously to the appeals for clothing.

It is hoped that the attendance at the Relief Dance and Euchre (tonight) Wednesday, will be large. Miss Leamy, who is head of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the party is hoping that the proceeds will be sufficient to cover the cost of purchases of shoes and stockings for the year. Food prizes and many other services are being donated by interested citizens.

THE NEED TO FORGET

In another column will be found a letter from Reeve Hughson, the Town's representative on the County Council. We have no desire to enter the controversy between Reeve Hughson and the County Council. But we cannot refrain from urging that both parties to the dispute should forget any personal matters which have arisen between them, sink their personal differences and work together for the good of all concerned.

Time and again we have remarked on the mutual dependence of Town and County. Time and again we have urged the necessity of the town and county representatives working harmoniously for the best interests of all. The last few years with their disturbance, and the dislocation of industry and trade, have taught us more than anything else that men, nations and institutions stand or fall, together. One of the causes for the present world chaos is the lack of understanding of this fundamental principle. The world, to-day more than ever before, is interdependent. Nation depends on nation, group on group. When one prospers all prosper with it, when one suffers all suffer with it. The same is true on the lesser plane of our municipal life. The Town cannot say to the County, I have no need of you, nor the County to the Town, I have no need of you. They are both members one of the other. It would be too much to expect that differences of opinion would not arise. But differences of opinion should not prevent the utmost of good will prevailing. Any myopic stress on differences is bound, in the long run, to work disadvantageously to both the Town and County.

THE MARKETING BOARD

The Dominion Government has proposed to create a marketing Board, with wide powers. The purpose of the Board is to regulate the marketing of natural products in Canada. The present chaotic state of the agricultural and allied industries has led to this drastic and revolutionary step on the part of the Government. The Board will have power to control or increase the export from Canada, of any regulated product, at any time, and to control the interprovincial trade, as well. The second part of the Bill creating the Board, provides for the control of price spreads in the regulated product. In deciding what products may come under the operation of the Act, the Minister may act on his own initiative or the producers may petition the minister to do so.

This is a real achievement on the part of the Government, and shows it has courage to tackle one of the most difficult of all modern problems, that of orderly distribution. Of course, the Board will have to go carefully and feel its way. But, if it is successful in regulating the flow of natural products so as to avoid the fluctuations which now occur in the realm of supply and demand, the Government will have remedied one of the most intolerable conditions in our whole economic life.

It is hard to tell at what point the Board will start, whether it will deal with fish or pulp, but we feel that as an agricultural area, would like to see the milk supply get the call early in the game, especially with respect to price spreads. We are glad to notice that the first regulations calls for the establishment, under certain conditions, of storage facilities. This will probably prevent the wholesale slaughter of pigs, which marked the early attempts of the N. R. A. to regulate prices and supply.

BACK TO THE BALANCE OF POWER

With the failure of the League of Nations to effect the harmony of the nations of Europe, and to insure the peaceful settlement of all disputes, the separate groups are once more looking around to see with whom they may unite in an alliance which will secure some sort of balance of power in that unhappy part of the world. The disarmament race, precipitated largely by the United States, which has recently passed the Vinson-Trammell Naval Construction Bill, is one of the factors in the scramble for new alignments. This bill authorizes the expenditure of approximately $750,000,000 on new construction, increased operating expenses which, this year, will amount to $282,000,000. This has set the nations of the world, once more, at the old game of trying to bring about peace by increasing the size of the navies.

In addition to this, a new race for land armaments had begun in Europe. Germany has threatened to proceed arming once more. This has upset the calculations of the former allied nations. Austria has now come definitely under the influence of Italy. France and Italy, likewise, are in virtual agreement with respect to any future action of a military character. The only obstacle in the way, so far, has been Britain. Britain has stubbornly through the years, since Versailles, refused to make any guarantees to France with respect to an conflict with that country, should it start with Germany. But the tone of the British Foreign Office has changed of late. With the rearmament of Germany as a real possibility, Britain is more inclined to give some sort of military guarantee to France and the probability is, that before long we shall see Europe definitely lined up in a series of alliances which will constitute two groups, France, Great Britain, Austria and Italy definitely lined up against Germany.

It looks very much as though history was repeating itself, though there is always the possibility that the common good sense of the people of the world will yet prevail to restrain the ambitions and passions of the present rulers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Tamworth, Ontario,
March 31, 1934.

The Editor,
Napanee Beaver,
Napanee, Ont.

Dear Sir:

A letter was written to the press recently by Reeve A. S. Hughson, of Napanee, which, like many letters he sends to the press, is full of misstatements, and looks like a deliberate attempt to mislead the public regarding a dispute between the Town and County.

In the Fall of 1933 a controversy developed over the amount of road rebates due the Town by the County. Mr. Hughson being one of the chief participants. He moved a motion in the Town Council, asking the County Roads Committee to meet them about it. The Roads Committee assembled, and met the Town Council on December 14th.

In order to have their side of the case properly prepared the Roads Committee took the following steps: A meeting was held on December 8 and road expenditures concerning the Town carefully examined. The Roads Chairman and the whole committee were delegated to consult the County Solicitor regarding certain legal points. The County Solicitor and the County Road Superintendent were also authorized to wait on the Minister of Highways, in Toronto, to get his interpretation of certain sections of the Act.

Therefore, the Roads Committee met the Napanee Town Council on December 14th, fully prepared to discuss the case. Reeve Hughson complains of the cost to the County over this matter. Well, he was one of those chiefly responsible for opening up this dispute, and what did it get him or the Town of Napanee? As a result of the careful way the Roads Committee prepared their case, they were in a position to deny that the County owed the Town anything on account of rebates to December 31st, 1933, and the County was saved from paying any of the claims made by the Town.

A statement to this effect was included in the report of the Roads Committee, adopted by the County Council on January 24th, 1934. In the Committee also recommended the payment of the Solicitor's fees and expenses, and also Committee services for the time spent on this matter. The proper time for Reeve Hughson to have objected to these items was when he sat in the County Council on January 24th and heard this report of the Roads Committee unanimously adopted by the Council.

The Committee also set out much of the members of the Roads Committee were for the actual time on this matter, and were approved by the County Council. The statement that the Roads Committee and members of the Roads Committee received pay for more than they were entitled to, is, in this respect, a libel against the County Council and for this reason an apology was demanded from him at the last session. His refusal to apologize, I consider an insult to the County Council.

For a number of years past most of the Gentlemen who have represented the County of Napanee as Reeves have always co-operated with the County Council and they have obtained very favorable consideration from the County for road expenditures. However, since Mr. Hughson has stirred up this trouble between the Town and the County, the County Roads Committee have delved into the matter of rebates a little deeper and found out that the Town is not required to give back to the Town about half the amount of road rebates they have been giving during some of the past few years.

If the Town wants to have the co-operation of the County Council it would be better for them to choose a different type of person than their present Reeve to represent them.

A. R. BLACK,
Secretary Special Roads Committee,
County of Lennox and Addington.

WOMEN TALKING

They talked (too long they talked), and then again
They talked, until the day came fresh and plain
Turning their small lives over and over
As if they loved them, passionate as a lover.
They pored on little deeds, in that long dusk,
Till joy and pain was shrunk to a husk
And in the competition of their sorrow
Forgot to see the dawn bring up the morrow.
The new world lit the dark with dream and star,
And glory touched the city from afar;
Earth shone, seeds broke to life;
buds curled in grace;
Man lived the bounds of time and land and space—
But they sat on and turned their small lives over,
With curtained windows—passionate as a lover.

He had been sent to tune a piano. He found the instrument in perfect condition, and not in the least need of tuning. A few days later his employer received a bill from the owner of the piano stating that she did not think it had been tuned properly. After being reprimanded by his employer, the tuner made another call, and again tested every note of the instrument, only to find no fault. This time he told the owner so. "Yes," said she, "it certainly seems all right now, but as soon as I begin to sing it gets all out of tune."

THE END OF THE COW

(A New Zealand paper, reporting that scientists have discovered a method of producing milk from grass, states that a similar process was known to the ancient Maoris.)

The friendly cow all red and white
Will soon be looking rather blue;
She must not work with all her might
Producing milk for me and you,
If experts are reported right
And what they're said to say is true.

All flesh is grass, and experts say
All grass is milk. But up till now
The transformation's gone astray
Without the labor of the cow.
Yet on no very distant day
That beast will make fer first bow.

The cow, that made New Zealand great,
Is doomed by scientists to pass,
And we're returning to the state
Of Adam after the fall of grass.
Don't laugh—the time is far too late
For thinking science is an ass.

It's said the experts' latest thing
Has been for long a Maori wheeze.
The things that progress leaves behind!
It marches back to by degrees.
Cows will some day again remind
Us of the nations that we feed on grass.

Letter to the Editor

Lennox & Addington County Council

NO APOLOGY

To the Editor of The Beaver,

Dear Sir: — It was with great regret, as well as surprise to the writer, that the motion "evidently inaugurated by gentlemen who have been settled in one day's committee work.

With reference to the item of $75.00 solicitor's fee for services rendered, re this question, I can only say, I consider it a reasonable charge.

In the first place, the solicitor is hired the same as in most other counties and municipalities, in this case his salary is $100.00 per year. Of course, if he is required to prepare a Court case, etc., we know and expect to pay him extra, but for advice and ordinary routine, the yearly salary is supposed to cover, otherwise what on earth is it given for?

On this particular case, the solicitor states, he had to go to Toronto, talk, what for? To get the County settled its levy, under the Act, the Town paid, and claimed it must be spent under certain conditions or a portion returned pursuant to the Act. All clearly stated in the Statutes, and at most only requiring intelligent interpretation. If the County Solicitor's reference to the levy and expenditure he could have saved himself the trouble, and the County the expense, as the writer has a complete set, with amendments, and would be only too glad to have him have the use of same.

Most certainly, no apology will be given.

A. S. HUGHSON.

A FEW HOWLERS

The chief occupation of the inhabitants of Perth is dying.

Rhetoric is a form of arithmetic.

An epigram is a horse with the head of a man.

An epigram is a man who goes from one country to another.

Proposition is for a country to have no alcoholic drinks in it.

In France the peasants sleep on mattresses.

The Magna Charta forbade any taxis.

FIRST AID FOR THE FLOP-EARED

That "Be kind to little animals, wherever they may be" spirit seems to have spread beyond the Boy Scout movement and the obligation to "give the stranded jellyfish a shove into the sea." In a London evening paper one reads that "a novel way to keep the ears of long-eared dogs from trailing while drinking has been placed on the market." The idea is to prevent the ears from trailing, it must be supposed, in the water which the dog is drinking—so that Fido, bless his honest, droopy-eared ears, is being provided with something rather like those "mustache cups" which used to be presented to papas in the days before Signor Mussolini ruled the face-fur was a sign of decadence. But kindness of this sort ought not to stop at Fido. The burning need now is for:

A device to prevent cats from wetting their whiskers in milk.

Chill-proof pants to keep cows from catching cold when sitting on wet grass.

A little trolley to support the abdominal girth of the dachshund.

Special horn-rimmed spectacles to prevent guinea-pigs' eyes from dropping out when the little creatures are held up by their tails.

Cosy homes being provided with perches so that goldfish can sit down occasionally.

The Institute of Patentees might make a special note of all these very reasonable requirements. — Manchester Guardian.

WEEK-ENDING ABROAD

How would you like to spend a week-end in Paris? Go to the opera Friday night, say, spend Saturday at the races with a jaunt to Versailles thrown in, visit Notre Dame and the Madeleine Sunday, and get back home Monday, land in New York Wednesday. You've been away from home just one week.

It can't be done now. But giant airships can and will do it, writes William S. Dutton in the American Magazine.

"By 1934 it should be a fact, by 1940 a commonplace," he says. "Many of the monsters, as big as the greatest sky-scrapers, will ride the ocean skyways like mighty silver-plated hotels magically floating on high. London will be within two days of Broadway."

These things have made the commercial airship practicable today," says the writer, "whereas it was impracticable only a few years ago. The first of these three is helium, the gas which will not burn nor explode. Second is duralumin, the light, strong alloy of aluminum and copper used in the rigid ship's frame. Third is radio."

CANADIAN HONEY PROSPECTS

Honey production in 1934 will depend largely on the number and strength of colonies that survive the winter, the number of package bees imported and the weather conditions during the coming spring and early summer. In most sections of the country the bees went into winter quarters in fairly good condition, and the subsequent steady cold weather has favoured wintering. The principal factors which are the main source of surplus honey over the past few years, and which have suffered so some extent from the drought of last summer, but enter the last. He leaves the ninety and nine in order to save the one who had gotten away from the fold. The Christian obligation is not only towards those who are within the church, but to those who have wandered from it or have never known its bountiful privileges.

The next section records how the people were bringing their children to Jesus, to have them blessed. This was an old Hebrew custom. When a Jewish child was a year old he was taken to the Rabbi that he might be blessed. Probably that's what was taking place. The disciples, hearing of the presence in the community of the Master, were bringing their little ones to Him. The disciples however, soon got tired of the crowds and children and thought they would have sent them off. But once again Jesus comes to the rescue of the children. "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

To sum up — The first section sets forth the character of those who would make up the kingdom—they must be trusty, dependent and lovable. The second reveals the Father heart of God who would not that the least of His little ones should perish. And the third is a gentle reminder to the disciples that their attitude towards others must ever be one of love and tenderness, "the same love and tenderness we exhibit towards our own children.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 8th, 1934.

MATTHEW 18: 1-6, 12-14; 19: 13-15.

"THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM"

In this week's lesson, three passages of scripture are used. Each has some definite reference to children. In Mark's account it appears that the disciples had been arguing among themselves as to who would have the positions of precedence in the new Kingdom. Already alive to the opportunities of worldly promotion which they thought the new political organization would hold for them, they began to question as to which of their own number would get the chief offices. When they bring the matter to Jesus for settlement, he tells them that unless they turn over and become as little children they will not get into the Kingdom at all.

It becomes quite evident from this approach of the disciples, to Jesus, that they had not grasped the full significance of His mission. Their decision to follow Jesus was the turning point in their careers. But they were to learn as they do here, that following Jesus was more than answering a leader; it involved a renunciation of worldly ambitions, of selfish pride, and love of office. This fact however will take much grace and humility, but that is the price His disciples have to pay for the privilege of sharing with Him in His Kingdom.

In these passages, as nowhere else does Jesus set forth the conditions of membership in the kingdom. The kingdom of the earth had been built by force. They represented the ability of strong men to get control of governments and use their power as they saw fit. It was a revolutionary ideal which Jesus proclaimed that the Kingdom of God was to be won not by force but by peaceful penetration. Its citizens were not those vowed to far into submission, but men and women whose qualifications were just those emphasized childlike faith, dependence and trust.

Jesus then proceeds to impose a heavy responsibility on those of influence and power. "Should they prove a hindrance," he says, "it were better for them that they should be drowned. There are "little ones" aplenty, young people who are eager and anxious to make the great venture of faith. Any person who by thought, word, or deed, stifles that idealism, destroys that ambition or by example causes them to lose their noble estimate of Christian character, is condemned by Jesus; "Better that a millstone were hanged about their neck and sunk in the depths of the sea."

Such a solemn warning is intended to make us sensitive to the influence we have upon others. Jesus is infinite care and love for his children is set forth in the next section. In this Jesus tells the parable of the lost sheep of the had a hundred sheep. When one was lost he left the ninety and nine and went after the one which had gone astray. God, Jesus says, is like that. His children are his only concern. His love and affection are for each of them in overwhelming pity lest they be lost. He leaves the ninety and nine in order to save the one who had gotten away from the fold. The Christian obligation is not only towards those who are within the church, but to those who have wandered from it or have never known its bountiful privileges.

Ingersoll Man Always Has a Word Of Praise For Dodd's.

Ingersoll, Ont., April 3. (Special)—"I suffered for more than twenty years with what I was told was Rheumatism, my back bothering me so much I had to lose quite a lot of time from my work," writes Mr. David Armour, a well known and respected resident of Cedar Street, Ingersoll. N.C.I. EASTER EXAM'S

In connection with the report of the term examinations, the Principal urges the parents to examine very carefully the marks made by the individual pupil in each subject as well as the marks made by the other members of the class.

As both the next set of term examinations and the departmental examinations in July will be on the whole year's work, and not just on a part of the subject as in the case at Christmas and Easter, the parents should note that the chances are greatly against the pupil doing as well on these examinations as on the ones already written.

Some of the low marks are due to unavoidable absence for a considerable period, but the department makes no allowance for this.

DIVIDENDS PAID BY GOODYEAR CO.

Plants Operating At Higher Capacity Than Year Ago, Says President.

Toronto, April 2—Dividend cheques for the first quarter of 1934 on the Preferred and Common Stocks of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company of Canada, Limited, at the rate of 7 per cent. on the preferred shares and $1.25 per share on the common, have gone out to shareholders. In a letter accompanying the cheques, C. H. Carlisle, president, points out that economical operations during the period of inflated business, as well as, during the period of retarded business, low capitalization as compared with the company's volume of business, efficiency of the plants, and North Fredericksburgh handling facilities have made it possible to earn and pay dividends continuously.

"During the years of intense production and extended sales," says Mr. Carlisle, "it was common practice by companies to increase their stock issue by splitting shares. Your company followed the reverse policy by gradually reducing its outstanding shares. This has further strengthened its financial structure and added to its stability."

Commenting on current operations Mr. Carlisle says: "Your rubber plants are operating at a considerably higher capacity than they were at this time a year ago. The outlook far increased production during this year is favorable. Your cotton mill is running to full capacity 22 hours per day and is unable at this time to fill all its orders. Your cotton plant is a 42,000 spindle mill and one of the best of its kind in Canada. It has been and is operating efficiently and economically. Its capital stock consists only of $26,250.00 of Common stock, all of which is owned by your Rubber Company.

"The last annual statement showed that your Company had an earned surplus of $7,740,187.32, had on hand cash or its equivalent of $6,943,614.79, with plants written down to 47% of their cost. Reserves which have been set up are very liberal and greater than required. This strong financial position is due largely to the stand taken by the Common shareholders in the early days of your Company's existence. During the first seventeen years that your Company was in operation, only one cash dividend of 6% was paid to the Common shareholders and latterly only moderate dividends have been paid. Earnings were thus allowed to accumulate as a surplus which, although accruing to the Common shares, at the same time gives greater strength to the Preferred shares."

The Late Albert English

Mr. Albert English, a resident of Napanee for the past four years, died at his home on Piety Hill, early Sunday morning, after an illness of two days. Mr. English had not been in the best of health recently, but had been able to be about as usual until he was suddenly stricken on Friday. During the morning he had attended the Good Friday church service in the Trinity United Church and on the way home was taken ill. He managed to reach his home, but shortly after became unconscious when a severe stroke of paralysis struck him. Without gaining consciousness he passed away, two days later.

The late Mr. English was in his 77th year. He was born in Tyendinaga township, the son of the late Robert and Ann English, and was of Irish descent. Until 15 years ago he followed the occupation of farming near Melrose. When he retired he went to Belleville where he lived for eleven years. Four years ago he came to Napanee, where his niece, Miss Sarah Winter had kept house for him. During his residence in Belleville, he had been a regular attendant at Bridge Street United Church, and since coming to Napanee had been a member of the congregation of Grace United Church. He was a man of strong character and of a reserved, quiet demeanor. He had made a success of his calling and was quietly enjoying the fruits of his labors in his latter days.

Mr. English was one of a family of eight, five boys and three girls, of whom, only one sister is left, Mrs. Reginald, residing in the west. He had never married, and is survived by a number of nieces and nephews, among whom are Miss Sarah Winter, Mrs. William Jackson, Messrs. Wilbert and S. E. Winter, Mr. David Brown, Mrs. Frank McCullough and Mr. William English.

The funeral was conducted at his late residence, Piety Hill, Tuesday afternoon by Rev. R. T. Richards of Grace Church. The body was placed in Riverview cemetery to await burial in the spring.

OBITUARIES

JOHN JENNINGS

After an illness of about one week, John Jennings, a well known resident of Napanee for many years, passed away at his home on Donald Street, on Saturday, March 31st.

Mr. Jennings was born in the Township of Camden, 84 years ago. About 45 years ago he came to Napanee, where for over thirty years he conducted the Market Hotel. About fifteen years ago he gave up the hotel business and for three years farmed at Sharp's Corners. Less than a year ago he again returned to Napanee.

Jennings was twice married. From the first marriage there were two sons, Curtis and Ross, now living in Western Canada, and one daughter, Miss Edna Jennings, a resident of Toronto. He is survived also by his second wife, formerly Miss Maggie Parks, and their son Earl.

For many years Mr. Jennings was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Napanee, and the Orange Order.

The funeral was conducted, Monday afternoon, at the family residence, by Mr. Morgan, minister of the Pentecostal Mission.

The Late E. O'Reilly McCabe

The Township of North Fredericksburg lost another of its best known residents on Good Friday, March 30th, when Mr. Edward O'Reilly McCabe passed away at his home at Sand Hill. For months the late Mr. McCabe had been confined to a family of thirteen children, his weeks his condition was very critical. At the ripe age of 77 years 2 months and 28 days he passed on to his eternal reward.

The late Mr. McCabe was born in North Fredericksburgh Township on January 2nd, 1857. He was one of a family of thirteen children, his father being Mr. Elias McCabe. On January 14th, 1880, he married Eliza Jane Hambly, and four years ago they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They had spent some years in Michigan, U.S.A., Desoronto, but most of his life was spent in the township in which he was born.

Mr. McCabe was a member of Sand Hill United Church and had always been interested in its success. He was of a very jovial disposition, a trait that he had inherited from his Irish parents. He was a great visitor and always loved to have his friends in his home. He was a good husband, a kind father and a splendid neighbor.

The funeral service was held on Easter Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. and was conducted by his minister, Rev. J. E. Beckel. Several of his favorite hymns were sung and the text used by the minister was selected by the deceased. The crowded home showed the esteem in which Mr. McCabe was held by all.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his widow, Eliza Jane McCabe; one daughter, Mrs. Perry Brown, Sand Hill; one son, Blake, at home, and one brother, Mr. D. A. (Jack) McCabe. One boy and one girl died in infancy and another daughter, Mrs. Frank Sherman, died some years ago.

Deceased was a progressive farmer of this vicinity for many years, and after retiring from the farm, Mr. and Mrs. Parks moved to Napanee, where they resided until seven years ago, when his life partner passed away.

Mr. and Mrs. Parks were devoted members of the church and while living in Napanee associated themselves with Trinity United Church. After Mrs. Parks' death, Mr. Parks returned to his native township and resided with his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Smith.

His funeral took place on Friday, March 30th, and was largely attended by friends from Napanee and his home community. He leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Smith, with whom he resided and Mrs. T. J. Cook of Camden; and two grandsons, Dr. Morley L. Smith and Garfield Whitney Smith, of Long Island, New York. He also leaves three brothers, Mr. Archibald Parks on the homestead, George, of Picton, and Okel of Selby; and three sisters, Mrs. Thomas Anderson, of Hawley, Mrs. Thomas Campbell of Brown City, Mich., and Mrs. James Fralick, of Elmira, New York.

The remains were placed in Riverview vault to await interment later.

COULD NOT KNIT FOR NEURITIS

If neuritis bothers you, deal with it as this woman dealt with hers:—

"For years I was unable to knit," she writes, "owing to neuritis in my hands. Last year I started taking Kruschen, and now I can keep up with anyone. Already this year I have knitted about 12 pieces in all, including men's sweaters and ladies' fancy pull-overs, as well as several babies' articles. Naturally, I feel quite proud, and I owe it all to Kruschen. I have not felt in better health for years, and will keep on taking Kruschen as long as I live." —(Mrs.) A. S.

Neuritis is caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen Salts break up these deposits of torturing crystals and convert them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.

The Oil for the Athlete.—in rubbing down, the athlete will find Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil an excellent article. It renders the muscles and sinews pliable, takes the soreness out of them and strengthens them for strains that may be put upon them. It stands pre-eminent for this purpose and athletes who, for years, have been using it can testify to its value as a lubricant.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile.
Feel Fit. You Needn't use Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pints of bile into your bowels, that makes you feel so off-colour.

Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your bowels and decays. Your whole system is poisoned. You go through the misery of biliousness, sick headaches. You have a bad breath, abominable taste in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's colourless and often your head aches. Your whole system needs bile.

How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking a mild vegetable oil water, laxative candy or chewing gum or vaseline? These only move the bowels. That's not enough. You must wake up your liver bile.

Avoid calomel (mercury). Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, sure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time.

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists. 49

Dehorning Cattle

Experience has proved the great advantage from every standpoint of dehorning commercial cattle, and a great benefit would accrue to the live stock industry if all commercial cattle were dehorned. Every effort should therefore be made to attain this object, and it more than merits the active support and co-operation of the press, and all institutions and organizations interested in the live stock industry to encourage the practice of dehorning all horned commercial cattle between March 15 and April 15 or during the month of October.

Champion Egg Eaters

Although, compared with some other countries, the per capita consumption of poultry in Canada is relatively low, Canada retains the egg-eating championship, with 28.36 dozen eggs consumed per head of population in 1932. While the average consumption of poultry by each inhabitant of the United States in that year was about 18 pounds, of which 7.7 pounds were hens and chickens. Altogether 112,241,200 pounds of poultry and eggs has been relatively well maintained. In June last year, according to the bulletin, "The Agricultural Situation," issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, the number of hens and chickens on farms in Canada was 54,943,000.

Soft Bacon

The further expansion of our bacon trade with Great Britain depends to a large extent upon quality improvement. Recent advices from the British market criticise our supplies on the score of underfinish in a large percentage of bacon sides, as indicated by softness and flabbiness. This soft flabby bacon is most likely the product of underfinished hogs, of which there are considerable numbers being marketed at yards and plants in Canada at the present time. The remedy lies with the producer in holding back unfinished hogs. In most cases another week or so on feed would put out the finish so necessary for the making of firm bacon. All hogs of bacon and select weights should be properly finished at their weights. Underfinish is as detrimental as overfinish, and in this case is a very serious obstacle to efforts being made to popularize Canadian bacon with the British consumer. Every hog raiser is asked to co-operate to the best of his ability.

Raspberry Plantations

Where manure is not applied to raspberry plantations until the spring, a cover crop is also advisable to prevent too late growth of cane. As the advent of mosaic disease is making is advisable to renew plantations more frequently, the grower who is unable to get large quantities of manure will find that shortage of rotation lends itself more to the cover crop and mulch system, for each new plantation may be preceded for a season by a crop of clover or alsike which, when turned over, will leave the soil in excellent condition for the new plantation. This method of renewal, say every six years, with proper green manuring, cover crop or mulch, and adequate quantities of commercial fertilizer, will render it possible for raspberry growing to take its place beside orcharding, in being more or less independent of the failing and increasingly expensive supply of manure.

New Egg Grades

The revised Dominion egg grading regulations recently passed at Ottawa are now in force in Ontario for all shipments. The former grade names of fresh specials, fresh extras, firsts, seconds, pullet extras, etc., have been changed to A-1, A, B and C, with different weight classifications within each grade.

The chief purpose of the revision is to enable the farmer to be paid on a quality basis, as well as making it possible for the consumer to tell what he or she is buying. Producers are allowed eight eggs per half-case under grade of examination and suitable penalties are made for any infringement.

Hog Outlook Favourable

While it is likely there will be some temporary price declines during the present year, the trend of hog prices appears upward. Market supply prospects are for a moderate volume during the first half of the year, followed by a fairly substantial increase. Prospects for export appear to be satisfactory, and the restrictions existing on exports from foreign countries selling to the British market are working quite favourably toward stabilization of prices. Despite the present favourable export outlook improvement in grading, breeding, selection and processing so as to secure a large precentage top grades of bacon is desirable than a marked increase in general production.

More Than $2,000 in Prizes Offered For Malting Barley

This Province is ideally suited to the growing of first-class malting barley and, with the purpose of encouraging the efforts of Ontario farmers in producing this crop, the Ontario and Quebec Brewing Industry has offered prizes amounting to well over two thousand dollars. This was the recent announcement of Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario.

All Ontario farmers will be eligible for competition, and the media used for exhibiting will include the Winter Seed Fairs, Combined Field Crop Competitions, and the Fall Fairs, sixty of which have already been selected.

Prizes at the Winter and Seed Fairs will total some two hundred and fifty dollars. Combined Field Crop competitions have been allotted over one thousand dollars' and Fall Fairs a similar amount. Much prizes, and details of competition, will be under the administration of the Superintendent of Agricultural Societies, J. A. Carroll, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

In connection with the Field Crop Competitions, societies have been chosen in areas particularly well-suited to producing the desired quality of barley.

All competitors must be paid-up members of an Agricultural Society. There must be at least ten entries, and not less than eight crops inspected. It is further required that only Registered O. A. C. No. 21 Barley be sown, and that the minimum acreage be five acres. In case where a field entered for competition comprises more than five acres the entire field will be judged.

Before a competitor can qualify for a prize, at least fifty bushels of the crop must be cleaned to Grade No. 1. Field and bin inspection will be made without cost, and barley must be ready for bin inspection, and final grading not later than December 1st. Prizes in each competition will be awarded as follows:— First, thirty dollars; Second, twenty-five dollars; Third, twenty dollars; Fourth, fifteen dollars; Fifth, ten dollars, and Sixth, five dollars.

Winter and Seed Fairs will include Guelph Winter Fair, Ottawa Winter Fair, Brockville Seed Fair, and Seed Exhibition at Chatham, Quinte District Seed Fair, and the Essex Valley Seed Fair. At each of these exhibitions fifty dollars will be distributed in prizes. Eighteen dollars in prize money has been allotted to each of the Fall Fairs, or a total of ten hundred and eighty dollars.

No exhibitor may win a prize at more than one Fall Fair. This, however, will not debar the exhibitor from competing at one of the large seed shows or winter fairs. Barley will be judged on its suitability for malting, not for seed. The points desired in barley for malting, in order of relative importance are soundness, size and uniformity of Kernel; freedom from grass, and freedom from weed seeds and inert matter.

Concluding his remarks on this subject, Col. Kennedy said: "While I heartily endorse any movement designed to encourage Ontario farmers, the action of the Ontario and Quebec Brewing Industry should have an even more important result than only raising the standard of malting barley, and for a definite improvement in all Ontario Barley; whether grown for malting, feeding, or any other purpose."

FIRST PLANTINGS

Vegetables are divided into three main planting groups. First to go in will be those things that are both hardy and will stand a fair amount of frost. These should be sown just as soon as the soil can be worked up nicely in the spring. For the most part they consist of the type of which the leafy part is eaten, like lettuce and spinach, though also included in the radish, garden pea, onions, beets and carrots. Later when the weather has turned definitely warmer, and there is little danger of frost, in go the second group, such as beans, cabbage plants potatoes and corn. These are followed by melons, squash, cucumbers and pumpkins, vegetables that cannot stand any frost whatever and will not make growth until both the air and soil are warm. The above are general rules only, and all rules are made to be broken occasionally. As the very first vegetables of any variety are the ones most appreciated it is always a good plan to risk a few seeds of each packet and a few plants or every box, very early. If they escape frost, they will be ready long before the regular supply and if frozen the loss is trivial. With vegetables too, successional planting is desirable, a little of the seed will be planted each week or ten days, so that the harvest will be spread over weeks instead of days. To further extend the season, good gardeners plan for medium late varieties of their favorite vegetables.

As a man begins to live more seriously within, he begins to live more simply without.—Emerson.

At the close of the meeting, William Hunter, on behalf of the young people, moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Craig for their kind hospitality.

LAWN WORK

As it is impossible to do much general repairing to a lawn already established it is most important to get the very best seed when first starting out. There is a great range in price here, just as in tobacco, between cheap products, in the commercial stage, are made up of blended mixtures and absolutely depend on the proportion of the higher priced lines which go into the mixture. A good lawn grass mixture is composed of at least half a dozen grasses. Some of these are quick growers, which come along speedily the first year and protect the later slow starting finer stemmed, but really permanent grasses which will go to make up the lawn in the years to come. It is these permanent grasses which have the most expensive, but without a large proportion of them the mixture will not make a satisfactory showing after the second year.

Before sowing it is essential to get the soil raked level. Allow a week to settle, and any weed seeds to germinate and then on a windless day sow at the rate of one pound per 200 square feet, going over the ground twice, once across and once lengthwise. Then rake lightly, one way only, so as to merely cover the seed and if possible finish the job with a heavy roller or pounder. When the grass is up two inches commence mowing, using a very sharp machine so that there will be no danger of pulling out the young plants.

All men think all men mortal but themselves.—Dr. Edward Young.

FLOWER PLANTING

Flowers also divide themselves into main planting groups. The first to be sown are those very hardy kinds which naturally reproduce themselves in Canada. Cosmos, California Poppy, Alyssum, Calendula and Candytuft are very hardy and can be sown first thing in the spring. In the second group are the Zinnia, Marigold, Nasturtium, Stocks, Aster and Petunia, which do not stand serious frost, and of the tender things, which must be held back until all danger of freezing is over are the Dahlias, Cannas, and Gladiolus. As the latter are all bulbs and do not come up until a week or so after planting, they may be raked within a few days of the arrival of really warm weather.

Speed Fiend (as he slowed down a bit):— Gosh! Don't you feel glad you're alive!

Timid Passenger — Glad isn't the word—I'm amazed.

Employer: "I understand you've got your divorce, Mandy. Do you get any alimony from your husband?"

Mandy: "No, lady, but he done give me a first-class reference."

The number of hogs graded in Canada for the first twelve weeks of this year was 776,435 compared with 743,427 in the corresponding period of last year.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO — No. 2 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

What Hydro Has Saved Domestic Consumers

In 1932, the last year for which comparative figures are available, all the domestic consumers served by Hydro municipalities used an aggregate of 740,000,000 kilowatt-hours, for which they paid the aggregate sum of $11,676,000, or an average cost, inclusive of all charges, of only 1.57 cents per kilowatt-hour. According to United States census figures for 1932, the domestic consumers served by privately-owned utilities in that country paid an average of 5.60 cents per kilowatt-hour.

It is a simple matter to compute that, if Ontario Hydro domestic consumers had had to pay, for the 740,000,000 kilowatt-hours they used in 1932, as much per kilowatt-hour as United States consumers paid, their bills would have aggregated the vast sum of $41,490,000, or nearly $30,000,000 more than the amount their electricity actually cost them under Hydro service.

Comparative Cost of Domestic Lighting Service in Typical Canadian and United States Cities

	Monthly Net Bill for the Same Quantity of Electricity
	Under Hydro System		Under Private Ownership
Toronto	$1.44	Montreal	$3.15
London	1.74	Detroit	4.35
Hamilton	1.74	Buffalo	4.14
Brantford	1.74	New York	6.60
Ottawa	1.74	Boston	5.30

Note—Hydro serves 56,000 rural consumers at an average cost, inclusive of all charges, of 4.37 cents per kilowatt-hour.

Hydro has saved the citizens of the associated Hydro municipalities tens of millions of dollars for electric service. And in addition, it has made possible the enjoyment of comfort-giving and labor-saving appliances on a scale that, but for low Hydro rates, would have been beyond the means of the average citizen. The facts about Hydro speak for themselves.

Miss Stephanie Jarvis' Medieval Easter Play Impressive Production

Presented by Local People

Miss Stephanie Jarvis' Easter play, which was received such enthusiastic praise in Toronto, was presented in Napanee on Friday evening, by a cast of local artists, under the direction of Mrs. Caroline Sneath, in aid of the V. O. N. Before the curtain rose, Mr. W. S. Herrington gave an interesting explanation of the origin and purpose of medieval mystery plays, which made the production easy to understand, and therefore more enjoyable.

Mrs. Madden Director of Chorus

The choruses, under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Madden, were beautifully rendered; the lovely old hymns and carols being flawlessly sung by the invisible choir. The solos were sung by Mrs. Dennison and Miss Hilda McGreer. The curtains were drawn to disclose the scene at the tomb on Easter morning, the four archangels playing their difficult parts in a particularly effective manner. They remained on the stage throughout the evening, and were at long intervals obliged to be perfectly motionless.

Each actor interpreted his or her part with exceptional ability, the whole effect being one of a devotional nature, the telling of the familiar Bible story in a way which will not be forgotten easily.

Miss Jarvis, who played the role of the Blessed Virgin, is deserving of great praise. She was responsible for the beautiful settings, which Mrs. Sneath painted and arranged the scenery. The whole production was of a very fine character.

Miss Smellie Addressed The Gathering

Miss Nora Herrington, president of the local branch of the V. O. N., introduced Miss Elizabeth Smellie, chief superintendent in Canada, who spoke to the audience for a few moments about the work of the Victorian Order.

The members of the cast were: C. L. Graham, archangel Gabriel; F. S. Metzler, archangel Michael; archangel Raphael, James Plumley; archangel Uriel, Jack Cook; Mrs. Minnie, Rev. R. T. Richards; Joseph of Aramathea, Gerald Smith; St. Peter, Joseph Hallett; St. John, Harry B. Williams; Mary Jacobi, Mrs. Harry B. Williams; Mary Cleophas, Mrs. Hazlehurst Howell; Mary Salome, Miss Marjorie Gibbard; Mary Magdalen, Miss Margaret Wallbridge; the Blessed Virgin, Miss Stephanie Jarvis. Mr. H. Goldwin Smith was stage director.

Government Increases Relief Allowances And Wages

Twenty-five per cent. increase in the voucher allowance for food for Ontario's unemployed was announced after Cabinet Council yesterday by Premier George S. Henry. The Premier indicated that the step, had been taken because of the steady increase in food prices, and he also attended improving economic conditions.

Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health and Labor, was working out with J. A. Ellis, Relief Secretary, during last week, the new schedules necessitated by the changed rate. Persistent complaints have been made by delegations of unemployed that nutritious diet was impossible under the rate hitherto in force.

Increase Favored

As a result, the Labor Department conducted investigations into the situation, and reported in favor of an increase. This will become effective as soon as the details have been worked out, said Premier Henry. In municipalities it was probable that supplementary grants would be required, but instructions would go forward to welfare centres without delay.

Wage Rise Effective

Wages at trans-Canada highway camps tilted sharply higher yesterday, when pay was increased from $10 a month to 20 cents an hour. Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Northern Development, announced that the new rate, payable for an eight-hour day, would go into effect immediately, and be retroactive to April 1st.

Thirteen thousand men are employed in the camps at present and this number will be increased to 25,000 under the announced plans for increased activities of the eastern and western sections. Thus the Provincial payroll in the hundred-odd camps will total $200,000 weekly.

No more cash will be placed in the hands of the road workers than at present, for the 25 per cent. of pay will go to provide for the men's dependents, or in the case of those without families, will be banked for the future needs of the workers. Sixty cents per day for board is subtracted from pay rates.

We measure success by accumulation. The measure is false. The true measure is appreciation. He who loves most has most.—Henry Van Dyke.

Work for 25,000 As Ontario Builds $5,000,000 Roads

Toronto. — Plans of the Ontario Highway Department were launched on Saturday last, March 31, to begin within about a month, an extensive program of highway improvement on which about 25,000 men will be employed, with a total expenditure of $5,000,000.

The program was announced by Hon. Leopold Macaulay, Provincial Highway Minister, who said that it would include paving stretches of roadway in the vicinity of Ottawa and Brockville, the construction of a new parallel road from Toronto to Allandale, resurfacing existing roads, elimination of ditches on heavily travelled roads and improvement of recently acquired roads

In the east, the announcement said, pavement on the road between Brockville and Smiths Falls will be completed, and an additional section of about four miles will be provided on the Ottawa-Morrisburg road. Hard surfacing will be completed on Highway No. 15, between Seely's Bay and Morton.

The completion, hard - surfacing drainage and grading of other roads, generally through the central and western section of the province, are planned for.

The announcement said that the department would advertise at once for contracts, stipulating that no contractors would be engaged and that men working on the projects would be paid fair wages.

For white eggs the prizes were awarded, first to James Belcher, second to Ray Perry, and third to Russell Long.

Trinity United Church Anniversary Services

Trinity United Church celebrated its 84th anniversary, in special services on Sunday and Monday, April 8 and 9. The preacher for the occasion was the Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., of Toronto, the associate editor of the United Church Sunday School publications. The music was provided by the church choir, under the direction of the organist, Mr. W. G. Gray.

On Sunday morning the church was well filled with the members of Trinity and a few from other churches in the town and district. Rev. Harry Pawson, the minister of the church, had charge of the service. He paid a high tribute to the personal qualities and ability of Mr. Wallace, and recalled the fine friendship which had existed between himself and Mr. Wallace for a period of twenty-five years.

Mr. Wallace's morning address was based on the text, "Surely God was in this place and I knew it not." The music was Carlo Mora's "O Be Joyful," sung as anthem by the choir, in which Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Mills and Mr. Garnet Brooks took duet parts. Mr. Bert Weiss sang as a solo "Sion" by Paul Rodney.

At the evening service, Mr. Wallace spoke to the united congregations of Grace, St. Andrew's and Trinity churches. Rev. A. J. Wilson, of St. Andrew's, and Rev. R. T. Richards, of Grace churches, were on the rostrum, with Rev. Harry Pawson, and Rev. Archer Wallace and took part in the service. Mr. Wallace's evening sermon was based on Paul's words: "I have kept the faith." The evening music was the anthem, Gounod's "Praise ye the Father," a ladies' quartette composed of Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Mills and Mrs. Nicholson, who sang "O Calilee" and a solo, "Home Beautiful upon the Mountains," by Mrs. Pawson.

On Monday evening, 350 people were served dinner in the dining hall, by the men of the church. At eight o'clock in the evening, a short program of music was given before Mr. Wallace's address. The musical items were two organ solos by Mr. Gray; a vocal solo by Miss Mary Daly; a ladies' vocal quartette, Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Nicholson, and a group of vocal solos by Mrs. Kirby, Mrs. J. Ernest Madden was accompanist for Miss Daly, and Mr. Gray accompanied the quartette.

Mr. Wallace's lecture, on the subject: "The Rocky Mountains," proved most entertaining. His delightfully informal manner and his fund of anecdotes added much interest to the subject, which in itself, would have proved well worth while. The lecture was illustrated by lantern slides, which were all original sketches, drawn in a beautifully artistic manner by an old English artist, a resident of Banff.

In every respect, the anniversary services were considered a decided success and a source of inspiration to all members of the congregation.

Brief Deliberation Required by Jury To Reach Decision

Decide J. E. Redner Death Accidental

Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith presided at the inquest on Thursday afternoon, inquiring into the death of James E. Redner, who was killed on the C. N. R. tracks, Thursday morning, March 29th.

The jury empanelled was composed of E. H. Embury, J. E. Loyst, C. A. Phipps, C. H. Switzer, Matthew Taylor, Richard McNeil, W. R. Loyst, F. B. Mellow and E. J. Conlin, foreman.

The first witness was Chief Ryder Watts, of Napanee. He told of being called to the scene of the accident shortly after 8:00 a.m., on Thursday and finding the body of Mr. Redner lying west of the Selby Road crossing, about 29 feet, evidently about 150 feet from where it was struck first. From his observation of the tracks, Chief Watts said the engineer of the train would be unable to see the place where the gas car was standing, because of the curve to the west of it. The fireman on the train might see it at a distance of 400 to 500 feet. Dr. C. H. Switzer, M. B., physician gave medical evidence of the extent of the deceased man's injuries. He thought that death would likely have been instantaneous as the result of a fracture at the base of the skull.

Evidence of Fellow Workman

John Switzer, a sectionman working in the gang with deceased, Redner, and under the foreman John Brennan, was next witness. At the time of the accident he was at work using a gas car, which is kept in the tool house east of the Selby crossing. He said it was on the west bound track at about 9:00 a.m.

Asked as to the first information of the accident, witness said he heard Redner say, "I thought I heard somebody yell." I turned to look and the engine was right on us. The engine was about 7 or 8 feet from me when I looked and I stepped back one step between the two tracks. I yelled, 'Look out boys there's a train.' I did not see the others because I turned and faced the oncoming west train."

Redner was at the front end of the gas car and Switzer did not see what happened to him after he had stepped back on the eight foot. He heard a crash when the car was struck but saw nothing. He held his position until the east bound had passed and then went up to the crossing to see what had become of the others. He discovered Redner's body west of the crossing in the eight foot.

William Doherty, the next witness, also a member of the gang in which Redner was working, corroborated Switzer's evidence. The first indication he had of the oncoming train was when he felt the vibration from the track. He looked east and the engine was 10 or 12 feet from him. He jumped back and could not see what happened to the other two. He said it was impossible to have heard any warning called out, on account of the noise of the east bound train. He also said it was impossible to see down the track because of a joint opposite the station. There was no one on duty at the station at the time.

Evidence of Wm. Maracle

William Maracle, the foreman of another gang, told of bringing his gas car from the tool house, west of the Selby crossing and switching over to the Smiths Falls line. Before doing so he punched the switch to see if the west bound track was clear. It registered clear. He did this for the benefit of his own gang, but the other gang heard him say the track was clear. Maracle and his men went east on the Smiths Falls track and first noticed the west bound train when it was opposite the station. He called out to the other gang but they apparently did not hear him.

Questioned concerning rules, he said: "One of the rules is that a gas car is not to be put on a track when a train is passing on another track."

Mr. Luke Young told of seeing the approaching train and said he called out to the man driving the car, and ran toward them. He thought Switzer heard him. He said also it was correct that a car was not to be put on a track when a train was passing on another track. He understood it was the duty of a foreman to see that rules were observed.

Frank Currie and Lloyd Switzer, other members of Maracle's gang, corroborated the evidence of Maracle and Young.

Switzer Recalled

Jack Switzer recalled, said that Brennan, the foreman of the gang, was at the tool house when the gas car was brought to the tool house, but not when the car was put on the track. He had gone to the station to see if there was any mail. He said he did not know that it was any particular persons duty to see if the track was clear, and did not know about the rule governing the placing of the car on the track, while a train was passing.

The engineer, P. J. Lynch, of the west bound freight, had no knowledge of the possibility of an accident. The first indication was seeing Doherty step from the track and seeing men on the Smiths Falls track act very excitedly. He immediately applied the brake and stopped within 300 yards.

The evidence of Wm. Callaghan, the fireman, was practically the same as that of Lynch.

John Brennan, the foreman of the gang to which Redner belonged, was called at the request of the jury. He told of making preparations to go to work near Fredericksburgh station and going to the station. He said that he had given orders that the gas car was not to be put on the track while the east bound train was passing.

The Jury's Verdict

After a few minutes' deliberation, the jury returned with the following verdict: — "We, the jury, are unanimous in giving the verdict that James Redner came to his death, on March 29th, 1934, on the west bound track of the C. N. R. west of Napanee station, by being struck by a freight train. The death was purely accidental and that no fault be attached to the railroad officials."

Relief Entertainment Splendid Success

The efforts of those responsible for the euchre and dance in aid of relief, on Wednesday evening, April 4th, were well rewarded by the splendid results. The attendance was very large and proceeds are expected to exceed one hundred dollars.

The hall was filled to capacity for the progressive euchre, which was brought to a close when refreshments were served at 11 o'clock.

During the interval between the euchre and the dance, Mayor George E. Tustin announced the prize winners. The ladies' first prize went to Mrs. Hazel Galbraith, the ladies' lone hand to Mrs. Marsh Hudson; men's first went to Edmund Dowling and the men's lone hand to Mr. Marsh Hudson. Miss Frances Fox was the lucky winner of the door prize.

After the tables had been cleared, following refreshments, the orchestra provided music for dancing, and at all times during the balance of the evening the floor was well occupied.

The committee expressed sincere thanks for all the services that were donated and for the prizes which were also given by interested citizens. The material for the delicious lunch was the gift of the ladies of the town, who also came out to prepare it and serve it.

As usual, Mr. Allie Babcock rendered valuable service in carting the tables to and from the hall. Doug. Roe, the president of the Bay of Quinte Hockey League, captained a bunch of his boys who acted as ticket sellers, and made a real job of it.

County Breeder Takes Prizes at Belleville

Belleville, The twenty-fourth annual sale of Holstein-Friesians by the Belleville District Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Club was held here on Wednesday, April 4th, with twenty six head of cattle being offered. The demand was not brisk, and prices lagged, probably due to the fact that the class of cattle offered this year was not as good as in former years.

This district has been depleted of real fine stock by United States buyers, who have been active in the Belleville and Prince Edward district for some time. The highest price paid was $100, which was not the price of a good grade a few years ago.

In the morning a bull contest was held by the Canadian Branch of the Holstein-Friesian Society and a male not named, owned by Earl Burnside of Madoc, was first; Sir Pranoy Pontiac View, owned by A. Parks & Sons, Napanee, fifth.

All these animals were yearlings or slightly under a year and bred in the purple, but the buyers were not looking for better sires at the afternoon sale. There was a large attendance from all parts of the district.

Former Yarker Doctor Passed Away At Smiths Falls

Smiths Falls — Dr. James Milton Montgomery, one of this district's most popular young physicians, died very suddenly at the home of his father, J. P. Montgomery, 15 Electric Street, here, on Wednesday, April 4th, and news of his passing comes as a shock to numerous friends and relatives in Smiths Falls and vicinity.

The late Dr. Montgomery was in his thirty-third year, and was born in Smiths Falls, receiving his education in local schools and graduating from Queen's University in 1924, after establishing a splendid record. For some time he occupied a position in Utica State Hospital, later practising in Yarker and Powassan.

About five years ago he returned to this district and opened practice in Smiths Falls, which continued until recently, when he moved to Smiths Falls, making his home with his parents here. In religion he was a member of the Church of England.

Monday, April 3rd being a legal holiday, the regular session of the Town Council was held on Tuesday evening at the Council chamber. All members except Deputy Reeve Wilson and Councillor Masters, were present.

After the reading of the minutes the Clerk read the communications. The first was from B. S. Vanaldine, containing a claim for $90.00 for snow shovelling and other services. The letter was referred to the Town Solicitor to be reported on.

A letter from J. A. Ellis, the chief relief officer for Ontario, containing information concerning changes in relief medical fees, was ordered filed.

A letter was received from Hon. J. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works, acknowledging the return of a plan of the river, with positions marked where dredging was especially necessary. The letter advised the matter had been referred to the engineering department and that estimates of the cost would be forwarded in the form at a later date.

Committee Reports

In the absence of Deputy Reeve Wilson, Councillor Morden read the statement of receipts and expenditures for 1934, to date. The statement was ordered received and field.

On motion, a number was ordered given to the Treasurer for accounts amounting to $9,300 paid by him since last meeting. Advances up to $10,000 were ordered made to the Board of Education.

Councillor Morden's report of the Street Committee showed expenditure for wages, since last meeting, of $26.70.

In order to overcome the flooding of a cellar on the Newburgh Road at Vine's Corners, the committee had decided to put tile from the north side of the street, if a satisfactory arrangement could be made with Mr. Fred. Moore.

The Streets Committee requested the Council to take steps to prevent the running of trucks on Sunday next. The committee also requested that suitable refuse be dumped in the pit near the cemetery, and that the police ascertain who dumped the old car at the foot of East Street and have it removed.

Frank Babcock having resigned as street sprinkler, applications will be received for the position.

Reeve Hughson gave the police report for the month. No complaints had been received and investigated, 16 doors and 4 pumps were found unlocked and 3 warnings were given: 4 arrests were made; 24 summons served and 352 transients were given protection.

Councillor Exley gave the report of the Social Welfare Committee. (Report printed last week.)

Councillor Morden reported that he had had communications with the company, and the Council decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Industrial Committee.

It was moved by Reeve Hughson, seconded by Councillor Luffman and carried, that the clerk prepare a by-law to declare Centre St. southerly from Dundas Street, a through street and that stop signs be placed at the Mill Street intersections.

Auto License Fees Stolen in Kingston

Kingston — Breaking the small glass in the door and reaching in to turn the spring lock, robbers made off with at least $1,000 from the Kingston office of the issuer of motor licenses, Ross Graham. The amount, he said, would not be more than $1,200 at the most. According to Graham and Provincial Police officers, the issuer was out to lunch from 12:20 to 12:50, and during the space of twenty-five minutes the thieves obtained the money from an unlocked drawer in Graham's desk. There is a safe in the office, but Graham, knowing he would be out for only a short while, didn't bother locking the receipts in the safe. Graham said his staff of two girl assistants were out to lunch at the same time.

Provincial Police declined to comment on the case other than to reveal the story told by Graham, whose office is on the third floor of an office building. It was pointed out that as high as $5,000 has been received daily for motor license plates.

Regular Meeting Of U. E. L. Chapter I. O. D. E.

The usual monthly meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I. O. D. E. was held on Monday afternoon, April 9th, in the officers' mess at the armouries, with the regent, Mrs. D. R. Hall, in the chair.

Following the routine business, Mrs. Powell read a brochure, written by Lady George Drew, entitled "Why should Canadians be interested in World Peace." She also made an appeal for the "Vimy Day."

One new member was proposed and one made her affirmation.

As it was thought inadvisable to send a delegate to the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, to be held in Hamilton, the meeting decided to ask Mrs. F. E. Hooper of the Peter Johnson Chapter, Peterborough, to represent them on this occasion.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Small Quantity of Maple Syrup Offered

So far this season maple syrup has been a scarce commodity on the local market. On Saturday there were two producers selling on the market, but the quantity was not large. The price asked was $2.00 per gallon.

Several of the large producers in this district have said they would not be able to supply regular customers at the present rate of flow of sap. The weather evidently is too cold and there is not sufficient sunshine, so far this season.

RUSSIA THROWS A PARTY

All Washington is excited; Russia is giving a party. The old embassy building is being rapidly put into shape for the great event. Rugs are at the cleaners, decorators are busy with varnish and paint, and a whole army of workers are scrubbing the woodwork. The Bad Boy of the World is going to entertain all the Good little boys on the street, and he's going to do it up right! Isn't it funny how popular bad boys may become when they give a party? Like all such events, there is a great scramble for invitations.

It's sixteen years since Russia gave a party in Washington—during all that time she has been kept out of respectable society by the rules of international etiquette. Anyway, she has been almost too busy for parties, even if she had been permitted to give them. She has been building up a new nation, a new United States of Soviet Republics. A hundred and fifty million people have been schooled in a new way of looking at life. They have been fired with an enthusiasm for a new sort of civilization. There are many features of this with which no one brought up in a Christian country, can very well agree. It is all a great experiment. No matter what the ultimate success of that experiment may be, it is already clear to unbiased observers that it has succeeded very greatly in affecting the thinking of the whole world. The change has been gradual and remarkable. First there was open hostility, then vilification and finally, a mild sort of toleration.

And now Russia is going to give a party. Canada's representative is going to attend. In spite of all the snubs we have given Russia, Canada received an invitation and will accept.

That's as it should be. Perhaps, after this, all will be well between us. There is nothing which promotes such good fellowship and understanding as a nice little social evening, together. Anyway, if you accept an invitation one day it wouldn't be very courteous to say nasty things about your host the next day. So, for a while at least, the political pastime of pulling the Bolshevik's whiskers will have a much needed rest.

"MORE WAYS OF KILLING A CAT"

The old proverb simply means that there is always some way of circumventing an embarrassing situation. And since proverbs are the quintessence of practical experience, they are usually right. Many a wise soldier knows that when he fails on a frontal attack, he may succeed by a flanking movement. The politician knows it well. For many, politics is a game in which the strategy of one group is pitted against that of another. Ecclesiastics know it, too, for next to the politicians there are certain types of ecclesiastical leaders who are past-masters in the art of circumvention.

These thoughts are prompted by the action of one of the Montreal theological colleges. Dr. King Gordon is a son of "Ralph Connor" and like his illustrious father, studied for the ministry. He went to Union Theological College in New York for post-graduate work. While there he came under the influence of Dr. Fosdick, Harry F. Ward, Rheinhold Neibhur and other leaders in modern social thinking. He returned to Canada with a burning sense of the injustices of modern economic conditions and a prophetic enthusiasm to give his life to righting them. His ability was soon recognized and he was called to the chair of social ethics, in Montreal.

But Dr. Gordon was a young man. He did not know the ways of the world. He did not know that theological colleges are dependent for their support, on men in positions of wealth and power, who were deeply enmeshed in the very system he attacked. He made the serious mistake of teaching young men the need of applying religion to human relationships. Of course, that would never do—not in Montreal.

Theological colleges, like churches, must preach the real Old Gospel. So the outflanking movement began. On the plea of saving money for the college, Dr. Gordon was dismissed, last year. But the students who have no financial responsibility for running a college, were exhilirated with the new breeze which swept the old halls with Gordon lectures. They wanted more. They got together and collected enough money to pay Gordon's salary for a year.

But foiled on one flank, the attack was shifted to the other. Now comes word that in the name of economy — and it is wonderful what an appeal that has, these days — the college will abolish the chair of social ethics, hereafter. Doubtless, they will continue to drill the budding ministers in languages which are as dead as the dodo and in a theology which is as far removed from modern life as a Vandyke beard.

AS OTHERS SEE US

Sir Stafford Cripps, the Attorney-General of the second Labor Government, is visiting Canada and, in an interview, he is reported as having said: "I am not certain that your Premier Bennett and Hon. Mr. Stevens are not more revolutionary than any of us." By us, he meant as the context makes clear, either the United States or Great Britain.

For a responsible Socialist Leader to say that our Conservative Prime Minister is more radical than either the leaders of the Labor Party in Britain, or Roosevelt in the United States, shows what certain groups, outside Canada, think of our administration.

We, who are close up, are not always aware of the progressive and courageous nature of the work which Mr. Bennett and those associated with him, have accomplished. The institution of a central bank, designed to control credit and exchange, is a radical break with the banking tradition of this country. It was necessary that it took courage for a prime minister to tackle the problem and see it through.

But what Sir Stafford had, particularly, in mind, was the Stevens investigation into mass buying and the proposal for a marketing board, both revolutionary, in that they represent a complete new policy on the part of the Dominion Government. We shall not know the full significance of the investigation into mass buying until all the evidence is in and the report made. But that the Government should run the risk involved in such a procedure, is evidence of the finest sort of courage and statesmanship.

Perhaps the most far-reaching of all the proposals of the Government, however, is that for the establishment of the marketing board. Full details of this have not yet been made public. But the purpose is to set up a Board, in Ottawa, which shall have complete power to control natural products for export. It will have power to store goods when to sell would disrupt the market, and powers to sell when there is an evident need for the goods. The purpose of the Government is to facilitate the orderly flow of export products through free channels of trade and commerce.

The condition to which our agriculturalist have been plunged by uncontrolled and unscientific methods of export marketing, necessitated some drastic action as that proposed. How it will work out will depend, to a large extent on the care and foresight of the personnel of the new board. This is planned economy of a sort which bids fair to be of inestimable value to the farming communities of Canada.

Our country is fortunate in having a Prime Minister with courage to break with old traditions in marketing and credit. Probably that is what Sir Stafford Cripps had in mind when he said that "your Premier Bennett and Hon. Mr. Stevens are more revolutionary than any of us."

"THE CAMPBELLS ARE COMING"

This great, old Scottish tune has thrilled the hearts of successive generations of Scotsmen. Its challenging martial air has stirred the Celtic blood and sent it coursing through the veins of Scots in every corner of the world, wherever they have gathered. It is not to be wondered, therefore, that it was played last week at one of the most unusual processions ever staged in the Land of the Heather. The Campbells had assembled from all parts to subsidize the building of the new giant Cunarder. Work on this gigantic ocean liner, the largest in the world, was stopped for lack of funds, over a year ago, when nearly 7,000 men were thrown out of work, wages ceased, expenditures stopped, families suffered. But the Government decided to complete the job abandoned by private interests and the men are going back to work.

Whistles blew, bells rang, flags waved, while five hundred men lined up in military formation and marched, four abreast, to the ship yards—rivet heaters, blacksmiths, boilermakers, riveters, holders-on, layers-out and weldors—a mighty army, in holiday mood, going back to work, and at their head a famous band playing "The Campbells are Coming." There was jubilation all over Scotland when the work was resumed, but most of all there was rejoicing among those hardy sons of toil who, once again, were given the opportunity of making a living.

But why the band? Why all the excitement about the new Cunard Scotch ? To be sure, there was a sentimental interest in the great liner. For, when completed it will outstrip all competitors and retrieve, for Britain, the place on the high seas wrested from her of late by rival nations. But that's not enough to account for the spontaneous march to the dock yards. No ? The reason, really is—the men are going back to work. There is something tragically pathetic about the whole picture. Only those who have gone through months and years of enforced idleness, with the heart-breaking effect on nerves and temper, can understand the emotional upsurge that comes with the assurance of steady work and regular wages. The strain is gone, the tension relaxed, and fear removed.

Tens of thousands of people in this and other lands, would feel exactly like the Clydesiders had they the same promise of steady employment. The opportunity to work, to earn one's living, to provide, by one's own labor, the necessities of life for oneself and family, is the modest ambition of millions, who for no fault of their own are on relief.

"The Campbells are Coming" — pibrock of many memories — will have an added and deeper significance from now on. Many a harrowed family will never again hear its jaunty air without envisaging that long line of happy men going back to work.

TOMMY TUCKER

A business man gained some notoriety the other day by stopping an express train and boarding it, regardless of the fine, in order to capture a large contract. Like father, like son; but the younger generation show a prettier talent for invention. Three boys held up the Birmingham-Bristol express in order to sing to the passengers and gather the pennies that should come to reward their enterprise. Their ruse failed; entertainment was not a new one, for they specialised on a spot by a junction where the local trains frequently stopped. When the old or the childish trebles would pick up "Once in roal David's City" or "In the bleak midwinter," and respond-ing to this unexpected glee small change would come spinning out of the grateful windows. But branch trains are poor game, and it is no wonder that as attempts was made on the sixpences of expresses. By ingeniously tying up the signal cables round and keeping the light at red, the choir was able to go through their repertoire before a corridor train. Unfortunately the scheme was infectious from one particular, that they were unable to untie the cables at the close of the programme, and the train got, so to speak, remained up at the end. to the embarrassment of the performers. As to the takings, they were later dissipated in the fines imposed by the Bristol Juvenile Court. In using the machinery of order for disorderly purposes the young can give many points to their elders, but even the most lenient Court could not look lightly upon such misguided ingenuity.

Editorial Comment

THE NATIONAL RAILWAYS

President Fullerton declares in no equivocal terms that, in agreement with his colleagues of the Board of Directors, he will oppose any action tending to unification of the Canadian railways to the advantage of the Canadian Pacific. The views of Mr. Fullerton and his colleagues on this subject were already known. It is none the less satisfying to have this renewed assurance that the permanent interests of the Canadian people will not be sacrificed for a poor pretext of transitory economy. We say a poor pretext, for the matter of fact we do not see how the absorption of the C. N. R. by the C. P. R. would create a situation more favourable to important economies, than that which by virtue of the 1933 law, provides for the necessary coordination of the railways instead of unification. — Le Canada, Montreal.

THE DOMINIONS AND THE BRITISH MARKET

This country is not in a position to control Dominion imports before next June. The whole agricultural position is already under review by the Dominion Governments. There is thus a prospect of a comprehensive settlement by mutual consent. The situation at the moment, however, is thoroughly unsatisfactory. At a season when prices are expected to rise they have tended to fall, and farmers are losing as much as £9 a beast. The restrictions on Canadian and Irish imports have proved insufficient. Chilled and frozen meats from the Australasian Dominions arrived in record quantities last month. . . . It will be lamentable if, owing to the pressure of the emergency, this country makes drastic use of the freedom of action which she will enjoy next June. Imports can then be cut off; prices can then be forced up; but it is not to avoid such developments as this that the Ottawa Conference was held. Since then events have moved faster than discussions, and it may be that conditions require some swifter machinery of action than that provided by consultations between Governments. But in the end it is by the fairly normal correlation, which orderly marketing implies, and can establish, that the requirements of both consumer and producer can be met.—London Daily Telegraph.

EQUALS OF MEN

There is no sex in genius. The list of great women must forever end the superstition that women are not the equals of men in genius and power, or cannot excel wherever men can excel. It includes five Americans, one Englishwoman, one Frenchwoman, one Norwegian, one Russian and one Indian, and is, as follows: Jane Adams— By universal consent the greatest among modern women—lover of humanity and a social statesman of sanity, saintliness and serene idealism.

Annie Besant— Greatest of women orators— a flaming spirit ever questing with unquenchable ardor after truth—a leader of cultitudes in whom at last East and West have met.

Catherine Breshkovsky— "Grandmother of the Russian Revolution," most heroic of all living martyrs for manhood.

Mme. Curie—Immortal discoverer of radium—greatest woman scientist of all time.

Emma Goldman— A social idealist of brilliant intellect and sacrificial courage.

Helen Keller—Most pitifully handicapped and most perfectly attuned servant of women—her life the proudest personal achievement of modern times.

Edna St. Vincent Millay—The chief glory of contemporary American literature—she called "the greatest woman poet since Sappho."

Mme. Pandit—Greatest among Indian women—leader with Gandhi of the Indian Nationalist cause — woman poet, statesman.

Margaret Sanger—Indomitable advocate of birth control, the greatest crusade ever for the emancipation of women.

Sigrid Undset—Author of "Khristin Lavransdatter"—winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature—supreme historical romancer of our time.

My list includes women great in mind as well as heart. Mme. Curie, for example, ranks any scientist of her day. Sigrid Undset is first among European novelists, and Miss Millay second to no poet writing in any language. Mrs. Besant is supreme among orators today. I would match Jane Adams against any statesman of whom I know. Helen Keller is a miracle of incomprehensible wonder. And so it goes !—Dr. John Haynes Holmes.

THE ARMFUL

For every parcel I stoop down to
I loose some other off my arms and knees,
And the whole pile is slipping, bottles
buns,
Extremes too hard to comprehend at once
Yet nothing I should care to leave behind.
With all I have to hold with, hand and mind
And heart, if need be, I will do my best
To keep their building balanced at my breast.
I crouch down to prevent them as they fall;
Then sit down in the middle of them
all.
I had a drop the armful in the road
And try to stack them in a better load.

A STORY OF YPRES

The restored Cathedral of St. Martin was dedicated at Ypres. Ypres is to Britain what Verdun is to France—a place where they did not pass. Every inch of ground hides a tragedy. Within two miles there are thirty military cemeteries.

But Ypres was not Ypres to the British Tommy. It was "Wipers." No one could tell him differently not even Queen Mary.

During a wartime visit to a military hospital, the Queen asked one of the patients where he was fighting when he was wounded.

"At Wipera," he said.

"Ypres," said the Queen.

"Warsty pike, Wipers."

"Ypres," said the Queen.

"I hopes I've seen the last of Wipers."

"Ypres," said the Queen.

They found the unlucky man that the Queen had visited the hospital. "Just my blinkin' luck ! The Queen's here and you wipers to me. I'll never stop with 'icoups."—N. Y. Times.

ACCORDING TO PLAN

(An apparatus for producing portrait caricatures by means of deliberately distorted photographs, has just been exhibited before the Royal Photographic Society.)

When photographic fever
Struck housekeeping ago,
The tools oft turned deceiver,
As ancient records show.
For limbs grew pencil-slender,
Foreshortened or enlarged;
Strange libels, long derided,
Were lifelike when discharged.

The sitters, then returning
The prints with some ill-will,
Made rude remarks concerning
The operator's skill.
Feet out of all proportion,
Or face like a blob—
They said that such distortion
Implied a botched-up job.

But now that raw beginners
Are masters, of their tool,
And sculpts in squares and cubes,
So photographic masters
Produce what has been classed
As evident disasters
By bunglers of the past.

So ponder well the moral Apparent in this change,
And do not try to quarrel
With its extensive range;
New standards now are sported,
And be it understood
All art is now distorted
Or else it is no good.

STATUS QUO

A darky preacher was addressing his congregation on the subject of making the most of one's opportunity life. After an elaborate historical analysis of those mad preachers, he said; "And now, brethren, we is goin' to discuss de status quo." This was pretty much the response of the congregation who rose to interrupt: "Excuse me, Brother Smith, but would you please explain dat ovah man." To keep the mastery of your own life in your own hands is the secret of happiness.

The driver of a motor-car, if he be a wise man, will occasionally try his brakes in order to see that they are in full use should the need arise; and the knowledge that they are available for full use gives him confidence. A well-known writer has told us that he forces himself to write a certain number of words each day in order to keep himself in trim, with a view to the moment when the real inspiration shall come. And although an athlete will go into special training for a special occasion, he will, even while the great event is still far off, exercise himself less strenuously and at odd times in order to keep himself on the threshold (as it were) of his form.

We need not always be exercising mastery; indeed I think the lighter we keep our hold on life the better; but the mastery should always be there ready on call.— Phillemon, in From My Window.

Headline: 'Specialists Attend Eye and Ear Dinner." Speaking of menus and so on.—Times Picayune.

SELF - MASTERY

I imagine that we all wish to enjoy our bodies and the world to which they give us access; and I am sure that we were meant to. They are among the best of the good things of life. But, we cannot enjoy them if we have not control over them; and it has been truly said that "nothing of evil if a man have the mastery over it, and nothing is good if a man have mastery over man." To keep the mastery of your own life by status quo?" "Why, suttingly, suttingly," returned the preacher obligingly: "Status quo am latin for de mess we is in !"

DIDN'T MISS IT VERY MUCH

The story is told by a well-known American social worker of an old friend of his near his summer home in Maine, who for years had regularly supplied his summer vegetables. Another summer came and old John did not turn up, so his customer went around to see what was the matter. He found John rocking peacefully in the sun on the back porch and was informed that he had suffered a stroke. "Are you suffering very much ?" he asked the old man. "Oh," replied John;" "I don't feel so very much. I'm still able to enjoy my victuals, and I like rocking here in the sun. They tell me I have lost my mind, but I don't miss it very much.

O woman, you are not merely the handiwork of God, but also of man; these are ever endowing you with beauty from their own hearts . . . You are one-half woman and one-half dream.—Rabindrath Tagore.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 15TH, 1934

"JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS"

When Peter raised the question concerning Jesus' attitude to forgiveness, he asked Him whether or not he should forgive a brother seven times The rabbis had laid down the rule that a person should forgive three times. Peter naturally thought that Jesus would demand some larger measure of forgiveness and suggested seven times. The answer is that forgiveness is to be without reserve. Some have seen in this a reference to the song of Lamech in Gen. 4: 24, where it is implied that the law of natural man is unlimited revenge. But in the Christian the impulse to revenge should be replaced by a different impulse—one of unlimited forgiveness.

The general statement is followed by the parable of the unjust steward which is peculiar to Matthew. The story tells of a King to whom was owed three or four million dollars. The debtor pleads for another chance and the debt is forgiven. Shortly after this, the man whose large debt had been forgiven met another who owed him a small sum. But, in spite of ardent entreaties, he refuses to forgive the debt and has the man cast in prison. The sequel is that the King hearing of the action of the unforgiving debtor, has him apprehended and held until the debt is discharged.

The true meaning is two-fold. (1) Men ought to forgive in imitation of God as He shall be forgiven by God as we forgive one another. The main thought of the parable is the same as that contained in the Lord's Prayer: "Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors." This thought recurs in various forms in the teaching of Jesus—that is— God's mercy to us ought to make us merciful, and if we are not merciful we ought not to expect mercy.

Nearly every home in the congregation was represented in the audience and we are all agreed upon that it was a splendid program. With sigh varied numbers, it is difficult to say which was the best, however, "The Sodier Boy" was particularly well rendered.

Orthopedic Specialist Dr. G. S. Wright, At Rotary

Crippled Children Week was observed in Napanee by the Rotary Club, on Tuesday. Dr. G. Stewart Wright, orthopedic specialist from Toronto, addressed the club. Dr. Wright is the doctor to whom the Napanee Club has sent crippled children during the past few years, for diagnosis and advice. To meet him the local organization had invited the town doctors, several members of the County Council and other social workers.

Dr. Wright spoke in glowing terms of the work done by the Napanee Club, which in proportion to its size far outdistanced any club in Ontario in taking care of the cripples. He showed a number of slides, by which he demonstrated the type of work done and the cures effected.

Following that, the speaker gave an instructive discourse in the ordering of health habits on the part of adults. He held the rapt attention of all as he demonstrated scientifically the need for proper diet and exercise.

Mr. Mark Graham, chairman of the Crippled Children's Committee, who presided, expressed the appreciation of all present as the meeting adjourned.

37 lbs. OF FAT GONE

NO WONDER SHE LOOKS YOUNGER !

"How much younger you are looking !" What a pleasure to hear that compliment from your friends' lips—as this woman did.

"Since I started taking Kruschen Salts," she writes, "I have reduced myself by 37 lbs. I am still going down and hope soon to be normal weight. My health has greatly improved. My friends see such a difference in me now. I look younger and I have such a fresh look always about my face which I never used to have. I take my usual food, but my first drink in the morning is my little dose of Kruschen Salts, which I will never be without."—(Mrs.) K.

The six salts in Kruschen keep the organs of elimination in perfect trim and so ensure a regular, gentle and natural clearance of all fat-forming food refuse.

The Future of The Export Trade In Canadian Farm Products

BY DENIS HARVEY
Second Essay
In Royal Bank $1000 Prize

It is generally conceded that the export trade is vital to Canadian agriculture. The sparsely populated areas of the Dominion, rich in natural resources, combined with a young and growing country's need for sources of international credit have tended to develop our organization of agriculture to supply the deficiency of farm products common to the more densely populated industrial countries of the world and, particularly, of Europe. These natural resources, however, to a certain degree restrict production to cereal grains, but the extensive market which during the war and post-war period called for expansion of grain growing, is now narrowing. Of recent years various disturbing elements have tended to cause a collapse of International trade. A change is apparent in the nature of the demand which the Canadian farmer must supply. For grain, demand is declining but it has been, in certain quarters, increasing for other kinds of foods, the supplying of which involves the use of cereal grains as raw materials. The problem is how to convert a farm product, specialized by virtue of natural conditions, into the diversified products now acceptable on the market. The exploration of the possibilities of thus disposing of cereals in the markets now available, forms the main subject of this essay, in order that ultimately the expansion rather than the contraction of cereal growing may be made possible.

The problem evolves from variations that affect the present and future nature of the demand for agricultural produce in the markets which it is intended to serve. To attack the problem, it is necessary to study the changes in the nature of the demand. Due to the peculiarities of the North Temperate Zone climate of this Dominion and the richness of the agricultural resources there is produced a quality of wheat, a quality of meat, a quality of livestock for which a certain market will undoubtedly persist, in spite of tariff barriers, but the drastic effects of economic nationalism in the post-war era has placed prohibitive restrictions on trade in many of the markets which the Canadian farmer has been used to serving.

European Markets Important

The European markets are by far the most important as far as this country is concerned and there, of recent years, national policies framed on political necessities appear to have been framed with the protection of the agricultural industry in conditions of instability and general unrest, the maintenance of as large a population as possible on the land is considered essential for national security, hence the pressure of supplies at low prices on the import market has been regarded in the light of a national emergency and in all the foreign countries of importance to the Canadian exporter, national control of imports has been instituted. The campaign for national self-sufficiency in agriculture evident in France, has taken on positive forms in Germany and Italy.

In the latter country the results of practices and a declining standard of living as evidenced by a shortage of meat, indicate that considerable reductions in import requirements are likely to be continuous. The government in Germany appears likely to stimulate the achievement of a similar purpose. These countries, in past years, have been considerable consumers of imported foods.

With the Netherlands, with Belgium and with Denmark, a different agricultural organization had been developed with the object of supplying the large food importing countries of Europe with produce from more intensive cultivation. This policy in the matter of dense population on naturally limited agricultural areas, causing competition for land and consequently high land values which force intensive cultural methods on the farmer. The practice has been to import feed stuffs as the raw products and to "manufacture" from the livestock industry, from dairying, and from market gardening. The growth of nationalism and the pressure of supplies of food at low prices have forced the same development of nation self-sufficiency here also.

Wheat Production Expanded

The large agricultural food-supplying areas of the world outside of Europe, as regards to war-time demand and expanded production, and continue to do so in the post-war years. Particularly has this been true in the case of wheat. At the completion of the great conflict and that followed the war, the agricultural areas of Europe resumed production and in some cases even expanded. The result was the pressure of existing surplus stocks on a competitive market, coupled with the attempt to re-establish favourable trade balances on the part of European countries, caused a decrease in the exchange value of farm products, expressed as a fall in price levels, and the apparent necessity for protection of domestic agriculture, if it was to survive, in the food importing countries of Europe. Hence the rise of tariffs and trade restrictions, and the general fall in demand for and produce in the export trade for foodstuffs marketed in the world.

Another market completely lost to been also the United States. Those Canada is the United States. Those two countries, lying side by side across the continent, which across a continent, have with the result agricultural areas, so that Canada that there is little that Canada produces that cannot be produced efficiently produced across the border. The United States has been at the same time an exporter of other form of livestock activity due to the small water requirements of the birds. The Dominion Poultry Husbandman asserts that there is no country in the world where better eggs or poultry can be produced more cheaply than upon the farms of the three Prairie Provinces or where the price of the raw material can be so increased through the finished of all kinds of grain and their products are in strong demand on the British market which is, at present, supplied largely by foreign non-empire countries. In 1931, it was calculated that Canadian poultry consumed 34,000,000 bushels of wheat, 21,000,000 bushels of barley, 17,000,000 bushels of oats and 17,000,000 bushels of other grains. It would take then 4,000,000 acres on the 1932 average yield to produce grain marketed through the poultry route and over 2,000,000 acres of that for wheat alone, not including the area necessitated as summer fallow for preparation for wheat. Mr. F. C. Elford calculated the value of grain, at present prices marketed as eggs to be $1.43 per cwt., as poultry meat at average range quality to be $1.5o per cwt., as poultry meat of finished quality to be $3.06 per cwt., and as turkey $2.25 per cwt. The Empire Marketing Board statistics show steadily increasing imports of eggs and poultry which in 1931 stood at 25,920,000 great hundreds for eggs and at 667,000 cwt. for poultry meat. On the 1927-31 average, the supplies of eggs and poultry meat Canada were 0.2 per cent and 0.15 per cent respectively. In both cases the largest proportion was supplied by non-empire countries.

Canada's trade with Great Britain in live cattle is worth more in value of the exports than the trade in beef. There are, however, limits imposed on the expansion of this industry in the Canadian West. The successful development of the live-stock industry depends on grass and water. The large high-quality cereal producing areas lack these fundamentals, and in regions where crop failure is not infrequent this type of enterprise is not likely to prove very remunerative. There are areas, clear of the dry belt, in the West, where abundance of feed can be relied upon for pasture, hay and forage, where the fundamentals are right and the hazards at a minimum. The utilization of more grains for cattle feeding would contribute substantially towards the improvement of the quality of the cattle offered on the market, and it requires 1,500 lbs. of grain to convert a feeder to a properly finished animal. On the basis of the year's livestock marketings, if all were properly finished, it would require 200,000,000 bushels of grain. The improvement of the quality of the product at the declining prices of feed grain might certainly be considered advisable in the face of the competition on the market with meat produce from Australia, New Zealand and Argentina.

Demand for Bacon and Cheese

Dairying and swine production are in a measure, complementary enterprises under Canadian conditions. Both bacon and cheese are in strong demand on the British market and large supplies of these commodities reach the market from foreign sources, in competition with which Canadian produce is at a disadvantage. As far as the export market for dairying is concerned cheese production is perhaps best suited to the seasonal conditions of this country. It is true that great strides are yet to be made in the production of butter fat yield per cow, to decrease the costs of production per lb. of high yield, fed at the rate of 7 lbs. of grain per pound of butter fat given, are hardly economical of cereals. The use of the by-products of cheese and butter manufacturing for feeding increasing efficiency of farm practice, but quality places definite limits on the expansion of this type of enterprise. To supply the requirements of the domestic pork market and at the same time to fill the British bacon quota a percentage of 32 1/3 per cent select graded hogs would be required, whereas only 14½ per cent are obtained. Reports of the trade indicate that underfinishing is the weakness in market when the 50c to $1.00 per cwt. premium would pay for the extra feed required. Swine are efficient users of grains at 363.7 lbs. per 100 lbs. gain, and it would require 14 per cent of the annual export of grain to feed the whole 2,043,000 hogs required to make up the British bacon quota.

The particular attention paid to cereal production for the export trade in the past, somewhat handicapped the livestock industry, for instance of this is to be found in the difference of transportation rates for exported and for domestically consumed grains. Certainly those areas suited to the production of grasses, of forage crops and coarse grains will have their position improved by livestock enterprise. The advisability in considerations of the demand is undeniable. What is called for, moreover, is not any fundamental reorientation of production methods, for Canada is already on the British market to some extent with eggs and poultry, with bacon, with cheese and preserved milk, with live cattle and beef, just as with fruit, vegetables and tobacco. There is opportunity for expansion of production with all of these and since the institution of the imperial preference in 1932 these gains are already recorded in catering to British demand, developing the livestock industries, the particularly responsive, they will serve eventually to absorb the surplus cereal production.

Some of the lines of activity recommended are more generally applicable than others. The point is that each of these forms of agricultural enterprise calls for the concentration on those cereal grains that are not required on the export market, to produce types of foods for which the export market will take and shows every indication of requiring in the future. By greater diversification of farm practice in those areas best suited to it, it is possible to expand the demand for cereals and to restore the profitability of cereal grain production for which the Canadian West is so well adapted.

Growing Head Lettuce

Lettuce is the most common of the salad vegetable crops, being grown in practically every garden. There are two general types, head lettuce and leaf lettuce, of which leaf lettuce is by far the more common. The reason for this popularity is the ease with which it is grown. Head lettuce is a more difficult crop to grow, although it has been demonstrated that satisfactory crops can be produced in this district, providing certain precautions are taken.

First of all, it must be borne in mind that lettuce is a cool season crop, thriving best under the cool growing conditions of spring and fall. It will not head properly during hot weather, and often goes to seed under unfavourable conditions. Tenderness and flavour are dependent upon uninterrupted growth. These facts result in the common practice of growing two crops of head lettuce per year, a spring crop and a fall crop.

For the spring crop, the seed should be sown under glass eight weeks before the date for field setting, which will vary according to the locality. At the Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N. B., seed is sown about the middle of March, transplanted when the first true leaves appear to a distance of two by two inches, hardened off early in May, and set out in the field about the middle of May. This crop will make the bulk of its growth before the extremely hot, dry weather of mid-summer sets in.

For the fall crop, seed sown in July will give a marketable crop from late September until freeze-up. This seed may be sown in the open, if favourable growing conditions can be maintained. Since there is danger of hot, dry weather at this period, frames commonly used, as control of moisture conditions is thus within the power of the grower.

The distance between rows and plants in the field varies according to conditions. If land is at a premium, rows may be spaced 15 inches apart with plants 10 to 12 inches apart in the row.

Cultivation should be thorough and frequent enough to maintain a surface mulch. If there are no weeds present, and the soil is not crusted, nothing can be gained by cultivation. In fact, considerable damage may be done, as a lettuce plant has a small root system with many roots near the surface of the soil, and even with shallow cultivation, many of these may be disturbed. Two side dressings of nitrate of soda, at an interval of approximately two weeks, and at the rate of one pound per 300 square feet, will help to maintain a satisfactory growth.

Bovril Has Faith In Advertising

At the Thirty-seventh Annual General Meeting of Bovril, Limited, held recently at River Plate House, Finsbury Circus, London, E.C., Lord Luke, K.B.E. (Chairman and Managing director), said :

"We were pleased to be able to advise you that Bovril sales for 1933 exceeded those for 1932, and we still unhesitatingly believe in large-scale advertising, and I think you will agree with us that Bovril advertising is both persistent and effective.

"At the same time you will realize how important it is to increase the sale, as we have in fact done, since a larger turnover makes all the difference to the carrying of overhead charges, as well as extending the use and benefits of Bovril.

"The question of being crowded round by other advertisements is the greatest problem of advertising today. You must have something striking to meet the purchase of space will not lead you to a business victory. You must not only have attention-getting and efficient—but skill and imagination in the reception of new ideas from them or from members of the public is also indispensable.

"Our advertising is spread over a very large number of different media, such as newspapers, magazines, outdoor advertising and dealer displays for the stores; and naturally these various items have to be considered carefully from time to time with a view of getting the utmost value out of each form of advertising.

"Wherever one goes one hears Bovril slogans quoted—in fact one may safely say that with the general public Bovril advertising is the best known of all."

DOES LEGUME INOCULATION PAY?

The practice of inoculating the seed of legume crops with nitrogen-gathering bacteria was first introduced in Canada over almost thirty years ago, when early studies at the Ontario Agricultural College in 1905 demonstrated that favourable results could be obtained by treating seed at the time of sowing with "pure cultures" of bacteria adapted to the crop in question. Since then much experience has been gained concerning the factors affecting the success of inoculation under practical conditions until now it is regarded as a distinct aid to good farming practice. In spite of this there are localities in many areas where treatment of legumes would have meant improvement to crop and soil.

For more than ten years the Division of Bacteriology of the Dominion Experimental Farms has been cooperating with farmers to study the success of inoculation as carried out by them under practical conditions. Out of 1,800 field trials reported, 78 per cent indicated a benefit, while in those cases where the crop was grown for the first time 81 per cent were favourable to legume crops where no benefit was reported, both treated and untreated crops grew well, pointing to the presence of the proper bacteria in the soil.

It should be remembered that inoculation will not factor in legume production, and that the benefit will be most apparent when favourable conditions are favorable. Adverse climatic and soil conditions affect bacteria as well as the crop, so that drought, poor drainage, soil sourness, etc., cannot be remedied by treating the seed.

Legume inoculation is distinctly worth while, is cheap and never harms a crop, but it should be remembered that the better the seed, the soil and cultural conditions, the better will be the chance for the useful bacteria to perform their work.

The trouble with most of us is that our necessities are too luxurious and our luxuries are too necessary. — Chicago Journal of Commerce.

AN EMPIRE FOUNDED ON POTATOES

Hard times after the Napoleonic wars finally brought the potato into general use in Europe, but it was in Germany, however, that the potato played its most important part. Owing to the foresight of Frederick the Great, the sandy plains of East Prussia were planted with potatoes and their culture and extension enforced by all the vigour of judicial enactment. Prussia, therefore, was founded upon the potato in a way no other country has been, that is, by force of law, despite the protests of those who still believed in the old legend of the potato's powers as an inciter to deeds of passion. The Prussian famine of 1806-7 caused the universal adoption of the potato in Germany and in 1820 there were more acres planted with potatoes than sown to the popular crop of rye. Thus, the potato changed the course of history by making uninhabitable wastes of northern Prussia habitable, and from this has flowed a train of events of which the troubled state of Europe is the result.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Starting Chicks

Supply water with chill taken off in suitable vessels, charcoal, shell and grit or river sand. Feed the youngsters immediately on their entry to brooding quarters. A good starting mash consists of: middlings, ground yellow corn, ground oat groats, each one part; shorts, alfalfa leaf meal and animal feed mixture, each ¼ part; bone meal 2 per cent; cod liver oil 1 to 2 per cent.; and salt ½ per cent.

Couch Grass Eradication

After harvest cultivation is one of the most effective methods of controlling couch grass. This method consists of plowing the fallow ground immediately after the first cut of hay has been harvested, thoroughly working the land during the remainder of the season and replowing in the late fall. In the following spring this treatment must be followed by an intertilled crop of a smother crop such as buckwheat.

Couch grass is a most persistent weed and its growth must be kept down for at least six months in order to secure complete eradication. This requires treatment during two seasons where crops are being harvested each year.

Will Assist Farmers to Purchase Seed Grain

To assist farmers in the purchase of seed grain, the Ontario Government is prepared to accept two-thirds of the responsibility for loans for that purpose, Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, told the Legislature. He read the following statement to the House:

"The representatives of the Department of Agriculture in practically every county in the province have been approached in reference to the purchase of seed grain. In quite a number of counties there is a scarcity of seed grain and in practically every county there are farmers without seed grain and without sufficient credit to enable them to secure it.

"Due to these extraordinary conditions it is proposed that the county councils to appeal to the bank and to secure loans under Section 88 of the Banking Act for the purchase of seed grain in order to assist those farmers within their municipality who apply to them for help.

"In the event of counties losing any money in connection with the repayment of these loans the Government is prepared to accept two-thirds of the responsibility, providing the municipality accepts one-third."

Getting Ready For the Lambing Season

Lambing is the shepherd's harvest, and it is also his most exciting time. Everything must, therefore, be in readiness for the coming of the new crop.

Ewes heavy in lamb require more pen and feeding space, if overcrowding and losses are to be avoided. Two feet of feeding space is the minimum required.

Large flocks should be divided by putting the ewes expected to lamb first in the warmest and most comfortable pen.

Have the floor level, dry, clean and well bedded. If possible provide equipment for making individual lambing pens. Folding hurdles are very handy for that purpose. The ewe is much quieter if kept alone.

Simple Insect Control

The control of most vegetable insects is not a very difficult or complicated matter if the grower will bear in mind one or two simple facts which can be quickly learned by watching the habits of the pests causing the damage. Insects, according to the type of injury they do, can be divided into two general classes; those known as biting insects which in feeding actually bite a piece out of the plant attacked, and those known as sucking insects which suck the juices out of the leaves or stems without noticeably changing their outline. For biting insects (caterpillars, cutworms, etc.) three poisons are commonly recommended, arsenate of lead, arsenate of lime, and Paris green. Sucking insects (aphids, plant bugs, leafhoppers, etc) are customarily controlled by nicotine sulphate, either in liquid or dust form.

Advisory Fertiliser Board

"Organization of the Ontario Advisory Fertilizer Board, is an action which will result in mutual service and greater satisfaction to the buyers and sellers of fertilizers in Ontario, according to Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture.

The board will act as a liaison between all fertiliser interests in Ontario, both manufacturers and users, and those charged with the administration of the Fertiliser Act of the Dominion Government. At the first meeting of the organization, Dr. Harcourt of O.A.C. was appointed chairman; E. K. Hampson, Parke's Company of Canada, was named vice-chairman, and George R. Peterson, Ontario Department of Agriculture, secretary. Other members of the board are: W. R. Reek, Experimental Farm, Ridgetown; W. J. Bell, Kemptville Agricultural School; R. S. Duncan, Director Agricultural Representatives Branch; W. J. W. Lennox, Dominion Seed Branch, Toronto; J. K. Perrett, tobacco specialist, Simcoe; W. J. Tegney, Brockville; E. F. Palmer, Vineland Station; C. Deiworth, Weston; A. L. Smith, President, Eastern Canada Fertiliser Association, and A. Mooney, Secretary, Eastern Canada Fertiliser Association.

Shading the number of fertiliser analyses within practical limits is indicated by the Minister of Agriculture as one of the primary objects of the board. In the past, many fertilisers were marketed of analyses so similar that even the most interesting tests failed to show any appreciable differences when applied to the soil. Such a condition was bewildering to buyers and of no possible advantage to manufacturers.

Spring Work in the Flower Garden

As soon as the ground is dry enough the flower beds should be looked over, and any plants that have been heaved out of the ground by frost pressed firmly into the soil. Bulbs that have become exposed by the washing away of the earth should be immediately covered with good soil. Any old stems that have been left on the plants should be removed and any coarse material that has been used as a mulch, should be raked off. If there are many bulbs in the border, digging must be very carefully done, as there is great danger of breaking off the tips of the daffodils and tulips. It is perhaps wiser to wait until they are above ground before digging.

Check up on the Food Supply Of the Bees

According to the Dominion Apiarist more colonies of bees are lost during the latter part of March and through out April than at any other period of the year, simply because of starvation.

Most bees are given enough food in the fall to carry them through until the following spring, provided the winter is not too severe, and the spring flowers yield early, but many do not live to see the flowers bloom. The winter of 1933-34 has been long, steady and severe and spring promises to be very late in many districts, therefore, the keeper of bees is well advised to check the food supply of the bees and be prepared to supplement it as soon as the weather conditions will permit.

Fertiliser Mixtures

The plant food content of commercial fertiliser mixtures is expressed by formulae such as 4-8-10, 2-13-16, etc. These figures represent the guaranteed percentages of nitrogen, available phosphoric acid and potash by the quantity they occur in the formula. For example a 4-8-10 mixture will contain 4 per cent of nitrogen, 8 per cent of available phosphoric acid and 10 per cent of potash. A fertiliser offered for sale in Canada must contain not less than 2 per cent of nitrogen or 5 per cent of available phosphoric acid or 2 per cent of water-soluble potash and not less than a total of 14 per cent. of these constituents.

Choosing the Site of a Farm Well

The situation of the farm well is often the factor which determines whether the family will have pure and wholesome water to drink or water unfit is unsanitary, provoking disease.

It is desirable to locate the well 150 feet from any polluting source such as the barn, manured fields or gardens, septic tanks, open ditches, roads, garbage heaps or even away from the dwelling house where waste water may be thrown out or where there may be poultry runs or dog kennels.

NUT BREAD

For the whole wheat nut bread use the following ingredients: 2 cups of whole wheat flour, 4 tablespoons brown sugar, one cup white flour, ¼ cup molasses, ½ teaspoon soda, ¾ of a cup of milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup of water, one teaspoon of salt, one cup of walnuts cut in small pieces and 1 tablespoons of melted shortening. Mix the whole wheat flour, flour, soda, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Add molasses, milk and water. Mix well. Then add the nuts and shortening and beat thoroughly. Pour the mixture into a greased loaf pan and let it stand for twenty minutes. Bake it in a slow oven about 300 degrees for about one hour.

NOT TOO SOON FOR PLANS

The old joke about the seed catalogues arriving in mid-winter must have originated with a person born and reared in an apartment house. As a matter of fact the seed catalogues are not usually mailed before the middle of February and at that they are not a bit too soon to be of practical value, because the success of the summer and fall garden usually starts from plans drawn up when snow still covers the ground. And now, with the days growing longer and the normal person becoming more anxious to get out of doors, this is the time to plan. Not only will a piece of paper, a pencil, and a catalogue, provide one with many evenings of entertainment, but it will pay dividends in more and fresher vegetables and a continuous and more varied bloom.

DAMAGE

It is usually during March and April that most damage is done to shrubbery, perennial flowers, roses, strawberry patches, fall wheat and other plants which must stay outside during the Canadian winter. Contrary to common opinion it is not the extreme cold of January, but February, (though this year in Eastern Canada at least, there was sufficient of that to do damage, too) that causes the trouble but the alternate freezing and thawing and the drying winds of early spring. On fine days things start to grow and the sap comes up from the roots, but at night frost returns and injures the bulbs. Crowns, and stems are burst, fruit buds frozen, and grass and other perennial plants heaved out of the soil, their tiny roots broken and exposed to the high drying winds. Protection in the form of snow, straw, leaves, or old vegetable refuse, is advisable at this time and is especially necessary in southern exposures where the difference between midnight and noon temperatures is much more extreme than elsewhere. This protection or mulch must stay on until the dangerous period is passed and then removed gradually. If left on too long, however, growth is spindly and backward.

A HOT BED

The best arrangement for starting seed indoors is a hot bed, though where only a few plants of each variety are required a shallow box in a sunny window will be sufficient. A hot bed simply consists of an old window sash laid on a wooden framework about 18 inches high, which contains two inches of fine garden soil on a layer of fresh, slightly straw, horse manure or some other heat providing material. In an open place and facing south dig a pit of the same dimensions as the window frame and about a foot deep. Into this put the manure. (If frost prevents digging simply pile on top of the ground.) The layer of manure should be about 18 inches thick and well pressed down. It is held in place by the sides of the pit and the frame. On top is placed the layer of light garden soil, preferably mixed with a little sand. The window is fitted snugly into place on top and should be about nine inches above the soil at the front and 18 inches at the back to allow rain to run off and also to catch the full rays of the sun. At the back of the soil will heat rapidly but in about three days it will have cooled to around 80 degrees which is the proper temperature. The seed is planted in rows about two inches apart, and the bed watered frequently. Or mold which it will be necessary to ventilate by raising the window from two inch or so. When the second set of leaves develop, thin. About three weeks before going outside, the seedlings are transplanted to a cold frame, which is the same as a hot bed only without the heating manure. Plants are hardened thoroughly before being set out in their permanent quarters. When started in the house the procedure is practically the same as that outlined for starting seeds in a hot bed.

STRAIGHT ROWS

Vegetables, like soldiers, must grow in straight rows, and the reason is the same in both cases. Not only do the troops and the radishes look neater when exactly in line, but by this method a great quantity is put into the small space. In the small lots in town, the latter point is an important consideration while on the farm, neatness will be the chief appeal. Vegetable gardens should be very productive affairs, and from a fraction of an acre of ground, ten times the yield is expected as would come from a similar area under ordinary field conditions. Where space is limited it is possible to grow two crops, even in those sections of Canada where the summer season is restricted to be short. This is done by planting rows of very early stuff like lettuce, radish and spinach, in between the maturing vegetables such as corn, tomatoes, parsnips and swiss chard. By the time the latter things are beginning to need full room, the first named group will be used and out of the way. For this sort of planting eight to fifteen inches between rows is sufficient or a better rule would be to allow the regular distance between the rows of corn and tomatoes, for instance, and then plant them, three rows in between. Where a horse or garden tractor is to be used, about the narrowest rows for vegetables will be 30 inches, but if the garden is going to be hand cultivated and as much as possible grown the following widths are sufficient: lettuce, spinach, carrots, beets and similar narrow or early vegetables, 12 inches; beans, peas, potatoes, staked tomatoes and corn 20 inches; melons, cucumbers, unstaked tomatoes, 24 to 30 inches.

READY WITH SWEET PEAS

Sweet Peas will be the first of the annual flowers to go in. For good results these must be planted just as soon as it is possible to get a spade in the ground. Usually there are one or two days in April when it is possible to work up the soil in the warmest part of the garden and this is the time and place for these flowers. They do best in climates where the summer nights are inclined to be cool. They must have extra water during dry weather. It is advisable to dig in a trench and support on brush, strings or poultry netting. The trench should be dug a good two and a half to three or four inches of well rotted leaves or manure. This, in addition to the usual food provides open material in which a deep root system can be developed. On top loose inches of fine garden soil and place in this the seed about two inches apart and the stout stems and abundant deep roots. Sweet Peas will bloom from early July until frost, (if the flowers are picked daily. If not, seed pods start to develop and blooming ceases. For amazing colors and big blooms, good seed is essential.

REMOVES PROTECTION

Just when and how to remove the protective covering from rose and other perennial plants in the spring of the year is a question with which many are concerned. With such plants as rose bushes that have wintered under cover it is important that the protection from the direct rays of the sun be continued until the season of low temperatures is past. On the other hand some uncovering even before the warm weather arrives, may have to be done to prevent the spread of mold which is very destructive. If the plants have been covered with hoses the latter should be taken out, and the wind allowed to play through them, but without admitting the sun's rays directly to the plants. With herbaceous perennial plants the practice should be to remove a little of the mulch at a time so as to allow some light to pass through, and also accustom the plants gradually to the cold night air.

SEED

Too much emphasis cannot be laid on good seed. Other factors may be overcome but the gardener has absolute check over this foundation. The weather, soil and location may be ideal but without good seed, specially selected to the Canadian conditions, the garden is going to be a failure. There is no guarantee that a flower which is a success in Scotland, or Great Britain or the Southern States will do equally well in this country and because of this the average gardener is well advised to secure his seed at nursery stock from a reliable Canadian source.

INSECT FIGHTS INSECT

A form of insect control which is receiving considerable attention the world over, and particularly in Canada through the Dominion Entomological Branch, is known as the biological method of pest control, or in other words, the introduction and encouragement of natural enemies of the insects. Many of the worst insect pests in Canada are not native to the country but are invaders from abroad, especially in years gone by when no plant inspection service was maintained. Parasites known to attack these foreigners in their native countries are brought to Canada and reared carefully at the Entomological Branch's parasite laboratory at Belleville, Ont. At the proper time these parasites are liberated in areas where they can best attack the marauding insects, much after the style of setting a thief to catch a thief. In order to prevent, as far as humanly possible, new insect pests entering Canada, officers of the Dominion Entomological Branch are constantly on the lookout for any forms of insects present on importations of plants or plant products. Thus are dangerous insect enemies being intercepted.

SOME FACTORS AFFECTING MORTALITY IN BABY CHICKS

It is regrettable truth that, with the rapid expansion which has taken place in the poultry industry in the past decade, there has been an increased mortality that seems to be out of proportion to the increase in number of chickens hatched. It would be hard to say what single agent has been mostly responsible for the high death rate but, where mortality is abnormal, the cause may be traced to one or more of the following hazards: Inferior or diseased breeding stock; faulty incubation; poor brooding facilities or equipment, and improper feeding.

Probably the major factor is the breeding stock and, with the advent of large hatcheries where the source of supply is doubtful, the danger from this source has increased. Reputable hatcheries have exercised every effort to safe-guard their own interests and their customers by blood-testing, vaccination, drastic culling of inferior birds, careful attention to sanitation, and the introduction of only new blood that showed vigour and vitality. Blood distributed from a source where these vital precautions have been practised may be as reliable as any hatched on the home plant but, where the source of supply either of eggs or of chicks is in doubt, the risk of disease and high mortality is indeed great. We have found in all laying contests that, where there is a congregation of large numbers of birds from various farms, the mortality is high; and this risk must be present in a greater degree when baby chicks are produced and cultivated under similar conditions. Poor vitality and hereditary disease in the parent stock are greatly responsible for high mortality in chicks, but poor brooding equipment and methods contribute in no small degree to the disasters that follow errors in this respect. Uneven temperatures, overcrowding with improper ventilation, and lack of sunlight, encourage toe-picking, cannibalism, and enteritis — some of the principal causes of high mortality in the brooding stage — while an improper diet, without the essential elements that should be present in the right proportion in a well-balanced ration, may also contribute to a great extent to the mortality.

The modern incubator, in capable hands, has almost disposed of the danger from faulty incubation and it is seldom that disaster can be traced to this cause. Better knowledge of breeding, feeding and rearing, has been acquired by scientific research and investigation, resulting in the elimination of many hazards and assisting to a great extent in the expansion of the industry.

When necessary, full advantage should be taken of the information available at any Dominion Experimental Farm.

Suggested Changes In Spraying Operations

DUE TO WINTER INJURY

The Ontario Spray Calendar recommends the following changes in spraying operations on account of winter injury:—

In districts (or orchards) where injury to fruit trees is severe and only in such districts, we would recommend that the FIRST SPRAYS outlined in the Ontario Spray Calendar should be modified as follows:

APPLES — Districts of Niagara District, Essex and Kent, do not spray for San Jose' Scale except on trees on which it was conspicuous last year. On these, use either lime sulphur 1-7 or 3% lubricating oil emulsion or 3-4-40 Bordeaux. Omit oil spray for red mite this year. On trees on which San Jose' Scale was not conspicuous last year, use only 3-6-40 Bordeaux.

PEARS — Where Pear Psylla is troublesome, use a 2% lubricating oil spray elsewhere omit spray.

PLUMS — Japanese Plums omit the first spray.

PEACHES — Where San Jose' Scale is not present, spray with lime sulphur 1-15 or Bordeaux Mixture 4-4-40; elsewhere use lime sulphur 1-7.

SWEET CHERRIES—Use one-half pint nicotine sulphate and 3 lbs. soap to 40 gallons water.

In sections or orchards where there is no winter injury or only appreciable injury, the spray calendar recommendations should be followed.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, April 9.—What lovely Spring weather? Ought to make everyone feel good.

Roads are in excellent shape for Springtime. There may be much frost in the ground, but the roads are hard and dry. Perhaps the usual Spring break-up may not happen.

Pike Creek is a busy pace these days. Many folks from far and near are trying their skill in order to secure a nice fish for dinner.

Muskrat trappers are having rather poor success. The winter was too severe for the valuable muskrats.

What a jolly group of boys and girls can be seen on our roads these mornings, as they wend their way to the Public School? Some walk long distances to school, carrying their dinner pails. Strength to the hands of our teachers who make that long walk worth while. All the Circuit teachers were back from their holidays on Monday.

One of the most largely attended Ladies' Aid meetings in connection with the Sireina Society was held at the home of Mrs. Ross Joyce on Thursday afternoon last. The programme was in charge of the President, Mrs. Joyce, and consisted of a solo by Mrs. William Joyce, a number of very helpful readings by different members, and an Easter message by the minister. Some of the older members of the Society, who have been shut in for the winter, were in attendance. A number of the Bethany Ladies' Aid were also present as visitors. Arrangements were made to hold the May meeting at the home of the President, Mrs. Herbert Mellow. At the close, Mrs. Joyce served lunch, and the social half hour was most enjoyable.

The Bethany Ladies' Aid are holding a sale of home-made cooking and farm produce on the Napanee market on Saturday, April 14th. The Bethany Sunday School held a special Executive meeting in their church on Thursday evening last. Arrangements were made to have a local contest, with Misses Margaret Goodman and Isobel Joyce as leaders. Also the Sunday School is entering the Circuit contest. Bethany Sunday School re-opened last Sunday, and the meeting will be held this Sunday, April 15th, at 1.30 p.m.

Bethany Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Martin on Wednesday last, with a splendid attendance of members and visitors. The programme was in charge of the President, Mrs. G. Burtch, and consisted of readings, a duet by Mrs. H. Martin and Mrs. Stanley Joyce, and an address by Miss Shorey, of Utica, N.Y. Miss Shorey is a school nurse in Utica, and told of her experiences while doing her work as that part of the U. S. A. Her reference to the treatment of mumps was of special local interest. Arrangements were made to hold the May meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Clark, with Mrs. Shanks assisting. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Martin served lunch, and every one enjoyed the social half hour together.

Mrs. R. Bartley is slowly recovering from the severe burns which she received a couple of weeks ago.

The Hay Bay folk are especially invited to attend the "Backward Social", which is being held this Friday night, April 13th, at the home of the President, Mrs. Wilfred McCabe. There will be loads of refreshments, good programme, etc. Everybody urged to attend.

Plans are being completed to place the Government fish net in the bay as soon as the ice goes out.

It was "Everybody's Night", and those who failed to take part in the programme had to pay a forfeit. The programme was a very successful one. Arrangements were made to hold their next meeting in the church on Tuesday evening, April 17th, at 8 o'clock. Special talent from Napanee, with an address by Mr. Dymont, of the Napanee Collegiate. At the close of the meeting lunch was served and a very pleasant time spent by all.

A number of the members of the Anderson Young People's Union were in Belleville on Sunday evening, attending the Young People's convention.

The Anderson cheese factory expects to re-open in the very near future, under the management of a co-operative company.

Messrs. Archie Parks and Sons report a very successful auction sale at Belleville, last week. They were quite satisfied with the prices for the three animals they had in the sale.

The M. B. Mills Co.

THEIR BUSINESS HAS BEEN GROWING RAPIDLY BECAUSE THEY ARE SERVING THEIR COMMUNITY WELL!

ALWAYS LEADERS, THE M. B. MILLS COMPANY IS NOW HANDLING SOMETHING NEW IN THE LINE OF FEED A PROTEIN-MINERAL-VITAMIN SUPPLEMENT

SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE

A small portion of SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate added to your own ground rations will balance your Hog feed. As a result, your own grains go farther and your Pigs will be ready for the market sooner.

For rapid and economical production of Pork, it is necessary to keep Pigs:—

1. GROWING RAPIDLY.
2. STANDING FIRM ON THEIR LEGS.
3. MAKING GAINS AT THE LOWEST POSSIBLE COST.
4. FREE FROM INTESTINAL PARASITES—and finally reaching the market in that well-finished condition which commands the highest price.

To raise Pigs at the lowest possible cost, it is necessary to feed them more protein, minerals and Vitamins than grain alone can supply.

Your Pigs are the fastest growing of all farm animals. Feed them a balanced feed and they're your most profitable branch of farming.

SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate supplies the additional protein-mineral-Vitamins grain lacks.

Twenty Pounds of SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate is fed to 100 lbs. of grain for a few weeks after the Pigs are weaned. From then on, the amount of SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate is gradually reduced to the finishing period, when only 5 pounds of Hog Concentrate is added to 100 pounds of your own grain.

Full feeding instructions in every bag.

100 pounds of SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate will save from 400 to 600 pounds of grain when feeding a litter of Pigs.

THE M. B. MILLS COMPANY will give FREE with every 100-pound bag of SHUR-GAIN Hog Concentrate, enough SHUR-GAIN Worm Powder to eradicate the intestinal parasites in one litter of Pigs.

EVERY HOG COSTS LESS

and gets to market sooner when your own grains are balanced with SHUR-GAIN HOG CONCENTRATE.

THE M. B. MILLS CO.
AND THE
MILLS' HATCHERY

Just Two years ago this old established Firm branched out in the Flour and Feed Business and made plans for producing the last word in Quality Baby Chicks. To-day it is one of the Fastest Growing Organizations in Eastern Ontario in the Wholesale and Retail Business, handling Flour, Feed, Grain, Salt, Seeds and Fertilizer.

Their Hatchery is operating to capacity, with many 'hatches' oversold, throughout the Season.

There must be a reason for this unusual growth in such a short time. Business is better generally, but the Service being rendered by the M. B. Mills Co. is largely responsible for their rapid growth.

F. B. MILLS
MEMBER OF FIRM

"Frank" needs no introduction to the people of Napanee or the County. He was born in Napanee and has lived practically all his life here. After spending a few years in the United States, Frank returned to his home town and went into business with his father, the late M. B. Mills, some years ago. His time has largely been given to developing the Hatchery end of the business and he is now looked upon as a specialist in his line.

E. E. BIRTCH
MEMBER OF FIRM

"Ed" Birtch became a member of the firm of "The M. B. Mills Co." just two years ago. Previous to that time his home had been at Ottawa. For some years he was Poultry Specialist with the Maple Leaf Milling Co., and travelled from coast to coast, visiting all the large poultry plants of the country. The experience gained is of great value in his present work.

"Ed" looks after the Feed Dept. and sale of Chicks.

Shipments Made From Coast to Coast

It is interesting to visit the Hatchery on Monday morning and see the Chicks boxed for shipment as far east as Yarmouth, Halifax, and other Nova Scotia points. Not only do they enjoy a splendid reputation in the Maritimes, but are also shipping many large shipments to Northern Ontario. Their local business is decidedly greater by several times this year than it has ever been before, which speaks well for the energy and hard work they have put back of their efforts.

More and more poultrymen are appreciating that poorly bred Chicks are expensive at any price and that a well bred, heavy producing bird does not eat any more for body maintenance than a cull bird. Mills' Hatchery use only the finest pedigreed males to sire their Chicks, and, this year's breeders are from dams with official records of from 204 to 305 large eggs.

Their Hatchery is equipped with the very latest in ventilation equipment, and the heating plant is controlled by a thermostat, insuring a definite temperature at all times, with constantly moving fresh air.

Miss J. McIlwain

Jean McIlwain, who has charge of the office of The M. B. Mills Co., is a graduate of the Commercial Department in the Napanee Collegiate and Vocational School. The Egg Grading Department is also under direction. Jean has been with the firm several years and her skill as an Egg Grader is well recognized by a large clientele.

Mills' Hatchery First Produce Pedigree Poultry

In October, 1932, Mr. Stewart Sheeler started a pen of Barred Plymouth Rocks in official R.O.P. work for the Mills' Hatchery, and when the year was finished he had 16 birds, official certify, that had laid from 207 to 278 eggs during their pullet year. Each bird, to qualify, had to lay eggs that averaged the weight of Extras as a minimum. Many of these went as high as 28 oz. to 30 oz per dozen. These yearling hens are now being trapped and their eggs are being set in pedigree trays for the production of cockerels to be used in next year's matings.

In the same year Mr. Ray Perry started trapping a pen of Single Comb White Leghorn Pullets, and out of the 50 he had 12 of these birds qualify officially with the same high records of production and egg size. The 12 birds in this case out of the 50 represents 36% of the entry which is considered very unusual.

Both these men still continue trap nesting, and this year more local poultry breeders are becoming interested in this work, which is operated under the supervision of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

At the close of the hatching season of 1932 a new policy was decided on by the Mills' Hatchery, and from that time on they have refused to do Custom Hatching in their plant of eggs that were from birds not blood tested. Every bird supplying eggs to the Mills' Hatchery this year, as well as last year, has been subjected to a blood test to determine that particular bird's reaction to bacillary white diarrhoea. This has been responsible, along with their exclusive use of pedigreed cockerels and the many new features installed in their incubator Room, for the country-wide acceptance of the new Mills' Grade A Pedigree Sired Chicks.

R. J. Oster

Known to his friends throughout the district as "Genial Bob". For a year he has been in charge of the Warehouse at the station since it was taken over by "The M. B. Mills Co."

Previous to that time he was a successful miller at Camden. His milling experience makes him a valuable addition to this firm.

Station Warehouse Lowers Cost of Handling

After the first year in the Flour and Feed business their down town location was not large enough for storing the many lines carried, and it was decided to locate additional warehousing capacity on the track. The first intention was to build, but they later negotiated with Mr. M. N. Empey for the purchase of the building which he owned and where he carried on a kindred business for several years. With this warehouse space on track, the cost of unloading cars has been much reduced, and this saving is passed on, wherever possible, to their customers.

Earl Penny

"Earl" is a fairly recent addition to the staff. A County boy, he spent a few years in the United States, but since his association with The M. B. Mills Co., as a Salesman and Warehouseman has proved a valuable addition to the staff. He gives careful and courteous service to the many customers of the firm.

New Chevrolet Truck Ensures Rapid Service

A new Chevrolet Heavy Duty Truck has recently been purchased by the M. B. Mills Co., from the local Chevrolet dealer Robt. McFarland. This truck has a capacity up to four tons and is kept busy hauling to and from Napanee.

The M. B. Mills Co. Flour and Feed Department

The Maple Leaf Milling Co. Products

Realizing that quality at a fair price is necessary to build a business with any degree of permanency, the M. B. Mills Company were fortunate in securing the Sole Agency for the Maple Leaf Milling Company products. Mr. Birtch has had many years experience in the milling business, when he decided to become a member of the M. B. Mills Company, knew that it would be impossible for any mill to make flours that would surpass Maple Leaf Cream of the West and Golden West.

It is an accepted fact that their Poultry Feeds, Monarch and Maple Leaf O.A.C. Cafeteria Feeds represent the highest production at the lowest cost. Their other manufactured feeds, such as Monarch Dairy Concentrate of 32% protein, their Monarch Dairy Ration of 24% protein, Sampson Feed, and Monarch Hog Concentrate are, without a doubt, the most profitable feeds to feed in conjunction with home grown grains. Two warehouses, both the one in the centre of the town and their newer location at the railway station, which was purchased last year from M. N. Empey, are filled at all times with this high quality Flour and Feed, which they are able to sell at surprisingly low prices due to their tremendous volume.

To sell right one must buy right. There is no better proof that The M. B. Mills Co., buy right than the great quantities of merchandise they handle.

Prices of Flour, Feed and Seed are fluctuating continually, and they are always on the alert to buy at the right time to be in a position to lead in lower prices for consumers.

H. Barrett

"Tony" Barrett has charge of the "Starten Chick Department" of "The M. B. Mills Co." He is the son of John Barrett of Napanee, and has lived in town all his life. Since leaving the Collegiate institute he has been with the firm

Herkimer Benn

"Herk" Benn has charge of the "Service Department" of The M. B. Mills Co. With the new truck recently purchased, at his command, he will be able to assure customers of speedy delivery in both the wholesale and retail divisions of the business.

Canada Packers Urge More Bacon Hogs

The Mills Company are proud of the fact that Canada Packers, Limited, have seen fit to choose them as their local representative, and, in turn, the Mills Company recommend their products as the best obtainable on the Canadian market. Oyster Shell, Seed Potatoes, Laying Mash Concentrate, Calf Meal, Tankage, and the new Shur-Gain Hog Concentrate.

Windsor Salt

Windsor Salt is a division of the Canadian Industries Limited, one of the largest industrial organizations in this country, and they have chosen this rapidly growing organization as their exclusive representative in Napanee, and the M. B. Mills Company are decidedly proud of their selection and are handling Windsor Salt exclusively. The M. B. Mills Company were first to retail fine Salt at 75c. per bag locally, and this new low price, coupled with the usual standard of quality expected of Windsor Salt, results in the sale of very large quantities to our farmers. Old Hickory Smoked Salt, as is mentioned on the opposite page, is carried in stock at all times, and this most convenient method of curing and smoking meat in one operation is meeting with outstanding approval.

SALTING HAY

It is a known fact, and recommended by the Ontario Fire Marshall, that when hay is salted it lessens the fire hazard from spontaneous combustion and almost overcomes it completely. Not only does it provide this fire protection, but at the same time it adds additional palatibility to the hay, and smaller quantities of salt are consumed during the winter months by the cattle.

Miss I. McGee

Irene McGee, another Napanee girl, is Assistant in the Office and also devotes part of her time to the Egg Department. Irene too, is a graduate of the Commercial Department of the Collegiate. For several seasons she has been with the firm and renders efficient service as an Egg Grader.

Chiffon Stockings

Time was when rings and shadows in Silk Stockings were like changeable weather. Everybody complained about them, but nobody seemed to do anything about it. Rings were the penalty paid for a love of sheer stockings. It was really the fault of wayward silk worms, who, despite all attempts at education, simply insisted on making threads thicker than others. And so we had ridges. Now science has devised ways and means of knitting Silk Hosiery so that no thickened threads are visible.

Braemore, quick to adopt new ideas, bring you Chiffon Stockings free from objectionable rings, shadows, streaks, and blurs, and at the popular price of 85c in the newest Spring shades. Pair 85c

Canadian Art Works Were Exhibited at Napanee Collegiate

For Benefit of Pupils and Public

Unfortunately not many people availed themselves of the opportunity of viewing a really good collection of the works of Canadian artists, which was shown at the Napanee Collegiate Institute on Monday of this week. Those who did attend the exhibition were delighted with what they saw.

The pictures were sent on loan by the Canadian Fine Arts Guild, whose headquarters are at Hamilton, Ont., and were in charge of Mr. Carl O. Shearer. Mr. Shearer accompanied the visitors on their inspection and gave interesting details and information concerning the artists and their exhibited works, also told something of the ideals of the Fine Arts Guild.

Ideals of the Guild

The Guild is the only organization of its kind in Canada. It was established four years ago. Its chief aim is to acquaint, the pupils of schools and the public in general, with some of the work of Canadian artists. All through the year exhibitions such as this held in Napanee, are staged throughout the country. A percentage of the door receipts of the exhibitions goes to the schools and these proceeds are used for the purchase of Canadian artists' pictures. The profits of the Guild itself go to the founding of scolarships for art students who show particular talent.

Evidence of the high regard in which the Guild is held, is seen in the fact that the Medici Society of England, the foremost organization for reproducing world-famed pictures recognized the efforts of the Guild by sending several excellent copies of masterpieces at a gift. These pictures were on display in Napanee and included : Raebun's "Boy With a Rabbit," Raeburn's "The Macnab Helmet," Holman Hunt's "Light of the World," and "A Street Scene," by Cuyct. Each one of these reproductions, well known to many art lovers, received especial attention by all the visitors at the exhibition

Works of Canadian Artists

Much credit, of course, for the exhibition, is due to the Canadian artists who show their interest by loaning their pictures. The pictures are for sael, and through Canada many people avail themselves of the opportunity of making selections for their homes. The total value of the works in the collection is $20,000.

The exhibit was divided into groups of wood cuts, lino blocks, water colors, oils, etchings, black and whites, and prints. The most expensive picture and one which merited much attention, was "Pidelity," by Frank Johnston, valued at $1,100. It was a wayside shrine scene in the Coape Peninsula of Quebec. The centre of interest in the cross with the image of Christ hanging upon it, and the predominating color was blue.

Feature of the Exhibit

The feature of the exhibit was a collection of eight or ten colored wood cuts by Leonard Hutchison. He is one of the foremost exponents of the art in Canada, ranking second to Phillips of Winnipeg. Each picture was distinctive and worthy of note as effective centre of interest for any interior decorator.

The lino blocks of Mary E. Wrinch, mostly flower groups, were lovely bits of color. One particular picture, a bed of crocus, carried with it a veritable breath of spring

Among the oils were canvases by Geo. Thompson, Mrs. McG. Knowles, Thos. Garland Greene, Fred Challener, Frank Johnston. Two portrait studies in oil by Marion Long, a foremost portrait painter of Canada, drew forth expressions of appreciation. Frank Panabaker's oils in large and small canvases were all noteworthy. One large canvas by Panabaker, a water scene with a sailing vessel in full sail, also drew considerable attention.

Water colors were shown by Geo. A. Reid, Florence McGillivray, Frank Carmichael and Philip Smith. Color prints of national gallery canvases included examples of such well-known artists as Tom Thompson, Horatio, Walker and Homer Watson.

"Work of MacDonald."

Considerable interest was shown in the color print, "A Canadian Sugar Bush," by Member of Council, Mr. MacDonald's home was at Point Anne, near Belleville. His works are becoming well known throughout Canada. At the present time he is on the staff of the Ontario School of Art.

The work that the Canadian Fine Art Guild is doing in acquainting the citizens of the country with the products of Canadian artists, deserves commendation and every support.

Former Napaneean Died Sunday At Westmount

The death occurred at Westmount, Quebec, on Sunday, April 15th, of William Hanson, Vice President of Hanson Brothers Inc., and one of Montreal's most outstanding men and financiers. Cheesemaker's Ass'n Encourage Production

Association Offers Cash Prizes

As an inducement to cheese factories to increase their production throughout the season of 1934, the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association will offer cash prizes for the greatest gain in make shown in the year. This was the decision of the executive of the association at a meeting held in Belleville on Thursday afternoon.

According to the resolution passed by the executive the prizes to be awarded are as follows : 1st, $50.00 ; 2nd. $35.00; 3rd, $15.00. The length of the season will be from May 1st to October 31st, and the increase in make must amount to 5 per cent or more, over the make of the 1933 season. All cheesemakers entering must be members of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers' Association.

The prize money received is to be divided equally between the factory and the maker.

Mr. E. I. Babcock, the president of the association, presided at the meeting, which was the first of the year. Representatives from all sections of the district were in attendance. Considerable time was given to discussion of general topics in connection with the industry, and planning for the season's activity.

Explain Marketing Methods

Addresses on marketing methods were given by Mr. G. A. C. Weir of the Belleville branch of the Bank of Montreal and Mr. W. E. Schuster.

Mr. Weir, in his brief address, dealt chiefly with the contrast shown in marketing methods between this country and that of New Zealand, and Australia. Canada's chief competitors in this great industry. Had this country similar representation in world markets such as Great Britain, the benefit to the cheese industry would be great. Favoring the work of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders, the speaker believed, that they were heading toward a definite end in their attempt to have direct export and import into and from this country, and hoped prompt action would be taken to restore the gradual drop in export trade. Mr. Weir conveyed many first hand facts to his audience, gained from a personal survey of marketing methods during his lengthy trip through Great Britain and the Continent, not long ago.

Representing and speaking on behalf of the Central Ontario Commerce Crusaders, W. E. Schuster, pointed to the advantages of trade through direct channels of export, which would follow with the co-operation of the British Mining companies in particular. Increased support of trade in cheese would naturally follow these moves to co-operate as well as export in other lines. Several methods were outlined by the speaker in which extension of trade could be managed.

Appoint Directors

Previous to the close of the meeting, Everett Reid of Gananoque district, was appointed director for the coming year for the Gananoque district, with Vernon Spencer of Queensboro appointed director for Madoc district. G. A. C. Weir, and W. E. Schuster, of this city, were appointed honorarity members of the Association.

A Dozen Eggs Weighing 33 Ozs.

A dozen eggs weighing 33 ounces, all laid within sixteen days, is the record of a Barred Rock hen, owned by Mr. Robert Kirkpatrick, of Dundas, Ont., and the eggs laid by Mr. Kirkpatrick brought the eggs into The Beaver Office after having them weighed down town. All the eggs but ten lays are about the same size and every one used, so far, has been single yoked.

This dozen almost equals the record set by Mr. Albert Shank's hen, which produced a dozen of eggs, weighing 34½ ounces.

Meets District Representatives

On the occasion of the official visit of Worshipful Brother M. G. Johnston, of Kingston, District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge, to Union Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Napanee, on Friday evening, a representative gathering of masons of the district turned out to greet him. It is estimated that 150 members of lodges in the Prontenac and Prince Edward districts, were in attendance. Representatives from the lodges at Kingston, Belleville, Deseronto, Picton, Odessa, Bath, Newburgh, Harrowsmith, Centreville and Trenton, were present.

The D. D. G. M. was accompanied, in his official visit, by R. W. Bro. W. M. Campbell of Kingston, himself a Past D.D.G.M., and also by Wor. Bro. Frank Kinnear of Kingston.

Following the official welcome to the distinguished visitors in the lodge room, degree work was exemplified by the members of Union Lodge. The ruling master, Wor. Bro. A. G. Taylor, was in the chair. The excellency of the work done was highly complimented by the District Deputy.

Banquet and Entertainment

After the degree work the members and guests repaired to the dining hall where a banquet was served, followed by toasts and entertainment. The toasts to the King and to the Craft, were proposed by Wor. Bro. A. G Taylor. The toast to the Grand Lodge was proposed by C. E. Henricks, S. W. of Union Lodge, and was responded to by Wor. Bro. Johnston. In the course of his address, Mr. Johnston paid a high tribute to the long career of Union Lodge, which was in existence for nearly fifty years before the inception of the present Grand Lodge of Ontario.

The toasts to the visitors was proposed by Wor. Bro. Dr. J. Tustin, Mayor of Napanee and was fittingly replied to by Rt. Wor. Bro. W. M. Campbell of Kingston, and Wor. Bro. W R. Thomas, of Deseronto. Brother Sutherland, of Odessa, on occasion was provided by Bro. W. R. Gray at the piano and by Bro. E. B. Weeks (on mouth organ). Mr. William Owen also contributed vocal numbers to the program.

Seated at the head table, besides the Master of Union Lodge, A. G. Taylor, were other outstanding Masons of Eastern Ontario, with whom were Very Wor. Bros. C. W. Cuppage, Bath, W. A. Purdy, John W. Thompson and W. S. Wilson, of Napanee; R. Edgecombe, Wor. Master of Prince Edward, Belleville; Bro. Archdeacon Dumbrille and Bro. Rev. R T. Richards of Napanee.

Conviction Registered Against Several Offenders

Rev. Francis R. Webster, Roblin, who was the driver of the car which struck little Gordon Hinton, while playing at the swing bridge on Friday, March 30th, was in the magistrate's court on Wednesday, April 11th. The evidence of Mr. Webster and some witnesses showed that he was not driving at a very fast rate at the time of the accident but, nevertheless was unable to stop his car before it had passed over the bridge. He was convicted of dangerous driving through having insufficient brakes, the penalty was exacted except the payments of the costs of the court.

A Napanee resident was in court on Friday, charged with possessing liquor in an illegal place. The offence was committed while the defendant was at Adolphustown. He was convicted and fined $10 and costs.

On Saturday, April 14th. Traffic Officer Rawlins brought in a Montreal resident for speeding on Highway No. 2, east of Napanee. The accused was convicted and paid a fine of $5.00 and costs.

Everett Rollins of Belleville, who was convicted on April 7th, in the Magistrate's Court on a charge of fraud in connection with a board bill contracted on Saturday, April 14, to three months in gaol or $100 fine with costs. Up to the present time the fine has not been paid.

A truck driver from Belleville was fined $2.00 and costs for making a left hand turn on the Main Street of Napanee, without giving a warning. Another motorist coming up behind him, crashed into the latter truck and received considerable damage.

A case against a Napanee resident charged with neglect in driving a motor vehicle will be heard Thursday, April 19th.

He that worries himself with the dread of possible contingencies will never be at rest.—Dr. Samuel Johnson.

Bus and Radio Truck In Collision at Westbrook

A very serious motor accident occurred about 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, April 10th, at Westbrook village on No. 2 Highway, about 17 miles east of Napanee. The motor vehicles involved were one of the Collacutt Coach Line buses and the radio truck of the Department of Marine. Both motor cars were badly damaged and the two occupants of the radio truck, John J. McWaters and Edward Murray were dangerously injured.

The motor bus was travelling west and the radio truck was going east, during a heavy downpour of rain. Apparently the centre left hub of the radio truck struck the left bumper, fender and wheel of the bus. The front of the radio car was completely smashed in; the frame was badly buckled and pushed back under the fowl. The bus was also badly damaged on the front and left side. Bumper, wheel, axle and steering gear were smashed.

John J. McWalters, of 160 Johnston Street, Kingston, the driver of the Marine car, and Edward N. Murray, of Barrriefield, his companion, were very seriously hurt and were immediately removed to Kingston General Hospital in an unconscious condition. It was found that both men are suffering from fractured skulls and concussion, and their condition is critical.

The bus, which was driven by Wm. G. Stakwell, King Street, Gananoque had seven passengers, of whom, only one, a lady, was slightly bruised. The occupants of the bus were Fred Bentley of Napanee, Mrs. D. Martin, R. R. No. 2 Harrowsmith, Mr. Woodcock, Kingston, Mrs. V. Smith, Odessa, Mrs. Bertha Claus and son Bernard, of Deseronto, and B. W. Thorne, Toronto.

It is estimated that damage to the extent of $500 was done to the bus and about $1,300 damage to the Marine car. The latter carried radio equipment valued at more than $1,000.

Highway Traffic Officer, L. O. Rawlins was called to the scene of the accident and is making investigations.

Adolphustown Man Held Lucky Ticket on New Ford Car

The car put up for drawing by the Junior Hockey Club at Carleton Place has been claimed by the owner. Mr. Harry Bygott, a young man from Adolphustown. The officers of the club had considerable difficulty in locating the owner of ticket 9956 which drew the Ford V-8, the supposition being that it had been sold in Picton or vicinity. The name on the stub was very indistinct so that it was impossible for the local officers to decipher accurately the name written. However, after much telephoning and some intuition on the part of the telephone operator the owner of the fortunate ticket was finally located and informed of his good fortune. He went to Carleton Place on Tuesday and definitely satisfied the local officials that he was entitled to the car. On Wednesday went home rejoicing in the possession of his prize.

Railways Reduce Shipment Rates in Belleville Area

Toronto, April 7.— With a view to assisting in the building up of the export trade in Eastern Ontario cheese, the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways announce that special rates for the shipment of summer and fall cheese to Belleville and Montreal will go in effect about April 16th. These special rates will show a reduction from the normal rates of between 33 1/3 per cent. to 50 per cent.

"There has been a pronounced movement to increase the popularity of Canadian cheese in the British market," said R. R. Ferry, General Freight Agent of the Canadian National System, "and the railways have taken a deep interest in furthering it. By the substantial freight reductions made for the summer and fall trade, we are co-operating with the manufacturers and shippers of cheese to increase the consumption of their products in the United Kingdom."

A CORRECTION

The short article in the Local Jottings of last week's issue, concerning Sally Sensation Alcarda, a Holstein cow owned by W. G. Cowle, should have read: "lactation period in the 305-day division of the R.O.P." in place of "365-day division."

G. E. Gibbard Elected Dairy Corporation Director

At the adjourned shareholders' meeting of Dairy Corporation, Limited, held at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto on April 12th, the proposed scheme for re-organization was carried with only one block of shares opposing it. The reorganization itself cannot be cleared up immediately until two or three outstanding difficulties are cleared up.

The special shareholders committee appointed at the original meeting of shareholders on March 27th, asked and received three directors and the new board of seven, these directors being elected each year by the new Class "A" non-voting shares.

The shareholders present at this meeting recommended R. M. Bryson, Toronto ; G. E. Gibbard, Napanee; and W. F. Wegenast, Toronto, and these three men were elected to the board at a special meeting held in the morning of April 13th.

The special committee which was appointed on March 27th made an expensive survey of the Company's condition and prospects and reported to the meeting that they felt the proposed plan was the best available in the interests of the Company, generally. Several alternative plans were considered very seriously, the committee even going so far as to send a man to New York to endeavour to interest New York capital in the scheme, but a more workable plan could not be found under present conditions

The committee was able to obtain a good deal of information confidentially which enabled them to reach their decision and which satisfied them that while this plan was by no means perfect, it was the best that could be obtained. The fact that the Class "A" shareholders will have three directors on the board, will enable them to get inside information at all times and to have some influence in the Company's activities.

For the benefit of local shareholders it might be said that the committee considered very seriously placing the company in the hands of a receiver, but in view of the fact that a receiver representing other interests would have to be appointed, it was not felt that this would work out to the advantage of either shareholders, or creditors, and on checking figures carefully it was realized that not likely even the debenture holders would have received as much as under the present arrangement.

The prospects for Dairy Corporation are brighter than they have been for some years, as new factories improve and time passes, this Company should not only justify its existence but take its proper place with the leaders of the dairy industry.

Guard Rails Broken When Car Strikes Soft Shoulder

On Wednesday evening, another motor accident occurred near Westbrook. A car driven by Joseph L. Goddard, R. Battery, R. C. H. A., Kingston, accompanied by Ronald Miller of the same military unit, broke off several guard rails on the road in the long swamp, east of the village of Westbrook.

The impression is that the car, which was travelling west, hit the soft shoulder on the side of the road and left it before it observed Bady. Four guard rails on the south side were taken off and five on the north side.

Neither occupant was very much hurt and the car was only slightly damaged.

Napanee Will Have Daylight Saving Again During July, August

Council Passed Motion to Enforce By-Law

At the regular meeting of the Napanee Town Council, held on Monday evening, the following members were present : Mayor Tustin, Reeve Hughson, Deputy Reeve Wilson, and Councillors Cowling, Masters, Exley, Topping, Morden.

The Clerk read a letter from Mrs. Perry Detlor, asking the Streets Committee to inspect a tree in front of her home on East street, with a view to having it removed. The matter was referred to the Streets Committee, with power to act.

A letter was read from Mr. R. Lucas, asking permission to erect a sign at his gas station on Dundas street east. Mr. Lucas was present and addressed the Council. He said that the work of installing the sign had been started before he was acquainted by Chief Watts with the terms of the governing by-law.

It was moved by Messrs Wilson and Masters that if the erection of the sign complies with the regulations of the by-law that permission be given for its completion, subject to the approval of the Streets and Police Committees. Carried.

A letter from Chief Edwin Watts requested that the Council refund $2.00 to Mr. G. R. Gibbard, the amount collected as dog tax, Mr. Gibbard's dog had been killed. Request granted.

A letter from Chief Watts asked that the Clerk be given authority by the Council to act in the matter of approval for the granting of a public hall license to Peter Ganas.

It was moved by Messrs. Wilson and Cowling, and carried, that the Clerk be authorized to issue the certificate of approval for Peter Ganas' public hall on Dundas street, upon receiving a report from the Chief-of-Police and the Fire Chief that the building conforms to municipal requirements as to health, construction, and operation.

A letter from the Workmen's Compensation Board, concerning the town's liability in the matter of the accident of H. Fairfield on March 14th, 1934, while working for the corporation of the Town of Napanee, was on motion of Messrs. Hughson and Wilson, referred to the Finance Committee for investigation.

Daylight Saving Endorsed

Mr. P. U. Laidley, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce, addressed the Council, and asked that the Council that the Executive of the Chamber of Commerce had passed a resolution favoring Daylight Saving for the Town of Napanee.

Mr. Laidley stated, who was present, also expressed his opinion that Daylight Saving was desirable for the town.

It was moved by Councillor Morden and seconded by Reeve Hughson, and carried, that Daylight Saving be enforced in Napanee from 12 p.m. Saturday, June 30th, to Sunday, September 1st, at 12 p.m., pursuant to the by-law endorsed by the electors at the annual election in January, 1933.

Streets Committee Report

Councillor Morden reported for the Streets Committee, as follows : That Wm. Barnes has been appointed road sweeper to replace Frank Babcock. That storm sewers which were frozen during the winter are still in bad condition ; that in order to melt the ice would cost about $150.00, and it was deemed inadvisable to put the town to that extra expenditure. That arrangements had been made with Mr. Storey for the breaking of 200 yards of clay from 75 yards of one-inch stone, the cost of breaking being 40 cents per yard for one-inch stone and $1.75 for chips.

Councillor Exley brought up the question of garbage collection. He thought the present system was not very satisfactory. He felt that the town should appoint a regular collector, so that some supervision could be maintained and the work could be done to the satisfaction of everyone. Sam Smith, the present collector, had advised him that if everyone from whom he collected garbage paid as they were supposed to do, the sum of $350.00 would be collected by him in a year.

The Clerk explained the present arrangements for collection, made by the individuals served are required to pay $2.00 per year to Mr. Smith. He thought the system adequate. A town garbage collector would cost about $700.00 to $800.00 per year, which, of course, would boost the tax rate.

Following discussion, it was moved by Messrs. Cowling and Wilson and carried, that the matter be left in the hands of the Board of Health.

On motion of Messrs. Morden and Wilson, it was advised that it be left to write a letter of condolence to Councillor Latham.

After the passing of accounts, the Council adjourned

Good sense and good-nature are never separated, though the ignorant world has taught otherwise. Good-nature, by which I mean beneficence and candor, is the product of right reason, which of necessity will give allowance to the failings of others, by considering that it is nothing perfect in mankind.—Dryden

Holstein-Friesian Fieldman Spoke To Local Breeders

A meeting of the Purebred Holstein Breeders of the County of Lennox and Addington, was held in the Agricultural boardrooms on Saturday afternoon, April 14th. Thirty breeders and members of the local association were present. The president, Mr. Robert Merritt, called the meeting to order and introduced the special speaker, Mr. R. M. Holtby, Fieldman for the Holstein-Friesian Association.

Mr. Holtby gave a very interesting report of his recent trip to the Old Country with a consignment of purebred Holstein cattle, which was sent to England. This is the first shipment of its kind ever attempted and the Holstein breeders are watching with interest the results. The cattle sent over were animals of a high standard and Mr Holtby felt sure that the farmers with whom they were placed over there would be well satisfied and be back to this country for more. In addressing the purebred breeders, the speaker put a good deal of stress on building on a good foundation. The first essentials being a herd free from disease and suggested to the members that they have their herds T. B. tested and also blood tested. That the people might know their good cows, he also recommended more entries in R. O. P. work. To take advantage of the bonus offered in the bull policy, it is necessary to have a record of all animals. These bonuses are a distinct advantage to the man who is raising good bulls and, at the same time, an encouragement to the man who is purchasing bulls for the use of his grade herds. Considerable discussion took place with regard to a consignment sale to be held in the Fall. A committee was appointed to deal with this matter.

C. W. Buchanan, Agricultural Representative, spoke for a few minutes and offered the assistance of the Department, through the local branch, to the work of stock improvement. He stated that breeders having bulls for sale might list them with the office and it would be a convenience for buyers in the local district.

THE TROUBLE IN THE C. C. F.

The newly organized Socialist Party known as the C. C. F., has had the experience of all reform parties. It is the history of every reform movement that it attaches to itself all the dissatisfied elements in the community. There are always those in any constituency who are opposed to orderly government, who desire the overthrow of the processes by which the affairs of state are carried on. Under normal circumstances their number is so small as to be of no vital consequence in the life of the nation. But when a new party arises which aims at reform, it is beset with danger within its ranks from two sides. On the one hand, the new party is eager to secure as large a following as possible and is not, therefore, as careful about the ideas of those who enter its ranks as it should be. On the other hand, there are those who are determined to use the new organization to effect their revolutionary programme.

It was not long before this became evident in the C. C. F. The Communistic minority from Ontario were not content with what they regarded as the tame programme of the new party. At once they tried to push the organization further to the left than it was prepared to go. The break had to come and it came when the C. C. F. expelled from its membership, three of these clubs.

In ridding its organization of the Red elements, and adopting a new constitution, the C. C. F. has taken a courageous step. It can now go on its way, unhampered by those who by their radical communism would have totally discredited the organization in the eyes of the electorate.

THE PROGRESSIVES, TOO

There appears to be no one to whom the temperance voter may look to champion his cause in the Province. The Henry Government has promised a less restricted sale of beer and wine. The Liberal Party has not yet issued any manifesto on the beer and wine issue but they have intimated that they will go as far as the Henry Government. And now the Progressives are rapidly getting into line. Mr. Medd, the Progressive of Huron South, who has represented the riding in the last two legislatures was defeated for nomination, in the convention on Monday, by a vote of 60 to 40 on the beer and wine proposals of the Government. He made a really constructive suggestion when he brought in a resolution urging the teaching of scientific temperance in the schools. This was defeated and, for this, he was blamed by those at the convention, while Mr. James Ballantyne was given the nomination.

The Progressives, though of late not a very large group in the House, had, nevertheless, always been looked to as exerting a fine influence and as friends of temperance. And now, in Huron South, they have repudiated the man who had the courage of his convictions and the determination to do the thing for which he was elected.

SOUTH OXFORD

On Monday, in the South Oxford by-election, the Liberal candidate, Mr. Rennie, was returned by a majority of 1,357 votes over his Conservative opponent, Mr. Mitchell, after a straight party fight. There seems to have been no great issue before the electors, except that of electing a candidate. The riding is traditionally Liberal, and has been held by the Conservative party only on two comparatively short terms. There was, undoubtedly, less reason in the sphere of Dominion politics for a turnover than in any other area of government. For the Dominion Government has been characterized by energy, determination, and progressive legislation, all through its present administration. The Ottawa Conference, the Central Bank, the Stevens investigation, and the Marketing Board are only three examples of the fearless and courageous way in which the Bennett Government has faced the problems of changing conditions in the world. Certainly, the official Opposition had nothing to offer to the electors, save destructive criticism of a rather significant character.

But in a time of depression, no matter how well a government may serve its people, the only way in which the ordinary elector can voice his dissatisfaction is by voting against those in power and this, the electors in South Oxford have done.

WHEN DO WE GET IT ?

During the past few years a great deal of road construction has been going on all over Canada, financed largely as a relief measure. Mr. Bennett speaking in the House last Friday gave the following figure and costs with respect to the trans-Canada Highway :

Nova Scotia

	Miles improved or constructed
	59	$	2,094,384
New Brunswick	65		459,635
Quebec	35		150,366
Ontario	830		7,742,158
Manitoba	45¼		655,108
Saskatchewan	17½		67,567
Alberta	145		336,310
British Columbia	160		868,891
Total	1,357		$12,374,219

Commenting on this Mr. Bennet said :—

"I have not that information in detail but the hon. gentleman will recall that there are six miles in British Columbia that have to be completed between Canoe river and the west end of the park. This line is fairly complete across Alberta and Saskatchewan into Manitoba to Kenora, and between Kenora and Port William the work is being pressed forward rather rapidly; then it strikes north and there is a section incomplete. But from Montreal to North Bay the road is practically completed. From North Bay it is in a fair state of completion, and in the maritimes the roads set aside as trans-Canada highway have been improved to trans-Canada standards at the cost I have indicated. So that practically from Nova Scotia to British Columbia there is a relatively small mileage that is not included in what is called the trans-Canada highway."

In our county we have had some share in this road construction. Provincial Highway No. 7 traverses the northern half of the county, east and west. From Napanee north, a provincial artery is under construction, connecting No. 7 with the trans-Canada Highway and yet Napanee which is the county town is shut off from these new highways, by a short piece of almost impassable road. Repeated requests have been made to the Government to have this section from Erinsville to Kaladar, completed, but with no success. If we, in Napanee, are to reap the splendid tourist business which the opening of these great northern roads will bring, this section must be completed.

The Town Council and the County Council must constantly press this upon the Government.

DOMINION—

The need of revision arises from social legislation and the growing tendency to supervise industrial practices. Provincial feathers have started to ruffle over the idea.

The Dominion Budget is to be presented on Wednesday. A deficit of $100,000,000 is expected, when all payments are included; this would be a reduction from the previous year.

* * *

At Ottawa, Major Douglas, British economist, claims that the financial institutions are responsible for the high taxes; that funds are in abundance and there is an urgent demand, but the monetary system does not allow trade.

EMPIRE—

Of enormous significance to Britain is the resolution of the iron and steel trade to re-organize all of their factories, making amalgamations and eliminating wasteful competition. Plants will be modernized to meet, on even terms, foreign manufacturers.

Sir Austen Chamberlain believes that Britain should make treaties, in which each agrees to go to the aid of any member attacked. He considers this more conducive to peace than waiting for actual warfare, before an announcement of attitude.

Editorial Comment

"HINDSIGHT" ON THE GREAT WAR.

The total cost of the World War is generally put at 400 billion dollars. In this sum says the president of Columbia "we could have built a $2,000 house and furnished this house with $1,000 worth of furniture, and placed it on five acres of land worth $100 an acre, and given all this to each and every family in the United States, Canada, Australia, England, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia. After doing all this there would have been enough money left to give each city of 20,000 inhabitants and over in all the countries named $6,000,000 apiece for a library and a university. And then out of the balance we could have still sufficient money to set aside a sum at 5 per cent interest which would pay for all time to come a $1,000 salary each for an army of 125,000 teachers, and in addition to this pay the same salary to each or an army of 125,000 nurses." A WORLD WIDE EPIDEMIC

In no period of human history has there been such an epidemic of moral perversity, such a universal churning up of the mud, filth and dirt of constantly indulging in a violent dream of rendering itself thoroughly hurtful to others. In this galloping competition of hurtfulness, on the slope of bottomless pit, no nation has time to stop or slow down. A scarlet fever with a raging temperature is sweeping the entire body of mankind, and political passion has taken the place of creative personality in all departments of life. —Rabindranath Tagore.

THE PERFECT EXCUSE

(According to an address to the British Association, the older the parent the more intelligent the child —"in the case of parents over 45 years of age the proportion of children was obtained eminently or twice as great as the normal; in the case of parents over 60, ten times as great; and in the case of parents over 70, fifty time as great.")

Cheer up, my little stoopid child,
Nor grieve because last term's report
Was not the kind that might be field
Among the reassuring sort.
And did your parent groan or scoff
To see that document detested ?
You go to him and tick him off
In some such terms as here suggested :—

"My dear Papa, the fault, I fear,
Is yours if my poor brains are dense
Too early in your own career
You launched me on this earthly scene.
The wiser child is long delayed
(Or else is now the new assumption);
So don't complain if I've displayed
Merely the normal share of gumption.

"My Pa, you see, had not himself
Arrived at wisdom's fullest growth;
Therefore his luckless offspring
Betrays a certain mental sloth.
In other words, had I been born
When you were in the sere and yellow
I might have 'scaped scholastic scorn
And been a wondrous brainy fellow."

Then, having said your little piece,
Perhaps you'd better cut and run.
Lest your cruder sentiments
New wrath against an erring son.
Papa may come to such a pass
He don't care whose this pew decree is;
He may defy the British Ass.
But who's the stoopid then ? Why he is !

Minutes of Meeting Cheese Patrons' Association

A meeting of the Cheese Patrons' Association was held in the Agricultural Board-rooms on Tuesday afternoon, April 3rd. Representatives from the cheese factories in the county were present. Mr. Buchanan, agricultural representative, called the meeting to order and explained the objects of the Association and what had been done in the county when forming a county organization.

At the request of those present, Mr. George Pralick was appointed chairman and Mr. C. W. Buchanan was appointed secretary for the meeting. After a few words from the chairman, Mr. L. Jos. secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Cheese Patrons' Association, was asked to outline the plans of organization. He dealt with several phases, including how the local consumption of cheese might be increased as our consumption now, in Canada, is only 3½ lbs. while in England the consumption is 12½ lbs. per capita. He also told how cheese board sales might be improved, and freight rates might be reduced. He touched upon the Marketing Act which would give the Association power to enforce certain regulations that would be beneficial. Several questions were asked regarding the collection and distribution of money that would be collected and also explained that result of trial shipments of cheese to the Old Country. The chairman then put the matter of a county organization before the meeting and it was voted that this meeting form a county organization. It was moved by Mr. P. J. Murphy and seconded by Mr. T. J. Cook, that Mr. Lewis Fox be president-protem. It was moved and seconded that Mr. Geo. Pralick be secretary.

Mr. C. J. Brennan was present and assisted in answering a number of questions. After the meeting requests were made for a number of local meetings and three meetings were arranged for the following dates :

Monday, April 9th, 2:00 p.m.—Bath.
Tuesday, April 10th, 7:30 p.m.—Kingsford.
Wednesday, April 11th, 8:00 p.m.—Wilton.

It is hoped that all those who are interested will attend the meeting that is most convenient for them.

High Analysis Fertilizers

During recent years there has been a distinct trend towards the employment of more highly concentrated fertilizer mixtures. The improvement in the grade of mixed fertilizers has been due in part to the increased production of higher grade superphosphates, containing 20 per cent. and 45 per cent. of available phosphoric acid, and of ammonium phosphate containing from 10 to 17 per cent. of nitrogen and from 48 to 52 per cent. of phosphoric acid.

The chief advantage claimed for the use of high analysis materials is that fertilizing costs can be materially reduced by a saving in freight and handling charges.

The results obtained from the application of these mixtures appear to be much the same as those from equivalent quantities of mixtures of ordinary strength. In experiments conducted by the Division of Chemistry at the Central Farm, Ottawa, and at several of the branch farms of the Experimental Farms System a 4-8-10 mixture has been compared with a 8-16-20 mixture, the latter applied at one-half the rate of the former. The results show that the double strength fertilizer has given as good returns as the less concentrated mixture.

Ammonium phosphate has been found to be a very satisfactory source of nitrogen and phosphoric acid and may be used in the preparation of high analysis mixtures. In an experiment conducted at the branch Experimental Farm at Agassiz, B.C., an application of 280 pounds of a mixture containing ammonium phosphate and muriate of potash gave an average yield of 20 tons of mangels per acre, over a period of four years. Six hundred and eighty pounds of a mixture prepared from sulphate of ammonia, 16 per cent. superphosphate and muriate of potash and furnishing the same amount of plant food as the former mixture gave an average yield of 19.9 tons per acre. In this same experiment the yield of mangels was 20.1 tons per acre where triple superphosphate was used as the source of phosphoric acid.

Fathers, when a child is born, want it to be intelligent. I having designed the whole life by being intelligent, hope that my baby will grow up ignorant and stupid. Then he will crown a tranquil life by becoming a Cabinet Minister.— Chinese Poem.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 22ND, 1934

"ALL FOR THE KINGDOM"
MATTHEW 10 : .16 - 30

The passage set for this week's study follows immediately after the blessing of the children. The reason probably, is a desire to draw a strong contrast. In one sense it is easy to enter the Kingdom of God. All that is needed is a childlike faith and trust. In another sense it is extremely difficult to enter as the passage before us is intended to teach.

A young man came to Jesus and, enquired the way of eternal life. He was told to keep the commandments. On being informed that he had kept them all his life Jesus tells the young man to sell all that he has and give the proceeds to the poor. This was too severe a test, for he had much riches. So the disciples had forfeited his chance to enter the Kingdom. The cost of entering on Christ's service is the willingness to sacrifice. It may be money, honor, prestige, power or a dozen different interests which predominate in the life of the seeker. But not until the central interest is subordinated to the spirit and the whole life given over to the master, is there hope of entering the Kingdom of God.

Jesus, at once, illustrates this so far as it relates to riches, by the parable of the camel. It is a impossible, he said for a rich man to enter the Kingdom as it is for a camel to go through the eye of a needle. Many attempts have been made to tone down this statement of Jesus. Some have tried to find a meaning in an old archway. A certain gate, it is said, was called "The Needle's Eye." Before the beast of burden could go through he had to kneel and have his load removed. Others have taken the word here translated "camel" to mean cable. But, in any case, what Jesus had in mind was the way in which riches operate to keep people out of the Kingdom of God. He was well aware of the subtle influence of wealth. A rich man, merely because of his possessions, is bound to be engrossed in the world more than others. Who then can be saved is the question put by the disciples. All may be saved is Christ's answer, but the only hope for the rich man lies in the special grace of God.

Jesus ends the discourse with a promise of trust and authority to the disciples in the new dispensation. Under the conditions that will prevail in the Kingdom, those who have sacrificed here will be recompensed a hundred fold. Too often this has been interpreted to mean that the next life will make up for much that Christians have missed here. This has had a tendency to make good people satisfied with intolerable conditions and has led the Russians to accuse religion as the opiate of the people." It is doubtful if Jesus ever had such an idea. As it was this thought comes from the early Church which taught that the sacrificed family, home or property for the Kingdom was more than recompensed in the community where the brethren of a new faith gathered that which they had left.

Rheumatism For 12 Years

Here is a letter that goes to prove that every symptom of long standing can be relieved by the right treatment:—

"I have been a sufferer from rheumatism for some 12 to 14 years now and have foolishly taken no steps to relieve it. Any particular form of rheumatism seemed to take the use out of my hands and knees. The latter would suddenly give way and let me down unless a chair or table were handy. All at once, I determined to give Kruschen Salts a trial — a bonafide trial — and now I feel a re-created being. I can scarcely believe that so short a time ago I was hobbling along with a stick."—Mrs M. L. P.

Kruschen is effective against rheumatism because its six salts stimulate the liver and kidneys to regular action. When these organs are working efficiently, they rid the body of excess uric acid. And when uric acid goes, those aches and pains go, too

Numbers rushed up to Colebrook, but by the time they arrived the fire was too far advanced to do anything toward helping to save the contents.

We were glad to see Jack Jayne out to church again, on Sunday night. It was only two weeks before that he was operated upon for appendicitis. He came home on Tuesday and is now milking four cows, night and morning

The Royal Hotel is still unoccupied.

The teachers, Miss Hadigan, of Kingston, and Miss Wagar of Enterprise are back again after spending their Easter holidays at home.

The Yarker-Colebrook W. M. S. is called to meet at the home of Mrs R. W. Freeman on Thursday, April 19th at 7:30 o'clock.

The Official Board of the United Church is called to meet at Mount on Wednesday night. The circle Ladies' Aid will meet at the same time and place.

Miss Storms of Sydenham spent a week end visitor here at her uncle Mr. William Storms.

Yarker, April 16. — Lost week's moving week in this village. E. A. Cowdy has sold out his barber business to Mr. Gordon Moore of Bellrock, and has moved into the Royal hotel. Mr. Moore has leased the barber shop and ice cream parlor, conducted by the past few years by Mr. Cowdy. We welcome Mr. Moore to the village and wish him every success in his new enterprise.

On Thursday night of last week the Colebrook-Yarker W. M. S. held their April meeting at the home of Mrs. R. W. Freeman. All members were present excepting one. Those members are pledging a quilt to be put in the missionary box, this coming summer.

On Friday night the Ladies' Aid held their annual pancake supper in the League Hall. After the supper a program was given by the young people of Wilton.

Maple syrup makers of this district report the best run of sap this early season during the last two days of last week. Also on Sunday, pails buckets were filling up. But unfortunately for the syrup business the rain of Sunday night so relieved the sap that it was made unfit for producing a first class quality of syrup. But the rain will have its redeeming feature in that it will hasten the growth of grass, and that will surely be a godsend for many farmers who are short on feed.

Suggests Re - Unions Pioneer Families Of District

W. C. Mikel, K. C., Police Magistrate, in the course of an address to the Quinte District meeting of the Boy Scouts, in the hall recently of John Street Church, Belleville, Friday evening, suggested that family reunions be held during the Belleville Centennial and U. E. L. celebration at Belleville next June.

Arrangements have been made for the use of the Pair grounds at Belleville for these reunions, free of charge, where water and conveniences are available.

Mr. Mikel suggested that the reunions be in the form of basket picnics and that they be held either on Saturday, June 16th; Monday, the 17th, or Tuesday, the 18th. Each family could arrange their own speakers and program or the Celebration Committee would make these arrangements.

He gave a list of a few of the old pioneer families, many members of which still reside in the Bay of Quinte District.

United Church Near To Balanced Budget

The executive of the Missionary and Maintenance Committee of the United Church, in annual session in Toronto, Wednesday, April 11th, received full financial reports, reviewed the educational and promotional work of the year, and laid plans for 1934.

General satisfaction was expressed that in the most difficult year of the depression the United Church had come so near to the balancing of her budget. From all sources a revenue of $2,578,836 was received by the United Church of Canada for Missionary and Maintenance Fund, this amount being within $32,000 of balancing the budget for the year 1933. During the year a total fo more than $300,000 has been added to the Trust Funds and Reserves, thereby over, large amounts of money and bonds have been provided for Western needs and local relief purposes.

Reports of the services rendered were received with gratitude for countless workers and givers, and especially to the lay and clerical leadership in Presbyteries and Conferences. Several members gave credit to the organ-mowal boxes which had yielded an estimated $100,600. After the feeling had been voiced that in 1934 an increase in giving must be looked for, it was decided to suggest to the Presbyteries that an increase of 5 per cent. should be their aim.

R. W. Trelaven of Hamilton presided.

Homicide in Canada Is Relatively Rare

Homicide in the United States carries a death rate of 104 per 100,000 of population while Canada showed 1.3, according to The Homicide Situation, published by Dr. Frederick G. Hoffman, consulting statistician. Comparisons figures between the United States and England and Wales for 1930-32 show averages of 8.3 and 0.5, respectively.

In the United States, last year, a returned from 180 cities showed a total of 4,503 killings among 62,858,483 people, the rate, already mentioned, having been practically the same for the past three years.

In 14 Canadian cities, the death rate from homicide was 1.3, the return showing 43 homicides among 2,813,014 of population. Montreal's record was 21 murders last year and 14 in 1932.

THIS OWL OBJECTED TO OVERCROWDED ROOST

On going to his hen house the other night, the C. N. R. agent at Pubnico, N.S., J. A. Amiro, received somewhat of a shock when he perceived one of his hens lying on the floor, dead, and a large owl perched on the roost along with the other hens. The owl on entering the hen house and finding no room on the perch, and, evidently strongly objecting to any overcrowding, killed it then and then took her place on the roost.

PARENTS SLEEP WHILE BEAR CUB ARRIVES

History to the contrary notwithstanding, Napoleon and Josephine have a descendant.

Dr. Armand Brassard announced the blessed event. The descendant is a little "ball of wool," born to Napoleon and Josephine, two bears at the Charlesbourg Zoological Gardens, near Quebec. The cub, like all bear cubs, is smaller even than the young of the porcupine. It will be spring by the time young "Nappy" as he may be called, opens his eyes.

In the meantime his parents continue their hibernation, oblivious to so much happiness.

A head filled with knowledge is like a full barrel—not of much use until it disperses its contents.—Dr. Bernard Hollander.

The Late Mrs. M. H. Luffman

The death occurred on Friday morning, April 13th, at her residence on John Street, of Emma Jane Wood wife of Alderman B. H. Luffman.

Mrs. Luffman had been in ill-health the past two years, but only within the past few weeks had her condition been critical. She was born a little over sixty-six years ago in Prince Edward County, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Wood. Years ago she married Mr. Luffman and came to Napanee to reside. With the exception of a few years spent in Belleville, Deseronto and New York state, practically all her married life was lived in Napanee. For a period of ten years, Mr. Luffman operated the Royal Hotel in Napanee, and Mrs. Luffman was actively associated with him in the management of the business. About six years ago they retired and since have made their home at the corner of John and Mill streets.

Mrs. Luffman is survived by her husband, a half-sister, Mrs. Francis in Picton, and a brother in New York state.

The funeral was conducted at the home on Monday afternoon by the Rev. R. T. Richards of Grace United Church. Interment followed at the Riverview cemetery.

The pall-bearers were six members of the Town Council: Mayor O. J. Tustin, Deputy Reeve P. C. Wilson, Councillors Topping, Morden, Cowling and Exley.

Out-of-town friends who attended were Mrs. Irwin and daughter, of Toronto, Mrs. W. Clark of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Howard, of Deseronto.

CATCHES BIRD AND FISH ON SAME HOOK

Hamilton, Bermuda. — Killing two birds with one stone is tame sport compared to catching a bird and a fish on the same hook. Walter Johnson, Bermuda fisherman, hooked a mullet, a fish usually considered poison, on it and swallowing it. With a great deal of difficulty he drew the fish and its victim close to the raptor to his boat. There another struggle ensued, the bird flapping wildly about as he tried to release it from the hook. When the gull was finally freed, it flew away, none the worse for being hooked on the wing.

Former Resident Passed Away At Smiths Falls

SOLOMON BARRAGAR

The town of Smith Falls lost an outstanding citizen on Friday last, in the death of Solomon Barragar, in the 79th year, after an illness of six weeks. Born at Sheffield Township, son of the late L. D. and Mrs. Barragar, a pioneer family of United Empire Loyalist stock, Mr. Barragar went to Smith Falls in 1901 and had resided there since. During that time he had endeared himself to a large circle of friends, who deeply regret his passing.

An employee of the Frost & Wood Company for more than 30 years, the flag at that plant was placed at half mast in his memory. Mr. Larragar was for more than 36 years a member of the Masonic Order, joining at Tamworth, and upon taking up his residence here was affiliated with St. Francis Lodge No. 24, under whose auspices the funeral was held. He was also an active member of the United Church, as well as having been an active interest in the affairs of the community. Mr. Barragar was a Conservative, politically.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was conducted by Rev. Wm. Cornett, pastor of the United Church the pall-bearers being Alfred Malcolm, H. W. Cooper, Rev. A. Irwin, S. Warmington, J. Mallard and Wm. Slack.

Surviving are his widow, who was formerly Miss Elizabeth McKnight, of Kingston; two daughters, Mrs. F. D. Macintosh and Mary Ethel (Minnie), and one son, Arthur M. Barragar, all of Smiths Falls. Seven grandchildren also survive.

Out of town relatives were from Napanee, Selby and Brockville.

Farewell Extended To Selby Couple

A number of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Seale, to say farewell to them. The first part of the evening was spent in games and music and everyone enjoyed themselves.

At 10:30, Mr. and Mrs. Seale were asked to come forward when a very tasty lunch was prepared and served by Mr. Stanley Sexsmith, was given. At the conclusion of this they were presented by John Graves and J. R. Dudgeon, with a beautiful occasional chair, as a token of esteem in which they are held in the neighborhood.

Seale, in the usual manner, thanked his many friends for their kindness and invited all those who felt interested in the presentation to make them a visit in their new home. "For he's a jolly good fellow" was sung after which a most delicious lunch was served.

Good wishes were extended to the parting family in their future home.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S ORGANIZATIONS

MORVEN Y. P. S.

Morven Y. P. S. met in the White Church on Friday evening, April 6, with sixteen members present. The meeting was in charge of missionary convener, Miss Luva Perry. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer, in unison. The usual business was discussed and the President urged these present to attend the bi-annual convention at Belleville, on April 9th. Another hymn was followed by the scripture reading by Irene VanSluyk.

The topic, "What Jesus would do for modern Jerusalem" was very well taken by Miss Luva Perry, after which readings were given by Morley Lake and Miss Lillian Ashley. After the singing of a hymn the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

The next meeting will be held in the Brick Church, with Odessa Y. P. S. in charge of the programme. A welcome is extended to all to attend.

SANDHURST A.Y.P.A.

On Thursday evening, April 5th, a very pleasant time took place at Sandhurst Church Hall, when the winning side for membership was entertained by the losing side, Sharp at 8:09 o'clock, a goodly number of members with a few honored guests gathered in the regular meeting opened with a hymn, followed by prayer. Following the roll call and confirming of the minutes, a rather warm argument ensued concerning the purchase of a new piano.

A short time was spent in a few games, enjoyed by all. Then the guests were seated at a beautifully appointed table, decorated in green, yellow and white and centre piece of a pot of glorious red tulips, and were served with a generous helping of maple syrup, buns and tea. The winners, under the able leadership of Miss Margaret Wright, numbered thirty-nine, and at the close of the evening were enthusiastic in the happy time they had spent.

WEDDING BELLS

GEROW - SCOTT

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the Parsonage, Bloomfield, on Monday, April 2nd, 1934, when Helen B., youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scott, Bloomfield, Forest Mills, became the bride of Mr. N. Grant Gerow, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Gerow of Newburgh, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. W. D. Craig.

The bride and groom were unattended. After congratulations and the signing of the register, the happy couple left by motor for Toronto, Chatham, Detroit and other western points, the bride travelling in blue, with gray hat, shoes, gloves and purse to match.

The community joins in wishing this young couple bon voyage through life.

BASEBALL NEWS
BY G.E.GIBBARD

Now that the annual O.B.A.A. Convention is over the local clubs are beginning to shape up and organization meetings are the order of the day.

The Lay of Quinte League has already had two meetings but not much headway has been made due to the fact that things are so unsettled in the C.O.B.L. situation. However, Picton has flatly refused to play with Napanee this year and just what teams will comprise the League are not as yet known. Picton claim that they have lost five men and are not in Napanee's class.

Brighton, however, are already to go and their attitude towards the sport makes Picton's decision look small. They know that they have not the chance which some other teams have of winning the league championship, but they are in the game for the sport of it Matters will not be cleared up to the Bay of Quinte loop until at April 21st, when the League meets again.

The Lennox County League had their first meeting in Napanee on Saturday night, April 14th. Harry Card was re-elected president and Donald A. Scott, secretary-treasurer.

Any clubs not already entered and wishing to enter the Lennox County Intermediate "B" League this year should write to Mr. Scott at once.

The following teams have definitely entered: Forest Mills, Adolphtown Maple Leafs, Tamworth and Enterprise.

Yarker are doubtful starters at the present time and the GibbardAthletics have not yet decided whether they will enter an Intermediate "B" team in the Lennox County or have a junior club in one of the outside leagues.

The local clubs will be glad to learn that it is not necessary for them to take out amateur cards this year. This will save each player 25c and the clubs in the neighborhood of $5.00 each. The saving to the clubs throughout the Province is around $1,000.00

Walt. Gerow has already had his pitching staff working out in the Armouries and every one of his men are reporting in the pink of condition.

Tommy Pointer is shaping up better than ever and with any kind of support should break some records this year.

George Blazetich, the new-comer from Welland, is showing some nice class and will no doubt hold up his end of the season rolls around.

Rep. Dorey is showing his old stuff and Napanee fans will be glad to see him in a Gibbard uniform this year.

Fred Bentley has not been able to start to work yet due to a broken finger received in a hockey match in Kingston last winter, which is not healing up the way it should. However, it is slowly responding to treatment and Fred should be ready to take the care of his share of the duties when the season opens.

Doug. Fraser, who really did not get going last year after his operation in the spring, is beginning to show his old-time form and is expected to turn in some real work for his club, this year.

With Hughie Brennen, "Chuck" Cairns, and Davie Stinson to do the receiving, the club should not lack for experienced back stops, and it will be up and nuts to see which of these boys gets the call as the regcatcher.

MRS. F. F. MILLER WRITES FROM INDIA

Peshawar, U.W.F.P.
February 23, 1934, India

Dear Mrs. Templeton.—Our winter was over about three weeks ago, and now we are complaining of the heat in the middle of the day. Many a time I've thanked my stars that I wasn't in Canada this winter. We had no really cold weather and no snow. We now spend most of our time out on the lawn, always having afternoon tea there at four-thirty. There is something doing every day—horse show, races, golf tournaments, or regimental sports either in Peshawar or at one of the outlying cantonments. I very seldom go to the races as I'm not very fond of watching them, but the other things I do enjoy. Each regiment has a sports day or, at least, an afternoon, each regiment trying to out-do the other and its all great fun. I am invited to Jamrud Fort on March 6th; very formal invitations were sent. This is the nearest place to Peshawar on the road to the Khyber Pass. The Maralizai, an Indian unit, is stationed there, with British officers. I forget if they are cavalry or infantry. If the former, they'll be well worth seeing, any way they are considered the best Indian regiment there is. On March 7th, I am going to a dinner given by the Royal Signals at their mess and from there to a fancy dress ball given by the bachelors of all units, at the club. Last year I went as an American tourist, but this year am going in full evening dress—as a perfect lady. What a disguise!

My people are still at Belgaum, South India, where Miles is taking the Senior Officers' course, generally known at the S.O.S., the last word being school. This is a course Miles has to take before he becomes a Lt.-Colonel, in 1935. With lectures and outdoor schemes he finds the work very strenuous. He has been asked to lecture to his fellow-students on the work of the Royal Signals and getting that ready means more work. The course lasts three months, so they won't be home until about the middle of April. Every week end they have gone to one seaside place or another where there is good bathing and splendid sea-food, marvelously cooked.

The earthquake at Bikar and neighboring towns and villages was a terrible thing. Even now the extent of the damage is not known. Over seven thousand people were killed and twice that number injured; thousands, palaces and people vanished when huge crevices opened up in the earth and swallowed them up. The vestrics, for days, had been warning from here, Calcutta way—and we fiever felt a tremor. Funds for relief have been sent from all over India and from England as well. One cannot imagine the horror and distress. Fortunately it was also a long way from Belgaum, in an altogether different direction. The wide man who predicted the recent earthquake and others that had already occurred, has now told us that on March 26th we would have a quake in Peshawar. Naturally many people are very nervous but as far, I, have not materialized. This, they say, is not in the zone for very big quakes. We had a slight shock early one morning last year, but I slept right through it. I was much surprised when told about it at breakfast.

The unrest all along the frontier (Afghanistan) is worrying the authorities here. Ever since the King of Afghanistan was assassinated—it must be nearly two months ago—there have been rumors of an outbreak here or there among the different tribes. The different regiments have paraded through the country, tanks, armoured cars and planes included, and the Signals are on duty all over. A part of this work is for the purpose of impressing the men in the tribal territory. Everyone is looking for a very hot summer and everyone's trying to get his two months' leave early in the spring. However, rumors have been known to be false and all are hoping they will prove to be so, this time. It was reported yesterday that no one could go out the Nowshera road without two white armed escorts. That is a drive we often took, the Government Experimental Farm being on that road, ten miles from here. It is a very pretty drive, good roads lined with thick rows of poplar trees on either side.

Our regular Khansama asked for leave to go to his home to be married. I wish you could have seen the letter he sent me. It is good English, and finished at the last with, "I have the honor, Sir, to be your most obedient servant. I have said my last prayer." He wrote written to say my wedding will take place February 12th and I must go. I will bring you a cook, do not worry for that and I will come back for ours. My brother and relatives will be very angry upon me if I do not go." A letter, this week, from the man himself, looked like and is most sorry but he will not have to come back until February 27th as he is very feverish. The man who took his place is almost as good a cook as the original one, so I felt quite safe in giving two dinner parties in the last ten days. Both were very successful.

We were very busy house-cleaning last week. Even if I didn't actually lift my hand to any work, I had to be Johnny-on-the-spot or everything would have been put back as dirty as it was taken out. I had six of the servants working, doing a room a day, except one, not having had any rain since we came from Kashmir last fall, everything was very dusty. These large rugs and numerous small ones had to be beaten. The servants' idea is to lay the rugs on the ground and beat them with ordinary sticks. A carpet beater is a thing unknown in these parts. I imagine they thought me terribly fussy because I made them put the rugs on a line, though they said nothing, at least nothing I could understand.

The next thing on the programme was making orange juice. They call it "Nimbo." Instead of having a thousand oranges on our trees like we had last year, we had only two hundred and fifty, and even with them there was not nearly as much juice as last year, owing, principally, to the dry weather. The Kitmagar and Khansama do all the work between them, under my supervision. At the very last I put a small glass of gin into each bottle, as a preservative and the bottle is quickly corked. The reason I put the gin in myself is to prevent the Khansama taking it for himself and substituting water. The Kitmagar is a Mohammedan and therefore is forbidden to touch intoxicating liquor at any time. The Khansama is a Bengalese, a Buddist. He and the other Khansama come from Chhlagang, one of the rough-est spots in India, several days journey from here.

The groom is not bringing the bride with him though there is lots of room in the servants's quarters. You will never guess where I went the other day? To the native jail! A friend of mine wanted a very odd bed made for her dog and had ordered one there. The prisoners make all sorts of things — rugs, carpets, blankets, sheets, wicker furniture, etc. We often see the prisoners out on the roads. They walk four abreast fastened together with heavy chains that clank as they walk.

Word came, two days ago, that there was an uprising at Wararistan, one of the outstanding tribal places quite a distance from here. But nothing has been said about it since. I forgot to say that I had the Khansama get me two hundred oranges from the bazaar and the four hundred and fifty made just eighteen bottles. I'll do up a couple of hundred more next week and some marmalade as well.

I went to Peshawar City with a friend the first of last week. We were there only an hour, so didn't see very much. When there one keeps altogether on the main streets. There are any number of side streets and alleys, but if one wants to go through them, one must have a police escort, and even then, take a chance. The natives and the frontier tribes fight so much, one is always apt to stop a stray shot in one of the alleys. If one stops, at a shop on main street, fully twenty natives stand and stare at one, gathering in numbers as you go from one shop to another, until there are, at least, fifty before you have gone any distance. They are very polite and don't really bother one. The most terrible looking beggars solicit "backsheesh" but if you refer to one there'll be dozens at your heels in less than five minutes. The last few days have been holy days. Abraham and the lamb is around again and all Hindus celebrate by adorning themselves and their animals with red paint. Coming along the road yesterday we were met by about twenty-five youths with various amounts of paint on each one's face and clothes. As they drew near they began to dance and hop around in front of us. We had seen some but at first it was startling. It is surely weird to meet white or brown horses or oxen with red paint, or a tea cup all over their bodies in red paint.

March 3rd. — Yesterday I went, with friends, to the district sports. It was most amusing, particularly the numbers in which the natives took part. Their costumes were the great attraction; most of them wore what is come of white, other in red, blue or yellow, piped with a different color with a loud shirt worn over it, a color contrasting with the shorts, for instance, red shirts had a yellow shirt; blue a red shirt, etc. All of them removed their puggris when actually racing, only wearing them at any time, and the long hair was fastened on top of their heads with a colored piece of cloth, also of a different color from the rest of their costume. This cloth sometimes became untied and the effect of these men running around the track with their long hair streaming behind them was weird, to say the least. Their legs and feet were bare. But they could run! I forget which unit gave the tea but it was a very good one, the cakes being bought from a celebrated confectioner in Jahore, three hundred miles away.

I went to the cinema last night, first going to a dinner party. The picture was Tom Walls in the Cuckoo-in-the-nest. It was very funny and we all had a good laugh. I am expecting Major and Mrs. Talbot and their young son this afternoon, to stay a few days. They are the cousins who crossed with me from Montreal and with whom I travelled as far as Bombay. Major Talbot is stationed at a fort well part of the frontier, named Razmak, where no women are allowed, so Mrs. Talbot and their son are in Bannu, about thirty miles from Razmak, known as "the abandoned wives" camp.

There's a point-to-point meeting tomorrow afternoon that we may go to or else we'll take a trip to Peshawar City. There's always something to see there.

7:00 p.m. — Have just come back from point-to-point meeting. Everything was quite all right, except that the dust on the road and a small hill we had to climb to get a view were not so pleasant. We had a drive of eleven miles each way, so you can imagine what we looked like when we got home. But we had a scrumptuous tea, including ice-cream which one seldom gets at the front. All the horses were extra fine and I really, for once, enjoyed watching them.

March 7th. — At last, the rain, is here and although it has upset many plans, everyone, I think, is glad to see it. It looked very threatening yesterday afternoon, the day of the day and we were able to take in the sports at Jamrud over ten miles from here—what is called the mouth of the Kyber Pass. There was just enough rain for about three minutes, to settle the dust. It was a very pretty drive and the sports were most interesting. A unit of the regiment was Indian infantry. I am sending yesterday's program. The happenings of March 6th were wonderfully carried out by the 20th. Even on the programme the weather race was most amusing. A chatty is a huge pottery vessel for carrying water. Many people who have no running water in their bungalows use them in their bathrooms. Those the natives carry on their head or shoulders. Those carried yesterday were filled with different colored water which splashed over the man who carried the chatty, giving each one a particularly weird look. A riot of color was all over their shirts, etc. Even Miles, who had a second unit. Later we went out for dinner and to a cinema to see "Bitter Sweet," which I did not care for at all. There was to be another sports afternoon today just outside the wire on the polo grounds but that has been postponed on account of the rain.

I really must stop now as Miles is to go by this week's mail. I received your nice long letter, recently Thanks many times.

Hoping your winter will be over long before this reaches you and kind regards to all enquiring friends.

BERTHA M. MILLER.

The Late William Sutton

One of the most respected citizens of Newburgh, passed away Monday, April 2, in his 80th year, in the person of Mr. W. Sutton. After several months' illness, he took a stroke last fall and despite the tender care of his daughters, reg. nurses, he failed to gain his usual health. He was born and lived most of his life in Newburgh, conducting a butcher business until he bought a farm east of Strathcona, onto which he moved with his son Wilfred. In later years he moved back to Newburgh and bought a house on Main St., where he passed away. Deceased was twice married, his first wife being Miss Bella Dunn of Newburgh, who predeceased him several years ago, leaving three sons, Edward Sutton, now living in Edmonton, Sask., Wilfred at Newburgh, and Orlando, west of Strathcona; also one daughter, Annie May Sutton, R. N. matron of the Duke Samaritan Hospital, Rochester N.Y. His second wife, Miss Eliza Shane, Desmond, also predeceased him a few years ago, leaving two daughters, (Marion) Mrs. Brewster, Rochester, N.Y., and Helen, Mrs. Bradley of Kenmore, N.Y. Mr. Sutton was a member of the council for years and also held the high office of Reeve of Newburgh; he was a member of the School Board for several years and was appointed again this year His casket was laden with beautiful wreaths and sprays from members of the family, the School Board and his many friends. His funeral was held from his late residence, on Wednesday, April 4th, to St. John's Church, of which he was a member, the Rev. R. W. Spencer, officiating. A large gathering of friends paid their last respects and the cortege proceeded to St. Luke's cemetery, Camden East, where he was buried in the family plot. The pall-bearers were Messrs. M. Vandervoort, E. Gardiner, John Sampson, Thomas Millsap, G. M. Walker and Ed. Harrison. The whole community wish to take this means of expressing their deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

The Late Thomas Donovan

The grim hand of death again visited the Tamworth community and claimed for its victim a young and much respected citizen in the person of Mr. Thomas Donovan. Deceased was in his 36th year and lived his life within two miles of this village. He was of a mild disposition and pursued no bad habits and was always thought of, by his many friends as one who was ever willing to give a helping hand to any good cause. He was a member of the United Church and the W. P. S. and was secretary-treasurer of the School Board for a number of years, and up until the time of his illness was actively engaged in farming. He is a staunch Conservative in politics, his farm being his occupation.

The funeral service was held on Wednesday afternoon in the United Church, Tamworth, Rev. R. D. Brown preaching the sermon, while two former ministers, Rev. A. D. Waite of Sharbrooke, and Rev. Clare of Shannonville, assisted in the service. The many beautiful floral tributes and the exceedingly large circle of friends who attended the service, to pay their last respects, testified to the esteem in which deceased was held. He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife nee Ada Pierce, one daughter, Molly, and an infant son. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Donovan, and two sisters, Mrs. Ida Donovan, and Mrs. Earl Bradshaw, all of Tamworth, also survive.

The pall-bearers were four cousins, Messrs. Vernon Paul, M. Breault, E. J. Huffman, Dale Donovan, R. A. Stinson and William Smith. The remains were placed in the vault, to await interment.

The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Wright, on May 21st, as the regular meeting will be combined with the special meeting when the departmental speaker will address us, with Odessa and Wilton joining us.

STRATHCONA W. M. S.

The Easter programme of the Strathcona W. M. S was given on Wednesday, March 28th, at the home of Mrs. Harold Hoare. The vice-president, Mrs. James Wilson, presided in the absence of the president Mrs. Luther, who was confined to her home through illness. The meeting was opened by a devotional Easter responsive service which was very beautiful, the theme being the missionary adventure—our marching orders—the special and precious meaning of Easter for women.

Mrs. O. R. Valley gave a reading, "A song in the night"; Mrs. B. E. Finlay and Mrs. W. Wilson sang a beautiful duet, "Hail to the Risen King." Mrs. W. Uens brought a very well prepared chapter from the study book, "Living issues in China," which was most interesting. Mrs. James Wilson reported the recent Presbyterial. Many thought provoking items were gleaned from the different secretaries' departments, especially, messages from Mrs. Crowe, the Dominion Board president, were received with great interest. As Mrs. Wilson carried us through the different sessions of the Presbyterial, we felt encouraged and inspired to greater zeal and effort in the work of the Kingdom. A loving tribute of respect was paid to the late Miss H. M. Paul, by Mrs. Wilson.

The Easter thank-offering was received which amounted to $24.65. The envelopes were accompanied by slips on which were written, reasons for thankfulness. These were read by the president.

The meeting closed with a hymn, and a duet was sung by Mrs. Hoare.

On Easter Sunday the Mission Band presented a very fine program in the Sunday School. This program consisted of choruses, recitations and Easter exercises. They were very heartily received and the Sunday School offering of $10 was turned over to the Band. The church was brightened by Easter lillies and gay geraniums.

The meeting of the Mission Circle will be held on Friday evening, April 13th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hoare. Everyone come prepared to answer the roll call.

MT. PLEASANT PIONEER W. I.

The opening ode was sung, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mrs. Fred Cumberidge was unable to be present but sent a very nice exhibit of curtain ties. As this was the election of officers meeting the programme was dispensed with and the following officers were elected:—

1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. Secsmith.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. G. Toppings.
Secretary—Mrs. A. Alcombrack.

SELBY W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of Selby United Church held their monthly meeting in the school room, on Thursday, April 5th, at two o'clock. The president, Mrs. Fred Reeder, presided. Mrs. W. Winter had charge of the program, which proved very interesting and helpful Mrs. Fred Weese had charge of the devotional period. Mrs. A. McKnight and Mrs. Dickson sang a pleasing duet, and Miss Lucille Hudgins gave a report of the Belleville Presbyterial, held in Trinity United Church on March 14 and 15, which was very interesting. Other readings were given by Mrs. Reeder and prayer. Several Easter hymn were sung. On account of the lengthy program, the business, which is being taken by Mrs. J. C. Hudgin, and the watch and prayer report, were both dispensed with. We were sorry to miss our Temperance Watch Tower Herald, Mrs. Russell Denison, as she always has something pithy and up to date to tell us. There was some gloom cast over the meeting owing to the fact that there were some who were seriously ill in the community also that death had visited two nearby homes. But at this Easter time we rejoice over the fact that Jesus burst the tomb asunder and became He lives, they shall live also.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. J. C. Hudgins

HOW TO READ THE NEWSPAPER

Some people treat the newspaper with absurd respect, reading it through as if every syllable matter. Others speak of it with contempt: "There never is anything in the newspaper; you waste your time reading it." What helps if people to think? Simply taking the daily newspaper for what it really is; a page of history. Look for history in its ill written sheets, you will think the thoughts of history; look for society, business, or sport news, you will talk the language of the tea table, the stock market, or the baseball field, but you will not think!—Ernest Dimnet, The Art of Thinking.

Miller's Worm Powders never fail. They immediately attack the worms and expel them from the system. They are complete in themselves, not only as a worm destroyer, but as a highly beneficial medicine for children, correcting weak digestion and restoring the debilitated system to healthfulness, without which the growth of the child will be retarded and its constitution weakened.

Chairman of Hydro Answers Questions Concerning Purchases

Royal Commission Report Basis of Answers

Despite the fact that misrepresentations concerning important features of the work of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, have been publicly corrected, attempts on the part of some are still being made to resurrect such matters and represent them as if they had not already been disposed of in a satisfactory way.

In order to correct such erroneous ideas, the following statement concerning some purchases by the Commission, is given. It is based on the report of the Royal Commission of eminent Ontario Supreme Court judges, appointed by the Government, to examine evidence given by interested parties on the question, at extensive hearings.

In the Ontario Legislature on March 26th, 1934, T. D. Lancaster, member for Peterborough, asked Hon. J. S. Cooke, chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, the following questions, to which he gave answer.

QUESTION 1. What procedure was followed by the Royal Commission to ascertain the facts?

REPLY. Counsel representing the Aylmer Public Utilities Commission; Mr. C. Montrose Beasel, K.C., Mayor of the city of Kitchener; Mr. Mitchell F. Hepburn, M.P.; Mr. W. E. N. Sinclair, M.L.A., K.C., and Mr. H. C. Nixon, M.L.A., appeared before the Commissioners and were given full liberty to cross-examine witnesses and to have witnesses subpoenaed who might, in their opinion, give relevant evidence. The Commission—no publicly requested person having any relevant information to submit the facts as that they might be investigated. The Hydro-Electric Power Commission produced voluminous papers and records and its disclosure and production of documents was complete. The original Commissioner, the Hon. Mr. Justice Middleton, appointed Counsel to assist in the investigation and his services were continued by the succeeding Commissioners, Hon. Mr. Justice Orde and Hon. Messrs. Justice Riddell and Justice Sedgewick.

QUESTION 2. What was the finding of the Commission regarding the propriety of the purchase by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario from John Aird, Jr., of the sum of $50,000 in connection with the purchase by the Commission of the Mr. O'Brien's interests on the Mississippi and Madawaska rivers?

REPLY. In view of the proven facts that it was made manifest by the owner of the property that the price claims must of necessity be settled, O'Brien mentioning 2½ per cent as the proper commission to be paid Aird, and that the Hydro-Electric Power Commissions' engineering staff were unanimous in the opinion, so make an investment of $1,850,000 as the "total cost of the property," and whether $50,000 of that amount were paid directly to the owner or to the person he had stipulated "should receive consideration" was a matter of perfect indifference, the Royal Commission found that:

"On the facts proved beyond controversy we have no doubt whatever of the impropriety of the payment by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario to John Aird, Jr., of the sum of $50,000 in connection with the purchase by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario of the M. J. O'Brien Limited power interests on the Mississippi and Madawaska Rivers" as paid Aird specifically report."

QUESTION 3. What was the finding of the Commission regarding the payment of $125,000 by the Beauharnois Interests to John Aird, Jr., and the relationship, if any, of this payment to the purchase of power by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario?

REPLY. The Royal Commission, after examining the evidence, concluded that Aird did not receive the money with any intimation that it should be passed on to any political party or that it should have any effect on the purchase of power by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and the Royal Commission stated "it cleared Aird of such effect." The Commission found that:

"While the payment of $125,000 was made to Aird it had no relation to the purchase of power by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario."

QUESTION 4. What was the finding of the Commission regarding the purchase by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario of assets and undertakings of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, Limited, and the price paid for these properties?

REPLY. The Royal Commission, having considered the engineers' report that a 300,000 horsepower peak-load plant could be erected and in co-ordinated with the Hydro system as is now the Commission is paying $21,000,000 for the Dominion Company's assets, treating the radial railways as having a scrap value and which report was concurred in by the auditor and financial adviser of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, found as follows:

"The purchase of the Dominion assets and undertaking resulted in many important advantages to the Commission. It made possible the production of peak power at a lower cost than it could be supplied by any other means; it prevented the undertaking being acquired by interests unfriendly to Hydro, a real menace at that time; it did away with the keenest possible competition in the large and important area of the Province; it eliminated the duplication of plant and services on highways; it stopped the installation in the same area of equipment for 25-cycle current for Hydro customers and 66 2/3-cycle for Dominion, a condition that made co-ordination of the two systems more difficult at a time went on; it prevented the Dominion Company making contracts for power and expending large sums on proposed works which would increase the purchase price at a later date without any corresponding benefit to the Commission as a purchaser; and it also prevented competition between the two corporations for water that may in the future become available from Lake Erie."

"The operation of the properties independently by the Hydro shows a surplus after paying interest on purchase price, operation and maintenance charges, including those of the electric railways. The radial lines have been abandoned as contemplated when the purchase was made."

"We beg to report that after a most extensive search no trace was found of a single transaction in the Company's shares by any one having confidential information."

"We unhesitatingly find that the purchase in the circumstances existing at the time was in the public interest; was made after full and adequate investigation; was reasonable as to price and was not prompted by any motive other than the public good."

In his final report, the Royal Commission, after reviewing the evidence and presenting its specific findings in regard to the questions submitted to it, added a general finding:

"We find that in respect to the matters inquired into the business and dealings of the Commission and its staff have in no respect been conducted on the highest business principles and with great skill and rectitude."

Summoned To Court Man Takes Poison

Ross Peters, aged 37, is critically ill at his home, after having swallowed bichloride of mercury tablets. It was learned that Peters, who has been served with a summons to appear on a charge of having stolen goods in possession, went to the office of Dr. J. Meiver on Thursday morning and secured three bichloride of mercury tablets, saying they were to be used for disinfectant. Later he became critically ill and it was learned he had swallowed two of the tablets.

Provincial Constable Barrett, Napanee investigated.

Flinton Couple Meet Death in Disastrous Fire

Belleville. — Mrs. Fred Dion, 35 Flinton, was burned to death in her home situated two miles west of Flinton, early on Thursday, April 19, when fire of an unknown origin destroyed the frame home, while her husband succumbed to burns, received in attempting to rescue her from the blazing inferno, late on the same afternoon, at the Belleville General Hospital. The man was terribly burned about the back, face, legs and hands, and his death was not unexpected by Dr. J. J. Robertson, who attended on his admission.

The hired man, Murray Woods, and a neighbor, Mrs. Jane Demore, an aged woman, who were in the house at the time, escaped, but Mrs. Dion was overcome by smoke, and before her husband could carry her to safety she succumbed, he escaping the fire by the narrowest of margins.

It is understood they were boiling down sap at the time of the fire, and that the sap boiled over on the stove, causing the whole downstairs to become ignited at one time, so swiftly did the fire spread. Dr. Maher, Coroner at Tweed, attended the scene, and Provincial Constable Hill of Madoc was also at the scene, and the Coroner has ordered an inquest, which will be held dat Flinton in the near future.

The blaze was first discovered by Woods, who immediately awoke Dion and shouted to the two women who were sleeping upstairs. Mrs. Demore reached the stairs and was pulled to safety, but repeated shouts to the remaining woman in the house brought no results.

Woods went to the home of Albert Dion for help, and when they returned Fred Dion was running about the yard practically naked, his clothing having been burned from his back. Panic-stricken, he had reentered the house in an attempt to rescue his wife and save a few articles of furniture.

Mrs. Dion was formerly Harriet Perau of Minnespolis, where her family still resides. Dion is a farmer and a well-known local truckman and formerly resided in Tweed.

An inquest will be held. Part of the remains of Mrs. Dion were taken from the debris.

The body of Mr. Dion was released at Belleville late in the afternoon and taken to Flinton, where a double funeral will be held for the victims.

On Saturday night Wm. Mowers was arrested and placed in custody on two charges, first on a breach of the Liquor Control Act, Section 72, in having liquor not purchased from a Government store. The second charge was under the Excise Act, being liquor in his possession not lawfully manufactured.

He appeared in the Magistrate's Court and was remanded for hearing until Saturday, April 28th, at 2 p.m.

A Kingston citizen was convicted on a charge of speeding on the highway, on an information laid by Traffic Officer L. O. Rawlins. He was fined $5.00 and costs by Magistrate Graham.

Oddfellows Lodges Attend Service in St. Andrew's Church

On Sunday last the I. O. O. F. organizations in this district attended service in St. Andrew's United Church. Those participating were Napanee Lodge No. 86, Argyle Lodge No. 212, Encampment No. 16, and Queen of Sheba No. 254. About two hundred were present, one of the most largely attended church services ever held by the local organizations.

The occasion was the 115th anniversary of the founding of Oddfellowship in America. Having this in mind, Rev. A. J. Wilson, minister of St. Andrew's United Church, stressed the ideals for which the Order stands. He pointed out the needs for the application of the principles of Oddfellowship throughout all human relationships. He urged however, that in order to accomplish this, the men and women who would change the world and create a kingdom of fellowship, must be dominated by a great, overpowering religious motive. Lacking that motivation, movements and programmes for human betterment soon waste themselves in fruitless endeavor.

Special music was provided by the choir, under the able leadership of Miss Mary Daly.

"Queen Alice," was rendered in a sympathetic and thoroughly devotional manner. Mrs. Eppbell rendered a solo "Just for Today," in her usual finished and consecrated manner.

Miss Baughan, the proficient organist, presided at the organ throughout.

Canadian Cheese Must be "Dated"

Maker Must Show Day and Month of Manufacture

In future all Canadian cheese and all packages containing cheese will be marked with the date of manufacture. The date of the manufacture will be applied to the cheese within twenty-four hours after the cheese is removed from the press, the date mark indicating the day of the month and the month of the year. Thus "4-4" would indicate the 2nd of April.

For some two years independent retail organizations have requested the dating of cheese, and, speaking some time ago at the annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, J. F. Singleton, Dairy and Cold-Storage Commissioner for Canada, said that "the adoption of the practice of showing the dates of manufacture seems likely not only to meet the wishes of a considerable number of buyers in Canadian cheese, but also to have a beneficial influence in marketing our so-called 'fodder' cheese. Showing the dates of manufacture will tend to break down the prejudice now existing against our late fall cheese, the work involved in applying the additional marks to the cheese and to the boxes will be well worth while."

Rev. A. D. Waite, Speaker at Men's Club, Trinity Church

The second regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Trinity United Church was held at the dining hall of the church on Friday evening, April 20th, at 6:30 o'clock.

Supper, prepared under the direction of a committee of the club, took charge of the meeting and a short programme of music was presented. Several choruses were sung by a group of young men of the church, with the pianist, Mr. Gray, as accompanist and leader. Mr. Gerard Doyle, a pupil of the N. C. I. also rendered two violin solos and played two very fine pianoforte solos.

The speaker of the evening was the Rev. A. D. Waite, minister of the Deseronto United Church. Mr. Waite was introduced to the audience by Rev. Harry Pawson, minister of Trinity. Mr. Waite's address was on the subject: "The Oother Fellow." He is a speaker of outstanding ability and pleasing personality. He made the subject most interesting and of practical value to his audience, who listened to him with rapt attention. He said, the first thing we need to realize is that "the other fellow" exists. His needs are three fold — understanding, courage, sympathy. The other fellow has his possibilities and it is our privilege to release them, accomplished. The treatment of the theme showed a sympathetic understanding of the problems facing the average man on the part of the speaker. It was enlivened with anecdotes and apt illustrations. In conclusion, Mr. Waite said: "Ourselves are redeemed through the process of redeeming."

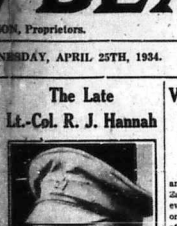
The Late Lt.-Col. R. J. Hannah



Lieut.-Col. Robert Johnson Hannah one of the most prominent citizens of the county, passed away at his home in Reidville, near Enterprise, on Tuesday evening, April 17th. His death came after an illness of some weeks and ill-health of some months duration.

The late Mr. Hannah was a successful farmer and was well-known in civic, political and military circles, for many years. He was born in the Township of Camden, about 60 years ago, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Hannah.

His interest in civic affairs extended over a long period of years. For some time he served on the council board of the township of Camden and in 1919 became deputy reeve. For the years 1920, 21, 22 23 and 24 he was Reeve of Camden and in 1925 held the high position of warden of the County of Lennox and Addington. He was chairman of the county good roads committee in 1921 and for one year was president of the Ontario Good Roads Association. Interested in Military Affairs

Lieut.-Col. Hannah had been keenly interested in military affairs for many years. He was commissioned in the 47th Prontenac Regiment in 1894. In November, 1915, he was instrumental in recruiting and taking to camp "O" Company of the 146th Battalion. On account of medical unfitness, he was unable to see active service, overseas. In June 1920 he was named major in charge of "C" Company of the re-organized Prontenac Regiment and was gazetted Lieutenant-Colonel of the regiment in December 1927. He retained this position until 1933 when the command was taken over by Lieut.-Col. H. L. Babcock and he was placed on the reserve battalion.

Mr. Hannah was a member of Victoria Lodge, A. F. & A.M. of Centreville, the Orange Lodge of Centreville and the Anglican Church at Tamworth. He is survived by his wife formerly Miss Close of Croydon, three children, Mrs. Alex Hall of Kingston, Ontario, Donald and William, at home. There are also one brother, Alex. Hannah and three sisters, Mrs. Kennedy, Miss Milly and a sister in New York.

Firemen Extinguish Two Fires in Week

On Wednesday evening, about 8.30, a fire alarm was turned in from the west end of the town. The firemen found that the blaze was in the home of Mr. Frank Babcock, on Mill street. Quick work on the part of the fire brigade soon extinguished the fire, but not before considerable damage was done to the building and contents.

On Tuesday, at noon, the firemen were again called to put out a chimney fire at the home of Mr. Merrill Pigeon, on Centre street. No damage was done to the building.

Dom. Finance Minister Presents 1934 Budget

Reviews Economic Situation

On Wednesday, April 18th, Hon. E. N. Rhodes, the Minister of Finance for Canada, presented his third budget to the House of Commons. While a deficit of $135,200,000 for the fiscal year was revealed, a decided improvement and a brighter outlook for the future was also shown. The deficit is $22,500,000 less than that of the previous year.

Mr. Rhodes said: "The fiscal year that has just closed has been a year of recovery, recovery that, is unmistakable and of greater magnitude than many had thought possible." He named numerous proofs in support of this declaration. Practically the whole of the decrease in the deficit was due to the reduction in ordinary expenditure. The deficit on ordinary account was $24,100,000 as compared with $43,300,000 last year.

Total expenditure on ordinary account was $347,700,600 and ordinary revenue was $323,600,000. The total net debt showed an increase. In 1933 it was $2,899,088,000 and this year it is $3,781,600,000. The gross debt of all revenues was $3,34,013,000, compared with $311,130,000 last year. The gross debt as at March 31st amounted to $4,59,238,000 this year, compared with $3,947,904,000 last year.

More People Employed

Returns from 8,409 employers in March, showed an increase of 153,668 more men employed than at the same time last year. The total estimated increase in employment for the year is placed at 350,000. The estimated total of trade for the fiscal year is $1,819,450,000 as compared with $1,667,000,000 for last year.

Benefits from the Ottawa trade agreements are shown even in the fact that one-third of the Dominions total purchases abroad were from empire countries as compared with one-fifth in 1929.

Relief expenditure for the year was $600,000. The total relief costs since 1930 reached $115,000,000.

Kaladar Man Released On Bail

Charges of obtaining monies under false pretences from the Ontario Government were laid against Everett Hughes of Kaladar after an investigation by two members of the Ontario Highways Department, assisted by Provincial Constable John Kelly. Hughes was placed under arrest at his home in Kaladar and later appeared before Magistrate Lloyd and liberated on $5,000.00 bail.

Hughes has been employed for some months past by the Ontario Government, as foreman, timekeeper and purchasing agent during the construction of Provincial Highway No. 7, near Kaladar. It is alleged by the police and the Government officials, who investigated that Hughes has been carrying on his pay sheets the name of a man who has not been employed by that department since last September, and later converting this pay check to his own use.

The accused man will appear for trial at Kaladar next Wednesday, April 25th. — Tweed News.

Modern Methods of Education for Deaf Show Great Results

Work to Commence at Peace Garden This Spring

The United States Government, in conjunction with the state of North Dakota, has offered to place a work camp, this spring, at the Peace Garden site. The Civil Work Department of the United States will furnish up to 700 men and the camp and the supplies will be free. The tools and materials are to be furnished by the International Peace Garden Inc. The site is a strip of timber, twelve miles wide and one hundred miles long, east of Deloraine, Manitoba, and west of Morden. It will run through North Dakota and the boundary of Manitoba. It is an international strip of territory, half of it lying within Canada and the other half within the United States.

On January 9th the voting delegates of the International Peace Garden Inc. met in New York city and J. W. Parmley of Ipswich, South Dakota, C. E. Danielson, of Minot, North Dakota, and W. E. Groves, of Bowmanville, Ont., were elected to the board of directors for three years. Last week the Board met at Brandon, Manitoba, and accepted the United States Government's proposals.

The preliminary work is to start at once. The Federal Works Fund has been asked for $30,000.00 and are carefully considering the request. The United States Customs and Immigration Department have set aside an appropriation for the building of a customs and immigration building at the boundary, this year. The State of North Dakota has purchased the privately owned land on the American side, and this with that donated by the United States Federal Government is being transferred immediately to the International Peace Garden Inc. Gravelling the highway from Dunseith to the boundary and establishing an airport at the boundary, are under consideration.

When the United States are committed to the project, it is hoped that Canada will soon appropriate funds to finance the work on the Canadian half of the park. Representations will be made to the Dominion Government for aid, and, at least a limited campaign for funds in this project will be mapped out in the near future, by the finance committee. — Condensed from The Recorder, Boissevain, Manitoba.

Deaf Children Present Concert

Last Tuesday evening a group of children from Ontario School for the Deaf presented a concert in the Town Hall. Long before the time advertised for opening, the hall was filled to capacity, many having to stand through the two hours.

About sixty children were on the programme. They were under the personal supervision of Mr. H. B. Fetterly, the Superintendent of the Institution. Along with him were about twenty other members of the staff, who assisted the children in the preparation for the performance. The group had been brought to Napanee by the Sunday School of St. Andrew's United Church, of which Mr. A. MacGregor is the Superintendent. While the audience was assembling they were entertained by the Sunday School orchestra.

Rev. A. J. Wilson introduced Mr. Fetterly, and spoke of the progress which had been made during the last few years in dealing with deaf children. He spoke in glowing terms of the part which the Belleville institution, particularly under the present superintendency was playing in rehabilitating these children.

Mr. Fetterly accepted on the audience the purpose of the programme, and urged them not to expect too much. He said that few knew the modern methods of dealing with the handicapped. He hoped that by giving public demonstrations he would be enabled to interest the people in his work and elicit sympathy for the children in his institution. He refused to take the credit himself for what the school had accomplished. He said he had forty-three members on his staff, all of whom were not only capable, but entirely devoted to their work. The finest possible co-operation and harmony between them all has made it possible for the institution to make very great progress.

Varied Programme Presented

The programme consisted of dances, choruses, and drills of various kinds. The work was carried out with perfect time, and with rhythmic movement almost unbelievable, even though it was not possible for the performers to hear a sound. The dances were carried out with grace and charm, and without the least hesitation on the part of the children. From the age of six and seven years, who went through the dance of the Roses and Butterflies, to the group of girls who performed the more intricate dances, perfect movement and time were maintained.

The children were garbed in the loveliest costumes, which were especially appropriate for each number. All these costumes were made by the girls during the winter under the supervision of their teachers.

Boy of Eight Conducts Band

Perhaps the most popular numbers were those of the rhythm band. This little band was made up of boys and girls. They had various instruments and were lead by one of their own members, a little Italian boy of about eight years of age. The audience applauded and applauded, but all this was lost on the children, who were unable to hear a sound of what was taking place.

Mr. Petterly called attention to what the children were discovering achievement of the evening, when Albert Lavelle, a seventeen year old boy, rang a solo, even though he was more than fifty per cent. deaf.

Solos, dances, lantern, pantomimes, and club swinging, completed an exceedingly entertaining and instructive evening.

Before the singing of the National Anthem, Mr. Wilson expressed appreciation for Mr. Petterly, and to Mr. Gordon, who presided at the piano, and whose ability and enthusiasm was, to a large extent, responsible for the demonstration, and to the ever faithful Alcock, who worked in the dressing room, changing costumes and enabling the programme to go forward like clock work. Mr. Petterly, in acknowledging the appreciation, extended an invitation to any interested to visit the school.

At the close of the evening the committee in charge served refreshments and a social half hour was spent with the members of the staff and the children.

September 10, 11, 12 Napanee Fair Dates

The dates for the Napanee Fall Fair have been set for Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, September 10, 11, and 12. These dates are the same time when the fair was held some years ago, before it was changed to the latter part of August.

Many people consider September a better time for the fair, as farmers are not so busy as earlier and vegetables, fruits and grains are more mature.

It is expected that the Conklin midway will provide part of the entertainment. Other special features are also being arranged

A MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY

Leon Trotsky, the man without a country, hated and hunted at home, refused admittance in eleven countries to which he applied for refuge, temporarily exiled in Turkey, has mysteriously appeared in France and has been ordered to move on. Once the virtual dictator of a hundred million people, he is now harried from pillar to post, with no place that he can call his home.

When the Russian revolution was in its initial stages, Trotsky and Lenin were the moving spirits. It is still believed that Trotsky supplied the brains and the genius, while Lenin was the dynamic and driving statesman. On the death of Lenin the struggle for supremacy in the Soviet States, at first, threatened the new constitution. But Stalin showed himself the greater strategist and succeeded in ousting Trotsky. While Stalin became the dictator, Trotsky had to flee for his life.

In Turkey he found life irksome; he said it was a physical Eden but an intellectual desert. He sought safe-keeping in a dozen different nations and finally was granted permission to enter France on condition that he refrain from revolutionary activities.

A week ago he was discovered by the gendarmes in a little villa in the forest of Fontainebleau, thirty-five miles southeast of Paris. The gendarmes knew nothing of his presence but were suspicious of the large amount of mail delivered to the isolated spot, every night. An investigation has been made and Trotsky has been found to have violated his pledge to refrain from revolutionary propaganda. So, once more, he is on the move; but nobody knows, not even Trotsky himself, where to. No one wants him.

He is a man without a country!

SUGAR AND GOLD

Last year, when the Dominion Government placed a tax of two cents a pound on sugar, every man, woman and child in Canada was forced, by that regulation, to pay a heavy tax to the Government. At that time, we pointed out how hard a tax that was, particularly on the poorer citizens. For every one has to buy sugar. It is consumed by rich and poor alike. The tax of two cents a pound means nothing to the men of wealth, but it is a very serious matter to people getting along on reduced pay or who are on relief.

This year, the Government, in its wisdom, has decided to shift part of the burden of the sugar tax from the backs of the poor people to those in the community who are better able to bear it. In introducing the ten per cent tax on gold, the Finance Minister said: "To replace the revenue lost by the reduction in the tax on sugar, it is proposed to levy a tax of ten per cent. on gold." But such a cry has gone forth from the gold producers and holders of gold stocks, that there is some danger that the Government may be stampeded into modifying its enactment.

The utter selfishness of the men of wealth in this country has never been better shown than in this action. At this time, when tens of thousands are out of work, when it is well nigh impossible for them to secure even the necessities of life, that men who hold gold stocks and shares should protest against a tax which would lift the load a little from the poor, is a said commentary on their attitude toward public responsibility.

The glaring, callous selfishness of it becomes more evident when the history of recent movements in gold is recalled. Since Canada abandoned the gold standard, the price of gold in Canada has risen from $20.67 per fine ounce to $35.00. The gold producers were in no way accountable for this rise in price. It was due as Finance Minister Rhodes pointed out, entirely to the disturbed economic conditions of the world.

The imposition of the tax will reduce the price on gold received by the producers, from $35.00 to about $31.50 a fine ounce. But, at that, the price is ten dollars an ounce more than it was a year ago, more than it ever was under the gold standard. The mines were opened, operated, and conducted when the price of gold was fixed, and when there was apparently no thought that it would ever be higher than $20.67. But, by a strange turn in events, the price of gold has gone up by leaps and bounds. And when the Government proposes to take a small portion of those profits to replace the one cent a pound on sugar, there is a concerted and powerful move against it.

It is this sort of thing which is thoroughly discrediting the men of wealth in the eyes of the people. No wonder there is discontent among the masses.

A wise mother and good books enabled me to succeed in life. She was very poor, but never too poor to buy books for her children. It is a mean economy that starves the mind to feed the body.—Henry Clay.

SCHOOL SAVINGS

Peterborough is one of the places in which the Penny Bank System of saving is most successful. And yet, when it was inaugurated some years ago, it was met with a good deal of opposition. The teachers and those in authority were nervous as to its success. They thought it would cut into the curriculum and detract from the regular work of the student. In practice, however, they have discovered that their fears were ungrounded.

As a result of its operation, the children have been taught habits of thrift. They have saved a considerable reserve on which to draw in days of depression.

Commenting editorially on the annual report for 1933, the Peterborough Examiner has this to say:—

"Although withdrawals have exceeded deposits, as might be expected in a period of economic stress, it is gratifying to note that the saving among Peterborough school children continues to leave the provincial average well behind.

"Forty-five per cent. of the pupils in the local Public schools made regular weekly deposits during January and February, according to the report of the Penny Bank, while the aggregate throughout Ontario was only thirty-three per cent.

"The two schools in the south, strange enough, occupy top and bottom place in the list, 71 per cent. of the pupils of King Edward school making regular deposits during the period under review while the Prince of Wales school reports regular saving by only 34 per cent. of its pupils, the only school in the city falling below the provincial average.

Central school just equalled that average and Queen Mary School was a little above with 35 per cent. The percentages of the other local schools were: South Central, 69; Queen Alexandra, 65; and King Gebge 47.

"Altogether Peterborough's school children had to their credit in the Penny Bank at the end of February the substantial sum of $15,795.66 as against deposits of $16,407.24 on the same date a year ago.

"In other words local pupils drew out during the twelve months some $600 more than was deposited during the same time, some of which was taken out by graduating pupils while the balance has undoubtedly been used to good advantage in meeting the unusual economic conditions of the present period."

The experience of Peterborough is not unusual. The Penny Banks in the public schools have been a proven success over a long period of years. The matter has been discussed several times by the local School Board, and much interest has been shown in the system by the Members of the Board.

JAPAN AND THE FAR EAST

The Japanese are well known as the greatest imitators on earth. They have imitated the western school system and system of highway education, which they have adapted to the needs of their own people. They have imitated and copied the western methods of large scale production and financing of industries, until within a comparatively short period they have become serious contenders in the world's markets. They have copied the military system of Europe and have a well-trained, devoted, and highly efficient fighting machine.

They have also copied the political and imperialistic methods of European and American countries. As a result, the people of Japan are intensely nationalistic and inordinately ambitious to make themselves the dominating power in the East. The latest note which the Foreign Office recently made public, gives notice to the rest of the world that they will tolerate no interference in Chinese affairs by any outside nation. Once again they are following the example of the West and establishing a sort of Monroe Doctrine which shall be for Asia what the original proclamation was for America.

To be sure, Japan protests to the World, that she has no wish for China other than that she may be of help. But they will, as usual, put their own interpretation on what that means. They protested, similarly, with respect to Manchuria and then proceeded to establish the puppet state of Manchukuo. They protested they were not at war with China at the very moment her guns were destroying thousands of helpless women and children in Shanghai.

The unfortunate feature of the whole Eastern situation is that Japan is imitating practices which the West followed a hundred years ago. The policies of national imperialism which dominated the nations of the West, years ago, have landed the world in the situation of depression, and uncertainty in which it now finds itself. And the Western nations in theory at least, have come to realize the futility of the policies of the East. Hence the effort during the last decade to adjust differences, and to control markets, not by means of force and sabre rattling, but by negotiation and conference. That they have not been as successful as we would have wished is not to be wondered at; after developing a public opinion of one sort, it is difficult to change it overnight. In spite of seeming failures, however, the newer methods of settling the affairs of the world will, ultimately, prevail.

It is unfortunate that Japan does not see that in copying the West—she is copying, not the Western methods of to-day, but of fifty years ago.

Man cannot so far know the connection of causes and events, as that he may venture to do wrong in order to do right. When we pursue an end by lawful means, we may always console our miscarriage by the hope of future recompense. When we commit only our own policy, and attempt to find a nearer way to good by overleaping the settled boundary of right and wrong, we cannot be happy even by success because we cannot escape the conclusiveness of our fault, but if we miscarry, the disappointment is irremediably embittered. —Dr. Samuel Johnson.

HOW RESEARCH PAYS

To those who are still sceptical as to the practical value of scientific research in the development of industry—and the niggardly nature of the provision that is made for such work by most industries suggests that they are many—we commend perusal of the report of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. In it there is told the arresting tale of how the grant of $1,000,000 made by the British Government in 1917 for the encouragement of industrial research, which is now exhausted, was not only well but most profitably spent. It is admitted in the report that it is impossible as a rule to assess in terms of money the importance of the part played by research in industrial progress, but several quite concrete examples are quoted. As a result of experiments by the Electrical Research Association costing £200,000 annual savings amounting to £1,000,000 have accrued, while the Iron and Steel Research Council's investigations are expected to result in saving about £500,000 worth of coke per annum in the production of pig-iron and a saving in coal of less than £40,000 in the gas production of finished steel. — The Statesman, Calcutta.

THE CANADIAN MARKETING BILL

The Natural Products Marketing Bill which the Canadian Government has introduced into the Federal Parliament appears likely to become the principal issue in Dominion politics. . . . Canada depends upon her primary production, and most of her farmers, like those of Great Britain, seem to have become convinced by recent experience that like with security. It may be assumed that the American experiments in economic planning have not been without influence in Canada; but the Bill is avowedly based on the British Model. If it becomes law and is put into effective operation, Canadian farmers will be organized on the same lines as those in Britain, and the discussion of common problems and the arrangement of satisfactory conditions for trade will be proportionately easier. A similar development seems likely in Australia. Mr. Bruce's experience in London has convinced him more than ever that the solidarization of the Commonwealth, and indeed of all the British countries, depends on the pursuit by the Governments of the Empire of a concerted policy in trade and production, and not by the Governments alone, but also by the leaders of agriculture, industry, commerce, and finance.—London Times.

MASS BUYING

To condemn right away all chain stores would be going far too far, much too far. We have the chain mail order houses, the co-operative, social, commercial. Our religious institutions develop by opening chains of branch establishments. The banks do likewise. It is not the branch system that is at fault, but the way it is done. In our banks we have the branch system wisely operated. Nothing can come from it but good. Not from mass buying; not from branches; but from the faulty capitalization of some of these enterprises, and from the lack of social legislation. — L'Action Catholique, Quebec.

AS THE BULLETIN SEES IT

Three months ago Australia was in the throes of a "defence" campaign, fostered particularly by the flapper press. Japan was the bugaboo. Having yelled blue murder for several weeks and stirred nervous Australians into a state of mind in which they expected invasion at any moment, the sensationalists decided to send one of their young men to Japan to investigate the facts of which they seemed positive. The young man has delivered his verdict. It is as follows:—"There is not the slightest sign in Japan of any antipathy towards Australia . . . in fact, it must be said that, there is not much known in Japan about Australia at all. . . . Responsible Ministers have little more knowledge of the Commonwealth than that which appears in the atlas." . . . On the back of the more warlike mind is there any territorial ambition aimed at Australia. . . . The country cares little for the Commonwealth. . . . Apart from possibilities of trade and the obvious wool aspect." All of which proves how far the yellow-eyed peril is from it. Item it is standing for circulation.—The Sydney Bulletin.

THE IRONY OF IT ALL

Have you noticed that there is a kind of irony in the night when you sometimes sit down to the reading of a music-hall? The dark blue spaces, the distant stars, and the gently rocking couch you.

But if you have been listening to a Beethoven symphony or have been visiting an old friend, there is none of this irony. The night seems to be on your side. That is another old-fashioned way of saying that you are more than all the comic hats and false noses that the comedians wear.—J. B. Priestley, in the Sunday Dispatch.

PEOPLE WHO "CANNOT BE ALONE"

Sometimes I have a doubt about the benefit of finding myself in positions today. So many people say, 'I cannot be alone. I must be stimulated by the crowds, of which I am a part.' We are not only going in for mass production of tables and chairs which are nearly always bad). Now we are going in for mass-production enjoyment. That is new and wrong.

I beg you to remember that one of the great tests that we have to put upon an educated mind is 'Can you spend a couple of hours at your own fireside with yourself, and at the end of that time find that the companionship you have been together?' Do not find satisfaction in crowds. Remember that you are an individual The person who goes through life taking good advice from others is not much good. The purpose of education is to enable the individual to give advice to himself.—Rt. Hon. J. R. MacDonald.

HARD LINES ON GRANDPA

In spite of revolutions, time evidently hangs idly on the hands of the Nationalists of China, for we are now informed that in one of the provinces the bobbing or shingling of female hair has been strictly forbidden. "Should any girl defy the law, the men of her household are threatened against not only herself, but against her paternal ancestors and brothers." And yet one always thought that ancestors were regarded with particular reverence in China. Imagine, however, the life of when a poor old great-grandfather is solemnly liable to be addressed in some such terms as "O illustrious progenitor of an infamous line, deign to descend from thine antiquated neck for the block—that ungrateful daughter of desolation I Mari Ann is about to have her head shingled, and your honorable head has been declared forfeit for her offence."—Manchester Guardian.

Of all our infirmities, vanity is the dearest to us; a man will starve his other vices to keep that alive.—Benjamin Franklin.

The man who does not share in the success of others is bound to be a sad person. No failure can injure the man who feels that the good luck of his neighbors and friends is a joy to himself.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, APRIL 29TH, 1934

"CHRIST'S STANDARD OF GREATNESS"
MATTHEW 20: 17-28.

In today's lesson Jesus is on His way to Jerusalem to attend the feast of the Passover and to face the death He knows awaits Him. His thoughts are full of His approaching end and He calls His disciples aside to talk with them about it. He wants their sympathetic understanding. He also desires to prepare them for the ordeal with which they will soon be faced. It is contended by some that the details of this conversation in these Christ foretells His death, in some detail contains later elements. The theory is that as the events were written many years after Christ's death, the details unknown to Christ were supplied in the light of subsequent events. However, the important fact remains that when Christ set out for Jerusalem He knew He was going to certain death and that later He would rise again. It was this sure knowledge which was the topic of intimate conversation with the disciples.

But they did not fully comprehend what Christ was telling them. This is shown in the ensuing conversation between Him and two of His disciples. The question of preeminence in the Kingdom Christ was to establish, was raised by two of the little band of followers. This was probably due to their misconception of the nature of the Kingdom which they thought He was to inaugurate. When they reached Jerusalem they anticipated a court function or a great banquet at which Christ would be the central figure and His chief ministers would sit next to Him. Whether, as Matthew says, it was the mother of James and John, or as Mark states, the disciples themselves, that put the question to Jesus, there is little doubt that these brothers coveted the positions and honor. In both accounts Christ's answer is directed to them not to their mother. He asks them if they are strong enough to stand at His side during His sufferings. In all sincerity they promise they will not desert Him. Christ, thereupon answers that they shall indeed share His trials. They have the privilege of honor are not His to give but God's to bestow. He simply made the choice. Tradition has it that James, at least, and quite probably John, redeemed their promise and died as martyrs for the cause. Later, history has abundantly vindicated the statement of Jesus. For every person those who attempt unqualified obedience to Christ and His way of life are faced with the opposition of entrenched customs of organized society. That is the price men and women must be prepared to pay for their religion, the price of being misunderstood, denounced, abused, and often misrepresented to their fellow men.

Of course, the other disciples were angered when they heard what James and John desired, but once again Jesus smoothed out the difference by teaching them that doing good to others and being useful, confers the greatest distinction on men in God's Kingdom. Gentile rulers oppress their subjects but the Christian ruler must indeed be great only in proportion to his service on behalf of his subjects. The real greatness consists in serving not in being served. Emerson expressed it in this way: "See how the mass of men worry themselves into nameless graves while here and there a great unselfish soul forgets himself into immortality."

The passage concludes with the immortal sentence: "The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto but to minister and to give His life as a ransom for many." The prophet in the Old Testament had looked forward to One who was to be the servant. Jesus conceives of Himself as fulfilling that prophecy. His death he understands, will be His final act of service to His fellow men. His life would indeed be a ransom for many.

AN EVERGREEN WINDBREAK FOR THE FARM

A farmer who plants a windbreak and shade trees around the farm buildings, shows foresight, as they will enhance the value and appearance of his farm, and improve living conditions. The foresight is indicated as small trees have to be planted and a number of years will pass before they make an appreciable difference in surroundings. A fine and effective windbreak can be grown in 10 years with the trees are supplied free by the Ontario Forestry Branch or with cedars taken from the woods.

Evergreens should be planted in permanent locations when small, as it is difficult to transplant successfully trees larger than three to four feet. The trees that are supplied from the Forestry Branch may be planted permanently in the windbreak, or may be placed in nursery lines and cultivated for a few years. The labor of transplanting and the setback to growth that trees have when moved are eliminated if they are planted in the wind box. They may either be placed on plowed ground and cultivated or spot planted in sod Cultivation stimulates considerably the growth of small trees and an effective windbreak will be grown more quickly if the trees are cultivated. There is space and the trees are more liable to be cultivated if a hoe crop is grown with them the first two years. The advantages of a tree nursery are that the trees are cultivated and it is generally easier to protect the small trees in nursery lines.

Careful consideration should be given to the location of the windbreak, the number of rows, and the spacing of the trees. More than one row makes a much better windbreak than a single row, and usually they will be protected better. Spruce or pine should not be planted closer than 8 - 12 feet in a single row, but if three or more rows are planted they may be placed 5 - 6 feet and managed the same as a forest plantation.

Early spring as soon as the frost is out of the ground is the best season to transplant trees in Ontario, and care should be taken to protect the roots from the sun and wind.

Application forms for trees and descriptive literature may be secured from the Forestry Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, the Provincial Tree Nurseries and Mr. Williams, Midhurst and Orono or the County Agricultural Office.

Chairman of Trustees Canadian National Rly. Writes Employees

Montreal, April 2. — The following message to Canadian National Railway employees from Hon. C. P. Fullerton, K.C., Chairman of the Trustees, appears in the April issue of the Canadian National Railways Magazine, distributed today:

Three months have passed since the Trustees appointed under The Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act, 1933, took office, and the time has arrived to give the officers and employees of the Canadian National Railways some idea of the policies and intentions of the Trustees in connection with the future operation of the railway.

At the outset, let me say that I am not one of those who consider the Canadian National Railway situation as hopeless. For months past there has been on foot a propaganda looking to the amalgamation of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways. I can readily understand that such an agitation may have a very serious effect upon the morale of the workers. The fear that unified management might result in a diminution of employment is readily understandable. It is essential in the interests of the railroads themselves that conditions of service should be such that the profession of railroading in all its varied aspects should be made attractive to the best of our young men, and this can only be done by the railroads offering at least as much security of employment as do other professions and occupations. I desire quite frankly and sincerely, to express my sympathy with the workers in this regard, and my appreciation of the anxiety which has been, and still is, the lot of those whose livelihood and homes are dependent on the continuation of their employment by railroads.

Reasons Advanced for Amalgamation

The propaganda of which I have spoken is based on the bland assumption that where an enterprise which has been taken over by the expenditure of public money and an enterprise which is still under private ownership find themselves as a result, among other things, of depressed business conditions, conducting their operations on an unprofitable basis, the publicly owned enterprise should be made virtually to surrender its existence as a separate entity, and leave the garnering of whatever harvest is presently available, and its equity in future property, to its privately-owned competitor. The underlying idea apparently is that the money of a shareholder has a sacred quality denied to that of a mere taxpayer.

The two grounds put forward in support of the proposals for amalgamation are :

1. That a very large saving can be effected.

2. That it would relieve management from the evils of political influences.

As to the first, I may say that already the Canadian National Railways on the basis of operating statements on that account in 1933 being $113,000,000 under the 1928 figures. In 1933, the gross earnings of the two railway systems, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National, amounted only to 202,769,430. When it is remembered that the operating revenues of both railways were under $250,000,000, it can be readily understood that the saving of such a percentage as is suggested in some quarters is quite impossible. In my opinion, such further sane—as contrasted with rash—economies are a possible under a policy of co-operation as under a policy of amalgamation. If the two railways are prepared whole-heartedly to join in the co-operation directed by Parliament the savings will be approximately as great as they would be under amalgamation.

Evils of Political Interference

Now, as to the alleged evils of political influences, everyone will admit that political interference will work great harm, and that it is highly desirable that those who are directing any great enterprise should be free to bring to the performance of their task whatever abilities they may have, untrammelled by consideration of party politics. Let me say once for all that, today the Canadian National Railways are just as free from having to consider matters from a political angle as is any railway in Canada, and it is the intention of myself and my fellow Trustees that this shall remain so.

As you are all aware, the Government appointed a Royal Commission, and based upon the report of the Royal Commission an Act was passed, known as the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act. By section 27 of that Act it is provided :—

"Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to authorize the amalgamation of any railway company which is comprised in National Railways with any railway company which is comprised in Pacific Railways nor to authorize the unified management and control of the railway system which forms part of National Railways with the railway system which forms part of Pacific Railways."

As the Trustees accepted office under this Act, it should require no statement on their part that they are prepared to execute their duties exactly according to its terms. However, if assurance is required, I desire to state that the Trustees individually and as a body, are, for many reasons which it is not necessary here to state, opposed to anything in the way of amalgamation or unification involving the taking over of the Canadian National Railways by its competitor.

It must, however, be kept in mind that throughout Canada there are people who favour amalgamation of all railways in the Dominion or, failing that, management under a single administration, and it would be a mistake on the part of those who disagree with them to underestimate their importance, or to rely too much on the mere existence of the Act of Parliament. Many of the arguments are forceful and appealing, and even if, when emanating from interested quarters, they are not characterized by any noticeable degree of modesty, they are not to be lightly dismissed.

Asks for Co-operation

There is this to be said, that unless the positing of all railways in Canada materially improves within the next few years many experiments presently unpalatable and presently unacceptable, may have to be tried It is for this reason that I appeal to every employee of the Canadian National Railways to devote the very best that is in him to the success of the railway The Trustees can do their part to ensure that no political interference, no foolish or insincere policies, and no extravagance will interfere in the management of the railway, but the real success of the railway depends upon the efforts put forth by the men who are in charge of the actual enterprise. I am sure that every man on the Canadian National Railways will make the interest of the enterprise his first consideration and nothing should be countenanced which will embarrass the management or impair the efficiency of the system. The public look not only to the Trustees but to every employee, to co-operate in a gigantic task, but one which can be accomplished. This co-operation is offered by and will always be forthcoming from the Trustees, who are appreciative of the position of the men and are sympathetic with their difficulties.

As a final word, let me emphasize that in the management of the railway the Trustees are not interested in race, religion or politics, but solely in the merit and ability of the men. Every man may expect from the Trustees a fair deal. Merit, not favour, is the watchword.

C. P. FULLERTON,
Chairman of Trustees.

Find Many Trees Severely Injured

Growers Warned Not to Prune Heavily — Bridge Grafting May Aid

While it is, of course, too early to tell whether fruit trees have suffered root injury as a result of the exceptionally low temperatures of the past winter, there is no doubt that considerable injury has been done to main branches and trunks of the more tender varieties of apples. According to a special committee which has been investigating the extent of damage throughout the province, the varieties which have suffered most are Baldwin, Wagner, Russett and to a lesser extent, Greenings. Trees of other varieties that bore a very heavy crop of fruit last season, or which were weakened for any other reason have also suffered.

Outside the southern districts, pears, cherries and grapes have suffered extensive fruit bud killing. Considerable damage has been done to the trunks and branches of pears, Japanese plums and sweet cherries.

In view of the fact that the injured trees will be much weakened with recovery dependent on a healthy leaf and root surface, the committee recommended to growers that badly injured trees should be left unpruned until the extent of the injury is clear. Only very light pruning should be done on those trees showing moderate injury. Injured trees bearing fruit should be very heavily thinned, or, where feasible, all fruit should be removed. Where the tree is worth saving, any considerable killed areas on the trunk and main branches should be bridge grafted. In this way it may be possible to save many injured branches and trees that would otherwise die in the next few years.

Miller's Worm Powders are a pleasant medicine for worm-infested children, and they will take it without objection When directions are followed it will not injure the most delicate child as there is nothing of an injurious nature in its composition. They will speedily rid a child of worms and restore the health of the little sufferers whose vitality has become impaired by the attacks of these internal pests.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO — No. 3 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

Why Hydro Buys Power

Hydro has always obtained its power supplies from whatever source has, from time to time, been determined to be most economical.

In the earlier years of Sir Adam Beck's administration, 98% of the power distributed to Hydro municipalities was purchased from private sources. Then it became economical to build or acquire generating stations. At the present time Hydro owns forty power-producing plants.

Power demands must be provided for—years in advance. The Commission was prevented, by international and other circumstances, from further development of Ontario's large power resources on the Niagara, St. Lawrence and Ottawa rivers. The only economical course left was to purchase—as the Commission did—low-cost power from available sources.

The following table sets forth the growth of your great Hydro undertaking through the years:

Growth of Municipalities and Consumers Served and Electric Power Generated and Purchased

Period	Average Number of Municipalities Consumers	Peak Demand All Systems	Power Generated Horsepower	Per Cent.	Power Purchased Horsepower	Per Cent.
1910 to 1914 Incl.	45	77,853	91,338	1,863	2	89,475	98
1915 to 1919 Incl.	205	175,702	325,046	242,634	75	82,412	25
1920 to 1924 Incl.	345	343,280	769,952	726,867	94	43,085	6
1925 to 1929 Incl.	528	486,521	1,163,744	960,193	82.5	203,551	17.5
1930 to 1933 Incl.	728	603,880	1,514,040	974,084	64.3	539,956	35.7

It is the considered opinion of this Association that Hydro has pursued a cautious, business-like, and far-sighted policy in the purchase of supplementary power and that present power reserves are not excessive.

The general policy of the Commission respecting purchased power has been initiated with the approval of the municipalities and endorsed by the Hydro associations. These Hydro municipalities know the power requirements, and are obligated to supply the ever-growing demand for low-cost Hydro service in their respective districts.

WATCH YOUR HABITS

Our maid, Matilda, has gone. She had contracted a habit. I love to hear people singing at their work, but the line had to be drawn when it came to "Abide with Me," day after day, hour after hour, with a knowledge of the words limited to "Chinee and deecal in all areound I See." Chinee and deecal in all areound I see. Chinee and deecal, etc." But as she couldn't "chinee" her habit she didn't "abide" with us.

A habit, though seemingly harmless, may be fatal to the possessor. I knew a real good-hearted fellow who for fun used to puff and blow when talking; it became a habit, and he is now as obnoxious to his neighbor as the man who has the habit of loudly sucking his soup.

I have a sketch by me which I drew in a tramcar, in Belfast, of a sweet, clean, little, blue-eyed maiden sitting, with all incongruity, below a notice about expectoration. The antithesis gave one to think that human beings can be delightful or they can be beastly according to their habits. So it is of big importance in life to watch one's habits.

Habit is a matter of fashion, adopted without reason beyond that of custom. God has given us two hands, yet I suppose nine out of ten people cannot clean their teeth or turn a key with their left hand. They can only use the one, owing to habit. We don't use half the talents that we possess, being slaves of habit.

Habits grow on us: it is their effects that count, the effects on the owner, the effects on his neighbors. Thus the habit of eating more than is necessary for sustenance is a prevalent one; it only affects the eater himself, makes him obese, and gives him fatty degeneration of the heart—and he passes on.

On the other hand the habit of smoking is equally comforting to the owner, but often it makes him a nuisance to others and sometimes a cad. Oh, yes, he is the last to suspect it. Yet every day you may see a man filling a non-sanitary carriage with fumes that are going to hang about that carriage to sicken women and travelers after him.

Talking of smoking and unwitting offence, I remember a woman subtling a man if he was old-fashioned enough to object to women having the habit of smoking. "Oh, no," he replied, "not at all. But I do hate the smell of stale tobacco that hangs about clothes, their hair, their clothes and their breath." When next I met her she had given up smoking.

The very young man gains great merit for cleverness in his own estimation when he finds that he can be cynical. If nobody smacks him this proves into a habit, and he becomes that hateful thing, a cynic, and that dangerous thing, a pessimist.

There is an old-fashioned toast, old fashioned not because it used to be drunk in bygone days but because its meaning is getting out of date: "Hope, Love and Women."

Under the heading of horses naturally comes the habit of betting on them, and more on betting on any kind of competition. Two hundred millions of pounds are estimated to be the annual turnover as the result of this habit in Great Britain. Any man I know never could control the habit because he never got over the first barrier, that is the objection to taking money. Because I am not for work done but for getting the better of him either by luck or industrious. There were other habits besides this, also to be got over, and the consciousness of grief and waste of time and talents. But consciousness, like conscience, is saved by help.

Wine. Nice stuff. I like it just as much as you do, but once begun, watch it that it doesn't lead to the second and third glass and then to the habit which, without fail, brings misery and ruin.

Women. The biggest blessing given to man in this world. Yet, by goodness, what wrecks, what havoc of human lives have been wrought in this world through misbranding of the right relationship! The habit of philandering, playing with affections lightly entered upon, has ruined men lower and lower into tragedy.

Money. Directly you get a little money you want to spend it—and you do so. Spending your spare cash becomes a habit. Just when you get to the age of discretion and want to set up a house and settle for life you find that your money-earning capacity has waned. You wish that you had been thrifty when you could. It is now too late.

A bad habit is like a bad tooth. Have it out. But the gap must be filled in, not merely for appearances sake, but for use. As a people we are selfish; we are brought up that way; at school we are encouraged to be top of our class, to win prizes, to gain scholarships, in competition and rivalry with others. Thus we acquire the habit of looking out for what we can get for ourselves.

It's time to have that bad tooth out, and to substitute for it the habit of seeing what we can give to others. — Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, in London Express.

The Late Willet Craig

On Tuesday, March 13th, there died at Aylsham, Sask., Willet Craig, a former resident of this county. He was born 64 years ago at Moscow, the son of the late Henry Craig and Susannah Alkenbrack.

Until 1908 the late Mr. Craig was a farmer at Moscow. In that year he moved to Elm Creek in Manitoba and later settled at Aylsham where he died. Through the influence of Mr. Little, a Salvation Army officer, Mr. Craig was converted and he became a member of that organization.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, formerly Rhoda Elliott, of Yarker, and four sons., Corry of Saskatoon, Harold, Donald, Egerton, at home. There are also two sisters, Mrs. James Kennedy of Westbrook and Alice Harris of Napanee. One brother predeceased him 15 years ago.

The funeral was held at his late home and burial followed at the family plot in Aylsham cemetery.

Death in West of John Smth

Former Lonsdale Resident

Word was received by relatives and friends, recently, of the death at Vincent, Sask., of John Smith, a former resident of the Lonsdale district. Mr. Smith was born at Lonsdale on May 4th, 1851 and in 1874 married Phoebe Jane Martin, at Selby, Ont. With their family, Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to Saskatchewan in 1908 and settled near Vincent, on the homestead which has since been their home.

Mr. Smith had always been a public spirited man. Before going west he had served on the Lonsdale school board. In the West he had been a municipal councillor and had filled the important position of president of the Grain Growers Society. He took an active part in the church life of the district, where he had been on the board of the United Church for years and Sunday school superintendent for eighteen years.

The late Mr. Smith is survived by his wife, two daughters, and four sons, as well as a large number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren. A son, George, predeceased him in the west, about seven years ago.

The funeral service was conducted at the farm home on April 9th and later at the United Church. Interment followed at the Union Cemetery.

The Late Percy Thompson

Tamworth, April 21.—While working at the Ajex Mine of the Colorado International Corporation, Percy Thompson, aged 33 years, plunged headlong into the dump of the shaft, 115 feet below and was killed instantly, at 5:15 Friday morning, April 6th.

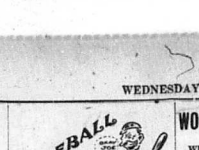
Deceased was born at Tamworth and lived here until 17 years ago, when he secured a position at Ogdensburg, N.Y. with the Aluminum Paper Corporation. In 1922 he married Miss Fannie Rose, of Watertown, N.Y. They resided in Ogdensburg until two years ago, when they moved to Victor in Teller County, Colorado. The sad tragedy occurred shortly before the end of the night shift when he was hoisted drawn up the shaft and Thompson was attempting to close the folding safety door, this consists mainly of in the bottom from any rock that might fall from the bucket. Other men working on the 2,000 foot level a short distance away, saw Thompson slip. He tried to catch himself but failed. Oscar Emery, working in the bottom of the shaft, heard the noise and stepped back to a place of safety. Thompson's body struck on a pile of loose rock. Emery hastened to the spot but was already dead. Coroner Florence Craven, who was called to the scene of the accident, stated that an inquest would not be necessary. The body was removed to the undertaking rooms. It was held until instructions arrived from relatives here.

On Saturday afternoon, April 14, services were held from the Law funeral in Cripple Creek, Rev. P. W. Griffin officiating, after which the body was shipped, accompanied by his wife and small son, to Tamworth. On its arrival on Tuesday last, the body was taken to the home of his father, Mr. Harvey Thompson, to await the funeral service which was held in the United Church, Wednesday afternoon. The many floral tributes and the vast number of people who called to pay their last respects showed the high esteem in which deceased was held. Rev. M. R. Brown preached a very appropriate sermon.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Stanley Haggerty, A. A. Carscallen, Dale Donaldson, Michael Hogan, W. J. Huffman and Ronald York. Interment took place in the family plot in the Tamworth Cemetery.

There remains to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, one son Marvin, 9 years of age, Watertown N.Y.; his father, Harvey Thompson; one sister Mrs. Manley Marshall, both of Tamworth; one brother, Harford Thompson, of Rochester, N.Y. His mother predeceased him about nine years ago. Those who attended the funeral from a distance were his brother, Harford Thompson, Rochester, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bolger and family, Ogdensburg, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reynolds, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Armstrong, Roblin; Mr. and Mrs. J. Snider, Napanee; Mr. John Neiner and Mr. Frank Pinkoski of Rochester, N.Y.

Sores Heal Quickly. — Have you a persistent sore that refuses to heal? Then try Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the dressing. It will stop sloughing, carry away the proud flesh, draw out the pus and prepare a clean way for the new skin. It is a recognized healer among old and members of people can certify that it healed where properly applied.



Local fans will be glad to hear that the C. O. B. L. troubles are now settled and the League is ready for another banner season.

The report in the papers that the clubs were refusing to play exhibition games with Napanee unless Napanee went senior, was more or less a false alarm. While the motion did go through at a rather turbulent meeting, when the clubs had time to think it over they saw the folly of this and the former motion was rescinded at the meeting held in Cobourg last Saturday. The local management have made arrangements with both Peterboro and Kingston, to play in Napanee this year and it is expected that Belleville will be here also. Oshawa may be here on the 24th of May to help open the season.

Furthermore, the C. O. B. L. moguls are satisfied that the solution of their troubles was not in having Napanee play senior ball this year. We had quite a time persuading all and sundry that the local club would play senior ball when and if the management felt they had a senior team and not before, but the argument is finally over.

Nothing new has developed in the Lennox County League since last week except that it now appears that the Gibbard Athletics will have a team in the Lennox County League, although this will not be definite until after certain rulings are given by the executive of the O. B. A. A., which meets in Toronto on April 23. This is particularly in connection with players moving from the "A" club down to the "B" club and from the "B" club up to the "A".

At time of writing things are still unsettled in the Bay of Quinte League, although Brighton have signified their intention of playing in the Bay of Quinte this year as have Belleville, providing the latter can muster a team after the seniors have had the pick of the talent in the city. Picton have apparently not changed their attitude, but one wonders just where they will play if they do not play in the Bay of Quinte. They have been rated as an "A" club by the O. B. A. A., and there is no other "A" League with which they might hook up. In any event, the Bay of Quinte League holds territorial rights in Picton and also the Picton franchise, which again is considerable. However, these troubles should be cleared up before next week and it is to be hoped that Picton will change their attitude and make up the Bay of Quinte League as it was last year.

The diamond at the new park is drying up nicely — in fact rapidly, since Saturday, when the drains all thawed out. It is to be hoped that the team will be able to start its outdoor workouts some time this week. If so, it will mean that the locals will have a good month before the season opens officially.

THE UMBRELLA

Surely the umbrella rather than the rose ought to be the British emblem. One carries it much oftener than a rose. I have no rose plants, but I have three umbrellas. You might give me a bush of roses, but I should be more pleased to receive one umbrella. I have three umbrellas, one to keep at home, one to keep at the office, and one to lose. There is a little emissary of the god of obliviousness aboard of every bus and underground train. When I lift the loop from my wrist and get out my fare, the sprite tucks my umbrella in a corner, and the moment I go from the step of the bus, his influence removed. I remember. But the conductor's face being turned from me, the bus is as distant at a yard as at a mile away. So I go home and write a letter to the secretary of the god of obliviousness, who lives at Scotland Yard. If I am lucky, I receive in time a blue printed warning-a number in the thousands, and I betake me to the shrine. Cupboards upon cupboards, with chevron upon shelves, and each shelf carrying hundreds of umbrellas. When one thinks of the weather and sees all these umbrellas lying idle when they might do good service! My shelf number is high up, and as I sit on the top of a little pair of steps and look for a blue knob, all of a sudden it flashes cross me where the umbrella comes from and I think of the contrast.

Some Greek or Roman lady did not fear the rain at all, for when it rained she simply did not go out. But when it shone as it does on the Mediterranean, and she was tempted to go forth, she feared very much for her fair skin. So she borrowed the idea of Egypt and the East and had a slave to walk behind her with an "umbrella." The slaves were "sunbellies!" This parasol may be seen in medieval and later pictures. There is one of Anne of Austria at the chase (1620), on horseback. Her lackey behind her, also on horseback, is holding a huge Japanese sunshade over her bare head. Under Louis XIV it was customary to have such parasols carried by a page. Watteau has painted many, preferring a variety decorated with white feathers or gold and silver fringe. On a late Goya there is one carried by a maid behind a couple.

One day a manufacturer conceived the idea of covering these with glazed linen, to keep off the rain. But as this made the umbrella too heavy, the linen was substituted by taffeta, and the ribs were made of whalebone and arranged to open and shut. The ribs were attached to a thong which slip up and down the stick. One stuck a pin in the stick at the required height. When it thought—as a flash of time sitting on the steps in Scotland Yard Office—of the vicissitudes of the umbrella, its decorative past, its use for wealth and luxury only and its present democratization, its utility, its promotion to the position of being a part of the equipment of any poor workaday being, I suddenly remembered John Masefield's "Cargoes." In two periods of the past he sketches for us the typical boat of the time, with its fair form and precious cargo of jewels, luteries and toys of the great. Then with a magnificent contrast we come to the Dirty British coaster, with a salt-caked smoke-stack.

Butting through the Channel in the mad March days,

With a cargo of Tyne coal,
Road rails, pig-lead,
Firewood, ironware, and cheap tin trays.

Truly, among the things that were once rare luxuries, and are now just an item in the general scheme of comfort, he might have put the plain black British umbrella.—M. S. in Manchester Guardian.

OBITUARY

THE LATE WILLIAM SUTTON

On Monday morning, early, April 2nd, there passed away at his home in Newburgh, Ont., one of the best known and most highly esteemed residents, in the person of William Sutton.

Mr. Sutton was born near Manchester, Lancashire County, England, in the year 1856, came to Canada with his parents, the late James Sutton and Martha Simpson Sutton, settling in Newburgh in 1864.

For many years the deceased conducted a grocery and meat business on Main Street, and after considerable success in business circles, Mr. Sutton purchased a farm on the Napanee Road, west of Strathcona. He remained on the farm for several years and then retired from active duties, returning to the village of Newburgh, which he loved and knew so well.

He took an exceptional interest in political, educational, as well as municipal circles, and was a staunch Conservative. He served as councillor for many years, later being elected to the highest office, that of reeve, always doing everything in his power for the betterment of the village. Mr. Sutton also served as a member of the Board of Education.

His friends loved him for his sociable manner, and willingness, at all times, to assist in worthy causes.

In religion he was an Anglican and a member of St. John's Church acting as church warden for twenty-two consecutive years.

In November, Mr. Sutton suffered a severe stroke and during his lengthy illness, was tenderly nursed by his three daughters.

He was twice married, his first wife who before her marriage was Miss Isabella Dunn, daughter of the late Henry Dunn, Newburgh, passing away many years ago. Three sons and one daughter were born of this union, namely, Wilfred W. Sutton, Newburgh; Edward J. Sutton, Edmonton, Alta.; Orlando Sutton, R. M.D. Napanee, and Anna M. Sutton, supervisor, House of the Good Samaritan, Watertown, N.Y. His second wife was Miss Elizabeth Shand, daughter of the late John Shand, Napanee, Ont., who died March 15, 1925. Of this union there were two daughters, Mrs. Emerson Brewer, of Syracuse, N.Y., and Mrs. Donald Bradley, Buffalo N.Y. He also leaves fifteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, and four brothers, John Sutton, Canastoto, N.Y.; Alfred A. Sutton, R.M.D. Napanee, Ont.; James A. Sutton, Toronto, Ont., and Orlando E. Sutton, San Francisco, Cal.

The high esteem in which Mr. Sutton was held, throughout this community, was evidenced on Wednesday afternoon, April 4th, when his friends, in large numbers, gathered at St. John's Church for the funeral service, which was conducted by the Rector, Rev. R. W. Spencer. There were numerous floral tributes. Following the church service, the cortege proceeded to Camden East, where the interment took place in the family plot. St. Luke's cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Ed. Harrison, Merton Vandervoort, John Sampson, Thomas Milsap, George Walker and Ernest Gandier.

OBITUARY

MRS. LORNE KERNEY

After an illness of three weeks, there passed away at Loreburn, Sask., on March 21st, a former resident of Amherst Island, in the person of Mrs. Lorne Kerney. The late Mrs. Kerney, formerly Gertrude Glenn, was born on Amherst Island, the third daughter of Mrs. Glenn and the late William Glenn.

She attended public school there, and later, Stella Continuation School graduating in 1912. After teaching four years, she attended the Peterborough Normal School. Then, after four years teaching at Amherst Island she decided to change her sphere of labor, and, until three years ago, taught in various places in Saskatchewan, except for one year which she spent with her parents, returning to the West about five years ago. In July 1931, she was married to Lorne Kerney, and they made their home at Loreburn.

Throughout her life she has always been deeply interested in community work and church activities, helping wherever she could. Her kindly manner and cheery disposition won her many friends. The many beautiful floral tributes with which the casket was banked, showed the high esteem in which she was held. The funeral was held at St. Luke's Church, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Elsey. Deceased's favorite hymns were sung, also a quartette. Burial took place in the family plot in the cemetery east of Loreburn, beside her infant son, Glenn William.

Besides her husband and two stepsons, Robert and James, she leaves to mourn her loss, her mother, Mrs. Glenn, Amherst Island; two sisters Mrs. H. McCaugherty and Mrs. J. Warner of Amherst Island; Mrs. K. Hill, Bath; Miss Eva Glenn, Seely's Bay, and Miss Edna Glenn, Napanee; also four brothers, Edward D. of Amherst Island; Frank of Beverly Saskatchewan; Arthur and Fred of Carry, Ind. Her father passed away her eight months ago. One brother, Frank, visited her during her illness and attended the funeral.

RE-STOCKING THE WOODLOT AND PLANTING ON THE FARM

The season for planting trees is near, and plans should be made early as trees planted in early spring stand a much better chance of survival than those planted in late spring. The Forestry Branch is continuing the policy of supplying free trees for planting and owing to the fact that there is a surplus of trees the former limit of 3,500 trees for reforestation purposes to one person will not be adhered to. The trees may be used for planting bare land, restocking a woodlot or the establishment of an evergreen windbreak. Five hundred trees are allowed to each applicant for planting a windbreak.

Every farm should have a woodlot large enough to supply the farm-house with fuel and lumber for minor building and repairs in order that these products may be secured without making a cash outlay. Inferior soils such as sand, gravel, swamps, shallow and steep hillsides, should be left in trees, as they will give very small financial returns if cultivated. These are the areas that should be planted, as they will continue to be a liability rather than an asset as long as they are destitute of trees.

Planting is not necessary on areas that have large trees as they will produce seed and it will be distributed by the wind, squirrels, and other agencies. This natural reproduction can be secured by fencing out the stock and it will be composed of the more valuable species if they are left and the less valuable (weeds) are removed in order that they will not produce seeds. The planting of a few hundred trees of valuable species not growing now in the woodlot will give more variety and will make quite a difference in the value of the woods fifty years hence. A few trees well planted in locations where they will be sure to grow well is far better than planting thousands poorly where the competition of the natural growth will choke them out. Eventually there will be no woodland in a field if provision is not made to have seedlings, saplings and polewood coming along to take the place of trees that are cut.

Every farm should have an evergreen windbreak to protect the buildings from the cold winds of winter. A farmer can establish a windbreak by making a cash outlay of $1 for express charges on the trees. In 10 to 15 years he will have an effective windbreak that will increase the value of his farm and reduce the amount of fuel necessary to heat the farmhouse. A year's delay in starting a windbreak means that the farm will be a year longer without an effective windbreak.

Application blanks for trees and descriptive literature may be secured by writing the Forestry Branch, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, or calling at the County Agricultural Office.

Final arrangements were completed for the entertainment which is to be held in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. In connection with the new business, arrangements were made for the district executive meeting which was held in Tamworth on Thursday afternoon, April 12th. A communication was read from Tamworth Y. P. A. regarding their play and it was decided to defer the matter until a later date. Miss Mabel Tomkins and Mr. E. Hamilton were appointed to audit the books. The program was then proceeded with and a splendid paper on "Community Activities" was given by Mrs. B. Yeomans. Lloyd Salisbury contributed a solo, after which current events, prepared by Mrs. W. Simmons, were read by Miss Tomkins. With Miss Yvonne Salisbury as accompanist, Miss Harriet Salisbury contributed a pleasing violin selection, which was followed by an instrumental number by Miss Isabelle Robinson. The program was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem, after which refreshments were served.

After considerable time spent in sewing for the new bale, the meeting closed with the Doxology.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Good Seed Prices

This spring, Ontario is enjoying a good demand for registered seed. Brisk bidding was witnessed in the auction at the Ottawa Valley Seed Fair, and in several cases prices ran to high levels. Four bushels of Garton wheat exhibited by farmers of the Eastern District of Tweedsmuir brought $1.80 a bushel. The average for all the samples sold was $1.50 a bushel.

Early Marketing Means Better Prices

Now is the time to start the long season crops of vegetables required for the early market. At the Central Experimental Farm, the earliest varieties are recommended:

Cabbage: Golden Acre, Copenhagen Market, Early Jersey Wakefield.

Cauliflower: Early Dwarf Erfurt and Snowball.

Celery: Paris Golden Yellow, Golden Plume and Plumosum.

Onion: Sweet Spanish, Prizetaker (Denia), Southport White, Yellow and Red Globe for growing transplants.

Pepper: Harris Earliest, California Wonder.

Potato: Irish Cobbler which should be sprouted for four to six weeks prior to field planting.

Tomato: Abel, Alacrity, Canadian, Earliana, Bestal, Bonny Best or John Baer. The two latter are used for the main crop.

Care of the New Pigs

The nursing sow and litter require care and good feeding in order that the pigs will be strong and healthy, and the sow will be in fit condition to produce a second litter this year. Supply a milk-producing ration. It should consist of oats, middlings and skim-milk. Encourage the pigs to start eating at an early age by placing some feed in a low trough. As soon as weather permits, let them run outdoors in a fresh paddock.

Two Tomato Crops Yearly

Is Ontario Grower's Plan

Two tomato crops, under glass, is the ambition of one progressive Ontario grower. It is the proposal that one crop should be ready for market from October to Christmas, while the next would sell in May and June, just prior to the outdoor product making its appearance.

For this fall crop, plants would be set in the greenhouse in July, fruiting by early October and continuing to Christmas. For the spring crop, seeding would be effected in December, getting the young plants transferred to the cold frame by February or March, ready for the beds.

Spring Lamb Market

Observations of the Ontario Marketing Board would indicate that too many unfinished spring lambs are being offered for sale at the Union Stock Yards, Toronto.

"The movement of spring lambs reaching the Yards, during the week of April 2, it is estimated that some 60 per cent were not properly finished, individual weights being less than thirty pounds.

"If producers are to profit through the marketing this otherwise choice product, it is recommended that spring lambs be properly finished to a weight of approximately forty pounds. This can be effected only through extending the feeding period."

Current Crop Report

Twenty meetings were held in connection with the Weed Survey campaign in Peel County during March and it is estimated that over 70% of the cattle in Peel will be treated this Spring for these pests. Other counties also report the Warble fly campaign under way. Dufferin County furnishes the encouraging word that livestock, particularly cows, are in very satisfactory condition. Lambton reports that the shortage of seed is not nearly as acute as early advices indicated. Injury to fruit trees is becoming more apparent as spring advances, according to a report from Lincoln. In Norfolk, severe weather during the winter resulted in considerable damage to cherries, plums, raspberries and apple trees. The condition of fall wheat is not good in a number of districts. From Hastings comes word that indications are for a short season for maple syrup. This is also the case in Prince Edward County, and there also, fruit growers are alarmed by the amount of damage in tree and bush fruits.

Seed Grain Crops Early

The importance of early seeding cannot be stressed too strongly. An experiment carried on for 10 years at the Central Experimental Farm, shows that wheat, oats, barley and peas seeded as soon as the land is ready 60 work give higher yields than when sown at later dates. The average increase of grain sown early over that sown two weeks later was 14 bushels for barley, 19 bushels for wheat and 4 bushels for oats.

Registered Seed Fair

What is believed to be the first all registered seed fair was staged at Renfrew, Ont., recently. This competition was under the auspices of the Renfrew County. In all, ninety entries were received from seventy-four registered seed growers in the county. Fourteen prizes were offered for barley, sixteen for oats ten for Wheat and nineteen for peas.

Dairy Herd Improvement

R. R. Fallis of Brantford, director of extension for the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, speaking at a recent meeting of Lambton County live stock breeders and farmers, drew attention to the developing markets for dairy cattle both in Canada and abroad, at prices which have advanced considerably since the beginning of the year, and he expressed the opinion that any constructive efforts now made in building the herds of the county to higher standards in type, quality, and production would lead to returns from the industry in volume sufficient to compensate the farmer for his labor and investment. Mr. Fallis dealt particularly with the need for more record of performance work on the part of all breeders, and more blood testing for the control of Bang's Disease, and pleaded for the co-operation of all concerned in getting a better class of herd sires located under the bonusing policy of the Provincial Government Agricultural Societies.

He held out no encouragement to the breeder who was contented to continue with a breeding program which gave no promise of improvement, but turning to the farmer who had far-reaching ideals and made use of constructive methods, the views of the speaker were that the future looked as hopeful today as it had in any period of the past.

Purebred Cattle Sale

Type and production sale of purebred Holstein cattle, held at Guelph on Tuesday, April 10th, brought a top price of $155.00 for females and $182.00 for bulls, the general average being $86.00 for cows and heifers and $110.00 for males. Twenty-two of the fifty-one animals catalogued sold for prices above $100.00 each, while only fifteen brought less than $90.00 each. Some of these being young heifers. The event was attended by close to five hundred people, drawn from the various breeding areas of Western Ontario.

Stimulated Egg Market

—The satisfactory out-turn of last year's storage egg deal and the new developments in the export trade durin. ghe past year are factors which will lend a stimulating effect to the market during the coming spring. Another factor which, perhaps, has not been given sufficient consideration is that the demand for eggs for the manufacture of egg products is much more active this spring than a year ago. At this time last year, stocks of frozen eggs had been cleaned up, more active breaking and freezing operations during last spring were not very pronounced.

This year the situation is exactly reversed. Stocks of frozen eggs are now practically depleted and with busines sin general picking up there will be a much more activity in the egg breaking industry during the coming spring. It is quite possible that the demand for eggs which will be used in the freezing industry this year may be such as to relieve the market of practically the same quantity of eggs as was exported during 1933.

CONCERNING THE SOYBEAN IN ONTARIO

Federal and Provincial Authorities Pass Judgment on Soybeans In Ontario

The soybean as a field crop is creating widespread interest in Ontario. Its grain is richer in protein than any of the other grain crops grown in the province and the fodder is equal in protein analysis to that of any and greater crop. Many questions which are being asked regarding the growing of soybeans are answered in this article which has been prepared jointly by the Field Husbandry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College and the Division of Forage Crops, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The soybean is not a difficult crop to grow, but there are some points in connection with its culture which should receive careful attention if the best results are to be obtained. The selection of a suitable variety is important, earliness in maturity, height of plants, quality of seed and fodder, and high yield of both seed and fodder are desirable features. The O. A. C. No. 211 and Mandarin are varieties which have given gobd results in this province.

Soybeans should occupy the same place in the rotation as roots or corn. They may also be sown as a catch crop where winter wheat or new meadows become winter killed. This crop should not be sown on land infested with twitch, sow thistle or other bad perennial weeds.

Soybeans are adapted to most types of soil, but thrive best on mellow, fertile clay loams, loams or sandy loams. Good crops have also been grown on muck soils. Stiff clay is apt to form a crust which the young plants do not readily penetrate, while on light, sandy soils the yield of both grain and forage is likely to be low. Land intended for soybeans would be plowed in the fall to permit sufficient cultivation and harrowing in the spring to induce the germination of foul seeds, destroy them and develop good tilth. Old sod fields plowed in spring are not well suited for growing soybeans as there is insufficient time between plowing and sowing to allow the sod to rot and to prepare a good seed bed.

The soybean, being a legume, is able to make use of the nitrogen of the air through the medium of bacteria which form nodules on the roots of the plants. When soybeans are being grown for the first time, bacterial culture should be applied to the seed. It may be obtained from the Department of Bacteriology, O.A.C., Guelph, or the Division of Bacteriology, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, Ontario, and from commercial firms. The largest yields per acre, greatest benefit to the soil and highest protein content in the grain can only be obtained when the crop has been properly inoculated.

Soybeans are hardy and should be sown much earlier than field beans or corn. Excellent crops were produced at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, when the seed was sown early in May. In the average season, soybeans should be seeded not later than May 10th.

The crop grown for grain production is usually sown with the grain drill in rows which should be from 28 inches apart. Using this method, from 90 to 6 pounds of seed per acre would be required. When the crop is close drilled for hay, it would be necessary to sow from 1½ to 2 bushels of seed per acre.

The easiest way to keep the soybean crop clean, whether in rows or close drilled, is to use a light harrow when the plants are just through the ground and before young weeds have made much headway. Soybeans may be harrowed once or two times until they are from four to five inches in height. Where the crop is in rows, additional cultivation can be given the same as for the corn crop. Cultivation should cease at the start of blooming.

Soybean hay is ready to cut when the seed is half grown in the pod. This hay takes a little longer to cure than clover or timothy, but is handled in much the same way. A crop for grain should be cut when most of the leaves have fallen from the plants. The grain crop is generally cut with the binder and stocked to dry in the field, like any other grain crop. Soybeans can be thrashed with the ordinary grain thresher if a blank concave is used to prevent splitting or breaking of the seed.

How Ski-ing Came To Canada

To the Old World the New is indebted for the ever-increasing popular sport of skiing, which was imported to this side of the Atlantic a little less than a quarter of a century ago. For years it had been the custom of many persons who could afford it to visit the capitals of the Old World and the Riviera, and on their way back step off at St. Moritz in Switzerland for the annual Winter sports carnival.

It was a mere accident that has changed that custom; people no longer find it necessary to make the trip across the Atlantic to enjoy their Winter sports, thousands who looked forward to the carnival now travel by train to Quebec to enjoy the atmosphere which they thought only existed in the old world.

The story of how this change was brought about was told recently by George VanFelson, a business man of Quebec, and one of the oldest living sponsors of the Quebec Winter sports. Mr. Van Pelton, in a reminiscent mood, was sitting in the lounge of the Chateau Frontenac the other day and told how he and others helped popularize the sport.

"In 1902, or thereabouts, four enterprising Swedes found their way to Quebec from their native country to establish a lumber mill near the confluence of the Saguenay and the St. Lawrence Rivers," he said. "The project required a working corps of more than 400 men, and being partial to their own countrymen these new lumber proprietors made haste to import from Sweden a personnel to suit them. Lumbering in those days, even more so than at the present time, was an undertaking of many severe handicaps, not the least of which were loneliness and snow. Consequently when this large contingent of Swedes arrived in the Quebec forests they missed their native ski which not only provided diversion but also aided them formerly in negotiating the drifts of the Swedish mountainside.

"The French-Canadians for some 200 years had travelled over the snow on snowshoes. Skiing, however, looked askance at the strange, webbed things upon which their French Canadian fellow-workers waddled. They could not get used to them. The four Swedish lumbermen-then realized that the only way in which sport and expediency could be combined was by introducing skis for their employees. Hence they journeyed to Quebec, saw me (I was in the sporting goods business at that time), and tried to make clear what they wanted. They knew little or no English, I knew not one word of Swedish and we got nowhere with guttirals and gesticulations.

"Then suddenly one of the quartet, mobilizing the few words of English which he had learned, thrust out a hand, palm down, in front of him and described a sharp curve. At the same time he ejaculated the word Anche-Swedish vexation. 'She yungt' The process was taken up before and the Swedish lumbermen of the Saguenay district.

"The ever growing prosperity of the mills gradually brought more and more Swedish people to the district. Skis became more and more in demand. Canada was regarded a necessity and an industry to make money. J. H. Gignac, a Quebec business man, grasped this opportunity, founded a ski factory and manufactured skis for the first time in the Dominion.

"All of this, as I said, was thirty-two years ago. Since that time the ski idea has spread. Women as well as men took it up. Swedes taught the French-Canadians the age-old sport and the French-Canadians have ever since been teaching the uninitiated who visit his city every Winter."

From Soup to Salad

CANNED SALMON

(BY BARABARA H. BROOKS)

"That's gold in them thar hills," but not very much to eat. The old prospector who headed his pack mules up the trail carried a grub stake for weeks or even months. If he carried his pack on a lone burro, he took with him only bare staples such as beans, flour, sugar, salt pork and coffee. With a larger outfit, he added canned foods and selected those with the most food value in proportion to bulk.

At best, there was little variety in the menu of cooking. In the meat line canned salmon was an important item. Salmon cakes were varied with cold salmon for a change. It faced mighty good out there in the open, but back again in the bright lights the prospector's first meal was sure to be sirloin smothered with onions. It would be a long time before he would order salmon loaf for his dinner.

In many homes, too, salmon loaf does not receive a warm welcome because fish so often is salmon and this salmon usually appears in a loaf. This is truly unfortunate because canned salmon is a good nourishing food that can be bought in convenient form and kept on hand for ready use. With the advantages of a day by housewife in Canada or the hatching prospector, salmon in the home can be a special treat, not a last resort.

Make a good beginning by buying the right kind. All canned salmon grades are good food, but some are better suited for certain recipes than others. Learn to tell what kind of canned salmon you are buying.

You will find salmon in all grades in both half pound and one pound cans. It is usually nice to buy some of each size. There will be many uses for the smaller cans even in large families. If you feel that the price of the better grades is a little too high for your budget, there are many ways of extending the salmon with less expensive ingredients so that the cost of the whole recipe is quite moderate.

Salmon Salad

One and a third cups Red Salmon (1 pound can)
Quarter cup chopped celery.
One tablespoon capers.
One hard-cooked egg, sieved onion.
Half teaspoon salt.
One cup corn flakes.
2 Tablespoons lemon juice.

Have all ingredients chilled thoroughly. Flake the salmon, removing bone and skin. Combine all ingredients and lightly toss together until well mixed. Add mayonnaise to make salad more moist if desired. Arrange on crisp lettuce which has been sprinkled with French dressing.

Salmon Chowder

Quarter lb. salt pork, diced.
1 Small onion, (chopped).
1 Medium potato.
One pint can (1 pound) can salmon (flaked).
Salt and pepper to taste.

Salmon Dressing

Half cup Red Salmon.
One tablespoon chopped pickles.

One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons butter.
One-half cup milk.

CHEESE FACTORY CONSOLIDATION

According to an economic analysis of cheese factory operations in Ontario, carried out by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, cheese was being made at a much lower cost in large and efficiently operated factories than in the smaller units. Such results were achieved by making maximum use of labour, plant, and equipment, and, since in this business any benefit thus obtained is reflected directly in the price paid for milk, it would appear desirable to increase the volume of business wherever possible. In many cases this could best be effected by the amalgamation of factory districts and the closing of unnecessary factories. This, in turn, would mean longer hauls by patrons or the organization of milk routes. In most instances, where the conditions of roads permit, the milk could be hauled by contract at a cost which, added to the expense of plant operation, would still be less than the cost of making cheese in small factories.

Where the conditions of the roads do not permit of the hauling of heavy loads such as would be necessary if milk routes were organized and where patrons do not wish to haul their own milk longer distance, increased volume would have to be obtained by lengthening the period of factory operation, by increasing the size of herds and production per cow or by diverting milk which now goes to CAN milk plants, creameries or condenseries. It is appreciated that there are other things to consider in connection with factory amalgamation. Nevertheless, there are many cases where the area served by a factory could be enlarged advantageously and patrons would be well advised to give careful thought to the question.—Report of the Survey Committee.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

You are "feeling punk," simply because your liver isn't pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Digestion and elimination are both hampered, and your entire system is being poisoned.

What you need is a liver stimulant. Something that goes to the liver like nature, mineral water, but more powerful. Get the cheapest kind of liquid calomel and you get a dose of mercury that may salivate you. Ask for Dr. Pitt's Pills. They are purely vegetable, act on the liver like calomel, but have no dangerous after effects. Take one or two nights and note the difference. 25c at all druggists.

Safe Way To Reduce
39 LBS. OFF — AN SHE FEELS BETTER

A woman who has found a sure, safe way to lose fat—without dieting or dangerous drugs—writes:—

"A year ago I was eaten up with rheumatism and was far too fat. I weighed 154 lbs. and, as my height is only 5 feet 2 inches, you can judge my appearance. I have taken Kruschen regularly, and not dieted, and now I weigh 135 lbs., which is just nice, and, further, I feel better in health and my rheumatism has vanished."— (Mrs.) D. N.

Unlike certain drastic drugs, Kruschen does not aim to reduce by taking food enough the body fat, its action is not confined to a single part of the system. It has a tonic influence upon every organ of elimination, every gland, every nerve, every vein. Gently, but surely, it rids the system of all fat-forming food refuse, of all poisons and harmful acids which give rise to rheumatism, digestive disorders, and many other ills.

Prince Edward-Lennox Conservatives Choose Colliver as Candidate

Hon. W. H. Price Speaks at Convention

At the Prince Edward - Lennox Liberal Conservative Convention, held in Picton on Thursday, Mr. H. S. Colliver, M. L. A. was chosen as the Conservative candidate for the Ontario election to take place in the near future

Over 300 delegates attended the convention. A large number from Lennox were present, among them about thirty delegates from the town of Napanee.

The convention was called for one o'clock in the afternoon at the Regent Theatre in Picton. Twelve candidates were proposed, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Colliver. The nominees were: James or C. Hepburn, B. R. Hepburn, H. D. Cleminson, James Barker, Robert Norman, Robert Smith, C. H. Babcock, George J. Tustin, Dr. G. W. Morden, F. L. Ward, Mrs. Rose Bush, A. S. Hughson, J. G. Daly, C. W. Hambly, David Hubbs and Fred Newman.

The new riding of Prince Edward-Lennox is made up of the two formerly separate ridings of Prince Edward and Lennox. Mr. C W. Hambly M. L. A., has represented Lennox for two terms, 1919 to 1926 and 1929 to 1934.

Mr. Colliver Speaks

Speaking to the convention after his nomination, Mr. Colliver said, that he thought possibly Mr. Hambly might have been chosen, "but with a Liberal candidate from Prince Edward in the field it was considered better for a Prince Edward Conservative candidate to oppose him.

Mr. Colliver gave a brief review of the present administration and the fine record of Premier Henry and the members of the cabinet. He professed every confidence that the Government would be returned. The significance he is to contest is composed of 30,000 people, a fact which will make it impossible to make contact with each individual. Mr. Colliver announced, however, that he would be very glad to meet the people from now on to the work of the campaign.

James Still, M. L. A., of Hastings, and John A. Weese, M.P., from Prince Edward-Lennox, both spoke in support of Mr. Colliver and the Henry Government.

Hon. W. H. Price Makes Announcements

Hon. W. H. Price, the Attorney-General was the chief speaker at the meeting. Nearly the whole house present to hear him, after the selection of the candidate. Mr. Price congratulated the convention on the choice of candidate. He praised Mr. Colliver as a fine type of a public member, who had gone after the things which were of interest to his county.

He made two very important announcements, the first, the proposed change in the lease period for rural Hydro users, and second the taking over by the Government of the Bay Shore Road from Kingston to Trenton. Both of these announcements are dealt with more fully in other columns of this issue.

Facts Concerning L. C. A.

In his address, Mr. Price dealt with the proposed change in the Liquor Control Act. He said:—"Our government have been anxious to deal with the L. C. A. on a proper basis, and the question has been well studied. 96% of our people are law-abiding and we felt that as far as anything could be done to wipe away any bitterness, it should be done. The records of L. C. A. have been very encouraging, thought the Attorney-General. Right or wrong, the Act has shown a good record. It did certain things which we claimed it would. It has minimized the consumption of hard liquors, cut out drunkenness and crime."

He gave facts and figures concerning the administration of the present Act and the consumption of spirituous liquors and wine and beer and continued by saying: "The Government stands firm, on their beliefs, not blowing cold and hot on the matter. I think the best way to handle the question is in a straightforward way. The U. S. has proved the uselessness of a law which could not be controlled. They have swung to the opposite extreme now, and there seems to be no control. The middle course is best."

Government Reduced Expenditure

Speaking of the reduction of expenditure, he said:—

"When times are good one might be able to cut down, but now there are certain expenditures needed. We had to spend $13,000,000 for relief work. When it started we all thought it a temporary measure, but it has lasted four years.

"There are only about 25 millions of controllable expenditure, and by cutting grants etc., we were able to cut off nine millions in two years. But there are certain fixed expenditures. We couldn't cut Old Age Pensions, Mothers' Allowances, etc. That would only make more distress."

Magistrates on Salary

Col. Price referred to the changes in the Department of Justice during his stay in office. We have put the magistrates and police on salaries, instead of paying by fees. It is much better and I would suggest you would be wise to see that your municipal police are handled the same way, he advised.

In closing, Mr. Price said:—"I am leaving our record with you. You have put up a good candidate in Mr. Colliver and you should back him to the last man," was the advice Attorney-General Price left with the convention.

Strict Enforcement Stop - Street Regulations

The local police are instituting a vigorous campaign to enforce the law with respect to stop-streets in the town of Napanee. Lax observance of the regulations by citizens, will make drastic action necessary.

During the week a resident of Belleville was fined $1.00 and costs for not stopping at a stop-street intersection.

Two citizens of Sheffield, charged with consuming liquor in a place other than a residence, were each fined $10.00 and costs.

A resident of Hamilton, found guilty of speeding on the highway, was assessed $5.00 and costs.

An Amherst Island man appeared in the Magistrate's Court and was found guilty of using gill nets without license.

Two residents of Desoronto were in the court on a charge of breach of the Highways Traffic Act. One was found guilty of permitting car markers to be used on a car other than the one for which they were purchased. The other man was found guilty of using the markers bought for another car. Both were fined $10.00 and costs.

William Mowers appeared in court on Saturday and was remanded for trial until Saturday at 10 a.m.

Two men from Prince Edward County were arrested by Provincial Constable Barrett on a charge of theft of goods from the summer home of Judge Madden, at Adolphustown. Their case will be heard in the magistrate's court on Thursday, May 3rd, at 2:30 p.m.

Lieut. - Colonel T. W. MacDowell

The Newly Appointed Hon. Lieut.-Colonel of Frontenac Regiment

The newly appointed Honorary Lieutenant-Colonel of the Frontenac Regiment, T. W. MacDowell, V.C., D. S. O., is a man who has had a brilliant military career and has held important positions in civil life.

He was appointed to a commission in the Canadian Militia, in October, 1914, with the Brockville Rifles. In January, 1915, he was made lieutenant in the 38th Battalion, C. E. F., and in July of the following year was promoted to a captaincy. In August, 1915, he returned to Bermuda where he remained until May 1916, when with his Battalion, proceeded to France. He was wounded in November 1916 and invalided to England.

During the battle of the Somme in November, 1916, Col. MacDowell received the Distinguished Service Order for conspicuous gallantry in action. He led his company against an enemy position with great courage and initiative, captured three machine guns and fifty prisoners. Later, although wounded, he remained at his post and greatly assisted in the success of the operations.

In January 1917 he returned to his battalion and was appointed acting major in March of the same year. He took part in the Battle of Vimy Ridge in which he won the Victoria Cross, cited for "the most conspicuous bravery and indomitable resolution in face of heavy machine gun and shell fire." By his initiative and courage in this engagement, with the aid of two runners, he was enabled, in the face of great difficulties, to capture two machine guns besides two officers and seventy-five men. Although wounded in the hand, he continued for five days to hold the position gained, in spite of heavy shell fire, until eventually relieved by his battalion. By his bravery and prompt action, he was able to round up a strong enemy machine gun post.

Government Takes Over Bay Shore Highway

Extends from Kingston to Trenton

According to an announcement made in the House, by Mr. Price, Attorney General of Ontario, at the Liberal-Conservative Convention held at Picton on Thursday, the Bay Shore Road from Kingston to Trenton will be taken over as a provincial highway.

Mr. Price was the special speaker at the convention, when Mr. H. S. Colliver was chosen as Conservative candidate in the forthcoming Ontario election.

Efforts to induce the Ontario Government to take the Bay Shore Road over and make it a scenic highway have been made over a long period of years The late Anthony Rankin, Napanee, and more recently the late Frontenac - Lennox, in the Ontario House for some years, worked hard for this purpose.

When the road, which is to be designated as the United Empire Lovalists Highway is completed, it will run from Kingston at the head of Wolfe Island, through Collins Bay, Bath, Adolphustown, to Glenora by ferry, to Picton, then Carrying Highway 33 connecting with No. 2 Highway at Picton. In length it is 63 miles.

Magnificent Scenery

The drive from Kingston to Picton over the Bay Shore Road is one of the finest, scenically, in Ontario. For practically the whole distance the road is within a few yards of the waters of the Bay of Quinte. Its improvement under Government supervision will undoubtedly make it into an attractive tourist highway.

It is understood the Government intends to widen and improve the present road, but the actual date when the work will be commenced is not known as yet.

Recently, a strong delegation from Prince Edward and Lennox Inter-viewed the Premier and the Minister of Highways concerning the taking over the road. The delegation was headed by H. S. Colliver, M.L.A., for Prince Edward and C. W. Hambly M.L.A. for Lennox. Among those who made up the party were Warden G. L. Hawley of Lennox and Addington and Warden Amos McDonald of Prince Edward.

Hon. T. Ashmore Kidd, Speaker of the House, also spoke in support of the project.

Baseball Season Will Re-Open May 30th— League Re-Organized

C. N. Loucks Elected President Again

On the evening of Thursday, April 26th, a re-organization meeting of the Bay of Quinte Baseball League was held in Belleville. The league is made up of the same teams as in 1933 : Brighton, Belleville, Picton and Gibbard Athletics at Napanee.

Last year's officers were unanimously returned to their positions, for 1934. The officers for the season are —

President—C. N Loucks, Napanee.
Vice - President — Norman Mallett, Picton.
Secretary - Treasurer — G. E. Gibbard, Napanee.
Asst. Sec. - Treas. — Don. Scott, Napanee.

All necessary items of business, preliminary to starting the season's playing were dealt with, except the passing of certificates, which will be looked after before the season opens.

The play will start on May 30th, when Belleville plays at Brighton and Gibbard Athletics go to Picton. On this occasion a new league pennant will be presented to Picton, last year's Bay of Quinte champions and Ontario finalists. The complete schedule of games will be announced at a later date.

Opposition to Gibbard's

The suggestion was advanced by Picton and Belleville that the strong Gibbard Athletic team should be given a bye into the "A" playdowns, but should continue to play in the regular Bay of Quinte League Schedule. In the event of this plan being accepted, it was suggested the team finishing second to the Napanee club should enter the "B" playdown. It was pointed out by Mr. Gibbard that this experiment is to be tried this year in the Bruce County League and if it proves satisfactory in this case, may be applied to other leagues next year. Considering that the Quinte League had, this year, been boosted from Intermediate "B" to Intermediate "A" on account of the splendid showing of the Pictons in the play-offs last year, Mr. Gibbard did not think that the O.B.A. executive would favor the suggestion advanced by Picton and Belleville. Even if Gibbard and Belleville would be granted "B" rating this season, which would have left only Brighton as a "B" club. Brighton, however, was content to stay in "A" classification and is preparing to strengthen its team for their home money.

Brighton's splendid sportsmanship is deserving of every commendation. Had it not been for them it is scarcely likely that the league would have been operated this season. Picton and Belleville were all for freezing out the Gibbard Club, because of recent acquisitions by the Napanee team. Brighton informed all and sundry they were in the game for the sport of it, win or lose.

Race Horse Found In Bad Condition

Miss Penalty, once the pride of the race track and a winner of the Canadian Futurity at Toronto, a few years ago, is recovering from what S.P.C.A. officials and others claim is ross neglect. The horse, which is owned by Charles Randalls of Napanee, according to information given, was boarded during the winter at the stable of Henry Fisher of Westbrook and it is alleged that a bargain was made with Alfred Keiser to feed and care for the horse.

The horse was found in the stable almost starved, and so weak it could scarcely stand. It was taken to Kingston for treatment. Slings were required to assist it so stand. Mr. Fisher has been unable to care for the horse owing to failing eyesight.—Quinte Loyalist.

Stubborn Blaze Causes Serious Damage To Home

A fire, which caused considerable damage, occurred on Thursday morning, about 10.30, at the home of Robert Reid, corner of Isabella and John Streets.

When the firemen answered the call they found a blaze breaking through the south side of the kitchen roof. Water was soon applied, but in the meantime the fire broke through the roof of the main part of the house and the whole interior started around the chimney which runs through the attic. A heavy wind was blowing and before the fire could be put out, it fanned the blaze and started the shingles on the rear of the roof of both parts of the house.

While the damage to the house, except the roof, was small, the contents and interior were badly soaked with water and discolored with smoke.

The house is owned by F. D. Burdette. The part damaged was occupied by Robert Reid and the other half, which escaped serious damage is occupied by Henry Tivy.

POSTAL DELIVERY

Recently the Weekly Press of Ontario have been commenting on the unfair treatment which the towns are receiving in the matter of postal delivery. The Whitby Gazette has written at considerable length concerning the injustice, the Newmarget Era takes up the refrain and the Seaforth Town Council has petitioned the Federal Government to remove the discrimination against the small town in the matter of mail distribution.

At the present time, two large sections of our population receive free mail delivery—the dwellers in the cities and those in the country. The people who live in the towns have to go to the Post Office to receive their mail. Not only so, but they have to pay two dollars a year for a box which is, as the Whitby paper points out, just as great a convenience to the Post Office Department as it is to the customer. In addition to that, they have to bear their share of the free delivery of mail in the cities and townships.

It is quite evident that what applies to these towns applies to Napanee citizens, as well. The principal of free delivery has been adopted by the Post Office Department and the only ones who do not participate in it are the dwellers in the small towns.

The cities have the great powerful Press and monied interests to press their interests. The farmer has had such a difficult time, that both the Provincial and Dominion Governments have special departments to look after their problems. Now, we have no desire to see the services of either of these groups curtailed. But, it seems as though the only groups left to its own devises are those who live in the small towns throughout the Province.

Our Town Council might very well add its request to that of Seaforth, for free delivery in Napanee. And in the meantime the rent of the boxes should be reduced from the present $2.00 fee to a nominal one of $1.00.

THE REAL STRUGGLE BEGINS

In the United States the real struggle for control of the power generated by the "New Deal" is only just beginning. When President Roosevelt assumed the reigns of office, the nation was on the borders of economic collapse. The captains of industry were completely baffled. The situation had got beyond their control. They were willing, at that time, to do anything the President asked of them, if only he could set the wheels turning again. Now, they have begun to turn — but they are not so keen as they were two years ago to permit President Roosevelt to sit at the controls. The real test of the N. R. A. lies immediately ahead — as the great institutions, wealth and credit, see the control passing out of their hands.

"The Yardstick," issued by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, in New York, sizes up the situation correctly in its issue of April 16th. It says :—

"The anti-New Dealers have gained courage and are talking high, wide and handsome. Business is picking up steadily. Profits are growing. And since they do not want reform but only recovery and they think recovery is travelling towards us fast, they are fighting reform. Of course, without reform recovery is a known snare and a delusion.

"The amazing publicity that the newspapers have given the charges of Dr. Wirt has served him and his inflationist Committee for the Nation as a means of attacking nearly the whole program except inflation. The stock market regulation bill is fired at from a hundred centres even though it is known that the runaway stock market of the Coolidge era and of '29 helped bring on these black years. The law compelling corporations to tell the truth about new securities is branded a barrier to recovery. . . .

"It is the old story. When the devil was sick last year, the devil a monk would be. He thinks now that he is convalescing and that it will not be long until he is completely well. And so he is girding himself for another dance on the same primrose path that led us to our four years and more of hell and which, if tried again, will end in the same identical destination.

"The New Deal has to be improved much. It is far from good enough. We have to take this occasion to do things that will make this country and this world far less unjust and far abler to prevent the catastrophe of another collapse. But the drive is on to break it down utterly. The engines of propaganda have been wheeled into place. . . .

"But if we have learned anything at all it is that more money has to go to wage and salary workers and to farmers and less to property; that the relation between production and distribution has to be guided; and that neither of these two things can be safely turned over to the sole control of the representatives of property and credit-power. Corporation executives and bankers have not learned this, yet. And so it looks now that business is picking up, as if we are in for a fight."

When a sane and rather conservative group speak that way, it looks as though the policies of the Roosevelt administration are not going to win without a real struggle.

A SPURIOUS ARGUMENT

An argument which was overworked a few years ago, is once more being pressed forward in connection with the proposed extension of facilities for the sale of beer and wine. It is often argued that the moment a law is passed prohibiting some practise or custom, at once it stirs, in the minds of people, an intense desire to do the things prohibited. If you have a law to prohibit the sale of certain drugs then it is argued there, at once, is an increase in the number who buy those drugs simply because they are forbidden, by law.

This makes a very fine argument, but one which is not borne out by the facts of experience. We, in Ontario know by now, that the largest number on record, placed bets to the tune of $300,000. At that, it is reported, only part of those who wanted to place bets could get near the bookmakers. Once the law was lifted thousands took advantage of the changed conditions. .

Generally speaking, our citizens are a law abiding group. To be sure, there are always some who would break the law. But the great mass of people are desirous of obeying the laws which their representatives place on the statute books. To make a general statement on the basis of a few observations of lawbreaking is to cast a rather serious reflection on the character of our citizens. To argue that the imposition of a law invites law-breakers, is true only within very restricted limits.

To increase the facilities for obtaining liquor will, undoubtedly, increase its sale, and develop a brand new crop of youthful addicts.

JAPAN UNMASKS

Japan, through an official spokesman, a short time ago gave notice to the world that she would resent any interference in the affairs of China by Western nations. The day after the statement was issued, Tokyo regretted its premature publication, and disclaimed responsibility. A day or two later and in a little more diplomatic language the Japanese Government repeats the statement, made through the official spokesman. In this formal statement Japan makes her position clear. She claims a practical control over the whole of China.

The policy followed by Japan, in making known her intention, is that which she has traditionally followed in diplomatic dealings with other peoples. In 1915, when Japan made her now famous twenty-one demands from China, she followed a plan almost identical with that which marked her more recent proclamation. At that time, when Russia, the age-long enemy of Japan, was engaged in a life and death struggle, when Britain, her restraining ally was throwing her whole weight into the World War, when the United States was bending every effort to keep out of the European imbroglio, Japan made thirty-one demands of Yuan Shai Kai, which the Chinese Emperor was ordered to keep secret. The demands were of such a nature that had he granted them it would have meant the gradual subjugation of China to Japan. Yuan struggled for a time, alone, and then allowed a copy of these demands to fall into the hands of Frederick Moore, Associated Press Representative in Peking, who cabled them to New York. The Japanese representative in New York, at once repudiated them. The agency supressed the story and cabled Moore to send facts and not rumors. Thereupon Moore resigned. A few days later, Japan modified the demands of China and finally, Yuan published the correspondence showing Japan's duplicity in the matter. The United States sent a strong letter of protest to Japan who, thereupon, modified her demands, which were finally met by China.

Now, again, Japan breaks the news that she intends to hold all that she has, then when the storm of Western opinion breaks, denies her intention and finally modifies it somewhat, but makes it perfectly clear that she will brook no outside intereference in China.

It becomes as plain as day, that what Japan seeks in 1934 is what she was denied in 1915, complete control over the whole of Asia.

One unfortunate feature of the Japanese attitude, which is not as well known as it should be, is contained particularly in the phrase of the note "joint operations undertaken by foreign powers, even in the name of technical assistance," must cease. For two years the League of Nations has been working under a commission to implement some of the recommendations of the Lytton report. This Commission is preparing to assist China establish a firm basis of governmental and financial administration. Now Japan says that, too, must cease.

In the light of this attitude of Japan, it seems that the best policy for Western countries is, to let her alone. She has already found the seizure of Manchuria is costing her more than she can stand. The attempt to control four hundred million Chinese will, eventually, prove her own undoing.

THINGS TO LEARN

The three principal things for children to learn are love for their fellow-men, a sense of humor, and a sense of proportion. Religion and a perception of Beauty come from the first, modesty and tolerance from the second, wisdom and courage from the third.—Hugh Walpole.

Editorial Comment

"MR. BRITLING (BULL) SEES IT THROUGH"

The budget speech of Neville Chamberlain recently before the British House of Commons was interesting chiefly as a reminder that a nation can adhere to time-tested fiscal practices and still attain a substantial measure of recovery. While our own government's chief problem at the moment is the fantastic one of trying desperately and vainly to spend the billions of dollars that an unprecedentedly lavish Congress has voted, the chief concern of the British Finance Minister is that of alleviating the prospective benefits of increasing receipts during the next twelve months. He has decided to give both the taxpayer and the worker something.—New York Herald Tribune.

IS IT THE SAME OLD DEAL ?

The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer. That was the case in the boom days of Coolidge. It was the case in the depression days of Hoover. And it still is the case in the recovery days of Roosevelt. Let those shuddering Tories who moan about Administration socialism ponder these figures from the Treasury: Taxes paid by corporations increased from $62,801,182, the March payment of 1933, to $92,209,858 for the March payment of this year.

Taxes paid by persons with incomes of more than $5,000 jumped from $6,000,000 last year to $100,-700,752 this year.

And taxes on incomes under $5,000 dropped from $14,974,589 to $12,934,-734. — New York Post.

A LIBERAL VIEW OF THE OTTAWA AGREEMENTS

It is not surprising to learn that the Dominions are anxious to propose the holding of another Empire Economic Conference before the expiration of the Ottawa agreements, or at any rate before the British Government decides on its future policy. They are, of course, very much afraid that they are to be thrown back on the British market to the needs of the British farmer. We see no reason why the Government should be afraid of anything. Indeed, it would be very difficult to do so. Another conference, however, at which took place in 1932 at Ottawa, might prove fatal to the integrity of the Empire. In that unfortunate congeries of underground sessions the United Kingdom delegates were baffled by the tangle of vested interests which gathered at the Chateau Laurier from all parts of the globe; and in the end they had to surrender reasonable British principles at the clamor of the Dominion industrials.' Subsequent experience should have taught wisdom to all the parties to those unsatisfactory contracts. At the next conference Great Britain will be in a much stronger bargaining position; and unless our representatives are phenomenally stupid we can expect a much greater element of mutuality in such future arrangements.—London News Chronicle (Lib.)

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

For Canada, the most important point is that our adhesion to the principle of sanctions, in case of war, anything further than possible participation in economic measures. We do not favor military partiticipation. Senator Dandurand affirms that it will be for the Canadian Parliament to decide on the degree of obligations will be. As a matter of fact, the danger of Canada being drawn into a foreign war for sentimental reasons has become less since the establishment of the League of Nations. We may therefore reasonably think that the Canadian Senate, and after it the House of Commons, will remain faithful to the League, first in approval of the principle and to show we have the same faith, and secondly because of the eminent services that the League will be able to render once people have returned to cool blood and commonsense; if not for the services already rendered. —La Presse, Montreal.

A SOUND PUBLIC OPINION

We do not want to have in these days mere shibboleths of party names.

We want to have behind them a convinced, well-informed, and consistent party which knows what it is more than ever, necessary. Politics are in a great state of confusion.

In the world there is great difficulties, and when in great difficulties you have not that you have many things put forward which are very little thought out, and it is very important that we have a sound public opinion if we are to get through our difficulties. — Viscount Grey.

THE CHALDEAN QUARTERLY

Suggestions to Contributors

To avoid confusion, we must ask that all manuscripts and the letter describing it should be forwarded in the same consignment and covered by the bill of lading.

All manuscripts should be klinkered, preferably glazed. Sundried brick are papyrus will be returned unread.

Write on one face of brick only, using metal stylus or sharp-pointed sample margins. Each brick should be numbered and impressed with all sender's address.

Manuscripts should be sent boxed or securely wrapped in Egyptian mummy cloth — never in bags or open panniers. Freight must be fully prepaid on all shipments.

We want stories of the great river — stories of the glorious campaign against inundation, stories of the hardy pioneers who made possible our modern civilisation.

Rejection does not necessarily imply lack of merit, and when material is suitable for other than editorial use we will undertake to dispose of same to local dealers in building materials, remitting proceeds, less 25 per cent, to contributors. Otherwise all manuscripts found unavailable for publication will be returned C.O.D. The Editor—(The Atlantic Monthly.)

I have always suspected that the "howlers" which the educational papers publish from time to time are often the inventions of schoolteachers. However, we have some genuine examples sent me by a reader in British Honduras. They occurred recently in a class, when the father of a family had set his children to the task of mastering spelling and meaning.

Dactyl. Part of a flower.
Zephyr. A kind of maniac.
Polygon. What Julius Caesar fought with.
Aviary. Where you keep bees, monkeys, aeroplanes.

The third of these seems to me delicious.—Colophon, in John o'London.

UNAFRAID

(The Lancet" draws attention to bank-notes as carriers of infectious diseases.)

Not me mine it is to walk in dread
Of measles, or to take
In sudden panic, to my bed,
To lie, in fear, awake,
When chicken-pox, and whooping-cough,
And scarlet fever walk
To catch, no medicines I'll quaff,
Their energies to baulk.
Each hostile germ I will await
With careless courage, and elate!

Yet would I not appear more brave
Than are of my kind,
If I so fearlessly behave
'Tis not that I am blind
To that dread power which they wield:
I flout them, unafraid,
Because their secret is revealed,
Their impotence displayed!
Bank-notes, in which they seem to be,
Are things I very seldom see!

MODERN YOUNG PEOPLE

The world is passing through troubled times. The young people of today think of nothing but themselves. There is no reverence for parents or old age. They are impatient of all restraint. They talk as if they alone knew everything, and what passes for wisdom with us is foolishness with them. As for girls, they are forward, immodest and unwomanly in speech, behavior, and dress.—Written by Peter the Hermit in 1274 A.D.)

WARNING IN RHYME

There is a little beauty spot up in Aberchumbrie in Scotland, much visited by tourists where seats are provided for comfortable converse into the charms of the scenery and picnicking is freely indulged in. As in many American parks and beauty spots, apparently, were not effective enough to induce tourists to clean up after their thumpkins. So there has grown literary light in the local offices, world beloughnt himself to try out the appeal in the form of a limerick would do, and the following notices now have been posted :

Oh you who come here as a sitter,
We pray you to clear up your litter—
Your paper and scraps
And chocolate wraps—
Lest feelings against you be bitter.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 6TH, 1934

"JESUS ACCLAIMED AS KING"

MATTHEW 21: 1-14

With the incidents recorded in today's lesson begins the final section of the Gospels. Though this section is only a week of the life of Jesus, yet it occupies about a third of the whole Gospel of Mark. The fulness of the narrative is due to the importance of the death and resurrection in Christian history. Apparently Jesus had said nothing to his disciples about his messiahship during the last months of his life. At Caesarea Phillipi, He had made known His unique place among the little band of followers. Thereafter, He made His way along with them to Jerusalem, in order to be there for the Passover, at which time He intended to offer Himself to the nation as the promised Messiah.

Arriving at the slope of the Mount of Olives, He halted and prepared to enter in a symbolic way. And with this purpose in mind He enacted a well known messianic prophecy from Zechariah. Matthew says he sent for both an ass and its colt, while Mark mentions only the colt. In Matthew's account he tells us that this was all done in fulfilment of a prophecy of Zechariah, that Jesus should come riding on an ass. Christ tells His disciples where to find the ass and how to answer anyone who questions their authority. Matthew states simply that the disciples did as they were told, Mark adds that some of the crowd questioned them but when they answered "the Lord has need of them," there was no further difficulty.

In spite of these differences, the main facts stand out in perfect agreement. It would appear that Jesus secured an ass and thus mounted, marched into the city, while the people led by the disciples preceded Him, throwing their garments on the ground and waving branches of palm trees.

The true significance of the event did not dawn on those immediately present. There were hundreds of other prophecies in the Old Testament which Jesus might have enacted. But He chose this particular one because it not only symbolized his humility, but because the passage in Zechariah was a protest against the prevailing view of the Messiah as a man of power and war. The prophet declares that when the Messiah comes, He will come not as a military conqueror but as a champion of peace and good will. It was this which Jesus sought to teach of Himself. He wanted to make it perfectly clear that he was not the sort of Messiah which was expected by the nation.

After He had made His entrance into the city, in the symbolic manner described above, Jesus proceeded to the temple. There, He witnessed the scandal of selling doves for the sacrifices. The money changers were busily engaged changing the provincial coins, in order to be there for the Passover, at which time He intended to offer Himself to the nation as the promised Messiah.

In the Garden

SOMETHING NEW :—

Half the joy of flower gardening will be in trying something new. Of course it is not advisable to make the whole garden each spring, nor should one abandon completely all those old favorites which have done well in the past, but without something entirely new each season, time interest will be lost. In a special part of every seed catalogue will be found the very latest creations both in the flower and the vegetable kingdoms. Certain flowers which were always double before now appear in a single type, or perhaps a new distinct color has been added. Giants have been evolved, like the new tiny Zinnias, or very much increased height, added to something which a few years ago could only be secure d in midget size. Practically all the leading flowers may be secured in both doubles and singles and some of the latter, particularly in the Asters, are very desirable.

SPECIAL FLOWERS :—

Annual flowers are classified under various heads and in making up the list for the 1934 garden these factors should be considered. Attention must be paid of course, to time of bloomings and color. Height should also be noted as a medium sized plant hidden by those bushy stems or tall flowers will be "born to blush unseen." But these are only the most elemental points which every gardener, of a few years experience now notes automatically. There are other and finer distinctions. Certain shades blend well together and often a whole bed will be selected with this blending in mind. Of course for this sort of thing, all the plants must bloom during the same period. Fragrance should be taken into account, as there are some pretty things like Evening Scented Stock, Nicotine, Mignonette, Sweet Sultan and Verbena, which while rather plain as plants, fill the whole garden with a delightful odor, more especially in the evening. In shaded quarters, Tuberous rooted Begonias, Pansies, and wild flowers will do well. In fact, they prefer this location to any other. In the partial shade, Clarkia, Annual Larkspur, Lupine, Nicotine, Phlox and Verbena should be grown. On poor soil, Portulaca is a favorite as well as Alyssum, Sweet-scented Sultan, Calendulas, Calliopsis, Cosmos, Sunflowers, Schizanthus, Salpiglossis, Marigolds, Petunias, and many others. Those will also successfully resist dry weather. For cutting purposes, there is a long list to choose from but it should include Gypsophila (Baby's Breath) useful for filling up bouquets. There are several hardy annuals which can be picked with long stems and these, dried, are very useful dried for winter bouquets. These include the Straw-flower, Globe Amaranthum, Rhodanthe and many others.

NO TROUBLE :—

There is somewhat a wide spread belief that it is more difficult to grow beautiful flowers than a few rows of common vegetables. But this opinion is not well founded. In many respects it is easier to grow the flowers. Of course, there are certain things like gorgeous roses, delicately shaded Iris and slender stately Lilies, which certainly will not thrive on neglect, but there are also a dozen or so annuals, and a few herbaceous perennials, which require practically no skill and with a minimum of attention will allow the owner to go fishing or play golf as often as he wishes. Take the little Alyssum, for edging walks or borders. It comes in several sizes up to six or eight inches in height. It will grow almost anywhere and will bloom all season, if the dead flowers are cut off with clippers or even a lawn mower two or three times. Sweet Alyssum is another which can be plant and forget. It likes a hot, sunny location and does not want much attention. Calendulas will bloom all summer. A little larger, is the Calendula, or pot Marigold. They are the minimum of attention, though it should not be shadded. After thinning out more attention is needed. The ordinary dwarf French Marigold is another flower which should not be overlooked by the amateur who has little time to devote to his hobby and also the California Poppy. Cosmos and red ornamental Sunflower. This election will give plenty of bloom, a fair range in color and also in height.

ROCK GARDENS :—

Gardening changes. Not so many years ago a steep bank at the end of the lawn was regarded as a natural liability. Grass and ordinary flowers would not survive spring lowerstorm. About the only solution was large trees and in front of these a screen of shrubbery or vines to hide the raw earth. Now-a-days, however, such a bank is actually wanted by the person who desires to create a beautiful garden and often where no bank exists one is raised by artificial earth piling means. Any sort of garden is not to be confused with the old stiff and rather unsightly rockery. In the first advised here, boulders are set into the side of the hill, embedded as they would be found naturally distur bed them, and also in such a way that the soil between will lead back from the main bank. Between the rocks a miniature Rocky Mountain range is created with gulleys, alpine meadows, rare and steep canyons. Seed catalogues usually list alpine rock garden plants separately. It is most important to secure seeds and plants suitable to these conditions and there is also advisable to get special literature on the subject, or visit a neighboring rock garden, before attempting too elaborate a lay-out.

SCREENS :—

Fortunate indeed is the gardener without a skeleton in the closet in the form of an objectionable garage, chicken yard, or ugly back fence. There are few such locations where every vista is desirable. But growing screens offer a solution to things which are better hidden. And all of the latter are not merely objectionable creations of man. The straight lines of a beautiful residence are bound to become monotonous if the whole structure is in sight. A few bushes and vines about a house add materially to its charm These growing screens are divided into two classes, annual climbers and tall plants which, of course, must be removed each year and perrenial creepers and shrubs and trees. The latter are permanent but take more time to produce and may be supplemented the first year or two with annuals. The annuals, on the other hand have the advantage of speed, in a month or two they are perfect in their glitz of shotting off an objectionable view, or screening the poon day run from the Verandah, and the very fact that they are there for one year only allows an opportunity for change, and changing things about is one of the fascinations of gardening. Of the annuals African Marigolds, Cosmos, Ornamental Sunflowers, Larkspurs, Castor Beans and other bushy, fairly tall plants will make satisfactory screens by early July. Among the climbers are Morning Glories, Nasturtiums, Sweet Peas, Canary Bunner Beans, Cobea, Gourds, Cardinal Climber and Canary Bird Flower.

A VALUABLE REFERENCE :—

Gardeners will find a good seed catalogue indispensable. Height of the flowers, times of blooming, whether they are suitable for such special purposes as edging, screening cutting and fragrance are all mentioned and are vital facts in laying out a satisfactory garden. In the vegetable line the catalogue contains this useful service by listing different varities under the heading of early, late and medium to that a succession of vegetables is possible right through the season. With invaluable sorts, special directions are given in regard to care and preparation for the table.

Factors Influencing Good Celery Crop

(Experimental Farms Note.)

To produce celery of high quality with rolls of the mineral type, which is crisp and silky loom, for early crop and fresh bulk for the main crop have been found to give the best results. While celery requires moisture at all times and an even supply throughout the season of growth, a thoroughly mineral soils will be found best for the early crop, but if moulded with irrigation late crops of fine quality can be much easily and naturally moist, and may need drainage to maintain the water level during the growing period. The muck bed celery is considered to be of the highest quality.

The growers should make small field tests with several strains of celery to determine the best strain to use the following year for the second crop. Seed that is two or three years old will not carry the disease known as leaf spot thus eliminating one source of trouble.

To avoid the loss from plants producing seed stalks, which is known as bolting, the plants should be grown from the seeding stage until planting out time with some bottom heat. Seed plants are placed in seeds with a temperature of 40 to 50 degrees F., for from 10 to 20 days there is, as a rule a large percentage that will produce seed stalks in the field. Where temperatures above 60 degrees F. are maintained this loss is avoided.

The mineral soils require a combination of humus supplying materials and commercial fertilizer. At least 15 or 20 tons of well rotted manure should be applied per acre and supplemented with an application of 1,000 lbs. of commercial fertiliser at the rate of 300 to 800 pounds per acre in accordance with what is deemed advisable for the needs of the crop. —

The muck soils being composed chiefly of humus will respond to an application of commercial fertilizer only. The type for early crops and for the late crop where lime is plentiful an 0-8-12 mixture or an 0-8-24 mixture will give good results. The application will vary from 800 to 1200 pounds per acre.

The celery plant is not a good feraeer therefore the food supply must be within easy reach of the plants.

To obtain quick, even germination sandy and fairly warm water until the sprouts begin to show will be found satisfactory. Soaking must be done before the sprouts are long and liable to be broken off. Mixing with sand and sowing thinly will give much better plants then if sown very thick.

The varieties now used are Golden Self-Blanching, Pre-eminent and the Golden Self Blanching. There is a certain amount of Fusarium blight among the green varieties grown.

Spraying for the control of blight should be carried out. Sterilizing with the seedlings in the seed-bed using the 4-6-46 Burgundy mixture. Applications nine times. 6 pounds washing soda and 40 gallons of water. The preparation of this mixture is the same as the Bordeaux mixture. This latter treatment has been found to give exceptionally good control for late blight. The application of these sprays should be at intervals of ten days apart.

APPLES AND CHESTNUTS

Here are one or two deserts. Apples stew rather well with chestnuts. Peel and skin the chestnuts, and put them into a casserole with a little butter and half their quantity of apples peeled, cored, and cut into small cubes. Add a little sugar, put on the lid, and cook gently in the oven for about an hour, or until the chestnuts are tender.

ROOF NOW AND SAVE MONEY

USE TITE-LAP

More Covering Capacity for the Money

"Tite-Lap" Galvanized Roofing is true to its name. Every sheet has nine places to nail across the bottom—only 4 inches between nails. The end lap is so tight as to be invisible, and it positively excludes driving rain or snow.

"Tite-Lap" is a development of the famous "Rib Roll" which we introduced ten years ago. It has all the good appearance and weather tightness of "Rib Roll" but, on account of the re-arrangement of the ribs, each sheet has greater covering capacity.

Galvanized roofing or siding offers the utmost in durability—and "Tite-Lap" is the type of galvanized roofing which ensures most application, and most permanent weather protection, at low cost.

Tell us what you want to roof, giving ridge and rafter measurements and we will send you TITE-LAP estimate and show you how you can save money.

CANARIES REGARDED AS PURVEYORS GOOD CHEER

The approach of Spring brings tattletes to show that for the past twelve months there has been a definite increase in the number of canaries brought into Canada.

Officials concerned with the travel comfort of warblers from England and Germany, state that throughout the depression there has been a tendency to view canaries as purveyors of good cheer and therefore a necessity instead of a luxury. A luxury While canary-blessed homes are found, from cost to cost Canada, there is reason to believe that in particular, Toronto is more canaryminded than Montreal. The latest shipment will be allotted to adopted homes during April.

The essence of all poetry is to be found, not in high-wrought subtlety of thought, nor in pointed elegances of phrase, but in the depths of the heart and the most sacred feelings of the men who write. — John Keble.

IT'S LIVER THAT MAKES YOU FEEL SO WRETCHED

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels every day digested life.

Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just sours and ferments in your bowels and your bowels are clogged. Foul decays inside you and your entire system is poisoned. Then this poisonous waste matter, instead of being carried out of the body, is absorbed into the blood and you get sick and miserable. You have indigestion, constipation, bad breath, a coated tongue, headaches, dizziness, nervousness, and you feel sour, sunk and generally miserable.

Here's a guaranteed way to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely to make you feel like a million. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Take only as directed. Then see how much better you feel inside and out, how much more cheerful you are, how much more you enjoy eating. Carter's Little Liver Pills are purely vegetable, a mighty tonic in your bowels, and a gentle but sure liver stimulant. You can't buy anything I let me prove it. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Use as directed. Insist on getting them. Refuse substitutes. Only 25c at all druggists.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this unless you help by taking your bowels and liver like salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or by enemas? They can't make up your liver bile.

A real calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of 25c Carter's Little Liver Pills. All vegetable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll make up your liver without upsetting you. Bring back the joy of living. Ask for Carter's.

Don't worry, your money on substitutes. Be sure it's Carter's. Refuse substitutes. Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. Sold at all druggists.

EXPERIENCED CHEESEMAKERS

Cheese making is a specialized trade and men with considerable experience and special training are needed in order to produce high quality cheese consistently. For instance, as pointed out by the recent survey of cheese factory operations in Quebec, carried out by the Dominion Department of Agriculture not only are the cheesemakers in Quebec required by law to obtain a Dairy School education before they can secure a permit to make cheese, but they have also had considerable experience in making. The majority have been makers for a period of 10 to 30 years, the average number of years' experience for all makers being 13. Eleven of the 120 questioned had been in business between 30 and 40 years, while 4 had made cheese for over 40 years. Despite the high average years of experience for all makers, there were 44 of the total number who had under 10 years' experience. The majority of these, however, had been "making" between 4 and 10 years.

POWDERY SCAB OF POTATOES

Experience has shown that powdery scab is an exceedingly important potato disease requiring a consideration of the aggressive policy adopted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture; a policy which undoubtedly has restricted the spread of this disease, not only throughout Canada but into foreign markets as well. Although observed in every province except Saskatchewan and Manitoba, powdery scab is not spreading in Canada, nor to date has it been responsible for any serious loss. However, notwithstanding this satisfactory condition, it is important to appreciate the destructive nature of the disease, more especially as applied to seed potatoes. Experiments and observations have shown that the occurrence of the disease is definitely limited by climatic conditions, the requirements for infection being periods of rainfall when the tubers are young, followed by cool weather and rain. These factors, together with poorly drained soil, seem to offer the most favourable conditions for infection which apparently does not occur usually under any other conditions.

George III Has A Happy Hour

"Haw, haw, haw! Haw, haw, haw!" It was a roar of raucous laughter that came from the corner of the taproom that Bill Shakespeare runs even in a quiet little street the other side of the Styx.

"Goodness gracious, but this place is getting rowdy !" said Anne Boleyn, pervishly to Sir Walter Raleigh. "It's as common as the speakeasies they have nowadays in America. That haw-haw bird pulling the big laugh is so tickled he'll have a mug of beer if he doesn't come out of it pretty soon. Wonder what's the big idea, anyhow ?"

"Why," said Sir Walter, "that's old George Third that lost America to England, the big bonehead. Let's go over and see what he's roaring about."

"Haw, haw, haw ! Haw, haw haw!" shouted George as he rocked back and forth in another gale of merriment.

"Pardon us, your majesty," said Sir Walter as he neared the king; "permit us to introduce Anne Boleyn, whom you may not know personally but certainly know by reputation."

"Pardon me," said William Pitt, who was sitting at the table with King George; "but if I were Anne Boleyn I don't believe I would talk much about my reputation. However, be that as it may, what is it you want so see George about ?"

"We merely want to ask," said Sir Walter, "why all the ribald merriment."

"Oh," replied Mr. Pitt. "Well, his majesty has just been giving me the jake about America. You know, they called me the friend of America, and his majesty and I had some pretty jake about regarding the American Revolution. Well, his royal highness has just heard about how things are now in the United States of America, and he is laughing over the idea that the U. S. walked out on him because of their battle cry that 'Taxation without representation is tyranny.'"

"Yes?" said Sir Walter and Anne Boleyn together.

"Well, his majesty says that from what he's heard they've got nothing else in America now but taxes, taxes and more taxes, and they're putting up an awful holler about it. And he naturally wanted me to get hold of George Washington, Ben Franklin, John Adams and some more of the American patriots and ask them, since they thought taxation without representation was tyranny, if they think taxation with representation, the kind they're getting now, is so very damn comical."

"Ooah !" exclaimed Sir Walter, "that's so. They kicked about a tax on tea and started a war rather than pay it, and now they're getting taxed every time they turn around or draw breath. They broke away from England because they got taxed, and now—"

"Haw, haw, haw!" shouted George III again: "haw, haw, haw."—From "A Line o' Type or Two," in Chicago Tribune.

APPLE "GRANNY" GETS MONUMENT

Sydney, Australia. "Granny Smith" the first grower of the apple named after her, is to be re-created in the shape of a monument in marble, according to information reaching an official of the Canadian National Steamships.

"Granny" Maria Smith, who lived 70 years ago, was a shrewd hard-working old lady who had two farms outside Sydney. At that time there were only three varieties of apples known in Sydney and the principal supply came from Tasmania in a very rough state. "Granny" had brought some of these home. She threw several out which took root and a few came up on the edge of her footpath, which was subsequently known to very fruit grower in the district. Within 10 years, large orchards of Granny Smith apples were planted. They extended to all the fruit growing districts in Australia, and later were cultivated throughout the world.

"IN-AND-OUTER"

"The young farmer of tomorrow will, I believe, have ceased to be an in-and-outer. You know what I mean—a man who, when pork is high in the price list, and then when the horizon is darkened with pigs and the price is going down, is anxiously looking for some other chance to plunge. If wheat is high, he breaks up land that should be in pasture and that should never have been broken perhaps, and then when the market changes, well, he is ready to try something else. That man is not a farmer; he is only masquerading as one. I hope that the hypothetical young man that we are considering will have and invest soundly his profit when prices are good and that he will plough in the Stable right now, my hands and quit because prices have gone down."—Dean E. A. Howe, Faculty of Agriculture, University of Alberta in an address published in "Scientific Agriculture."

SYSTEM IN HOG MARKING

While it is not expected or recommended that all market hogs should be marked, because efficient local grading eliminates the necessity of maintaining local identity, at the same time the marking of hogs has been demonstrated to be both feasible and practical where local grading is not practicable. Experience in the marking of hogs as carried out by Canadian shippers and drovers has made possible the study of the various systems with a view to making a selection of the best system for general use throughout the Dominion. Such a system has been outlined by the Dominion Department of Agriculture pamphlet No. 88, in which is shown the application of different marks on the backs of hogs at different locations by means of clipping the hair with scissors or shippers' or butcher's hair-tags where such marks are not distinct enough. It is advised to add a mark with roofing paint which dries quickly.

Local Representative Showed Pictures in County School

On Friday evening, Mr. C. W. Buchanan, county representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, visited School Section No. 3, Richmond, at which Mrs. Alma Allenbract is the teacher.

Mr. Buchanan showed motion pictures of an educational nature, including the making of maple sugar, garden, and some amusing films of Charlie Chaplin. He also gave an address on agriculture. The general public were invited and were pleased with both pictures and address.

The pupils' part in the program was the singing of several songs and a whistling chorus.

A short time ago Mr. Buchanan visited the same school and gave a demonstration of pruning apple and pear trees.

W. M. S. Trinity United Church

On Wednesday, April 18, the Easter thank-offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in the Sunday School room, and opened with the singing of "O Spirit of the Living God." Following this the Apostles Creed was repeated in Unison. After reading the minutes and treasurer's report, the beautiful hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth," which seems so particularly appropriate in the spring of the year immediately preceded Miss Gardiner's brief address, "This message, based on a passage from St. Mark's gospel, was a contribution to the programme so devotional in spirit that each member of the audience was deeply affected and benefited.

Miss Alma Thompson read a letter from Mrs. Edwards, Lorena Wilson and more taxes, and they're putting up an awful holler about it. And he naturally wanted me to get hold of George Washington, Ben Franklin, John Adams and some more of the American patriots and ask them, since they thought taxation without representation was tyranny, if they think taxation with representation, the kind they're getting now, is so very damn comical."

"Ooah !" exclaimed Sir Walter, "that's so. They kicked about a tax on tea and started a war rather than pay it, and now they're getting taxed every time they turn around or draw breath. They broke away from England because they got taxed, and now—"

"Haw, haw, haw!" shouted George III again: "haw, haw, haw."—From "A Line o' Type or Two," in Chicago Tribune.

Tea was served by Miss Dora Casey and her committee.

BASEBALL NEWS

BY G.E.EMBBARD

It did not take the Bay of Quinte League long to get organized once the nasty C.O.R.L. situation was cleaned up. It looks to us as though the senior moguls could take a few lessons in how to operate a league from some of the intermediate outfits.

The long expected fireworks which were anticipated at the election of officers at the meeting of the league in Belleville on Thursday night, failed to go off. As a result President Charlie Loucks of Napanee was returned at head of the bake, while yours truly looks after the secretarial duties. Norman Mallett of Picton refused the nomination for the presidency of the league and is, therefore, vice president, the same as last year.

Once the clubs paid their entrance fee it did not take President Charlie long to get the routine business cleared up. The League is all set to go this year now, with the exception of the schedule which will be published in a few days. Belleville opens at Brighton, with the locals going to Picton on the 30th of May.

The Lennox County League will hold its first annual meeting in Napanee on Saturday of this week, with five clubs ready to face the barrier. Yarker has decided not to operate this year as has the Dorland club from over the bay. This leaves Napanee, Tamworth, Adolphustown Maple Leafs, Gibbard's of Napanee, of last year, with Forest Mills back in the league; fighting it out for the County honours.

The acquisition of Forest Mills will give the league a little more colour this year, since the boys from the northwest are a nice bunch of ball players and will bear plenty of watching in the coming campaign.

Walt. Gerow was quite disappointed in not being able to get on the diamond on Saturday last. It did not dry up as fast as expected, probably due to the cold weather. However, the boys have been working out faithfully in the Armouries and all are in fine shape.

It might be stated now that the Gibbard Athletics will operate two clubs this year, namely Intermediate "A" in the Bay of Quinte League and Intermediate "B" in the Lennox County League. All positions are open on both teams and any players wishing to try out with either club should let Walt. Gerow know at once, providing they have not already signified that attention.

Separate practices will be called for each club, with a notice being posted on the bulletin board at the factory and also in Mr. Paul Killorin's pool room. If it is not convenient for any player to get this information from either of these two places, he will save the trouble to telephone No. 2, he will be able to secure the time and days that his particular club practices.

The management hopes that the younger lads will try out for the "B" club and there is no need for the latter to feel that any of the older players will beat them out of a position. Gerow is always anxious to develop young players and the lads will be given every break possible. There are several juvenile and young players in town and if they get in there and work, there is no reason why they cannot catch a regular position on the team.

An Executive Meeting of the O. B. A. A. was held on Saturday in Toronto, when we ascertained that players could be transferred between the "A" and "B" clubs the same as between intermediate and senior clubs, when operated under the same management. This point has not been quite clear heretofore, and this ruling will enable Gerow to try out players on the "A" club from the "B" up until July 15th.

"Warpy" Phillips' transfer was granted to Mesford, although Mr. Phillips will have to watch his step hereafter, inasmuch as the O. B. A. is beginning to clamp down on tourists and some of the lads are going to have difficulty in getting transferred in future.

A BOON TO PEAR GROWERS

In bringing the psylla pear tree pest under control, one difficulty has always presented itself in connection with the standard lubricating oil spray. In very wet and soft soil conditions, it has not been possible to apply this economical and effective remedy at the proper time. There is abundant evidence that one application of this spray, applied late in March or early in April after the adults have emerged from their quarters, will prevent appreciable psylla injury; however, the spray is completed prior to egg laying. The spray is not an egg-killer, and therefore in lay in the event of this situation. However, it is apparent that the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Vineland has conferred a boon on pear growers, because experiments has proved that a three per cent. oil in lime sulphur 1-9 spray not only is an egg-killer but seems no disease to injure. This oil-lime sulphur spray has given excellent commercial control without extra summer sprays and proved as effective as the standard oil spray in combating the pear psylla.

Wedding Bells

PETERS—McCORMICK

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Alban's Church, Shella, on Monday morning, April 23rd, at eleven o'clock, when Mary Ethel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCormick, of Shella, was united in marriage to Frank Ernest, second eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peters, of Sillsville. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William McCormick looked charming in a dress of white cordosyl with large white picture hat and shoes and stockings to match. The Rural Dean, Thomas Leach, officiated. Miss Mary Leach sang very sweetly "On Perfect Love."

After partaking of a wedding luncheon, the happy young couple left by motorship "Sunbeam Islander" amid showers of confetti, for Sillsville, where the groom is a prosperous young farmer.

The Late Mrs. A. H. Jones

Formerly of Northbrook

Mrs. A. H. Jones, a pioneer resident of Iron Springs, Alberta, passed away at her home on Sunday, April 15th. The late Mrs. Jones was born in 1871, at Clowne, Ont., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orris Cole. In September 1890 she married A. H. Jones of Tamworth. In 1910 they left Ontario and settled in the Iron Springs district.

Mrs. Jones was a woman possessed of the real pioneer spirit, who met life's difficulties with a smile and with dauntless courage. Many years ago she became a member of the Methodist Church and was extremely active in the Missionary Society and the Ladies' Aid, until ill-health made it impossible for her to continue to serve. About 12 years ago she suffered a severe paralytic stroke, from which she never fully recovered. Three weeks before her death she became seriously ill and passed away on Sunday, April 15th.

The funeral was conducted at her home by Rev. Geo. Upton of Lethbridge and Rev. McGinnis of Iron Springs, on April 17th.

She is survived by her husband and Robert, Percy, of Twin River, Alta., Horace and Ralph of Iron Springs; Mrs. Laura Loveless and Mrs C. Wildman of Vancouver, and Harriet, at home. There are also the following brothers and sisters surviving: a sister at Dauphin, Man., Mrs. William Lowes, Pontypool, Ont.; Mrs. Peter Storey, Enterprise; Mrs. D. Spicer, Northbrook; and Fred Cole in Saskatchewan.

VOLTAIRE AND COCOA

Chocolate and cocoa, of which annually large quantities are brought to Canada from the West Indies, were first drunk by Monsieur and Madame Helvetius, the Parisian conquest, authorities claim.

Voltaire and other Frenchmen then adopted the drink, which had previously been regarded as a drug. They gladdened its spices that had usually accompanied a cup of cocoa. Then the English introduced milk as a companion. But it was not until the 19th century that chocolate and cocoa became democratic drinks, and chocolate tombs and candies introduced cream as an ingredient.

STUFFED TOMATOES

An unusual vegetable dish is tomatoes stuffed with chestnuts. Roast, peel, and skin some chestnuts, about three for each tomato. Chop up one onion and cook it in butter without browning. Add the chestnuts roughly chopped, season with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice and heat through strongly. Scoop out tomatoes and fill them with this mixture. Sprinkle with breadcrumbs, pour over a little melted butter and bake in a hot oven for ten minutes or so. Of course, only the core and seeds of the tomatoes should be removed, leaving the flesh on the inside of the skins.

LUNCH WITH JOCELYN

John looked through his letters that morning with more than usual satisfaction. Not that every day now did not regularly bring him more and more lucrative work, his advice being eagerly sought after of the most influential people, and he had every reason to congratulate himself that the morning's post gave still further proof that his practice was rapidly becoming the largest of its type in this big industrial city.

But on this particular sunny autumn morning it was not the proof of his success in business that made him so elated, nor was it the beauty of the morning itself or the charm of the view from his office window with the corner of the church and the maple trees in the square below. These all gave him a feeling of pleasure, being, he felt, so fitting an accompaniment to the really great event of the day. Jocelyn was coming to town that day and was going to see him, to have lunch with him, in fact, because by some lucky chance "the absurd English train would come round that way," and so, after a holiday in Europe and a long resumption of studies in Dresden, she found a two-hour wait here unavoidable.

Jocelyn and Her Violin

He could imagine her at this moment—she must be just about passing over Shap—leaning back in the corner of the compartment, her hand resting affectionately on the violin (the only item of her rather extensive luggage of whose existence or even whereabouts she was certain), lying in its case on the seat beside her, her eyes lazily watching the red-brown moors and the distant hills. A slightly bemused smile would come over her face as the nodded repeatedly to the restaurant attendant's inquiry about lunch and thanked him politely in her delightful low voice, as much as to suggest that she felt it must have been a tremendous inconvenience for him to have had the trouble of coming to ask her. "Rightyer," thought John, "and it's nearly a year since I saw her. So young to be in Germany alone in God knows what sort of digs amongst all those students, but she plays beautifully, and her teachers say she will make a name as the concert stage. And so she will, with that spun-gold hair and dark eyes and that way of wearing her evening frocks."

The train came in. "Yes, Colby," said John, "thank you for reminding me, but I cannot see Mr. Ashby this morning. I have a lunch engagement, unfortunately (unfortunately, indeed!) at a quarter to one. That matter will have to wait until tomorrow."

John returned to his thoughts. "They'll have left Euston by now, pity for her the country's so dull." The telephone bell rang—the Managing Director of Consolidated Ltd. wanted his opinion on a certain knotty point. Another bell rang—then an invitation to lunch at the Stage Club the following day. "Yes, of course, thank you very much," but inwardly he thought how dull it would be after to-day. Several times his pulled a postcard out of his pocket and read the instructions—"Smiths, St. Mary's Square, 12.45." Another interruption, Colby announced Smith, sir, but Mr. Ashby's clerk is here, with the plans and wants to know if he may leave them for you to look over, as they are urgent, and Mr. Ashby would like to come over and discuss them with you at three o'clock." John looked at the clock—a quarter past twelve. "All right," he grunted. "But I've got to go out at twelve-thirty." His office was only one minute's walk from Smiths.

John Leaves for Lunch

Outside people hurried or strolled according to the temperament, invigorated by the crisp autumn air and warmed by the late sun. Striped umbrellas drawn out over shop windows gave the rather austere, Victorian square, John thought, a festive Continental appearance, and the cloudless blue sky and the newly planted maples. "Jocelyn will like these maples," he thought a little tentatively, remembering Jocelyn's usual kindly but real criticism of the architecture and planning of his native city.

Twenty minutes to one. "She'll be here any minute now" (her train was due at twelve-thirty). Anxiously he compared his watch with the church clock and thrust aside all thoughts of an accident to the train. A quarter to one and still no sign; ten minutes to; five to. "She's missed her train." Then, with odd irony, "or a three months' holiday," he thought a little bitterly (thought quickly repressed). "What an odd day so didn't matter very much. Probably it had been so nice in Edinburgh this morning that she'd decided to stay on a day and see some friends"—she seemed to have friends everywhere. There would be a wire when he got back to the office. Happy people were passing in the square. John almost hated the place now. A last glance in the direction of the station, then he turned away and moved slowly towards his office. He didn't want any lunch; the thought of sitting in there—alone—gave him a dull ache. He tried brave-ly to straighten his unaccustomed shoulders, throwing back his head, and pursing up his line for a tune which somehow wouldn't come.

A Pleasant Surprise

No, there was no telegram he was told by the boy in the inquiry office, but there was "a young lady waiting in his room." John raced up the stairs as he had never done before, and was, it was she—sitting on his table amongst the morning's letters, calmly reading "The Field."

"I'm so sorry, daddy darling, but I completely forgot where I said I'd meet you, so I came here because I knew you would come and find me. Don't you think that was clever? I'm ever so hungry. Can you manage to come now? "Manage!" He looked at his watch with an incredulous an air as he could muster. "Yes," he said, "I think I'm about ready," and his heart beat a rhythm to Jocelyn's feet as she clutched his arm and danced him down the steps out into the sun-drenched square.

DON'T LICK STAMPS

"Licking stamps" is to me a metaphor and a symbol. The symbol of a characteristic of many women becoming more numerous and conspicuous in business, and which handicaps them terribly in that business. Too many women in business are willing to putter with details, to wet-nurse an executive, to carry out orders without wondering about them, to—to lick stamps.

I have watched with interest and apprehension the business career of a friend of mine. In the past few years she has gotten and lost several very good jobs. They were executive jobs. She directed the expenditure of many thousands of dollars; directed the work of several people; was responsible for the functioning of a department that was vital to the success of the company. She is a feminist; I've heard her rave many times about how a man would be paid much more for the same job. But she is not a feminist in the mechanical workings of, a correspondence system, while her bosses are paying her for her intelligence, her ideas, paying her to be creative, to expand business.

I suppose that I sound like a heretic. For years, the success editorials have taught us that concentration, attention to detail pays, that the business girl who slaves overtime with the raise, that the girl who keeps her nose to the grindstone gets to be vice-president.

I wonder. Several years of looking around in the business world have led me to believe that conscientious attention to detail makes you a good detail-attender; that the girl who "works" alone is a poor executive and deserves and gets only a $1 raise; that the girl who keeps her nose to the grindstone only grinds her nose.

I think what too many women lack in business is the imagination or experience to see business in its entirety. They hold their noses close to the grindstone when they should lift up their heads and take a wider look around. I don't know why men generally escape this fault, unless it is that many young men enter business through a quick succession of different selling jobs. Selling bonds, brushes, books, insurance, stocks, advertising, travel, tea and what-not—all so many young men do in the years between college and success, gives them a view of business and the movement of merchandise which few women get. With this background of training, they see through to essentials more clearly than women, perhaps. They have their eyes and minds on the ultimate moving of merchandise and will not be diverted by the details of office routine.

One phase of this difference between men and women in business is apparent in the way executives and women executives use their secretary to do all his personal and family shopping, to do all his confidential errands, to make deposits at his bank, to get his automobile license, to buy his theatre tickets. A woman executive almost never uses a secretary so thoroughly and intelligently. She does too many of these trivial things herself.

Another phase of this difference between men and women in business is in their use of time after 5 o'clock. Here again I shall sound like a heretic when I say that we hold about the noble girl who never watches the clock and gives up dinners to finish all work. That's not all very well in infrequent emergencies, as a regular thing, I think, it is a sign that the girl is not an intelligent planner of work, not capable of executive responsibility. The man who is ready to go home promptly at 5 is leading a better organized life than the girl who stays over executive who stays overtime to work for hours longer.

I suppose it is because women have been accustomed for so many past generations to doing all the many jobs of housekeeping that men wouldn't do, that they take naturally to this same sort of work in the business world. I suppose it is partly because men are lazy about details that they permit many of them both in the home and the office. There seems to be a difference in the habit of mind between men and women on this matter. Women take a job and settle down to it. Men take a job and sit on top of it. Women take a job and try to do it all themselves. Men take a job, and when they think of it they can do themselves, to leave their minds free for other things, if they are "smart and executive," for other phases of the business. Women in business should cultivate that habit of mind,- should deliberately set about to relegate to other people all the details of their work. That's all very well in infrequent emergencies, as a regular thing, I think, it is a sign that the girl is not an intelligent planner of work, not capable of executive responsibility. Women take a job and try to do it all themselves. Men take a job, and when they think of it they can do themselves, to leave their minds free for other things, if they are "smart and executive," for other phases of the business. Women in business should cultivate that habit of mind,- should deliberately set about to relegate to other people all the details of their work. That's all very well in infrequent emergencies, as a regular thing, I think, it is a sign that the girl is not an intelligent planner of work, not capable of executive responsibility. The girl who is ready to go home promptly at 5 is leading a better organized life than the girl who stays over-time to work for hours longer.

I suppose it is because women have been accustomed for so many past generations to doing all the many jobs of housekeeping that men wouldn't do, that they take naturally to this same sort of work in the business world. I suppose it is partly because men are lazy about details that they permit many of them both in the home and the office. There seems to be a difference in the habit of mind between men and women on this matter. Women take a job and settle down to it. Men take a job and sit on top of it. Women take a job and try to do it all themselves. A ROAST FOR TWO

An appetising hot dinner for two persons may be prepared in the following way. Choose a fairly thick chop, cut from a well-hung leg of mutton. Butter a small fireproof dish and lay the chop in it. Have the oven rather hot to begin with, but later on let the chop cool slowly, so that the juice is not dried up. A little water may be added just at the last and gravy may be thickened if desired. The lid of the dish should fit closely, or the chop may become too dry before it is done. One or two small onions may be roasted in the dish with the meat, and carrots, celery, or leeks, after they have been cooked separately, may be served in the dish

WORK - WRAPPERS

The new style of work-wrapper, consisting of a square piece of material with a small round work-bag to match, attached to it in the centre is useful for holding plain sewing or embroidery. Scissors, needle-case, thimble, reels, skeins, and soforth, are kept in the bag, and the work itself is folded in the wrapper, which when opened out, spreads over the knees and serves as a work-apron. Rayon or one of the new unrushable materials, may be used to make these wrappers, and an attractive but serviceable colour, with a neat, all-over pattern, should be chosen. The bottom of the round work-bag should be stiffened with a cardboard lining, and the top drawn up with cords. For use when travelling, or for taking to sewing meetings, these light, handy wrappers are convenient.

OVEN GLASS

Fireproof glassware, although it will not break through even heat inside an oven, may easily be damaged by sudden contact with a cold surface or with red heat. When dishes are lifted out of the oven they should not be set down on a wet draining-board or on a cold stone slab, but should they be handled with a damp cloth. Cold water should never be poured into them while they are hot. When it is necessary to add water to the contents of a dish during cooking, hot or warm water should be used, and it should be poured gradually into the centre of the dish. When cleaning, do not use oven, dishes should be so placed that they do not come in contact with the sides.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

More Canadian Pears Wanted

The Canadian Bartlett pear canned pack has become equal and no superior in any world market. In that event, there is room here for growers to increase the quantity of bartletts and reduce production costs of commercially desirable fruit, in order to gain a more complete command of domestic requirements and to take advantage of the opportunity to export. The annual pear crop in Canada does not exceed half a million bushels and this amount appears to fall short of the fresh consumption and cannery requirements of the country, while the difficulty with regard to the latter is due largely to a shortage of suitable varieties.

Lamb and Wool Prices

Wool prices are an important factor in maintaining lamb prices. Lamb pelts are now in the dollar range of values, and this is an essential item in reducing wholesale carcass costs. Already, as a result of more encouraging lamb and wool prices, there are many inquiries for breeding ewes. It is to be expected that there will be a broad market for all classes of ewe stock in 1934. The strong demand for Canadian, British, Australian, and New Zealand markets indicates a very healthy condition, in so far as the outlook for 1934 is concerned. World production is estimated to be lower, and the wool market for 1934 is encouraging.

Crop Improvement Evidence

Evidence of crop improvement that has resulted from the production and general use of registered and certified seed of wheat over a period of thirty years in Canada may be observed in the relatively high yield per acre of the crop as a whole and in the sustained high quality for milling purposes, as reflected in the premiums generally received for Canadian wheat in the principal export markets. With other cereal grains, the results are very much in evidence in those areas where oats, barley or other kinds of grain predominate. In those areas in which coarse grains form the main cash crop, the crop as a whole is traceable as a rule within a few years to pure variety seed stock. It is from those areas that the best and most uniform quality grain for commerce is derived.

Bury Corn Stubble

Any corn grower this spring can do a great deal to save himself a lot of unnecessary handpicking of corn stubble, if he will use care and forethought in his method of dealing with his corn field," states L. Caesar, Provincial Entomologist. "If he plows the field carelessly and does not bury the stubble well he is sure to drag it up in working the soil, and so will have a lot of handpicking. Also, if he uses a toothed cultivator instead of a disc he will drag up a lot of stubble. In every county there are many men who deal with their fields in such a way that they rarely have to do any hand-picking. What one man can do another can often do as well, or nearly as well. So it is hoped that every one will try to exercise the necessary care this spring, and so save himself a lot of trouble in complying with the act."

Current Crop Report

Reports received from the Agricultural Representatives would indicate that the condition of fall wheat in Ontario is still a double question as regards report that the crop is greening up but a great many of the roots are weakened, and unless the weather is favourable, a considerable area will have to be cultivated and resown to spring crops. Farmers who are dependent on 1932 seedings for their hay crop will be obliged to rely on annual hay crops. At auction sales prices are considerably improved over last year, especially prices paid for horses. Maple syrup will apparently be a light run as the reports from practically all the maple syrup districts show a decrease in production.

Canadian Asparagus Outlet

Canadian growers of asparagus with suitable production conditions and conveniently situated for delivery may well study the possibilities of this crop, for some of the Canadian canners have found Canadian asparagus to be much superior to the Californian product. Consequently, there has been a very satisfactory demand which has resulted in plans to expand output to a considerable extent. Although the acreage and yield of asparagus in Canada is relatively small, the late figures show an increasing acreage during the past three years in Quebec, Ontario, and British Columbia, while at the same time the output of canned asparagus showed considerable expansion. There is also an increasing export market. The yield of some 1,000 acres in Ontario is from 1,800 to 3,000 pounds per acre, approximately about two-thirds of the yield being sold ordinarily to canners at 8 to 11 cents a pound.

The Codling Moth Has Not Been Wiped Out

Reports have been published recently to the effect that in Ontario apple orchards the codling moth was eradicated or reduced to insignificant numbers by the low winter temperatures. This is far from being the case in the Niagara district. An examination of overwintering caterpillars (Sic) made in a Vineland orchard this week indicates that codling moth mortality is only in the neighborhood of 20 per cent. In other parts of the province, where much colder temperatures were experienced, the mortality will run much higher, but we feel reasonably certain that in all Ontario apple orchards sufficient larvae will have survived in sheltered spots to necessitate the application of the sprays outlined in the Ontario spray calendar.

Timothy Seed Production

Domestic production of timothy seed in Canada is still far short of consumption, so that still further production of this crop may be encouraged. Timothy seed yields from 200 to 300 pounds of seed per acre, and growers have received on an average during the past ten years for the seed basis No. 1 grade, over the past three years. Canada uses annually about 10 million pounds of timothy seed and until 1931 some 9 million pounds of this was imported from the United States. Domestic production since 1931 has been greatly stimulated by educational activities and the prospect of a large domestic market. As a result, production increased from less than a million pounds to some 5 million pounds in 1932, but declined to about 3,700,000 pounds in 1933 due to unfavourable weather conditions.

Blood-Testing of Cattle

R. B. Faith, Director of Extension, for the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, who was the guest-speaker at the annual spring meeting of the Perth County Holstein Breeders' Club held at Stratford said that blood testing for the control of Bang's Disease has been making remarkably good progress in many parts of the province of Ontario since the work was first taken on by the breeders in a serious minded way more than a year ago, and he predicted that before long every large breeding area would be engaged in it. Already nearly two hundred herds had been found fully negative under the Federal policy, while a much larger number were under process of being cleaned up. The view was expressed by Mr. Faith that the day was not far distant, when breeders whose herds were not under test, would find it more difficult than happens to be the case at the present time, to obtain markets at profitable prices for surplus cattle which had to be sold, whereas those herds free of the disease would occupy a most favorable position in being able to capitalize on their achievement.

For Sprains and Bruises. — There is nothing better for sprains and contusions than Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It will reduce the swelling that follows a sprain, will cool the inflamed flesh and draw the pain. It will take the ache out of the bruise by counteracting the inflammation. A trial will convince any who doubt its power.

Agricultural Philosophy

The March number of "Scientific Agriculture" contains a wonderful address at the annual meeting of the Ontario Agricultural College Alumni Association, by Dean A. Howes, Dean of the Faculty of Agriculture, University of Alberta, and President of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists. In agricultural circles, says "Scientific Agriculture" it has been customary to recognize Dean Howes of Edmonton as the "Dean of Deans." He is the senior among the heads of agricultural colleges in Canada, both in age and in years of service. While it may be true that some of our technical agriculturist become swamped with the routine of administrative duties, or the intricacies of scientific investigations, Dean Howes always keeps before us the needs and the aspirations of that sometimes-forgotten man, the farmer.

The address is an epitome of rare agricultural wisdom embracing as it does the whole gamut of agriculture in actual practice, economics, and philosophy. Speaking on production and marketing the Dean said "How often one has heard during the past few years the statement "we have solved the problems of production but we have paid little or no attention to the problems of marketing." Every time I have had the opportunity, I have raised my voice in protest against this sweeping statement, simply because it is not according to fact. That we have not paid enough attention to the machinery of marketing, I am quite ready to agree; also that one of our major enterprises should always be the proper distribution of our products; but when people say that we have solved the problems of production, I must take exception in no uncertain terms. The fact of the matter is that we, in this far-flung country of ours, are mere children in the matter of production. If there has been overproduction quite recently, and that is still regarded as debatable, it is emphatically no proof that we have solved the problems of production. Moreover it must not be forgotten that production is an integral part of a sound marketing system and cannot be divorced. They are as inseparable as Mutt and Jeff, or ham and eggs—indeed, more so."

Set aside to cool. When cool, add flavoring. (If you prefer a filling of thinner consistency, reduce your flour or tapioca to two tablespoons. Or you may drain the cherries as dry as possible, and use no thickening; but they will roll out when the pie is cut. You may not desire the additional sugar if your cherries have been packed in syrup.)

ENGLISH GIRL PRODUCER OF "LONDON TOWN" FILM

London, Eng.— One of the "Young Ambassadors," that merry party of young people who went to Canada in 1928 from Great Britain and Northern Ireland as the winners in an Empire Scholarship Examination, sponsored by the Canadian National Railways, the Cunard Steamship Company and Allied Newspapers, has distinguished herself as the producer of a film entitled "London Town." The young director is Miss Morien Grierson, who, at the end of the Young Ambassadors' Canadian tour joined the editorial staff of the Regina Daily Star. The film was produced under the auspices of the Travel and Industrial Association of Great Britain and Ireland. "London Town," which may be shown in Canada and the United States, portrays the great metropolis in her many aspects, her mean streets contrasted with her noble ones, her pageantry with the activities of such humble institutions as Berwick Market, where the bargain hunter may buy almost anything from cats' meat to luxurious furs. Experts have praised the film both for its material and its technique. Miss Grierson is now meditating a film on Edinburgh.

Mary: Yes, but I was his consent.

Public preference for Goodyears was proved 44 times in 1933. Investigators recorded the makes of tires on thousands of cars gathered at hockey games, race meets, golf tournaments, the Canadian National Exhibition and other important events.

Every tire — back, front and spare — on every car was carefully tabulated, and in every survey Goodyear Tires far outnumbered every other make. The public could not speak its preference for Goodyear Tires more emphatically, more clearly!

Next time you see a lot of parked cars, glance along the rows of tires — count them, if you like. Goodyear! Goodyear!! Goodyear!!! You'll see for yourself that Goodyears are obviously first choice—the leading tire.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

NEWBURGH W. I.

The April meeting of the Newburgh Women's Institute was held at the home of the president, Mrs. George Walker, with twenty-two members and seven visitors present. After the regular business reports of standing committees were given, the treasurer's report was given and showed a good balance. The secretary, read many acknowledgements of remembrances to shut-ins and also read a letter from the superintendent regarding the summer series speaker who will address a meeting on the evening of May 29th in Newburgh Community Hall, when Camden East and Yarker-Colebrook and the Moscow branches will unite with the Newburgh branch. Another letter of interest from Mr. Buchanan, Agricultural representative of Napanee, was read and a member appointed to interview the principal's of schools to discuss the matter of forming a club of boys and girls.

Mrs. W. W. Redden of Tamworth, district president, gave an inspiring address on "Home, its influence on character and its place in the community." Our outstanding reward, the road to happiness is the road out of self,' was a sermon in itself.

The election of officers resulted as follows :—

President—Mrs. George Walker.
1st Vice-Pres.—Miss Briscoe.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. Wartman.
Sec.-Treas.—Miss May Johnston.
Board of Directors— Mrs. K. Garveth, Mrs. Dale McGill, Mrs. S. Shier, Mrs. B. Holden.
Convener, Flower and Fruit Committee—Mrs. J. Ed. Harrison.

Pianist,—Mrs. George Paul.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Lucas with the roll call, "An antique exhibit."

CAMDEN VIII W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of Camden VIII W. M. S. was held at the home of Mrs. R. J. Wilson, April 5th with an attendance of eight members. Mrs. T. M. Wilson, president, had charge of the meeting and Mrs. Murney Marlin presided at the organ. The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by the scripture lesson read in unison. Mrs. Wilson led in prayer at the end of which all repeated the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Hannah gave a concise report of the Presbyterial meeting held in Napanee, recently. Mrs. R. J. Wilson had charge of the study book chapter in the absence of Miss Close, Mrs. Hyland, Mrs. Marlin ,Miss Reid and Mrs. King taking part in the study leaflet. One verse of hymn 506 was sung and Mrs. T. M. Galbraith led in prayer. After the reading of the minutes, Mrs. Sam Doupe asked that a quilting be held in May at her home. The date to be set later. It was moved by Mrs. T. M. Wilson and seconded by Mrs. R. J. Wilson, that a vote of thanks be extended to Mrs. Marlin for training the children for the Easter thank - offering service which was held in Croydon. Mrs. T. M. Wilson, Mrs. Hyland, Mrs. R. J. Wilson and Mrs. Hannah were asked to be responsible for the next chapter of the study book and leaflet. The roll call was answered by eight members with a Bible verse, and the offering was taken. After a hymn Mrs. Wilson closed the meeting with prayer.

The next meeting will be held at the church, weather permitting, and if too cold, Mrs. Hyland asked the ladies to meet at her home.

Mrs. R. J. Wilson treated the ladies to home-made candy.

SELBY W. C. T. U.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held in the home of Mrs. B. P. Denison. With the president in the chair the lesson was taken from Lev. 19, 9-10, 23-37. In the early days they said. "See how these Christians love one another." How do we endeavor to-day—would it be said of us. A reading, the Matchless Book was read, showing how we should reverence our Bibles. Prayer by each member was offered. A memorial to the late Mrs. Henry Martin was sent into the tidings. Mrs. Martin was the first president of our union and will be much missed. A letter of sympathy was sent to her husband. The president took up the clip sheet on lottery. One evil of lottery is the growing fascination of gambling, the uneasy anxiety to make easy money at the expense of other people. Ramsay MacDonald has said: "Gambling flourishes with the demand for mere amusement, the distate for further effort, the spread of drunkenness, all pointing to an impoverishment of personality and bareness of the inner chambers of the mind." Thus our young people should be warned against gambling and should be provided with interests of a constructive nature that will make them proof against the enslaving attractions of gambling.

MORVEN Y. P. S.

The Young People's Society of Morven United Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Shupe, on March 27, with about 35 members present. The roll call was answered by verses. A hymn was sung and the topic "What does it mean to be a Christian." was taken by Miss Irene VanSlyck. A reading was given by Claude Craig and a sermon in verse by Wilfred VanSlyck, after which another hymn was sung.

An interesting report on the convention held at Belleville, was given by Adrian Babcock and was enjoyed by all.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction and a social half hour concluded the meetings until next Fall.

MAPLE LEAF W. I.

The regular meeting of Maple Leaf Women's Institute was held Thursday afternoon, April 12th, at the home of Messrs. J. W. and Irving Cummings. The roll call was responded to by the payment of dues. A paper on Easter was read by Mrs. John Chambers which proved very interesting. Mrs. Raymond Fretts also gave a paper "Farm kitchens and living rooms," in which she told of many step and time-saving devices in planning kitchens, and the proper arrangement of furniture, for the living rooms. A demonstration of old time hand-work, and pieces of fancy work over one hundred years old. Mrs. Day showed a pillow cover which was done by her great grandmother, in Scotland in the year 1824 and a piece of knitted lace which was ninety years old. Miss Mabel VanKoughnet played on the harp and sang very sweetly "The Old Spinning Wheel."

After singing the National Anthem lunch was served and a social half-hour was spent.

The next meeting will be held in the Normal Fredericksburgh Hall, on Thursday, May 10th.

CAMDEN EAST W. M. S.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church met at the home of Mrs. Smedley for the Easter meeting, the president, Miss Cameron in charge. Following the devotional exercises and the treasurer's report, Mrs. Robert Lewis was appointed as welcome and welfare secretary.

The Easter programme as outlined in "Glad Tirings" was carried out. The scripture reading was read by Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Sexsmith and Mrs. Yeomans, after which a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross" by Mrs. Joseph Lewis, accompanied by Miss Isobel Robinson on the guitar. Following the comments were made on the following subjects: "Washing the Disciples' Feet," by Miss Thompson; "Feeding the Five Thousand," by Mrs. A. Robinson: "The Good Samaritan" by Mrs. Robert Lewis; "The Pool of Bethsada," by Mrs. D. Rogers, after which Mrs. Albert Lewis offered prayer. The creed was repeated in unison which closed a very interesting meeting.

HONEY AND PUBLIC SERVICE

The recent demand for Canadian honey in the British and other European markets has been the means of creating a general quest for information on bees and how to keep them, on the part of numerous prospective Canadian bee-keepers. The question thus arises— where is the necessary information to be found? On the one hand, all over Canada there are many clever bee-keepers, but as a rule they are so absorbed in their own daily interests that they have neither the time nor the inclination to impart information for beginners. On the other hand, there is the Dominion Department of Agriculture with high-skilled specialists in bee-keeping among whose duty it is to impart information and further improve the quality of Canadian honey, so that this important Canadian commodity may be second to none among the nations of the world. Public service, like charity, begins at home and thus it is that authentic practical information is one of the very many services to the Canadian public rendered by the Department. The best time of the year to begin bee-keeping is in the spring is the advice of the Dominion Apiarist, Bee Division, Dominion Experimental Farms, Ottawa, from whom information to beginner and expert alike may be obtained.

TELEGRAPH OFFICER PLANS EMERGENCY TRIP

Telegrah service plus the sympathetic co-operation of a C. N. Telegraph supervisory officer, played a large part, recently, in helping a Montreal mother to reach the bedside of her son, victim of a serious shooting accident at Houston, Texas, U.S.A. Operator Mrs. C. Blanchard of Montreal, received a telegram advising her that her son Gerard, apprentice jockey, had been seriously wounded in a shooting accident. Other jockeys in the course urged Mrs. Blanchard to hurry to her son's side and, as funds for that purpose would be required, they clubbed together and wired the sum necessary for the journey. This money, arriving on Sunday, when ordinarily delivery of the money would have been difficult, Mrs. Blanchard, National Telegraphs supervisor took a sympathetic interest in the affairs. Consulting railway and air line officials, he planned the trip for Mrs. Blanchard, having first secured the necessary funds for her journey. To get Mrs. Blanchard to Houston as quickly as possible, it was decided that she should travel by train to New York and fly from that city to Houston. On the bedside of the young jockey who was reported in a serious condition.

NO MONSTERS AND NO SNAKES

There is one island in the world which has no monsters of any kind and which boasts, like Ireland, a complete immunity from snakes.

This island is Bermuda. Not only is "monsterless" and snake-free but it has no hankering after such creatures, not even for advertising purposes. The inhabitants even deny the existence of traces of a prehistoric dragon and they think St. George is a myth.

Popular Trout Pair Full of Gameness

Dolly Varden and Speckled Trout Give Anglers in Canada Abundant Sport Opportunities

Just a few words about two of Canada's many game fish.

The scientists call one Salvelinus parkei and the other Salvelinus fontinalis but most people know them best as the Dolly Varden trout and the Speckled trout. And no matter by what names they may be called they have given great sport to many an angler.

The Speckled trout is indigenous to the eastern half of North America though it has been successfully introduced into British Columbia and some other western area, but the Dolly Varden belongs to the west. While both fish are commonly spoken of as trout, they are, in reality, charrs.

The Speckled trout, widely distributed by Nature in all of Canada's eastern provinces and occurring also in parts of the Prairie Provinces, has this distinction, among others, that it shows greater color variation than any other game fish. Catch one of these trout in a lake, then catch another in a stream emptying into the same lake, and the two may be very different in colouring. Even in the same small stream Speckled trout of sharply different colour features may be found. Sometimes the fish may be rich dark brown olive, with vivid fins and blue-ringed red spots; sometimes the colouring will be pale silvery olive; markings may be bright on some fish while those of the species, which resort to the sea may come back silvery in appearance and with the brilliant markings quite indistinct. A general description of the Speckled trout by one Canadian writer speaks of the fish as "handsome, dark in colour and mottled on the back with olive, and with red spots on the sides, and the dorsal and caudal fins are mottled whilst the lower fins are preceded by an olive margin," but the writer is careful to add, "the fish varies greatly in coloration."

The Speckled trout is not one of the largest fish but there's lightning spirit in every ounce of him, and that's what makes him such a favourite among anglers. Specimens weighing several pounds are not uncommon, however, and the trout of the sea-run strain are frequently taken in some rivers weighing as much as six or seven pounds. The Speckled trout of world record weight by the way, was caught in the Nipigon River, Ontario. A big fellow which weighed fourteen and a half pounds.

The range of the Dolly Varden trout is from California northward through British Columbia and the Rocky Mountain foothills of Alberta up to the Arctic Ocean. Like its eastern cousin, the Speckled trout the Dolly Varden may resort to the sea and it is the sea-run strain which usually reaches the largest weight.

The Dolly Varden is a beautiful charr, olive-green in colour, with red spots on the sides and back. Its lower fins are dusky, preceded by a pale marvin followed by one of darker shading. As in the case of the Speckled trout, the Dolly Varden trout are silvery in colour and the red spots are faint or lacking. Dolly Vardens of all are game fighters and give the angler plenty of fun. They are greedy fellows and in some quarters they have a bad name as destroyers of salmon and trout eggs.

LOW-RATE EXCURSIONS ARE WELL PATRONIZED

Montreal—By their increased patronage, Canadians have proclaimed the popularity of low-rate week-end excursions operated between various points by the Canadian railways on a non-competitive basis. Receipts from these excursions during the first three months of 1934 were 55 per cent higher than receipts from the low-rate week-end excursions operated over Canadian National Railways in the same period of 1933, it was stated by C. W. Johnston, General Passenger Traffic Manager of the Canadian National System. With the advent of warmer weather months, further opportunities will be given to Canadian National patrons of visit their friends in other cities and to escape the heat and dust of the cities during the summer week-ends. Mr. Johnston said. Low-rate week-end excursions have been operated between points on all sections of the C. N. Rys. system and they have proven equally popular in both east and west.

Minister of Agriculture Describes The Most Useful Variety Of Hull-less Oats

The wide-spread interest in hull-less oats found an echo in the Houses of Parliament the other day when the Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, by request, gave some interesting information on the subject. Work has been carried on for a number of years in different countries, including the United Kingdom, the United States, and particularly Canada, in the development of the hull-less oat, said the Minister.

The difficulty has been in getting a strong enough straw and in getting an oat that would give a sufficiently high yield. It is believed now that these difficulties have been pretty well met by the Laurel variety of hull-less oat. It is particularly strong in the straw and yet not too coarse to be used for green feed for horses, and cattle. Since it is a hull-less oat, it makes better feed, especially for calves and hogs than oats having young pigs.

the hulls on, and those who are engaged in livestock farming will realize the wastage in feeding oats with hulls without crushing them. That is one of the chief advantages of hull-less oats as a green feed.

Horses are particularly fond of this hull-less oat, and our experience has been that they do better on it than on other forms of green feed we have used. The yield is not quite as high as in the case of such oats as Gopher, Banner, and Victory, yet it is quite a high yield; with a normal crop it runs fifty, sixty or perhaps seventy bushels per acre, and a measured bushel of a good sample of hull-less oats should weigh in the neighborhood of fifty pounds. The Laurel is an early maturing variety and, contrary to what one would expect, the oats cling to the straw when it is quite ripe. One of the greatest advantages of the hull-less oat is that it has been made use of for some time by homesteaders. It is well adapted to the making of porridge by soaking without even having it ground. It is grown by homesteaders, pioneers in outlying districts, because of that quality. Also, for the reason that it has no hulls, it is very suitable for feeding calves and hogs than oats having young pigs.

ROBINSON CRUSOE'S ISLE HAD EARLY REPUTATION

Writing of Tobago, the reputed site of Robinson Crusoe's sojourn and where his cave is shown, Captain John Poyntz, in 1683, said:—

"Thus are briefly presented with The Present Prospect of the Island of Tobago, about forty Leagues distant from Barbadoes: And I am persuaded that there is no Island in America, that can afford us more ample Subjects to entertain the Bounty & Goodness of our Great Creator in than this of Tobago: And this, I speak not by hear-say, or as one that has lived always at home; but as one that has had Experience of the World, and been in the greatest part of the Caribee-Islands, and most parts of the Continent of America, and almost all His Majesties Foreign Plantations: And after having view'd them all, have chosen this Island of Tobago to take up my Quarters on."

The Canadian National Steamships West Indies liners, call at several of these islands enroute including Trinidad from which port a local boat service is maintained to the adjacent island of Tobago.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Miller, Kingston, were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Don. Thompson and Miss Dorothy Woods, visited with their daughter, Mrs. Archie Simmons and Mr. Simmons, on Sunday last.

Relatives and friends from Wilton attended the burial of the late Fred Burt, whose remains were brought to Cataraqui cemetery for interment, from Ottawa, on Friday last.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Young and son spent the week end in Bath.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Davison were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Amey, Yarker.

The order of service at the United Church has been changed to Sunday School in the morning and church service in the evening, for summer months.

YARKER

Yarker, April 23. — Last Monday night the Official Board of the United Church met at Moscow, where also the Circuit Ladies' Aid met. The business before the Board was not extensive and was concluded in a short time. An invitation was extended to the minister to remain another year. It was also planned to hold a contest between Moscow Sunday School and the Sunday School of Colebrook, as to attendance, taking into consideration the percentage of the possible numbers that should attend each Sunday.

A larger congregation than usual was in attendance at the United Church on Sunday night. The discourse was on the temperance situation.

Every man desires to be thought honest, just and virtuous that there by he may gain love and good will from all that know him. Now, the only sure way to be thought so is to be so.—J. A. R. Cairns.

ENTERPRISE

Enterprise, April 30. — A most unfortunate accident occurred one day recently, when Mary, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Murphy had the upper part of one of her fingers almost completely severed, when caught by the closing of a door. The injured child was taken to the office of Dr. F. A. Connor at Tamworth, who dressed the wound and it is expected that the finger will be as well as ever.

A brush fire which got out of bounds on Thursday afternoon, caused considerable excitement for a time. An exceptionally heavy wind drove the fire rapidly through the dead grass and for some time threatened the north part of the village with a serious fire. Hard work on the part of a number of citizens prevented any damage being done.

On Tuesday, May 1st, Enterprise Cheese Factory began operations for the sixty-third consecutive season. Built in 1871 by the late T. Clancy, the factory has been under the management of the same family since that time, a dominion wide record. The present manager, P. J. Murphy, son-in-law of the late Mr. Clancy, has for the past two weeks been engaged in bringing the factory to a high state of efficiency. The boiler has been overhauled and the inside of the factory repainted, and it is now one of the best equipped factories in the district.

During the past week work has been started on the roads in this vicinity. COULD NOT DRESS HERSELF

"For neuritis I am using Kruschen Salts," writes a woman of 60 years. "And they are a real benefit, for I could not dress myself sometimes, my left arm was so painful. I take Kruschen every morning, and the pain has now gone. I was recommended by my doctor to take salts of some kind that suited me, and I find Kruschen is the best. In fact it is wonderful. I feel ever so much better, and I shall always take it. I am 60 years of age, and have not felt so well for years."— K. P.

The pains of neuritis and sciatica are a symptom of deeper trouble—the same trouble that causes rheumatism, gout and lumbago. They are a sign of impure blood-stream. They show that poisons have crept into the blood.

Kruschen is a combination of six natural salts, which ensure internal cleanliness and keep the blood-stream pure. New and refreshed blood is sent coursing to every fibre of your being. Then, neuritis, sciatica and kindred ills all pass you by.

NEW PLYMOUTH SIX BUILT BY CHRYSLER

Compare Plymouth Prices and Plymouth Features with other Lowest Priced Cars

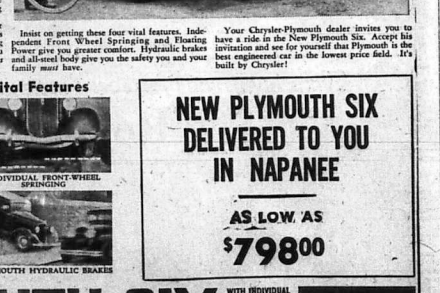
DOES it surprise you to know that the New Plymouth Six is priced with the lowest?

The Plymouth Six has an all-steel body, reinforced with steel. The safest, strongest type of body. No wood to rot, nothing to rattle. Safe as a steel Pullman.

The Plymouth Six is the only car in its price field that has independent front wheel springing. These long, soft coil springs eliminate "back-seat bounce" and let the front wheels "step" over obstructions in the road. It is the same type of springing as is used in some of the world's highest priced cars.

No other car in its price field has Floating Power engine mountings. They are patented by Chrysler. Floating Power smothers engine vibrations — the passengers never feel the engine. You can ride long distances in a Plymouth Six without fatigue.

You cannot get hydraulic brakes in any other car at Plymouth's price. Plymouth hydraulic brakes are the safest, smoothest, simplest brakes. Nothing to oil—nothing to rattle. They will never give you "three-wheel braking" because they are always equalized . . . they cannot be otherwise.



Insist on getting these four vital features. Independent Front Wheel Springing and Floating Power give you greater comfort. Hydraulic brakes and all-steel body give you the safety you and your family must have.

Your Chrysler-Plymouth dealer invites you to have a ride in the New Plymouth Six. Accept his invitation and see for yourself that Plymouth is the best engineered car in the lowest price field. It's built by Chrysler!

Diversity of Talent Displayed in Concert By N. C. I. Students

Presented Under Auspices Boys' Band

The concert given at the Collegiate under the direction of the Napanee Boys' Band on Wednesday evening was well attended by a representative gathering of the citizens of the town and district. Many expressions of sincere appreciation of the diversity of talent displayed were heard on all sides. Much praise was accorded both the performers and those responsible for their training.

The program started with a spirited pianoforte duet, the "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," by the Misses Yvonne Pollis and Marian Roney, played with splendid expression and fine effect.

Mr. Alpine Woods, the chairman of the School Board, acted as chairman of the concert, and briefly welcomed the audience.

Miss Mary Daly's two vocal solos were accorded spontaneous applause. The numbers "I've Told Every Little Star," and "The Song is You," were delightfully suited to Miss Daly's lovely voice. Mrs. J. E. Madden accompanied Miss Daly.

Bandsmen Lyndon Gray, Lloyd Cowle and H. Norris played two baritone horn numbers as trios with Mr. W. H. Gray as accompanist. Their playing was an evidence of training and real musical appreciation.

Mr. Don. Scott, accompanied by Miss Letha Scott at the piano, played a group of marimba solos, which lent variety and interest to the program.

French Play Presented

One of the features of the evening was the French play, "La Faim est une Grande Inventeur," (Hunger is a great inventor), presented by players of Form II. Mr. Rees, who with Miss Grange had been responsible for the training of the players, briefly outlined the story of the play, which made it understandable and interesting to those not familiar with the French language.

The acting was delightfully carried out by the youthful cast, and entered into the spirit of the piece with abandon and zest. The scene was laid in an obscure French village during the war. It centred around the efforts of two Canadian soldiers, whose only knowledge of the French language was a collection of totally unrelated words, to secure a meal in a restaurant. Mr. Crabuchet, the inn-keeper was played by Donald Nichol; Mrs. Crabuchet by Ruth Elliott. "Dick" a Canadian soldier, and "Bob" his companion were portrayed by Laverne O'Connor and Albert Temple; "Pierre" a French boy was Benny Woods. The three French maids, "Marie," "Collette" and "Loluse" were realistically interpreted by Joan Lailey, Alma Clarke and Verna Huycke.

The ease of manner and the fluency with which the various actors handled the French language were the source of much admiration on the part of the audience.

Demonstration in Gymnasium

The second part of the program was given in the gymnasium by the Boys' Band played several numbers, which demonstrated their proficiency and reflected credit on the leader, Mr. M. A. Eppiett. Solo parts were taken by Billy Coons and Frank Armitage.

Some excellent gymnasium work, under the direction of Mr. B. Medd, was demonstrated in mat tumbling by Kayler, Wilbur, Dyer, Dena, Coons, Walker, Jocko, Gerow and Carr. A group of older boys, made up of Joy, Kayler, Howitt, B. Webb, Urena, Garreti, Simmons, Embury and Callaghan, put on a most interesting demonstration of parallel bar work.

Hydro Chairman Answered Criticisms Of Chief Engineer

Shows Hepburn's Statements Not Correct

During the recent session of the Ontario Legislature, M. F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, was the subject of a specific criticism, which is answered by a statement issued by Hon. J. R. Cooke, the Commission Chairman, on March 16th, 1934.

Mr. Gaby, as Chief Engineer, has a large number of duties to discharge. He has the responsibilities and exercises the functions of a general manager, and in an executive capacity, directs the departmental affairs of the Hydro organization. He is directly answerable to the Commission for the discharge of his duties.

Mr. Cooke's answer to the charges made against Mr. Gaby, are given herewith :—

In the Legislature on Tuesday, March 13th—referring to a statement in which Mr. Hepburn had expressed the intention of bringing about Mr. F. A. Gaby's dismissal should the Liberal party be returned to power—the Hon. William Finlayson asked Hon. Harry Nixon if he would dismiss Mr. Gaby. The Hon. Harry Nixon is reported in the press as replying, "Do you know he issued a three-page pamphlet as an attack on Mr. Hepburn."

Mr. Cooke Refutes Charge

As Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, I regard it as my duty and privilege to point out that there is no justification whatsoever for such a charge against our eminent Chief Engineer, or for any charge, as one press report has it, that he gave three pages of his pamphlet to a personal attack on Mr. Hepburn.

The only occasion of which I am aware when Mr. Gaby has ever made a public reference to Mr. Hepburn, was an incidental reference made in the course of his address of nearly three years ago to the Ontario Municipal Electric Association and Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities, at Ottawa, June 26th, 1931.

Mr. Gaby's 1931 address contained an extensive review of technical and other historical data respecting the Commission's operations, and, after publication in THE HYDRO NEWS, was reprinted from the same type, as a large pamphlet which is part of the regular duties of the Chief Engineer as well as of the officers and technical staff of the Commission, to keep the municipalities properly informed upon the facts relating to their dealings with the undertaking. Obviously, it is essential to do so in a manner that ensures that those municipalities will be able to recognize the correct data, and distinguish between the non-controversial representative statements that throughout the Commission's history have, from time to time, been published.

In this address and towards the close, Mr. Gaby made a special reference to the comprehensive information given in the Commission's Annual Reports—purely as an incidental illustration of the necessity of basing representations on official-ly published data. He cited some incorrect statement that Mr. Hepburn had just previously been reported as making.

Actual Cost Chippawa Development

One very serious mis-statement made by Mr. Hepburn in 1931 was that the Queenston-Chippawa development had cost $150,000,000; whereas the fact is that it actually cost less than $77,000,000 as recorded in the Annual Report of the Commission. This misstatement apparently had been misled by taking his information from a publication specially prepared and issued in the United States and which avowed that its data were for sale and was cited upon any "thorough-going anti-municipal ownership advertising campaign." Mr. Gaby cited this incident to urge upon the assembled delegates the necessity of relying upon official published Reports of the Commission and in particular upon the Annual Report to which he was making specific reference.

Mr. Gaby's 1931 address is in print-ed form and I do not propose to refer to it, and I challenge anyone to show any place where Mr. Gaby has ever attempted "to discredit Mr. Hepburn personally." The whole presentation is on a definitely impersonal basis—and just here I should like to add that although during his twenty-five years with the Commission, Mr. Gaby has had to make many public statements, I can recall no instance where he has ever made any matter or with any individual, upon a personal basis.

Mr. Hepburn's name was simply referred to because it was essential to identify the representations which had been publicly made, but there were no personal criticisms whatever in the statements, nor any portion of the reprint in which Mr. Hepburn's name is mentioned covered less than two pages out of the 64 which it reprinted as issued.

About the time when Mr. Gaby's address was being prepared, Mr. Hepburn's statements respecting Hydro were being given currency in the press and they were quite contrary to representations that Mr. Gaby would be making to the municipal representatives. The Commission then regarded, and still regards, Mr. Gaby's course as entirely appropriate and his criticisms as entirely unjustified.

Well-Known Couple Recipents of Gifts By Church Societies

The members of the choir of Trinity United Church expressed their appreciation of the services of Mr. A. P. LaSalle, by presenting to him a suitably engraved walking stick on the occasion of his removal to Montreal.

As Mr. LaSalle has not returned to Napanee since his decision to continue in his present position in Montreal, the presentation was made to him through his wife, who leaves for her new home this week.

Mr. and Mrs. LaSalle have been valued members of Trinity Church since coming to Napanee about eleven years ago. They have supported in a most generous way all its institutions by their contributions and presence. Mr. LaSalle has been a member of the Church Board, and a faithful member of the choir, where he frequently took solo parts in the services. Mrs. LaSalle has been active in the women's organizations. At the last meeting of the Women's Missionary Society she was presented with a life membership certificate in recognition of her active service.

Quick Action Prevents Fire Loss, Tamworth

Quick action on the part of Alphonso Powler, a young section hand at Tamworth, saved the C. N. R. station, in the village, from destruction by fire, on Wednesday, May 2nd.

Mr. Powler was working from work on the road, when he noticed the curtains in the room on fire. It is thought that the fire had been caused by a short circuit in the wires leading to the clock. During the absence of the agent, Mr. H. Letch and his wife, the fire had gained considerable headway.

Mr. Powler broke a window, entered the home and threw the radio out. With the help of the other section men who had arrived, the flames were extinguished, but not before considerable damage was done to the furniture and the room. The radio was completely destroyed.

Young Fowler's hands were quite badly cut and burned.

C. W. Hambly, M.L.A.

Mr. C. W. Hambly has been Member of the Ontario Legislature, representing Prince Edward County for two terms, 1923 to 1926 and 1929 to 1934. In 1923 he opposed the late Dr. Vrooman, the Liberal candidate and defeated him. In 1926 Dr. E. Ming, the Liberal candidate, defeated Mr. Hambly. Again in 1929, opposing Dr. Ming, Mr. Hambly was successful and has continued to represent Lennox until the close of the last session.

Mr. Hambly's decision to withdraw his nomination at the recent convention in Picton, was in the interests of the Conservative Party. Previous to the convention, Mr. Hambly had himself decided on this action and agreed, with Mr. Colliver not to stand when nominated. Mr. Colliver would have taken the same action in favor of Mr. Hambly, but in the interests of winning the election it was thought better for Mr. Colliver to run, as he represented the part of the riding with the larger representative of the population.

Mr. Hambly's withdrawal does not, by any means indicate that he is out of politics. He expects to use all his influence and devote his time and ability toward the election of Mr. Colliver at the coming election.

At the recent convention, where Mr. Hambly presided as President of the Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal-Conservative Association, Hon. W. H. Price, in speaking of him, said : "He has always been esteemed by members of parliament and has done good work for his riding."

Mr. Hambly is a native of Lennox County, where he has always lived. For some years past he has resided in Napanee, where he has very successfully carried on his business as a drover. His retirement from the position of Member of the Legislature, leaves him free to devote all of his time to his own business.

Chamber of Commerce Hears Practical Talk at Its Dinner Meeting

Cottage Vandals Given Gaol Terms

On Thursday afternoon John Downs and Herman Munro, residents of Prince Edward County appeared before Magistrate Graham on charges of breaking and entering and theft.

The offences were committed between January 1st and February 28, at the summer home of Judge J. Ernest Madden, in Adolphustown. The cottage was entered by removing an outside shutter and breaking a glass in a window. A quantity of bedding, tools, dishes and other household goods was removed. Most of the stolen goods were recovered and were produced in court, for identification.

James Shelley, who looks after the cottage during the Judge's absence, told of finding the cottage broken into and goods removed. Judge Madden identified the goods produced in court and told about going to Munro's and Down's homes and finding the stolen goods.

Constable Barrett of Napanee and Constable Durnford of Picton, gave evidence concerning their apprehension of the men and the events leading up to it.

In addressing the Court, Mr. K. S. Ham, the County Crown Attorney, mentioned the prevalence of such cases and the annoyance and inconvenience caused owners of summer cottages. He felt that as a deterrent to others who might contemplate similar offences, a sentence sufficient to be a punishment should be meted out in this case.

The Magistrate registered a conviction against each man and pronounced a sentence of three months in gaol on each charge, to run concurrently.

FAIR DATES SET

Kingston will have a fair this year. Col. D. S. Tamblyn, president of Hod of 1933, an increase of $ 548.261 nounced recently. The dates for the exhibition are September 6th. 7th. and 8th. Previously, the fair lasted five days.

Speaker, J. M. Hughes of Kingston

About forty members of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce met for the May dinner meeting at the Hotel Pauley on Tuesday evening. President Joe Marshall was in the chair.

Immediately following the dinner the President called on Mr. A. MacGregor, the Secretary-Treasurer, to read the minutes, which, on motion, were adopted as read.

Committee Reports

Reports of several committees were submitted by the various chairmen.

F. A. Correll, head of the Retail Merchants Committee, reported that several meetings of the committee had been held. Community Days dates had been decided on for May 31, and June 1 and 2. In addition, considerable discussion had been carried on concerning closing hours for businesses in Napanee.

Edwin Watts, Chairman of Entertainment, advised that negotiations were on the way to secure Hon. H. H. Stevens as the speaker for the dinner meeting of September 4. Plans were also being made to co-operate with the Retail Merchants Committee to provide an entertainment in connection with Community Days. Part of the proposed features will be band concerts and a street dance.

P. U. Laidley, Chairman of Publicity, advised that the Executive had disbanded the Publicity Committee, and a new committee would be formed.

E. C Hogarth, head of the Membership Committee, reported that the Chamber now consisted of 97 paid members in this case.

The Magistrate registered a conviction against each man and pronounced a sentence of three months in gaol on each charge, to run concurrently.

J. M. Hughes Introduced

Chief Edwin Watts introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. J. M. Hughes. Mr. Hughes is at present manager of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. He was formerly engaged in important businesses in Kingston, was an Alderman, Mayor of the city, a member of the Public Utilities Commission, and has held other influential positions.

In his address Mr. Hughes gave some valuable advice to the members of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce. He said that wherever an active Chamber of Commerce is found, there will generally be found prosperity. Much of the difficulty in the way of making an effective Chamber of Commerce is found in selfishness. He said, "co-operation is essential. Do not be one who is always looking for some individual benefit. Anything that benefits the town benefits the individual."

Referring to the acquisition of industries, Mr. Hughes said, "you will meet with many disappointments in the industrial field." In his experience in trying to secure industries for Kingston, the biggest obstacle had been the Province of Quebec, which is continually on the look-out for industries to use its surplus power. Co-operation is very desirable, but it will not be the only thing of value that a Chamber of Commerce can accomplish. The development of a community spirit is one of its greatest accomplishments, and that can be done by enthusiasm of individuals."

Following Mr. Hughes' address, a vote of thanks was moved by P. U. Laidley and seconded by Harry Rowe and extended to Mr. Hughes.

Mental Health Talk Given by Miss Lawder

Attended Short Course at Toronto

At the V. O. N. meeting, held in the Public Library on Tuesday, Miss Lauder gave an interesting and illuminating account of her recent visit to Toronto. Miss Lauder was one of fifty public health nurses who took the refresher course given by the University of Toronto.

Miss Lauder drew special attention to the work of Dr. Hincks, who gave a series of addresses on mental hygiene.

It will come as a surprise to a great many people to know that in the year closing 1932 there were 11,032 patients in the Provincial Mental Hospitals, which is one out of every three hundred of our population. This is an increase of fifty per cent. over 1920. In addition to these, seven per cent. of the pensionably normal healthy persons exhibit mental aberrations, or quirks, of one kind or another. These figures, taken together, indicate the extent of the problem facing students of mental hygiene.

New Methods of Treatment

Along with the rest of the world, Ontario, in the last twenty years, has made rapid strides in the approach to this problem. The treatment of mental disorder in the hospitals today is totally different to what it was twenty years ago. The doctors endeavor to move along the lines of prevention and treatment of milder cases in the endeavor to avoid hospitalization. Some of the methods which our province has adopted have been :

(1). The establishment of psychiatric hospitals and psychopathic wards in general hospitals.

(2). Travelling mental health clinics.

(3). Auxiliary classes for the mentally retarded.

(4). Mental hygiene study in the juvenile courts, along with the study of the delinquent.

(5). The establishment of child guidance clinics, in which are studied all sorts of children's behavior.

The result of the investigations carried on through these agencies has led to the conclusion that one of the most important ways of reducing mental calamities is to develop in children the habit of healthy feeling and thinking. This means the parents will have to have a great deal more technical knowledge with respect to child training.

Need of Education

There is need, too, of a great deal of education on the part of the adult population. One aspect of the education of the public must be the dispelling of the idea that there is anything blameworthy in mental illness. Only when this has been done will those who feel themselves breaking under nervous strain consult a physician, as they do for some physical illness. Many of the abnormal personalities of modern society could have had their abnormality corrected in childhood if they had had proper care and treatment. This is true of people, such as the chronic lazy workman, the discontented whining wife, the irritable business man, and the juvenile delinquent.

Miss Lauder pointed out that there are different types of parents, as there are different types of children, and that parent education must be fitted for each particular type. She grouped the parents into three general classes : (1) Those who are overscrupulous for their children and smallpox until they are totally unfitted to assume responsibility in life; (2) the domineering—those who mollycoddle the children one day and rage at them the next for the same actions; (3) parents who lack knowledge to guide the child and desire to become its pal.

In order to maintain a healthy mental condition in the adult, three things are essential : (1) Work, in which the occupation is not too routine. That in which some imagination and creativeness is required is most desirable; (2) recreation and hobbies. The more routine the occupation, the more hobbies and external interests are essential; (3) sharing. Adequate and congenial companionships; (4) a philosophy of life. Dr. Lewis of the Shpchiatric Hospital insists that for every normal healthy person religion is necessary as a condition on which a philosophy of life can be based.

Coveted Prize Awarded Dominion Carilloneur

Given Percival Price, Son of County Family

Percival Price of Ottawa, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Price of Toronto and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Price, who resided in Camden Township in this county, was made the recipient, this week, of the 1933 Fulitzer Prize in Music, a much coveted distinction.

Mr. Price is the Dominion Carilloneur at the Peace Tower in the Parliament Buildings, at Ottawa, a position he was appointed to in 1927. Previous to that he was assistant carilloneur at the Park Avenue Baptist Church, in New York city.

Mr. Price was born in Toronto, where he attended school and studied music under Miss E. Lois Wilson and Dr. H. A. Fricker. He later continued his music study in Malines, Belgium, and in Vienna, under Dr. Arthur Wilner.

The prize winning symphony, written in one-movement form, is entitled "St. Laurent." It has four movements: the first, Thousand Islands, the second, Rapids; the third, Flat Lands; the fourth, the Gulf. The symphony on which the prize was awarded, was submitted by Mr. Price to the Toronto Conservatory of Music in 133 and received as not being good enough to acquire for him the degree of Doctor of Music.

The Pulitzer Prize, a travelling scholarship which carries a value of $1500, is awarded to the student of music in Europe, who may be deemed the most talented in America.

Mr. Price is a first cousin of Miss Blanche Hawley of Napanee, and Mrs. Frank Riches of Cambray. The old homestead on which his father was born was "Eagle Rock" at Hinch north of Newburgh.

Now nature is not at variance with art, nor art with nature; they being both servants of His Providence: Art is the perfection of nature; were the world now as it was the sixth day, there were yet a chaos: nature hath made one world, and art another. In both, all things are artificial; for nature is the art of God.—Sir Thomas Browne.

There is no doubt that the noise of everyday life, with its traffic and other noisy components, has affected the hearing of many of us. — A. J. Story.

Nothing can bring you peace but yourself.—Emerson.

Death at Toronto Rev. Dr. H. T. Crossley

The death of Rev. Dr. H. T. Crossley, one of the best known ministers of the United Church and former Methodist Church, occurred on Wednesday, May 2nd, at Toronto. Mr. Crossley, who was in his 84th year, had been ill for some time.

Dr. Crossley was well known for many years as a singing evangelist, one of the Crossley and Hunter evangelistic team, which toured Canada for many years. Under their influence it is estimated that over 200,000 people became converted.

Since Dr. Crossley's retirement in 1926, he had lived with Rev. E. Crossley Hunter, the son of his former partner, at Toronto, at whose home he died.

Dr. Crossley was a bachelor and is survived by several nieces and nephews. The late Rev. C. O. Crossley one - time minister of the Methodist Church in Napanee, was a brother.

Direct Relief To Be Discontinued in Town

Relief Kitchen Closed Last Week

A meeting of the Welfare Committee was held in the Town Hall on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The members present were chairman W. S. Exley, Mrs. R. S. Wales, Miss Josephine Leamy, Chief Edwin Waits, Mayor Tustin, Dr. G. W. Morden and Victor Cowling.

The report for the month of April was presented. It showed a total expenditure of $412.92, made up as follows : Food, $285.93; Shelter, $45.80 clothing, $40.10; Fuel, $19.75; drug supplies, 75cents; medical attention, $10.60.

The cost of the food kitchen maintained at the Armouries for transients, was $91.25. 690 meals were served at an average cost per meal of 13.2 cents.

The number of heads of families on relief was 36, with a total number of persons receiving aid, 122.

The expenditure for April of the year was less than half that of April 1933, when $947.54 was spent. The number on relief the same month last year was 205 or 83 more than April 1934. In May 1933, a total of $161.59 was spent on 71 people.

The amount spent on relief in March was $1467.21, over three times the amount expended in April.

To Discontinue Direct Relief

It was the decision of the committee to discontinue direct relief for this season. The relief kitchen was closed at the end of last week. During the coming winter 234 cords of wood were used for relief purposes, in the form of slabs. The chairman advised the committee that he had arranged for the purchase of 100 cords of wood for next winter at the town's cost of $6.50 per cord, delivery to be made later in the year.

Since the first of November 1933 to the first of May, 1934, the total relief expenditure for Napanee has been $5419.71. Of this amount, of course, the Government will return a large percentage.

Ordination Ceremony St. Mary Magdalene Ch.

Dedication of Memorials at Same Service

St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church of Napanee has been chosen as the place for an interesting ceremony on Thursday morning of this week, at 11 o'clock, when Mr. Stanley Jackson will be ordained into the Anglican priesthood.

Mr. Jackson is a graduate of Trinity College, and is a native of England. The ordination will be conducted by the Bishop of Ontario, Rt. Rev. John Lyons, of Kingston, in the presence of a large number of visiting clergy. Rev. Dr. Kingston, of Trinity College, will be the preacher. This is the first time in many years, an ordination service has been held in Napanee.

At the same service several memorials are to be dedicated in memory of departed members of the congregation. Two beautiful memorial windows will be dedicated to the memory of the late Judge and Mrs. Wilkinson, members of the congregation for many years. Mrs. Wilkinson died last year in Switzerland. Judge Wilkinson passed away about thirty years ago in Napanee. A parcel of communion set and a brass rest for the alms basin, given in memory of the late Miss Grace Lloyd, who died recently at Cohoes, N.Y., will also be dedicated.

Following the service the visiting clergy and guests will be entertained at lunch in the basement of the church, by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Church.

Among those who will attend the service will be Ven. Archdeacon Coleman, of Kingston, a former Vicar of the church in Napanee.

Let us think freely and speak plainly, and we shall have the highest satisfaction that a man can enjoy—the consciousness that we have done what little lies in ourselves to do for the maintenance of the truth on which the moral improvement and the happiness of our race depends.—Sir Leslie Stephen.

MAY DAY

For many years May Day, in Europe, has been acknowledged as a holiday. On May Day, parades and demonstrations are held for the purpose of bringing together the workers and impressing the public with the strength of the working class movement. Not infrequently, these demonstrations have led to disorders which have had to be quelled by the constituted authorities.

This year, the Toronto Police Department gave permission for a May Day parade. It is estimated that several thousand people participated. They marched in orderly fashion to the park, where the red flag was displayed, revolutionary songs sung and fiery speeches given. The whole proceeding was done under the watchful eye of the Police Force.

The gathering of thousands of earnest men and women, who permitted themselves to be scrutinized by the police, had something rather ominous about it. People do not do that sort of thing unless they are strongly moved and have weighed the consequences. For several years the authorities have refused to allow a May Day celebration. It was hoped that by continual refusal, the people would lose interest and the enthusiasm die out. But it hasn't worked out that way. The change of policy has revealed to Canada the very serious discontent with present conditions, on the part of the workers and their families. It must be quite evident now that when people are in deadly earnest, as the May Day paraders were, it is useless to suppose that they can be summarily dealt with. It is quite possible for governments and city administrations to stop parades and demonstrations, but that in no way removes the causes which give them birth.

It was a sane and wise decision to permit the parade, last week. It gave, in a graphic way, a cross section of the discontent abroad in the land. For what was displayed in Toronto is only an evidence of the unrest which is felt in every hamlet, village, town and city of Canada. To permit that unrest and discontent to voice itself in open demonstration, is one thing. To still that unrest and restore confidence, is quite another.

The lessons of the celebrations should not be lost on our students of public affairs and our leaders. It should set them at work, studying the causes which lie at the basis of these demonstrations. The Stevens' investigation, now going on at Ottawa, is the first step in the endeavor to allay the prevailing unrest. The tragic story of poor women, with tears streaming down their faces because of the inhuman price cutting of tobacco combines, when fabulous dividends were rolling into the laps of the shareholders, has moved the country as very few things have done in recent months.

The imvartial uncovering of these practises which crush human personality in order to increase the financial strength of the few, is the proven evidence of what has been suspected for a long time.

But seeking out these causes and laying bare the glaring injustice of our present economic structure, is only the first step in the progress towards a happy and contented citizenship. It will take much courage on the part of our leaders to use the facts which the Stevens investigation is uncovering as a basis for reconstructing our whole economic system. Some way must be discovered to remove the appalling human wastage caused by poverty and want, to remove the fear of economic insecurity on the part of the masses, and to provide a more equitable distribution of life's goods. The Stevens' investigation is the first and necessary step. The whole world is passing through a period of tremendous change. Forces have been let loose, the full extent of whose operation we cannot foresee.

It is the duty and high responsibility of our leaders to direct these forces into channels of mutual satisfaction where they will be productive of great good for each and every member of society. Otherwise it is not inconceivable that we shall be wrecked by them.

GENIUS

Genius is nothing but the intense direction of a mind to the intellectual objects—the concentration of all our powers to it, which leads to disregard all idols and obstacles in the attainment of it, and if strong enough will ultimately bring success.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

SELF - CONFIDENCE

"She had a quiet confidence in being able to do whatever was needful for her to do. She leaned on her necessities instead of being broken by them," says a biographer, of a busy and useful life. The statement is worth more than a passing thought, for the necessities that confront most lives can either be allowed to become a crushing burden or turned into a staff that will aid on the journey of strengthen for higher climbing.

THE SCENIC ROUTE

The promise has been tentatively given on the part of the Provincial authorities, to construct a scenic route along the Bay Front. The proposal is to build the highway from Picton to Glenora, to have a ferry connect with Adolphustown; then to have the Shore Road, from Adolphustown to Kingston, improved so as to provide a scenic highway along the Bay shore.

Undoubtedly, such a road would have certain advantages. It would provide the visitor with a drive which, in beauty of scenery, would rival that of any part of Ontario. In addition, it would take him through one of the most historic areas in our Province. Hardly an inch of land in that section of the county but is replete with historic interest.

The time has come, however, when the thoughtful taxpayer ought to ask himself whether he is ready to assume further tax burdens at the present moment, even for so worthy and laudable a project. We are keenly alive to the value of the new road. But we are just as well aware that, at the present time, the people of this Province are bearing an unusually heavy burden of debt. This debt falls with a crushing blow, especially on the farming community. We are already paying a heavy price for the construction of high-class roads in this County. Had the conditions of flexible credit and business expansion, which marked the last war years continued, the task of meeting our overhead bonded indebtedness would not have been so difficult. But, as it is today, the average farmer in this County has all he can do to make his taxes, while needed improvements on his property and buildings have to be neglected.

Of course, it will be argued that the Government builds the road and therefore it will not cost the municipalities anything. But there is no such thing as a government apart from the people who make it up. We are the government and finally, the people pay.

Some day the scenic highway along the front will be built. But let us catch up a bit on our present debt expenditure before we pile up any more.

THE NEW DRAMATIC CLUB

One of the trends of our times, which even the most casual observer must have noticed is a new interest in amateur dramatics. From the time of the great Greek dramatists, on down throught the ages, the drama, as an interpretation of life has held a high place in the cultural and recreational activities of peoples. In the classic days of Greek drama, great contests were held annually, in which groups contended with each other for national honors. The effort, stimulated by competition, encouraged men and women to express ideals and personalities in the form of drama and to develop a love of the artistic and the beautiful.

Everybody, at some time or other in their lives, loves to act a part, which is one reason for their universal appeal. The popularity of plays is proverbial. Wherever a play is presented in the town, it is usually well received.

With the advent of the movies and the syndicated films, acting became concentrated in a few centres. For many years, this has had a chilling effect on the ardor of the legitimate stage. The youth of our age have developed the habit of letting their acting be done for them by others. The result, for a long time, was two fold—a falling off in the interest of amateur dramatics and a lower standard of those which were produced. Fewer amateur dramas were produced and those which were presented usually degenerated into a very mediocre play.

But, lately, there has been a decided change in the situation. The Little Theatre Movement, in England, in the United States and in Canada with shorter plays and popular prices, has had a phenomenal success in recapturing the place the drama forfeited to the movies. The support of the movement by Vincent Massey and more recently, under the patronage of Lord Bessborough, has made a wide appeal in Canada. The recent Drama Festival, in Ottawa, was an evidence of its popularity.

Drama leagues have been formed in Ontario. Clubs from different towns enter into competition with those from other districts, and the winners of these groups then compete in the finals. All this creates a wealth of interest in self expression and in the interpretation of life, through action. The movement has succeeded in interesting an increasingly large number of people. Along with this interest in acting, has gone a new interest in play writing. In recent years a whole new school of writers writing modern plays, has come to the fore.

In Napanee, a club has recently been organized. Any who are interested in amateur dramatics should take advantage of membership in the new organization, which will fill a long-felt want in our town. Membership doesn't mean that the member has to act in a play, unless he so desires, but it confers the privileges of reading and study of modern plays, as well as the opportunity to observe those which it is hoped will, from time to time, be produced.

A people can be a democracy if it can learn to read. If it can learn to get the wealth that there is in store in the literature of the race, if it can learn to weld itself together into a single intellectual society by the interchange of reading, if it can find present expression for its own meaning and find the record of past meaning. I don't believe that any society can be a democracy in any considerable measure at all except as it develops reading.—Alexander Meiklejohn.

Editorial Comment

THE BRITISH MEAT MARKET

The Bingley Reorganization Commission, which published its report recently, although nominally concerned with fat stock, has in fact included the whole of the meat supplies of England—beef, mutton, pork, veal—in its survey and has drawn up a far-reaching scheme for their control. The recommendations are that a Livestock Marketing Board shall be established to prescribe the methods and conditions of all sales of meat. . . . This country now produces less than half its supplies of beef and mutton. Chilled meat comes from South America, and frozen meat from Australia, New Zealand and Canada. Since Ottawa, fairly successful restrictions have been imposed on the import of chilled meat, but despite certain voluntary agreements the imports of frozen meat have increased. . . . The Commission advises that when the Ottawa arrangements come to an end in June it Danish, etc., will be asked to accept voluntary quotas. If not, compulsion may have to be applied—a threat to which they are already resigned.—Manchester Guardian (Lib.)

AN INDUSTRIAL BAROMETER

Facts and figures show beyond dispute that Britain's industrial recovery is making steady progress over an area which is constantly widening. One of the most striking indicators of trade are the output of steel and the production of coal. The output of iron and steel last month reached the highest figures since the autumn of October 1929, before the slump abroad became acute. The production of coal for the first quarter of the year, though not yet published in detail, is known to have been markedly in advance of that for 1933 or 1932.—London Daily Mail.

"HAPPY CANADA!"

The nations of the world are on their way out of the depression. But unfortunately it is not the United States which seems to be leading. Different countries reached the peak of the boom, and the depth of the slump, at different moments. But, generally speaking, League of Nations statistics show that the top was attained in the summer of 1929 and that the bottom was in the summer of 1932. Since the summer of 1932 most countries have been slowly pulling out of the slough. At present progress seems to be fairly rapid. Great Britain, for example, has a £250,000,000 budget surplus. Think of that! Canada's figures for the first quarter of this year are different. They take the 1926 level as normal. The general economic index a year ago was over 30 per cent under that level; is now only about 16 per cent under. Yet at the same time the cost of living has gone up only about one per cent. Happy Canada! — Manchester Guardian.

TOWARD THE SAME GOAL

How different the British recovery method has been from that adopted by the United States! Britain's course with a problem in many respects similar! The British Government has moved only very slowly, with the appearance of cautious deliberation. The United States Government has by President Roosevelt been aimed straight, with swift, direct blows, at its objective. The British Empire, by limiting disaster, the Americans by stretching out their hands to prosperity. Britain has done so by reducing expenditure. Washington by increasing it. But in the end these two so different methods, if they were well conceived to suit the temperaments of two different nations, will, if justified, produce similar results.—Boston Christian Science Monitor.

THE RAIWAY MERGER

Does anyone think that the Canadian Pacific, which has its own debt, debentures and interest to pay, would be willing to accept also the debt of the Canadian National? Not at all. The State would therefore go on paying the interest, and bearing the responsibility for the capital which it guaranteed to the lenders, up to a billion dollars, the balance there are guarantees from the different western provinces. The merger would not change the situation, nor the debt. So we must find something else, and no longer deceive ourselves with the idea that a merger is the fundamental solution of the problem. —Le Devoir, Montreal.

DISCREPANCIES

A correspondent says that Mr. Nanking reminds him of the story of Chen's version of the happenings at the two men who met in Throgmorton Street, "Is that right," said one, "that Abe Edelstein made $20,000 in rubbers in Amsterdam last summer?" "Well," replied te other, "the story is right, only the details are wrong. It wasn't last summer it was this spring. It wasn't in Amsterdam, it was in Paris. It wasn't rubbers, it was oils. It wasn't $20,000, it was $200,000. It wasn't Abe, it was me. And I didn't make, I lost it."

Says Mr. Chen: "It wasn't the Southerners, it was the Northerners. It wasn't a massacre, it was a scrimmage. And they didn't kill, they got killed." The story is right but the details, alas! are wrong.—Manchester Guardian.

AT ONCE — "GOOD-NIGHT"

It is a strange thing in this day of speed that so much time is wasted, literally thrown away, in performing the ordinary acts of our daily existence.

Take the rather prosaic ritual of saying good-by, for example. What a long drawn-out performance it becomes with so many of our friends. Mrs. Smith invites a few of the neighbors in for a game of bridge. Along about eleven o'clock something like this usually happens; "Well, I must be going. I had no idea it was so late," murmurs one of the guests, making a feeble attempt to rise from her chair.

The hostess, who has been entertaining the same idea for some time, protests. "Why, it's early, my dear, you mustn't think of going yet. Let's play one more rubber, at least." And to do, perhaps several of them.

Finally, the hour of departure can be evaded no longer and the guests of the evening prepare to go. There is much scurrying around for hats and coats and a lot of good-natured repartee flies back and forth once. The procession heads towards the door when suddenly the whole group suffers from a rush of ideas that simply must be discussed. Mrs. Jones remembers that she saw a darling dress in McRay's the other day, last week it was, no, it was Tuesday or was it Thursday? Mr. Jones ventures the suggestion that it was Monday as he remembers hearing her talk about it that night. Mr. Jones is immediately proven wrong by his consort and is ruled out of the discussion.

While this important matter is being threshed out, Jimmy the ladies' Mr. Brown buttonholes his host and releases his views on the recent election, dragging in the business depression and the general state of the country. In an unguarded moment Mr. Green asks Jimmy after the health of his neighbor's offspring and is immediately treated to a proxy account of the lad's health, his progress in school and a whole list of minor ailments which made by the child during the past two years.

Finally someone accidentally catches hold of the door-knob and they all troop out, finishing their conversations as they go. After a few last words shouted from the sidewalk to the host and hostess who are freezing in the doorway the guests call a last good-by and the evening is over.

Something ought to be done about this. There are a few sturdy souls who arrange these matters satisfactorily. It has been published in the press that it is an un-written law in the household of Mr. John D. Rockefeller that nine o'clock is the hour of departure. The host of students who have called on Professor Copeland on Monday evenings knew well enough that when ten o'clock arrived it was time to go.

Lady Macbeth knew well how to clear a house cluttered up with dinner guests. "At once, good night; Stand not upon the order of your going, but go at once." She ordered and the boys disappeared in a twinkling. Hardly had time to finish their dinner.

"Speed the parting guest," says Pope, and who can blame him?—Lewis E. Stoyle.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 13TH, 1934

MATTHEW 22: :15-22; :34-40.

"CHRISTIANITY AND PATRIOTISM"

The Pharisees, in their eagerness to entrap Jesus in an incriminating statement, united with their political enemies, the Herodians. The Pharisees were opposed to the Roman rule while the Herodians were in favor of it. It was a crafty move, because when they asked Jesus if it was lawful to pay taxes. He would presumably have to answer, yes, or no. If He said it was lawful, He would offend the Pharisees and offend the religious sentiment of the people and would show He was not the Messiah who was to bring national deliverance. If he said "no" he would declare himself against Rome and so commit treason. It looked as though Jesus was trapped.

Jesus, however, refuses to answer a theological question. The money of Caesar was current in Judea and Jesus pointed out that it was only right to give back to Caesar what was his own. But this payment does not affect men's duty to God. It has been argued, frequently, that in this passage Jesus defines the duty of the citizen to the Church and to the State. Jesus, however, had no thought of laying down principles of this kind. So far as any general principle can be deduced, what Jesus said was that religion is not to be confounded with political issues. Religion has nothing to do with any particular form of government, as under one form or under another, one can serve God.

Foiled in their attempt to entrap Jesus the Pharisees put this further question to Him, "Which is the greatest law?" This was a question which, on the face of it, seemed impossible of answer. The Jewish law was codified into 600 commands. It was hard to remember them all, much less which were the important ones. then Jesus answered: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, etc." But be pointed out that this is meaningless apart from love to man. Both these commands were contained in the Jewish law and had already been picked as important. The significance of Jesus' saying, was their combination. He took them from different parts of the law and combined them, declaring that love of God and love to man were bound together in an indissoluble way. Jesus and this has, ever since, been the distinguishing characteristic of Christianity.

Insect Benefactors To Mankind

All insects are not pests, as Mr. R. E. Handford, of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, pointed out the other day to the Brandon Horticultural Society. Society in much is the habit of considering only of insect pests, he said, that we seldom think of our insect allies. If we stop to think, we shall soon realize that there are many species of beneficial insects. Chrysopa, lacewing flies, are some types of dives are insect productions we should not care to be without. In some places, insects in various stages are used particularly as food. The beneficial insects that concern us most at this particular time, however, are those that destroy insect pests. One of our best allies is the destruction of plant lice is the ladybird beetle. Both the adults and larvae of these insects feed on plant lice, and the adults at least have been known to feed on insects in other stages, especially eggs. Another insect of importance is one of the ground beetles, the fiery hunter. This is a large black beetle with rows of coppery spots down its back. It feeds on a considerable number of other insects.

The larvae of another ground beetle has recently come into prominence as a destroyer of grasshopper eggs. The fourth insect is a fly, another insect friend that destroys enormous numbers of grasshopper eggs. Similarly, the tachina flies, or blister beetles, which are so destructive in their feeds

Police Court News

William Mowers, who was remanded the previous week, appeared in the Magistrate's Court on Saturday, May 5th, to answer two charges—unlawful possession of spirits suitable fully manufactured or imported and for having liquor in his possession not purchased from a Government vendor. The first charge was a breach of the Excise Act and the second a breach of Section 72 of the Liquor Control Act. Both charges were laid on April 21st.

When asked how he would plead, Mowers answered "guilty" in both cases. Mowers had already several convictions registered against him, on which he had served terms in gaol and reformatory. Before passing sentence, the Magistrate said that after Mowers had finished his last term he had promised to give up his former habits and stop making trouble. Since that time, several complaints had been made about him and the officers of the law, who finally got something definite against him, had been given a great deal of trouble.

The selling of moonshine liquor is a dangerous procedure and is a menace to the public. Magistrate Graham felt that Mowers was not entitled to any consideration. He fined the accused $400 and costs, or fifteen months in gaol.

Alfred Sutton of Strathcona, who was accused of assaulting Herbert Fox on April 30th, pled not guilty. After hearing evidence for the defence and prosecution, a conviction was registered against Sutton. He was put on suspended sentence for six months and ordered to pay the costs of the court, amounting to $11.25.

All complaints, under the Public Health Act, should be telephoned or handed to A. E. Cooke, Sanitary Inspector.

Ross Peters of Odessa appeared in the Magistrate's Court on Friday to answer two charges, that of theft and of attempted suicide. The case was laid over for a week.

WALLACE'S

The Best Known Spot To Meet and Shop.

The first ball game of the local season will be played this coming Saturday (May 12th), at 2:30 p.m., when the Gibbard "A's" and "B's" will play a practice game.

This game will give everyone, including Walt Gerow, a chance to size up the two squads, and to see the new players in action. The admission will be 10 cents.

The Lennox County "B" entry will be a strong team this year and should give the other clubs a battle for the honors. The boys are still looking for a regular position on either team, and this should be a real game.

Since Yarker are not having a team this year, Milton Dunn will be playing with the Athletics. The addition of Dunn will strengthen the team considerably, both offensively and defensively. At present, Gerow is using him at short.

Harry Card could not see his way clear to continue as president of the Lennox League and Dr. Tom Warner of Yarker was elected in his place—a fitting honor for a man who has done much for the sport, in this district.

The Lennox loop will open, this year, with Gibbard's going to Enterprise and Tamworth to Adolphustown on May 19th, and on May 24, Forest Mills goes to Tamworth and Adolphustown comes to Napanee.

The League is opening one week earlier this year because a double schedule is to be played. This is a real step forward and a very commendable one. Each club will play eight games at home and eight away giving both the players and the fans plenty of ball.

Walter Gerow is well pleased with the showing of both his teams to date. A lengthy practice was held last Saturday and the boys were hitting them hard and far.

Arrangements are being made again this year to reserve grandstand seats for those who wish them. The advantage being that one can to the game five or ten minutes before starting time and have a good seat waiting for him. Any persons interested are asked to 'phone the Gibbard office and one of the club officers will call and give them particulars.

Report of Activity From Office of Mr. Buchanan

The caretaker of the boar for the Newburgh Bacon Hog Club, Mr. Vernon Paul, R. R. No. 4, Napanee, has received the boar loaned by the Department of Agriculture for their club of 20 approved sows, received from Montreal.

The boar is an exceptionally fine animal and the farmers of the district are to be congratulated upon their effort to improve the quality of hogs in their part of the county.

We have a supply of wool sacks and twine from the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers for distribution to the farmers. Wool growers throughout the Dominion are taking advantage of this co-operative movement in handling their wool.

We are pleased to report that 97 schools have applied for School Fair Seeds. Of these, 21 are schools that have not taken part in School Fair work for a number of years. We would like to have every school in the county taking part in our School Fairs, this year, and hope to receive more applications.

The Certified Dooley Potatoes have been received at the office for the Boys' Potato Club and there will be sixteen boys growing a plot of potatoes in connection with the club. These potatoes will be inspected during the summer, by a representative of the Potato Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The members of the club have agreed to plant, at least, half an acre next year, which will entitle them to be listed as Certified Seed Potato growers. This inspection service is given free to all farmers who have, at least, an acre of certified seed. Application should be made to this office before June 12th so that the inspector will have time to plan his inspection work.

We have received twenty applications in the Boys' Home Garden Club; fifteen applications in the Junior Girls' Home Garden and Canning Club; and twelve applications in the Senior Girls' Home Garden and Canning Club. These gardens will be inspected during the summer and it is hoped that an exhibit will be made at one of the local Fall Fairs, or at an Achievement Day in the Fall.

High Honey Prices Indicated

Bees Suffer Heavy Winter Loss

"This is a year when those capable beekeepers who have carefully studied their business and know how to meet emergencies, should make good profits," says Dr. E. J. Dyce, Provincial Apiarist for Ontario, and he continues:

"Reports from all parts of Ontario indicate that between 20% and 40% of the colonies died during the winter and that an additional 20% of the colonies are so badly weakened that they will be unable to gather a honey crop. The loss has occurred mainly among the small side line beekeepers who neglected to properly care for their bees last fall.

A backward spring, combined with heavy colony losses and serious winter injury to clovers in many sections of the Province, indicates an abnormal shortage of honey again this coming season.

Since the past two crops of 1932 and 1933 were much below average, practically all the honey was out of the hands of the producer early last fall. Since short crops were experienced not only in Ontario but throughout the world, the corresponding shortage of beeswax has caused its price to increase about 50% during the past few months.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT NEWS OF WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS

HAYBURN LADIES' AID

The Ladies' Aid of Hayburn held the April meeting at the home of Mrs. Leslie Dafoe on Tuesday afternoon. April 17th, 1934, with ten members and seven visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. Loyst had charge of the meeting. The hymn "What a Friend we have in Jesus," was sung, followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The scripture reading was the 13th chapter of Romans. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. Weetman and the treasurer Mrs. Dickson, gave a brief statement regarding the payment of bills, etc. Rev. H. F. Sanders gave a short address, appropriate for the Easter season, which was very interesting.

The finished quilt blocks were all handed in and arrangements made for a "Pot Luck" dinner, to be held at an early date. Rev. Mr. Sanders closed the meeting, after which the hostess served a delicious lunch. Lunch fees amounted to $2.00.

The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Purrs.

The Hayburn ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Jacob Loyst, on Thursday, May 3rd, for a "quilting bee" and "pot luck" dinner. Nimble fingers plied the needles and the quilt was well on the way by the dinner hour. After singing grace, about twenty people sat down at tables, well filled with all kinds of delicious and tempting food, proving that the ladies of the community excel in the fine art of cooking.

The work on the quilt was resumed after dinner, and due to the untiring efforts of the ladies, was finished, and is a beautiful piece of work, the colors harmonizing perfectly. This quilt will be offered for sale later on, and should add a considerable amount to the treasury.

SWITZERVILLE MISSION BAND

The regular monthly meeting of the "Busy Bee" Mission Band was held at school on Wednesday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the president, Jean Ames, taking charge. The meeting was opened by the singing of a hymn, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The secretary, Ralph Wilson, then called the roll, to which thirteen members replied.

It was decided to bring mite boxes to our next meeting, which will be held at the school on June 6th, at the usual hour.

Miss Rutherford then read the story, "A Happy Holiday", after which the President gave the call to worship. All responded in song.

Three Watch Tower Heralds brought items of interest, Doris Vandervoort bringing news of Canada, Maitland Clark of China, and Arnold Clark of Temperance.

A new hymn, "This is My Father's World," was then taught, after which prayer was offered by Augusta Clark.

The Scripture, from Matt. 21 : 6-16, was then read by Audrey Brandon, and the memory verse, John 13 : 17, was taught by Sidney Wilson.

The offering was taken by Alice Hogeboom and Elsie Clark. This was followed by Friendship Prayer, led by Marion Lasher.

The Study Period was taken by Mrs. Wales, during which she told the story of New Year's Day in China," also mentioning other special holidays.

After singing another hymn, the meeting was closed with prayer, led by Mrs. Wales.

MILLSVILLE-CONWAY W. M. S.

The regular meeting of the Millsville and Conway W. M. S. met at Millsville United Church on Good Friday, March 29th, with nine members and four Mission Circle members present. After the opening hymn the scripture lesson, taken from Luke and Matthew, was read and the 31st Psalm was read by Rev. Sanderson followed by prayer. The president took charge of the Easter program. Miss Vera White sang a solo entitled "Calvary," which was very much enjoyed. An address by Rev. Sanders, followed by a very concise report of the Presbyterial, by Mrs. Sanders, was very interesting. Each member was requested to hand in a slip of paper, telling what they were thankful for along with the thankoffering gift. The offering amounted to $15.05. The secretary was requested to write and ask Miss Anderson of Napanee, to be with us at our May meeting, at the home of the president, Mrs. Harold Hough.

After singing a hymn, Rev. Sanders closed the meeting with prayer.

Millsville and Conway W. M. S. met at the home of Mrs. Harold Hough on Thursday afternoon, May 3rd for the regular meeting, with ten members present. After the opening hymn, the members offered prayer. The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. W. Mellow. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and some discussion took place over writing for a missionary to be present at our One meeting. Heralds reported, for temperance. Mrs. R. Merritt; Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Sanders. Rev. Sanders gave a talk on a pagan custom, transformed through consecrated gardening. "The Supreme Miracle of the Universe," was read by Mrs. Harold Hough, after which a hymn closed the meeting.

The June meeting of the W. M. S will likely be held in connection with the Church.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Institute was held in the Library, on Wednesday afternoon, with a fair attendance. As there was so much business to be taken up, there was not time for the program. The presentatives to the District Annual at Bath, on June 12th are Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mrs. Stanley Storms, Mrs. Fred Montgomery and Mrs. E. Gilbert. Mrs. Nelson Smith to act as chairman of the Standing Committee for publicity for the county. The following chairmen of standing committees were appointed for our branch: Health, Mrs. Shelley Detlor; Agriculture, Mrs. Orra Mrs. H. Smith; Education, Mrs. J. C. Parrott; Agriculture, Miss W. Clark; Legislation, Mrs. T. Cordick; Publicity, Mrs. F. Vrooman; Immigration, Mrs. C. Bovee; Historical Research, Mrs. Harvey Lucas; Relief, Mrs. Roy Cranham; Com. Act., Mrs. C. Snider; Canadian Industries, Mrs. G. Burnett. Mrs. W. P. Sharpe was appointed custodian for press clippings for our meetings. The roll call was answered by paying fees and what the W. I. has meant to me, and we well responded to, showing the value of the Women's Institute.

It was decided to make a layette to have in readiness as we so recently had need of same. It was also decided that we discontinue the baby bank books.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. J. C. Parrott, Mrs. W. Lake and Mrs. W. A. Smith, and a vote of thanks was extended to them.

SANDHURST A. Y. P. A.

A very enjoyable evening took place at Sandhurst Church Hall, on Friday evening, April 27, when the joint associations of St. Paul's Anglican and Conway-Sillsville United Churches, together with a few intimate friends gathered for a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Young who were recently married

Following community singing, Miss Helen Sills read a very short address from the A. Y. P. A. and Lawrence Spearing presented Mrs. Young, formerly Miss Marjorie Ham, R.N., of Conway, with a silver pyrex pie plate.

The Y. P. A. of Conway then took charge and a handsome presentation of a pyrex tree platter on a silver tray with a three-piece carving set with white Xylonite handles, was made by Misses Vera White and Genevieve Thibbett, while Miss Marjorie Keys read an address. Mr. Young replied in his usual capable manner, thanking both societies for their splendid gifts. A social hour with dancing ended with a most delicious luncheon, served by both societies.

CANADIAN SEED POTATOES FOR ABROAD

The potato crop report prepared by the Markets Extension Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture states that small experimental shipments of Canadian certified seed of various varieties of potatoes were made during the past season, through the efforts and cooperation of Canadian Government trade commissioners, and at the request of farmers and other interested parties. British Columbia seed stock was forwarded to Java, Honolulu, Honduras, and Brazil, while small quantities from the Maritime Provinces were shipped to Mexico and South Africa.

SIGNIFICANT STAMP

Bermuda has just issued a new series of stamps picturing the sailing vessel "Sea Venture," aboard which Admiral Sir George Somers was wrecked on Bermuda shores, centuries ago. Supposedly tales of the shipwreck inspired Shakespeare to write "The Tempest."

It was from the landing of Sir George that Bermuda drew one of its names, "The Somers Islands." And it was for Sir George's wife that the Canadian National liner, "Lady Somers," was named.

A POPULAR GARDEN INSECTICIDE

An insecticide which is gradually coming into popularity with gardeners and vegetable growers is arsenate of lime, or calcium arsenate, a fine, soft-flaker, white powder. Compared with arsenate of lead, says Alan G. Dunstan, of the Entomological Branch in the Dominion Department of Agriculture bulletin on vegetable insects and their control, arsenate of lime has the advantage of being cheaper, of having a higher metallic arsenic content, and of adhering much more rapidly. On the other hand, it is more likely to burn the foliage has to be used more carefully, and does not adhere so well to the plants. When arsenate of lime is used alone as a spray, it is customary to add sufficient hydrated lime to counteract any possibility of burning. One pound of arsenate of lime is equivalent to one and a half pounds of arsenate of lead in killing value. As a spray, arsenate of lime should be used at the rate of three pounds of it a pound to 40 gallons of water, to which has been added two pounds of hydrated lime. In dusting with this material, dilute it with 10 parts of hydrated lime. Arsenate of lime contains 36-38 per cent of metallic arsenic.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Surplus Exceeds $400.

The financial statement presented at the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association showed that a deficit of over $4,000 reported at the annual meeting held in April, 1933, had been converted into surplus of over $400 by April, 1934.

Apple Regulation

It is now compulsory that all apple and hawthorn trees within three hundred yards of an orchard the owner of which has applied for certification, must be thoroughly sprayed for apple maggot or cut down prior to July 1st. All spraying must be effected in accordance with the recommendation set forth in the official spray calendar.

Milk Price Increased

As a result of action on the part of the Ontario Minister of Agriculture the price paid producers of milk in the Windsor, Ontario, district was advanced recently from $1.35 to $1.81 per cwt. This is an increase of 30 per cent to the producers in the Western Ontario Milk Shed. The distributors agreed to accept the new price and to advance the charge to consumers from 10c to 9c per quart and from 6c to 5c per pint.

Current Crop Report

Latest reports from agricultural representatives declare that while little growth of fall wheat has taken place as yet, there is every indication in many districts that the loss from winter killing will be heavy. Ontario and Peterborough counties definitely report at least 75% of the crop almost completely killed. Alfalfa and clovers have also suffered severely in many areas. The loss of fruit trees is likewise serious, one orchardist in Ontario County reporting a loss of over three hundred black cherry trees, while widespread damage to apple orchards is admitted. It is still too early to secure definite estimates of the injury.

The spring has been backward in most counties, although considerable work on the land has been done in Southwestern Ontario. In Kent, Lambton and other counties the seeding program is well under way. Strawberries have wintered fairly well in most districts. The acreage of flue-cured tobacco in Norfolk will be reduced 25 per cent. this year as a result of a campaign for reduction among the growers.

Controversy Settled

The prolonged milk controversy over the price of milk in Hamilton which commenced on February 11th was settled recently when the price of milk which had dropped from $1.81 to $1.41 per cwt. was restored to the former level. It is estimated that the restoration of the former price to milk producers in this area means an additional $6,000 per week.

Dated Canadian Cheese

In future all Canadian cheese and all packages containing cheese, will be marked with the date of manufacture. By Order in Council, dated March 19th, the date of manufacture will be applied to the cheese within twenty-four hours of the time it is removed from the press.

According to J. F. Singleton, Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner for Canada, the adoption of this practice seems likely not only to meet the wishes of a substantial number of retailers of Canadian cheese, but also to have a beneficial influence in marketing our so-called "fodder" cheese. If showing the dates of manufacture will tend to break down the prejudice now existing against our late fall cheese, the work involved in applying the addition marks to the cheese, and to the boxes, will be well worth while.

Starlings and Weed Killers

Two valuable circulars have just been issued by the Department of Agricultural Extension, O.A.C. One is entitled "The Starling in Ontario," by H. H. Lefebvre and J. Buchanan, and it gives the latest available information on the habits of this destructive bird as well as advice in regard to traps which have proved effective in destroying large numbers of starlings. Illustrations of the traps and data regarding their construction are furnished. A request is made that persons having any authentic information to offer about the activities of the starlings in their respective districts, or having had any interesting experiences with them, are requested to write to the Extension Department, O. A. C., Guelph.

The second circular deals with "Chemical Weed Killers" and was prepared by Prof. J. E. Howitt and Mr. W. M. Gammon. It sets forth the results of lengthy experimentation with weed killers on various types of weeds and makes valuable recommendations regarding their use.

Both of these circulars can be obtained upon application to the Department at O. A. C. or from your local agricultural representative.

The Care and Planting of Trees

Many farmers will be receiving the trees that are distributed this year for plantation, woodlot and windbreak planting. The success of the planting will depend largely on the care the trees receive before they are planted and the planting method.

The roots should be kept moist until the trees are planted. The trees are shipped with the roots packed in wet moss. They may be kept moist and safe until they are planted by several methods.

1. If planting will be done within a few days they may be left undisturbed in the shipping box. The box should be placed in a cool place. The top is then opened and a pail of water is poured through the roots.

2. If planting is not going to be done for a week, or if there is a large number of trees, they may be heeled in cultivated ground, preferably in the shade. A trench is dug on an angle of approximately 45 degrees and the trees are dipped in water and then placed along the trench with the roots down. The roots and stems are covered with 3 to 4 inches of soil and only the tops are left showing. The soil should be pressed well around the roots and brush or burlap over the trees will prevent excessive evaporation from the trees and drying of the soil.

3. A convenient method of holding small trees for planting is to fill a tub or pail. If there are only a few trees, two-thirds full of water. There is no danger of the roots drying by this method, and the trees may be transported to the planting site in the tub or pail.

The best method to keep the trees moist during planting operations is to carry them in a pail with the roots in water.

Planting in furrows on sod land is cheap and is usually successful on light, sandy soil. Shallow, wide furrows are plowed six feet apart and six foot spacing is desired. The trees are planted in the bottom of the furrow and the furrows are then turned back. Spot planting is best in woodlot and planting on good agricultural soils, as the trees are liable to be choked out by the rank growth of grass. The sod is removed from a 1-2 foot square and the tree is planted in the centre.

It is advisable to make one side of the hole vertical and it should be deep enough to allow the roots to hang straight down. The tree is laid against the vertical side of the hole with the tree at the same level as it was in the nursery. The soil should be pressed around the roots and this can be done by placing the foot firmly beside the tree.

LOCAL AND DISTRICT SEED FAIRS

The holding of local seed fairs previous to district seed fairs links up these institutions effectively, says the Dominion Seed Branch news letter, and permits the local winner to seek further honours which otherwise would not likely be available to him. All the seed fairs held in Eastern and Northern Ontario fully warranted the time and money expended. At the registered seed fair at Renfrew, which may be recorded as the first of its kind in Canada, 85 growers were represented by over 5,000 bushels of registered seed, while at the first annual Temiskaming District Seed Fair at Earlton Junction, there were 123 exhibits of surprisingly good quality and preparation. Over 200 farmers attended the meeting. At the 7th annual Ottawa Valley seed fair at Pembroke which was well up to average final awards were made in four Brewers' Barley competitions.

A day's work is a day's work, neither more nor less, and the man who does it needs a day's sustenance, a night's repose, and due leisure, whether he be painter or ploughman.—Bernard Shaw.

DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL FARMS

Oats for Hay and Pasture

The dry season of last year followed by a long cold winter has resulted in feed supplies being pretty well used up and many farmers face a shortage of hay. Under these circumstances it becomes necessary to sow some kind of annual crop in the spring which can be cut later. For this purpose there is nothing better than oats or a mixture of peas and oats. Oats grow well in cool weather and for this reason they can be sowded early. It would be wise to consider seeding some oats as soon as the land is ready so as to get a crop of hay early in the season. Peas suffer in cool weather also and when mixed with oats improve the quality of the feed. Two bushels of oats and one of peas is the correct rate of seeding.

Oats provide also the best annual pasture crop. Almost every year the bluegrass pastures fail during the hot weather of July and August. This is when a small field of oat pasture comes in handy. When oats are pastured off they will come up again better than most other annual crops. Experiments conducted on the Central Experimental Farm, during the last two years show that oats when grazed in the leafy stage are high in feeding value and a very satisfactory ration for milking cows.

This year we are conducting an experiment in which oats, sudan grass and millet will be compared under grazing with milch cows.

Handling Package Bees

Package bees are beginning to arrive from the South and during the next two or three weeks will be coming through in greater numbers. According to the Dominion Apiarist there new arrivals will require special care until they become established in their new homes. If at all possible release the bees on drawn comb containing honey, but first be sure that the honey came from a disease-free apiary. If the honey is not available, fill a few of the combs with sugar syrup. If the bees must be released on foundation only, start feeding them at once with sugar syrup made of two parts sugar to one part water. A honey pail feeder with a few holes punched in the cover is an excellent feeder to use. To each feeder of this package bees must be well supplied with food until there is at least enough new comb built for the maintenance of the colony. Before releasing the bees reduce the hive entrance to about one inch and do everything possible to conserve the heat of the colony until warm weather arrives. Do not examine the new colony for at least seven days after releasing the bees.

Strangled with Asthma is the only expression which seems to convey what is endured from an attack of this trouble. The relief from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy is beyond measure. Where all was suffering there comes comfort and rest. Breathing becomes normal and the bronchial tubes completely cleared. This unequalled remedy is worth many times its price to all who use it.

TOO FLUENT

A war-weary Tommy, elated by prospects of going on leave, was approaching the docks at Boulogne. He had just asked the French porter some questions, a torrent of explanatory French followed. The soldier reached down by haversacks and equipment, stood stolidly listening and gazing intently at the porter. Finally the verbal torrent ceased. Then Tommy spoke again. "And 'ow does the chorus go, mate?" he asked.—From Bairnfather's book, "From Mul to Mufti."

NEVER GIVE UP

One of the first flowers to bloom in the spring is the hepatica or liverwort. The chill of the winter was in the air, and the snows were hardly gone, when the sweet beginning their growing amid the dried leaves my stick had pushed away. The sturdy hope of the plant moved and helped me. Never give up; keep alive and alert even amid the greatest scenes and times. Chance will open somehow if you are getting ready for it by the faithful daily duty.—James Buckham.

Assurance of SAFETY

The first requirement of the investor, particularly the small investor, is assured safety; income yield is of lesser importance. That is why so many hundreds of thousands of Canadians regard their savings deposits in this bank as the best type of investment. The income may not be so attractive as the promised yield of certain securities, but it is sure and steady, while the principal itself is safe and always remains at full face value.

When you've looked at all Three Lowest-Priced Cars and Compared the Prices you will realize that Plymouth Quality is within the reach of any Motor Car Purchaser . . . This is the supreme achievement of Chrysler Engineering and Mahufacturing Genius . . . . . .

THE new Plymouth Six gives you four vital quality features. All of them are safety features and two go to give you a smooth ride.

TWO SAFETY FEATURES

Hydraulic brakes, as perfected by Chrysler engineers, are the safest of brakes. They are always equalized and prevent three-wheel braking. They operate with a touch of the toe . . . and will stop on a dime!

Plymouth all-steel body, reinforced with steel, is the only kind of body that satisfies a modern-minded motorist. It's the only really safe kind of body. All-steel electrically fused into one shock-resisting whole—it is as modern as a steel bridge or a steel Pullman.

TWO COMFORT FEATURES

Plymouth Independent Front Wheel Springing is the same as used on some of the world's highest priced cars. The long, soft coil springs of specially processed molybdenum alloy steel permit the wheels to "step" over bumps and prevent "back seat bounce."

Floating Power engine mountings are much more than "rubber cushions". They permit the engine to absorb its own vibrations. The passenger doesn't feel the engine at all!

Try and match these features at Plymouth's low price. Certainly—"Look at all Three", but be sure and ride in the New Plymouth Six. Accept your Plymouth dealer's invitation today.

MODERN FEATS EXCEL MIGHTY MEN OF OLD

Tales have been handed down of the mighty lumbermen of old, and two Nova Scotians recently piled up a record in felling trees which, it is believed, has never been equalled. Two brothers made a wager as to who could fell the greatest number of trees during the space of three days, with a maximum of eight hours per day. The contestants agreed to, and weighing 200 pounds, in a total of twenty-four working hours, cut a road to his timber, felled, trimmed, limbed and helped to load on a trail sled 12,000 feet of logs. But the other, aged 24 and weighing 175 pounds, beat his record with a total of 12,187 feet. Working together in forty days the two cut 700 trees, averaging from 35 to 75 feet in height and scaling approximately 130,000 feet. The 24-year old has shown that of a reputation as a strong man. One of his feats was to push a wheelbarrow with 1,070 pounds of cement up a six foot incline 32 feet long and dump it. He is about six feet in height. A younger brother, who is six-foot-three, has easily lifted a barrel of potatoes with the 175 pound brother sitting on it. They are members of the Welton family of South Alton Nova Scotia.

GOLD HOARDING GOBBLER HAS NORTH ALL EXCITED

Vancouver B.C. Up around Prince Rupert, they are all excited. And a turkey, just a gobbling turkey. The garden variety of turkey meant to placate the palate, caused all the hulla-ba-baloo. The crop of this bird was discovered three gold nuggets. The poultry vender isn't saying where the bird came from. But he knows. Some day soon he intends to shut up shop and start on the trail of the mother lode. A lot of people intend to shut up shop and follow him.

THE LAST STRAW

By Rt. Hon. Lord Ponsonby, in The Listener

Cappers are people who go one better. They cap your remark with another which makes what you have said seem a very poor effort indeed do it better, that is more tactfully, than others. If a good opportunity offers it is a practice which is very difficult to resist. But there are people who are invested cappers, they hardly seem to know any other form of conversation.

The largest class of cappers, I should say, exercise their skill on funny stories. They are usually men, because women do not as a rule indulge so much in funny stories (perhaps that is one of their points of superiority over us). You tell your funny story which, of course, you think rather a good one and if a capper is listening you will see him blinking and looking rather absent. He will not hear because he is only half-listening; he is preparing to pounce. He hardly waits for the laugh which you are expecting from your audience, and he cuts in quick with "Yes, but you have not heard the latest one about;" and then follows a much funnier story than yours. It is possible that a supercapper may be present because when a gathering of men begin funny stories, capping is the order of the day. However, when you just tell a friend something amusing and instead of another he simply caps it, it is very annoying.

Stories of prices give a good opportunity for capping. If you have made a good bargain it is almost certain some one will tell you he was able to purchase the identical article at half price. High prices for old furniture or first editions, have, of recent years, been a fruitful field for competition among cappers. The old bureau you inherited which fetched, to your surprise, a hundred pounds, will lead to your friends old-silver candlesticks for which a dealer paid him five hundred pounds. And it will not rest there because the quiet man in the corner will found last week picture tucked away in a garret which turned out to be an Old Master for which he got a thousand pounds. After that your bureau does not seem to be worth ten shillings. I have never heard picture dealers having a chat together. I expect there would be some pretty brisk capping, almost like bidding at an auction.

Another very common class of capper (and here I am not sure that women are not the majority) are the health cappers. You describe symptoms which have been troubling you and the capper, without showing any sympathy, immediately assures you that what he or she is suffering from is infinitely worse. There are people who are such incorrigible health cappers that nothing you can describe from a cold in the head to a major operation will satisfy them the elicit the same compassion from them. Their cold has unusually alarming complications and their operation has pierced to the most vital parts of their interior anatomy so that it is nothing short of a miracle that they are alive. If they cannot truthfully say that they have had these major operations themselves they do not hesitate to describe what their uncle, their cousin, or their friend's acquaintance has endured, in a way that leaves your miserable little ailment far behind. The more frank is, "Do not describe your symptoms to your friends."

Then there are the travel cappers. Wherever you may say you have been, they have been a little farther. Whatever you may say you have seen, they have seen something far more worth seeing. If you have both been to the same place, they tell you of something you have missed there which will make your visit appear to have been utterly futile. They resemble very much the book cappers who never want to talk over books you have both read, but want to tell you of a better book which they have read and you haven't. It is the same with an adventure. If you describe a narrow escape to a number of people, one of them will be almost sure to have experienced something more thrilling, more dangerous and altogether more astonishing. Your adventure becomes utterly insignificant.

But I suppose, when all is said and done, sport and games afford the best field for the capper. Fishermen are proverbial. No catch in number or size related by a fisherman to other fishermen will be allowed to pass without someone in the company going one better. On the whole, however, I think if I had to give a capper's prize in this class I should give it to golfers. There seems to be no limit to the variety of their extraordinary experiences and to the amazing prowess which even the greatest duffer among them seem to have shown on a particular course or at a particular hole or by some marvellous shot. They really appear to be able to go on indefinitely because, for talkers of shop, the golfer easily surpasses even the actor or the politician.

After all, games and sports consist in an endeavor to go one better. If you succeed you win, and winning is the object of the game, at any rate so far as so-called civilized man is concerned. You want to beat your opponent although you know it will annoy and depress him. There are so-called uncivilized peoples who do not agree with this practice of ours. They think it is bad manners and that it leads to undesirable rivalry and bad feeling. For instance, there is a tribe in East Africa who are fond of aquatic sports. They have a boat race. There is no starting place and no winning post. The crews just row very hard alongside of one another. If one boat gains an advantage it slackens speed until the other boat comes up level. When they have had enough they stop. Nobody and so everybody is pleased at the finish. There are no bookies in that country. I wonder if those tribesmen cap one another in conversation. I should think certainly not. They would think it atrociously bad manners.

There was a university don who was an unashamed and persistent capper (an intellectual capper is an absolute terror). He was very well informed and learned, but he became intensely unpopular in his common room by his objectionable habit of correcting statements, spoiling a story by anticipating the point, showing his learning at other people's expense and, in fact, generally riling all his set. Two or three of his friends thought it was about time he was taught a lesson, so they got together, turned up Chinese Chess in the Encyclopedia Britannica, studied the article carefully, practiced the openings of a conversation on the subject and then arranged a dinner party to which the don in question was invited. When the evening came all went well. Except for an archaeological story which crushed a young man who had related a discovery he had just made, the don was silent. Then they began. From ordinary chess the conspirators steered the conversation round to Chinese chess and, after a little very learned preliminary talk amongst themselves, one of them turned casually to the don, who still sat silent, and asked, "I expect, professor, you have written about Chinese chess." "Very little," he replied, with a languid air, "I contributed a few lines on the subject to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, but I have never pursued the matter further." After this they gave it up. He was past cure.

As a matter of fact, it is sometimes very difficult to resist capping. It would seem almost as if there were occasions on which it is your duty ought to be done. After all, if you have up your sleeve an excruciatingly funny story and you have succeeded in getting somewhere near the same theme, it is excusable to trot it out. It may have been at one time your own property but you do hear someone making a great deal of fuss over a story indigestible. It is only human to let him have your experience. If you begin to tell me for the fourth time for a first edition of Hardy and you have just received fifty pounds for a first edition of one of Jane Austen's, it is more than can be expected of you to resist telling him, when you hear that the owner of the club house can say he did the seventh in three and that he believes it is the record, to ask yourself did it last week in two, well, self-restraint would seem to be beyond you. And then as the conversation forms you of a narrow shave he had with a lamp-post while you yourself got into a motor accident and were taken from under the chassis of a motor bus, you cannot be expected to resist telling it.

Nevertheless, you must be careful and not let it develop into a habit. I appear to have been guilty myself, amongst others, a very bumptious young man who had just left school and been to places I had visited and knew people who were friends of mine. He gave a very bald account of an interesting place which I found myself bound to supplement by a much fuller story of its history. He did not mind. He then proceeded to give a quite inaccurate recital of a series of events in which I myself had taken part, so I felt obliged to correct him again, having put him right. Still he did not mind. Then he went on to refer to someone I knew, leaving out the whole of the particular person's character and action. I was just clearing my throat with a view to capping him once again, having found he did not mind, when I gave a preliminary glance at the faces of the rest of the company. I saw at once that they were quite ready to listen to him, but that they obviously thought that I was becoming an absolutely intolerable nuisance with my persistent capping. I took the hint, remained silent, and heard the young man subsequently lose an hopelessly muddled and inaccurate story.

So that the moral of it all is that although you may be right, although you may be justified, although your possible contribution to the conversation may be witty, apt and illuminating, before all, be silent to hold your tongue. The truth is that the practised, habitual—shall I say professional?—capper is not popular — and no wonder.

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop, at very small cost. They are a standard remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many mothers that think Miller's have found available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.

SHE LOST WEIGHT EACH WEEK

The Ideal Way to Reduce

A woman writes to tell how she is reducing excess fat—and her way seems to be the ideal way.

"I am 49 years old, 5 ft. 5½ ins. in height, and was 190 lbs. when I started taking a level teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning. I went down in weight—some weeks 2 lbs., others just 1 lb., until I got down to 154 lbs. I have never felt better in my life than I do now and I feel so much lighter and feel years younger."—(Mrs.) W. T.

The action of Kruschen Salts, taken regularly every morning, is to effect a natural clearance of undigested food substances and watery waste matter. It is that waste matter which is stored up in the form of ugly fat, if it is not regularly expelled.

THE VARIOUS CANADIAN MOSQUITOES

No fewer than sixty species of mosquitoes are known to occur in Canada, and a considerable proportion of them attack warm-blooded animals and men. In various parts of the Dominion different species are dominant, and, as the duration of the life-stages, the habits and breeding places vary considerably, it is of importance to undertake protective measures to know the species involved. Some species may migrate several miles; others remain in the vicinity of their breeding pools. Some mosquitoes inhabit open prairies and others do not venture from the shelter of the deep woods. Some are persistent in entering houses, and others are never to be found indoors. Some bite in the daytime, and others at night.

The most common species belong to the genus "aedes" and have only one generation each year. They breed largely in temporary bodies of water, such as snow and rain pools and river-flooded areas and lay their eggs in summer, usually in moist situations left by the receding floodwaters and drying pools. The eggs remain unhatched throughout the summer and winter months, and in most species do not hatch until spring. In the spring the transient pools of field and meadow, and areas temporarily flooded by rising river waters, teem with developing larvae and pupae, giving rise in early summer to hordes of bloodthirsty mosquitoes which haunt the countryside during the summer months.

Mosquito control in order to be fully economic and effective, requires to be maintained every year because the results are cumulative. Each year's effort not only kills millions of mosquitoes but prevents much of the egg-laying. Warnings have been given in various parts of Canada that heavy swarms are to be expected this year, because of the increase of the past last season when absence of effective measures resulted from dropping of the control programmes during the years of high flood level resulting from melting snow. Pamphlet 35, Dominion Department of Agriculture, deals with the control of personal protection against mosquitoes, black-flies, and similar pests, but when the officers of the Dominion Entomological Branch are employed on control work, they smear the exposed parts of their body with a mixture of two parts of oil of citronella with one part each of spirits of camphor and oil of cedar. It gives temporary relief, is not greasy, and does not injure the skin of the average person.

In women intelligence, unlike beauty grows steadily better with age.

THE TELEPHONE INDUSTRY

Three countries have a share in the invention of the telephone. Alexander Graham Bell, its inventor, was born in Scotland, conducted his early experiments in Canada and later perfected the invention in the United States. It is stated on the authority of the inventor that the first telephone talk over any distance was between Brantford and Paris, Ontario, Canada, on August 10th, 1874 in harmony with its early association with the invention Canada possesses the second largest number of telephones in proportion to population of any country in the world, being exceeded only by the United States. Judging by estimates made by the leading telephone systems, Canada leads even the United States in the number of completed telephone calls per annum.

There were 1,261,245 telephones in service in Canada in 1932, according to a report just issued. This gives a density of 12 telephones per 100 of the population, which is exceeded only by the United States, where in 1931 there were 15.8 telephones per 100 population. The density in 1931 in Denmark was 10.1, in New Zealand 9.9 and in Sweden 9.1. Switzerland, Norway, Australia and Germany were between 8 and 7 and Hawaii had an average of 6.5 But, no other country in the world has any telephone in every portion to population as Canada and only four countries, the United States, Australia, India and the United Kingdom, had a greater total number of telephones.

The number of completed calls, or the number of conversations, has also increased for Canada in 1932 to 2,319,354,000 local calls, which, added to the count of long distance calls at 27,219,225, makes a total of 2,346,573,225. This works out at an average of 1,851 calls per telephone, or an average of 221 calls per capita. Comparatively, in the previous year the average number of calls per capita was 236 in Canada and 222 in the United States. The estimates are based on returns from the 1,146 systems representing over 90 per cent of the business, and their data are based on counts taken from representative days during the year and actual counts of completed long-distance calls.

Advances Shown

While the number of telephones in service in 1932 in Canada showed a decrease from the previous year, the investment in the property and the wire mileage both exhibited advances. The record number of telephones in use in Canada in any year was 1,402,861 in 1930. Each year's effort not only kills millions of mosquitoes but prevents much of the egg-laying. Warnings have been given in various parts of Canada that heavy swarms are to be expected this year, because of the increase of the past last season when absence of effective measures resulted from dropping of the control programmes during the years of high flood level resulting from melting snow. Pamphlet 35, Dominion Department of Agriculture, deals with the control of personal protection against mosquitoes, black-flies, and similar pests, but when the officers of the Dominion Entomological Branch are employed on control work, they smear the exposed parts of their body with a mixture of two parts of oil of citronella with one part each of spirits of camphor and oil of cedar. It gives temporary relief, is not greasy, and does not injure the skin of the average person.

Constable: "Here, you've been walking round this square for an hour and a half. What's the matter?"

Jones: "I've got insomnia, officer."

Constable: "Well, you can't walk it off here. You'd better go to bed and sleep it off!"

POLITENESS PAYS

There seems to be very strong support for those who hold that politeness is the art of reducing life's friction to the easy glide of the Middlesex customer who refused to say "please" to the chemist, so that the chemist refused to make up the medicine to which the customer was entitled under the insured patient, and in the long run the case of both these obstinate people had to be settled by arbitration by the Middlesex Insurance Committee. It sounds almost like a possible variant of the familiar nursery rhyme "Man won't say "please" chemist won't fill bottle, bottle won't cure man, and won't stamp card, card won't pass committee," and so on until the whole function of national health insurance is set at naught merely because two cantakerous people wish to be rude and disobliging to each other. How much simpler to have said "please," for the price of a penny, so added a little oil instead of grit to the wheels of this magnificent machine!—Manchester Guardian

How to Examine A Colony of Bees

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Many people imagine that the handling of bees is bound to be followed by painful results. This is not the case, however, for bees can be manipulated quite easily once fear of them is overcome and a knowledge of their activities acquired. The best time to open a colony is on a warm day when the bees are flying freely. It at all possible, avoid handling bees during cold weather or when a storm threatens, or at night. Fear of being stung causes nervousness and a nervous operator courts trouble. To protect the face from possible stings it is advisable to wear a veil. Gloves may also be worn to protect the hands, but they hinder quick and efficient movement. When handling the bees avoid sudden and jerky movements, as these excite the bees. while the dropping or fumbling of a frame or super may quickly draw an attack. Some beekeepers boast that they can handle bees without smoke. Quite true, it can be done, but it is not advisable to by it unless one chooses the time very carefully or has a skin like a rhinoceros. Bees fear smoke and can usually be kept very quiet by it. Before starting operations see that the smoker is well alight so that dense clouds of cool smoke may be easily blown from it. When ready to examine the colony blow two or three good puffs of smoke into the entrance of the hive. Next remove the hive cover, roll back one corner of the quilt, or if a honey board is used slightly raise it, and drive two or three more puffs of smoke down between the combs. By this time the bees will be sorting themselves with honey. Too much smoke will cause the bees to "run" while too little may be worse than none at all. The operator must be guided by the action of the bees. Next stand the smoker within easy reach, then remove from the hive one of the side combs and examine it to see that the queen is not on it. If she is, brush her back into the hive. Stand this first comb on end outside of the hive. The remaining combs may now be removed one by one, examined and replaced in proper order back in the hive. Examine each comb over the hive and be very careful not to drop or injure the queen during operation. When finished push the combs together, return the first one removed and cover the hive. It may be necessary to apply smoke during the examination of the colony, but this is seldom required unless the hive is kept open too long.

All examinations should be as brief as possible and none should be made except for a definite purpose. Be curiosity only ruins a colony.

POWER

It is not always realized how much of the leisure which women's days take for granted, in our everyday life, are based directly upon Power.

On the farm there are the telephone, electric light, the gasoline tractor, the city water-supply and sewage systems, gas and electric cooking. Town and country are linked up by paved highways and by railways. These are some of the obvious examples of things which could not have come into being without cheap and abundant power to give wide and general effect to the inventiveness of man. The whole background of Power in every modern life; one has only to think what disturbance caused by a stoppage of the essential services which we take for granted, to realize the fact.

Power being so important, the citizens of Ontario may well congratulate themselves upon their great publicly-owned co-operative Hydro-Electric System selling power at cost in an ever widening field. There is no more necessary element, in the general recovery which has begun to be felt, than abundant Power. The Commission constantly maintains a reserve of Power to be made available as needed.

"Hydro" belongs to the people at large, but it is the creation of the Ontario Conservative party, which has devoted its development from its small beginnings and will continue to do so in the future.

Bishop of Ontario Attends Ceremony At St. Mary's Church

Candidate Ordained and Memorials Dedicated

On Thursday morning, May 10th, Ascension Day, a service of unusual interest was held in St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church, Napanee. The Bishop of Ontario, the Right Reverend John Lyons, conducted the ordination as a Deacon, of Rev. S. G. Jackson, and in the same service, dedicated memorials to the late Judge and Mrs. W. H. Wilkinson and the late Miss Grace Lloyd.

The Ordinant, Rev. S. G. Jackson, who has recently been appointed rector of Westport, is well known in this district, particularly in Adolphustown, where in the summer of 1932 he had charge of the parish.

Mr. Jackson was born in Sheffield, England, where his people still reside. In 1927 he went from England to the United States, to assist in introducing the Church Army methods. In 1928 he came to Canada, where he toured the country in the interests of the Church Army. For a year he was in charge of the parish of Wolf Island. After a visit to England he returned to Canada and entered Trinity College, in which the summer of 1932 was spent at Adolphustown and the same period of 1933 at Lyndhurst as assistant to the rector. A large number of the parishioners of Adolphustown Anglican Church were in attendance at the ordination service to wish Mr. Jackson success in his work.

Dedication of Memorials

The service of the day began at 10:00 a.m., when Mr. J. M. Simpson, K.C., a lay reader of the church, conducted matins. At 11:00 o'clock the procession, headed by the choir and composed of the Bishop, Archdeacon Dumbrille, Vicar of St. Mary Magdalen Church and the clergy visiting members of the clergy, formed in the basement and proceeded to the church. After the processional hymn and prayer, Archdeacon Dumbrille requested the Bishop to dedicate the memorials which were two beautiful stained glass windows, an altar cross, a set of ecclesiastical communion ser. The windows are in memory of Judge W. H. and Mrs. Wilkinson, members of the church some years ago. The pair of windows represent our Lord and Mary Magdalen on Easter morning, at the tomb. The alms basin rest and communion set are in memory of Miss Grace Lloyd, who died recently in Cohoes, N. Y. They were given by her sister. The memorials are fine additions to the beautiful fittings of the church.

Rev. Dr. Kingston, Preacher

The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Kingston, Dean of Residence of Trinity College, and was in keeping with the celebration of Ascension Day and the special occasion. Dr. Kingston said that Ascension Day brings to our minds three important facts, first that Christ is King of this world; secondly, the world is a spiritual Kingdom, and last, the spiritual is greater than the secular.

Speaking from the incident of St. Paul's visit to Athens, he said that St. Paul, on that occasion, as always, spoke on the authority of God and of the church. Paul found, in Athens, too great a concern for the things of God, rather than a concern about God Himself. To-day the same thing faces the minister of the church. The greatest danger facing the Church of to-day is not the opposition of non-Christian religions, but that Christians are liable to become too secular. It is the duty of a priest to speak plainly and with authority, which he gets from God and the Church. He must use common sense in his attitude to his people, and on the other hand the people should respect the authority of the minister.

To-day the world is in a state of unrest and uncertainty. A minister can have a steadying influence which he himself can acquire only by taking time to be quiet and to commune with God. Two of the qualities which a minister must have to be of real value, is sympathy and patience. Exercise of these will help a minister to be of greatest value to his people.

Candidate Presented

After the sermon, J. H. Coleman senior examining chaplain, presented the candidate, Rev. S. G. Jackson to the Bishop for ordination as a deacon of the church. Following questions by the Bishop and responses by the Ordinant, the Bishop completed the ceremony of ordination by the rite of laying on of hands.

Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille sang the Litany, which preceded the Holy Communion, conducted by the Bishop, assisted by Archdeacon Dumbrille, Rev. Thomas Leach of Amherst Island, Rural Dean of Lennox and Addington; and Rev. A. E. Smart, rector of Portsmouth, the Bishop's chaplain.

The musical part of the service was led by the choir, under the leadership of Prof. W. R. Eppes. Solo parts in the anthems were taken by Mr. Owen, Mrs. Smeall, and Miss Hilda McGrrer.

Visiting Clergy

The visiting clergy of the Anglican Church, included: Reverend A. J. Anderson, Kingston; Rev. T. B. Brownlie, Wellington, Rev. Rural Dean A. O. Cook,Barrriefield; Rev. James Dawe, Wolf Island; Rev. S. E. Harrington, St. Luke's Kingston; Rev. C. P. Heaven, Lansdowne; Rev. A. T. McConnell, Stirling; Rev. A. B. Payne, Belleville; Rev. A. E. Pepper, Shannonville; Rev. An unfortunate accident occurred on Thursday near Enterprise, to Raymond Vannest, 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vannest. While unhitching a team near his father's barn he was kicked by one of the horses. The boy was rendered unconscious and received, as well, a broken arm.

No one was near at the time of the accident, and for some time the boy lay unconscious on the ground. When the horses, partly unhitched, were noticed at the front part of the barn, men working on the road made a search, and found young Vannest unconscious. He was taken to the house, and Dr. Horton, of Enterprise, was called. The fractured arm was set by the doctor and the boy is progressing favorably.

Governments Pay 80 Per Cent of Trenton Relief

Recent Change in Percentage Means Saving of $2,000 to Town

Official intimation was received this week, from Mr. J. A. Ellis, Secretary, the Municipal Relief Department of the Ontario Government, to the effect that the request for a reduction in the percentage paid by the town, had been granted, and from May 1st the percentage to be paid by the town will be 20 per cent, the Governments paying the remaining 80 per cent.

It is understood that this will mean a saving of $2,000 to the town as the town has been paying a third of the amount spent on relief work. Previously the Government paying two-thirds.

Of the $50,000 estimated relief expenditure for 1934, $30,000 has already been spent, the Governments contributing two-thirds of the amount.—The Quinte Sun.

Council Has Received The Auditors' Report

Finance Committee Will Bring in Report

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Friday afternoon at the call of the Mayor.

Members present were Mayor Tustin, Reeve Hughson, Deputy - Reeve Wilson and Councillors Masters, Luffman, Eyler and Moreton.

The report of Oscar Hudson & Co., Toronto, chartered accountants, who have been conducting the audit of the towns books, had been received by the clerk. On motion of Councillors Mordern and Luffman, the report was received by the Council and referred to the Finance Committee, with a request to report on it at the next regular meeting, on May 21st.

Councillor Luffman reported that a complaint had been received from the Inspector of Weights and Measures that the weigh scales at the station needed attention. He advised that the guard rail be reconstructed. Mr. Luffman said the matter was being checked up by the Town Property Committee.

Mr. Luffman also reported that the condition of the dump at the foot of East street was the cause of complaint, because of the odor from it. The Streets Committee, chairman Councillor Mordern and Luffman, the report was the subject of investigation by his committee and the nuisance would be corrected.

Repair of Pavement Criticized

The unsatisfactory condition of the cracks in the pavement on Dundas Street, was brought up by Councillor Luffman, who said he thought the Standard Paving Company should be asked to do a proper job. He advised that the Paving Company had promised, last year while he was chairman of Streets, to come to town and make the necessary repairs, but had failed to do so.

Reeve Hughson said he was glad the matter was brought up, as he had tried, last year, to get some redress from the Standard Paving Co. He had never been satisfied with the job and when it was being done had tried to stop the work on main street, as he considered it was not being properly done. He said the only way to fill up cracks in the pavement is to chop out the holes and use a hot preparation. He thought that the work done was one of the worst jobs of repairing he had ever seen.

Repairs Cost Nearly $900.

It had cost the town nearly $900 for the repairs and the bill was passed by the Council, despite his protests that the job was not satisfactory. The Standard Paving Company had promised to come back and make the job right, but had failed to do so. Reeve Hughson asked: "What hold has the Standard Paving Co. on certain people in Napanee."

The Mayor suggested that the Streets Committee go into the matter and make a check up of all the streets in the town to find what repairs are necessary.

The report of Councillor Luffman and seconded by Reeve Hughson, and carried, that the Standard Paving Company be communicated with by the Clerk and be asked to come to the town and make the repairs, as the last repair job was not satisfactory.

The Town Treasurer asked for a ruling by the Council concerning the financial trading by-law. Miss Smith of Belleville wished to come to Napanee to one of the hotels and take orders for dresses which would be delivered at a later date. He was uncertain as to the license fee he should charge. After discussion, the matter was referred to the Town Solicitor and the Clerk for a ruling.

Motor Transport Crashes Into Two Cars

On Sunday evening at 8:45 a motor crash involving a transport and two passenger cars, occurred on Piety Hill, opposite the homg of Mr. W. S. Herrington.

Dr. Cameron Wilson's car was parked on the right side of the road in front of Mr. Herrington's home. Mr. Worden Jackson, of Cartwright Street, Portsmouth, driving east down the hill, pulled up behind Dr. Wilson's car for the purpose of changing drivers. A Eurford transport from Picton, with semi-trailer and four wheel trailer attached, being driven east down the hill by Roy Hobson of Picton, crashed into the Jackson car and drove it over the walk onto Mr. Herrington's lawn and then struck the rear of Dr. Wilson's car.

Hobson, the driver of the truck, was hurt in the chest and was sent to Kingston General Hospital, by Dr. D. R. Hall. The occupants of the Jackson car, Miss M. Evans and Miss Dolly Brewster of Gananoque, Harry Jackson of Cataraqui and Fred McDonald of Kingston, escaped without injury, but the rear of the car was damaged. Warden Valentine of Odessa, R. R. 1, a student of the N. C. I., was making the turn from Bridge street to the Belleville Road, and struck Leary's wheel. The boy on the bicycle was quite badly shaken up and the wheel was damaged considerably. Baseball Players Pay Tribute To V. Kilgannon

(By G. E. Gibbard)

One minute's silence was observed by players and spectators before starting the game at the Park last Saturday, as a tribute to the memory of Vincent (Ike) Kilgannon, sportsman and good fellow, who met death so tragically at Odessa, last Wednesday. The report of the accident came as a terrible shock to all of us, Thursday morning.

Baseball in Lennox County will be the poorer for the passing of one of the outstanding players of the district. Always a steady, hard-working, all-round performer, he went about playing his position with no fuss and we do not recall his ever questioning an "ump's" decision. For years, "Ike," as he was known to all, was a star infielder and pitcher on the Odessa team and last year pitched Yarker to a Lennox County championship, and was in the second round of the O.B.A.A. play-downs.

We always liked "Ike" as a pitcher. He was always cool under fire, and showed at his best when the going was the toughest. It is not on record that any Napanee club ever batted him out of the box and of recent years, he has been the most feared of the pitchers of the district by the Gibbard teams.

We pay our tribute to a player who played the game for the love of it, gave everything he had to win, and was a sportsman through and through. What more could be said of any man.

To the bereaved members of his family, we extend our sympathies on behalf of the Gibbard Athletic Association and the local athletic fraternity.

Additional Term Imposed on Downs For Cottage Theft

On Thursday of last week, Provincial Constable F. W. Barrett went to Glenora in Prince Edward County and recovered a quantity of household goods, mostly silverware from the home of John Downs. The goods were stolen from the cottage of Mr. W. B. Herrington, K.C., situated at "Le Nid." During the winter all the cottages at Le Nid Point were broken in and considerable damage done to them. John Downs is now serving a three months' term as the result of being found guilty of theft of household goods from the cottage of Judge Madden, at Thompson's Point. On Saturday afternoon he was brought down from the gaol and appeared again before the magistrate, where he was found guilty of the second charge and an extra term of three months in gaol was imposed on him.

In the trial of Downs and his companion, Herman Downs, on the charge of theft from Judge Madden's cottage, Mr. Herrington conducted the defence for them.

The injured are George Powley and Oscar Heath, of Odessa, Vivian Clark, of Yarker, and Thelma Aylsworth, of Westbrook.

Kilgannon and McGibbon were killed instantly and the other four received cuts, body bruises and were suffering from shock. The four injured were taken to Kingston General Hospital for tregtment after being given first aid by Dr. Munro and Dr. Lindsay, of Odessa.

Jack McGibbon was the driver of the Chevrolet touring car, owned by Robert Hamm, of Odessa. They were driving west, returning from Kingston. At the time of the accident a severe electric storm was in progress, with an accompanying heavy downpour of rain.

Evidently the driver did not see a truck, owned by the Clark Transports, and driven by Eric Ricketts, of Belleville, approaching in an easterly direction, and crashed head on with it.

The Chevrolet touring car was practically demolished. The truck was struck with such force as to disconnect its drive shaft and cause it to be dislodged and fall on the road.

Traffic Officer Rawlins, Chief Barrett and Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith, of Napanee, were called to the scene of the accident and are carrying on investigations. An inquest will be held at Odessa on Tuesday, May 22nd, at 2:00 p.m.

Vincent Kilgannon was well known in the district. He was a farmer and was much interested in baseball.

Besides his parents, he is survived by three brothers and two sisters, Seymour, Wilbur and Wilmot, Mrs. J. Heich of Odessa and Mrs. G. Moore, of Westbrook, N.Y.

Jack McGibbon was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. McGibbon of Picton. Besides his parents he is survived by his brother, Allan. The funeral was held at Port Hope, the home of his grandfather, on Saturday afternoon.

EDWARD LLOYD KILLED BY MILK TRUCK

A most unfortunate accident occurred early Monday morning at Sillsville, when Mr. Edward Lloyd was struck and instantly killed by a truck driver and owned by George Ohlman.

The accident happened at Mr. Lloyd's home just opposite the post office at the village of Sillsville, on the county road. Mr Ohlman who draws milk to the Acme Farmers' Dairy at Napanee, was coming to town with his driver's load of milk. He was accompanied by Durwood Hunter. Mr. Lloyd, it is alleged, was removing large lumps of mud from the road, which had been dumped by a tractor. The wheels on the left-hand side of the truck apparently struck Mr. Lloyd and caused every part of his body to crush him instantly.

Dr. Hall of Napanee, and Provincial Constable F. W. Barrett were called immediately and investigated.

An inquest will be held on Friday, May 18th, at 2:00 p.m., at Sillsville.

Mr. Lloyd was a fisherman who had lived in the Sillsville district all his life. He was 55 years of age and leaves his wife and a family of ten children One of his elder sons has worked in Napanee for some years as W. H. Hunter & Son, is also in connection with their milk business.

Daughters of Empire Hold Meeting

A well-attended meeting of the United Empire Loyalist Chapter, I.O. D. E., was held on Monday, the 7th inst, in the officers' mess at the Armouries. In the absence of the Regent, the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Alpine Woods, 1st vice-regent.

"Present Obstacles to World Peace" a brochure written by Mrs. Adelaide Plumpire for the League of Nations Peace Forum, was read by Mrs. Corkill, education secretary. These readings have been a feature in Belleville district for some months past and have proved most instructive.

Two new members made their affirmations.

A very comprehensive report of the annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter, sent by Mrs. F. E. Hooper of the Peter Robinson Chapter, Petcrborough, was read.

Mrs. Corkill was made a councillor of the Provincial Chapter, acted as the representative of the local chapter on the Armistice Day Parade.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

THE GRIM SEASON OPENS

During the last week the Minister of Highways, through advertisements in the public press, has been thanking the careful drivers for the slight improvement in the number of accidents recorded, on the highways. The appeal of the Minister comes at an opportune time. The motoring season is only just opening up. Soon the roads will be heavy with traffic, and the possibility of accidents correspondingly increased. The number of serious accidents which have already taken place in our county these past two weeks, is a challenge to every car owner and driver to observe all possible care. There is always the possibility of the unforseen and unpredictable element in life. But care, precaution and reasonable attention to details can do much to lessen the element of risk, even in driving a car. Tires which have become worn or have lost their resiliency from non-use, should be examined by an expert; brakes should be carefully adjusted, light adjusted, and all parts on which there is heavy strain, watched and examined.

In spite of all these precautions, however, the human element is the determining factor. Eternal vigilance when on the road, and a strong determination to take no chances are, perhaps, the two factors which will do most to prevent a repetition of the appalling loss of life which marks the opening of the motoring season in this area.

A LOSS TO THE TOWN

On Monday, wreckers started in to dismantle the curling rink on Thomas Street. For fifty years, curling was one of the most popular sports in Napanee. Great names are associated with its history: Dr. Leonard, Will Smith, E. J. Corkill, William Templeton, W. F. Hall, J. L. Boyes, Herb. Daly, W. A. Daly, John Geal Daly and a host of others, who have ever been prominent in the life of the town.

By reason of hard work and generous subscription, the present beautiful rink was erected. It sets well back from the street, and the approach was levelled out into what was, a few years ago, one of the finest bowling greens in the country. Here, in the summertime dozens of men and women enjoyed the thrill of keen and not too strenuous competition.

The rink itself possesses a beautiful and commodious two-story club room with spacious fire-place, adequate hot air furnace and well equipped kitchen and lavatories. From the club room the spectator looks out through great glass windows onto the playing rinks. There, night after night, players vied with each other in the "rearin' game." Now, all that is to be but a memory. The whole building will be dismantled and the investment of money lost, save what can be salvaged by the wreckers.

"These were thy charms—but all these charms are fled
Sweet smiling village, loveliest of the lawn,
Thy sports are fled and all thy charms withdrawn."

Those who have watched the situation as it has developed during the past year or two, have nothing but praise for the enthusiasm and generosity of the few, who have tried to keep alive the interest in this branch of sport. Particularly is this true of Mr. W. Smith, who was always ready to give money and time, generously, for its support.

There have been several factors, however, which have contributed to the waning interest in curling. One was that a few men who were experts at the game used it only as a practice ground in which to prepare for the tankards. Once these provincial meets were over, their interest ceased.

Another factor was the failure on the part of those who were responsible for the management of the rink, to cultivate the youth of the town and to secure their interest by means of a nominal membership fee, and organized games. Unless a sport is continually fed by the stream of young life, with its enthusiasm and friendly rivalry, it will dry up and die.

The recent revival of interest in hockey, baseball and tennis in the town, has not been because we have a few star players, but because the Welfare League and other groups are training and interesting boys, and because of the way in which softball, particularly has enlisted not the chosen few, but a hundred young men of average playing ability, in a healthy sport which entails no great financial burden on any player. After all, the true purpose of sport is to build character, to train the eye and the muscle, and to enable men and women to coordinate their efforts to a common end, as they wisely use their leisure time. If it fails there it has failed completely.

The fate of curling in Napanee should ever stand as a grim reminder to all lovers of true sport, that exclusiveness and selfishness is the surest way to its death.

FIND THE CAUSE

A number of residents in the vicinity of the Public Library are complaining of a strong gasoline odor in their basements. They have searched for the source of the fumes but, so far, have been unable to locate it. This is a case in which the town authorities should act. There is no danger of acute poisoning as there is from monoxide. But the constant presence of fumes in a home cannot but have a more or less serious effect on the residents.

It is impossible, without thorough investigation to find the cause. But, unless it is located the health of the residents in whose homes the gasoline odor is prevalent, will be menaced. It ought not to be impossible to trace the source of the trouble if a careful investigation were made.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

The Stevens investigating committee continues to hold the focus of attention. It has unearthed a lot of disturbing facts about tobacco. They have, for example, shown that few men have been receiving very large salaries and that the bonuses which presidents and vice-presidents of tobacco firms receive are often much larger than their salaries. To people unacquainted with the ways of big business, this has come as a great surprise. But really it is not so bad as it seems. The amount of money which the Canadian leaders of the tobacco industry have made is a mere bagatelle compared with what their brothers across the line have been receiving. In 1930 the president of the American Company received a salary of $168,000 and a bonus of $842,567, while the president of the Imperial Tobacco Company (Canadian) received a mere pittance of $40,000 salary and $102,087 bonus. In 1931 the president of the American Company received a salary of $160,000 and a bonus of $891,630, while the president of the Canadian firm had to be content with $40,000 salary and $67,564 bonus.

The vice-presidents of the Canadian company were likewise in a bad way when compared with similar positions in the American industry. In 1930 the vice-president of the Imperial Tobacco Company received $25,000 salary and $61,253 bonus. The same year, one of the vice-presidents of the American Tobacco Company received $98,000 salary and $505,504 bonus.

We wonder, in the face of these American salaries, how on earth the Canadian presidents and vice-presidents ever managed to get along on such a comparatively meagre remuneration.

THE LEAGUE COUNCIL MEETS

The Seventy - Ninth Meeting of the League of Nations Council opened in Geneva yesterday. Never in its history has the League met under more difficult and trying circumstances. With Japan and Germany outside the Council; with the breakdown of disarmament conferences and the consequent threat of a new armament race, the outlook for the Council of the League is son too bright. And yet to properly appraise the work of the League, we must accustom ourselves to the long view. "It must not be forgotten that the attempt to settle international disputes by conference and mutual understanding, rather than resort to arms, is a new thing in the history of the world. It would be too much to expect smooth sailing. It would be too much to expect that all difficulties would be ironed out in the spirit of unselfishness and good will. At the same time a start has been made in the right direction. That men and nations continue to have faith in the League ideal, to work for it, and believe in it, speaks well for the future. There comes a time in the development of any institution when the enthusiasm which marks its inception has largely gone—when the hope of achieving its aims and objects is too dim to inspire great effort and sacrifice. Under these circumstances the obvious course to pursue is to hold on. The Council of the League is holding on in spite of many difficulties and discouragements. But in the long run, the common good sense of the average man and woman will make itself felt even in Geneva. In the meantime, the Council is faced with a heavy agenda.

The League will have to provide the machinery for the plebiscite to be taken in the Saar Valley. This plebiscite to determine the future of the people in the Saar Basin was originally set for 1935. This must be taken under the supervision of the League, and arrangements will have to be made to that end.

One of the most knotty problems confronting the Council is the future of China. The commission of the League has studied the situation and is prepared to report a plan to aid in rehabilitating China. But in view of the recently expressed view of Japan, that she will look with disfavor on any Western intereference in China, the League's problem is not going to be an easy one.

Sooner or later the question of the traffic in arms must be faced by this Court of World opinion. Just so long as men are allowed to manufacture munitions, they will need markets for their goods. This is one of the most serious causes of international discord and unrest. Ultimately, the League must face the challenge which the armament ring is throwing down. But, in the meantime, it will win the unbounded approval of all lovers of peace if, even in a small way, it is able to make its influence felt in the immediate and pressing problems with which it has to deal.

There is no foundation for the theory that if a man can write good English, his domestic affairs must therefore be of importance to the public.—Lord Hewart.

Editorial Comment

BRITISH VERSUS DOMINION AGRICULTURE

It is not always realized that even now, despite every neglect, the annual output of British agriculture actually exceeds in value that of Canada. Here, then, is our dilemma: How are we to reconcile the preservation of this asset with the Dominions' necessity of finding a sufficient outlet for their produce. At Ottawa it was laid down in regard to meat (and the same might apply to dairy produce) that the policy of the British Government is "first, to secure development of home production, and secondly, to give the Dominions an expanding share of imports into the United Kingdom." That is an excellent definition of principle. But, in order to give it practical effect, the first need would seem to be a decision on the part of the British Government as to the extent to which they intend to carry the development of home production. If that were determined it might be possible to determine the approximate size of the import market and to afford the Dominions an opportunity of participating their production for export. If, after any further scaling down of foreign imports which may prove necessary and practicable, there still remains an inadequate market for the Dominions it would seem that their main recourse (apart, perhaps, in the case of Canada from an enlarged output of tropical fruits) must be to find such a market in the market for their produce by way of immigration. An expanding population is the ultimate solution of the Empire's agricultural problem. —London Morning Post.

THE CANADIAN BUDGET

Mr. Rhodes, the Canadian Minister of Finance, has budgeted for a small surplus in the current financial year without any increase of taxation. The last year ended with a deficit of $135,000,000, a substantial improvement on the results of the previous year. During the past twelve months, however, there has been a steady improvement in trade and the higher prices and the expanding volume of business should be reflected in the revenue returns. Thanks to the Ottawa agreements Canadian trade with Great Britain has expanded both in imports and in exports by twenty per cent. About a third of Canada's purchases abroad are now made in Empire countries, while in 1929 the proportion was only one-fifth. Mr. Rhodes considers that complete recovery is dependent on constructive international co-operation, the outlook in which is not encouraging. In the meantime it is reassuring to know that conditions in Canada as in the rest of the Empire are, steadily improving, so that she will be able to play a more effective part in co-operation for the revival of world trade. — London Times.

WISER THAN THEIR GOVERNMENTS

New Zealand accepted the five cents per pound imposed by Canada on New Zealand butter, but has made strong protest for objection to the imposition of an exchange duty. Canada has the right to protect her dairying industry, even though the conditions of production make high duties necessary, but it is very far indeed from the spirit of reasonable-ness which seems to prevail between the two Dominions when every parcel of butter that New Zealand sends to Canada is subjected to a penalty under threat of exclusion. Canada may retort that the obstructions which New Zealand has put in the way have placed in the way of mutual trade less serious difficulties than anything in existence elsewhere in the Empire. But it cannot be gainsaid that the peoples citizen of Canada, Australia and New Zealanders who, while recognising the need for some measure of protection for local industries, are indignant about the common disregard of Imperial principles of pettifogging tariff wars. — Auckland News.

Land Settlement

An effective policy for the relief of unemployment must recognize a variety of conditions and situations. The "First Report of the Relief Land Settlement Committee of Ontario," for the years 1932 and 1933, tells what the Provincial Government has done and is doing from the Dominion and certain municipalities to provide self-sustaining relief for families who are willing to adapt themselves to the land.

Much severe criticism of this policy has appeared in the daily press. As evidence of alleged failure, lurid pen pictures have been drawn of the dire plight in which certain settlement families have found themselves. It is natural that we should hear most from the few who have suffered misfortune and least, from the great majority who have found a new interest in life, with constant employment, and a sure foundation for future security.

During 1932 and 1933, 383 unemployed families were taken from urban centres, at their own request, and placed upon land in New Ontario. Of these, only 84 families have returned, leaving 229 families, a total of 763 souls upon homestead lands where they are housed and fed and in many instances provided with clothes. As a result of his personal survey of a large number of Relief Land Settlers, Rev. J. C. Cochrane concludes that "the whole enterprise has already been justified from the standpoint of the families and of the great majority of those I visited."

A small girl asked her mother: "If I grow up and get married, will I have a husband like papa?"

"Yes, dear," the mother replied.

"And if I do not get married will I be an old maid like auntie?"

"Yes."

The little girl thought for a minute, and remarked, "Well, I'm in a fix."

Government Services

In the year 1932, free government services at a total cost of almost $121,000,000, were available to the people of Canada. Many of these services are more advanced than those of any other government in North America, yet the Provincial revenues do not depend, as they do in some provinces, upon a Provincial Income Tax. Our ordinary revenue of $51,373,000 is derived chiefly from taxes upon luxuries, amusements, use of the highways, business, etc. The largest single item is the gasoline tax, $12,629,000, and the next largest are succession duties and the licenses for motor vehicles, $8,081,000, and $7,218,000, respectively.

Yet our automobile license fees are lower than those of other provinces. The cost of the Province for borrowed money, both in interest and service charges, is less than that of other provinces. Our roads are built upon a comparatively economical basis. Our prisons and reformatories are costing less to maintain from year to year. There has been a marked decrease in crime. The Ontario Research Foundation is discovering means of saving money for agriculture and industry.

POLYANTHA POMPOM ROSES

The fact that a variety of a rose is popular and recommended in Europe and in the United States, does not at all imply that it is the best rose for Canada. However, the Canadian nurseryman may never be at a loss, for, in the Dominion Experimental Farms situated in every province of Canada, he will find a wonderful storehouse of information and tested fact. Some of the most valuable additions to the list of roses are among the Polyantha Pompoms. These dwarf varieties, which bloom continuously from the beginning of the rose season to late in the autumn, have been tested out among other roses at the various farms and are very valuable as border plants in the rose garden. Because of their dwarf compact habit they are easy to protect for winter and hence are particularly desirable. There are practically two types of pompoms, so two lists are given below. In the first are the single petal varieties which give the most bloom. The flowers are in clusters and not always well shaped, but for massing they are very effective. In the second list are varieties which appear more like Hybrid Teas, and as a rule are well shaped and very attractive as individual blooms. They are not so floriferous as those in the first list, but give some flowers all season.

The Polyantha Pompoms flowering in large clusters are: — Aennchen Muller (bright pink); Coral Cluster (pale coral pink); Chatillon (light cerise pink, white centre); Ellen Poulsen (bright cherry rose); Katherine Zeimet (pure white); Kostor Orleans (crimson scarlet); La Marne (salmon pink, semi-double); Lady Reading (bright red); Mevan Turbat (peach pink); Mrs. W. H. Cubush (pale pink); Orleana (vivid scarlet); Orleana (vivid rose crimson); Rodhatte (clear cherry red, large flower, single); Triomphe d'Orleanaise (brilliant carmine); and Yvonne Rabier (white).

The Polyantha Pompoms with flowers of good form are:—Baby Lucy (coral and salmon shades); Cecille Brunner (blush white, shading to pale rose); Etoile Lauante (carmine and coral pink); Eugenie Lamesch (yellow, buds edged carmine); Gloire Lyonnaise (yellow); Orleana an Aaachen (fresh pink, large, very double); Perle dOr (hankeen yellow); and Tip-Top (cream petals, tipped rose.)

DEER ENTERS MILLINERY STORE

A deer entered a ladies' millinery and ready-to-wear department store in Oxford, Nova Scotia, recently. It took a look around to see what the latest fashions were. Then the animal wandered into town nonchalantly, but, not to be outdone by some dogs, drew up at the rear of the store, crashed through the rear window and emerged again out of the front of the store, breaking through the plate glass of the door. The deer evidently did not find anything to suit his fancy, since he took nothing away with him.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 20TH, 1934.

MATTHEW 25 : 1-13.

"THE FUTURE OF THE KINGDOM"

According to custom still observed in the East, in connection with wedding, the bridegroom holds a preliminary feast at the home of a friend. He then proceeds to his own home accompanied by the bridesmaids, carrying lights. There the bride is awaiting him. Jesus uses this common practice to teach an immortal truth. Ten bridesmaids awaited the appearance of the groom. Five of these had made the necessary preparation and had plenty of oil for their lamps. The other five had failed to make adequate preparation. Consequently, when the bridegroom appears, those whose lamps were trimmed and burning, accompanied him to the wedding feast. The others went in search of oil, were debarred from the festivities.

Several important consequences follow from a study of this parable as it bears on life. In the first place, it reveals the manner in which people spent the testing times of life. To all appearances the bridesmaids were identical. They were dressed the same, looked the same, and all carried the proper kind of lamps. But when the test came, half of the number failed completely. They failed, moreover, because they had made inadequate preparation. The storm doesn't create the rottenness of the roof, it only reveals it.

The testing times in life do not make character they only test it. We see this everywhere in life. People in the same environment, brought up under similar conditions, to all intents and purposes, are the same, but when an emergency arises, sickness, loss of position, sudden wealth, etc., they will not all act in the same way. Some fail completely, while others are able to stand the test with Christian fortitude and bravery.

Character must be developed over a long period of time. "The exigency of an exodus will not make a Moses. But it will take a Moses already made from the obscurity of an Arabian desert to reveal him to the waiting world. The conflict with slavery did not make Lincoln, but when a Lincoln had been made in the quiet of humble training, it brought him out into the larger service and by personality and speech led him to be the man of the hour." —Hibbard.

General loyalty to the King is not enough. Good works must accompany good will. The midnight crisis may come any time. The development of watchfulness is necessary to meet it. Inner resources of the spiritual life are necessarily acquired by long and persistent growth and training. Reinforcements in a hall have often turned the tide of battle.

ONTARIO
DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
MOTOR VEHICLES BRANCH

TO THE CAREFUL DRIVERS OF ONTARIO:

Congratulations—and a Request!

There has been a gratifying decrease in the number of automotive accidents in Ontario. There were fewer deaths in 1933, fewer persons injured, less property damage. The decrease in accidents has been substantially greater than the percentage of decrease in registrations.

To those drivers who helped in this improvement the thanks of this department, the thanks of every citizen of Ontario, is due, and you have mine in large measure.

But, we have only made a beginning!

Despite the improvement shown, there were 8,634 serious accidents last year. 403 men, women and children were killed. 7,877 persons were injured!

By whom? Who were responsible for these deaths and injuries?

The drivers involved were, for the most part, honest, decent citizens; men and women who are usually careful, who only take a chance now and then. They were of no special class. Some of them live in your street, perhaps next door to you. One of them might have been you! Every one of these drivers is sorry now—truly sorry—but all the regret in the world cannot restore life or limb.

The habitually reckless, callous driver is a known, visible menace. Against him swift action can be taken. But it is to the usually careful motorist, like yourself, that this department must look for help in making Ontario's streets and highways safer for driver and pedestrian alike. Will you help?—this season more than ever before! The way is simple, the result can be far-reaching.

Careful driver, respond to this appeal! Remember that it only takes a moment for an accident to happen—one lapse from safe-driving. In that one moment may occur a tragedy which the offending driver may never be able to forget. Every time you sit at the wheel of your car be safety-conscious. Watch! Drive safely always . . . all the way.

MINISTER

Toronto, May 1st, 1934.

BAY CIRCUIT

Bay Circuit, May 14. — The rain of Sunday evening gave vegetation a great start.

The cool nights reminds one of weather conditions in Western Canada. Frost has done much damage in places. Mr. Walter Huffman lost a large number of tomato plants by frost, last week.

Motorists will enjoy a drive out the River Road, these days. The green grass, the green leaves and the growing grain make everything beautiful.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sills, life-long residents of this county and community, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Thursday last. Neighbors and friends called during the afternoon and evening, to offer congratulations on the festive occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Sills are enjoying the best of health and extended their usual hospitality to their many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Sills are members of Gretna United Church, and Mrs. Sills is a member of their Ladies' Aid. Mr. Sills was, for years, a member of the township council and for fifteen years, was township clerk. Four of the six members of the family were present for the happy occasion. They are Mrs. Elmer Aikenbrack, Gretna; Mrs. Clayton Pretty, Hawley; Mrs. Eugene Hagerman of Mallorytown, and Mr. Ross Sills, of Napanee. Two members of the family were not able to be present, namely Charles of Toronto, and Roy of London, England. Your correspondent with hosts of others, join in wishing this happy couple many more years of happiness and success.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mellow and family, spent Sunday at Mr. Mellow's old home, at Camborne.

The Bay East Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. Mollow, on Thursday afternoon last, with an attendance well above the average. The program, which had been prepared by the Anderson members, was in charge of Mrs. A. Dean, the president and consisted of helpful readings and music. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Mellow and Mrs. Parks served lunch and everyone enjoyed the social half-hour.

Mr. Gordon Simpkins, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Asselstine, met with a very serious accident on Friday evening of last week. He with Mr. Ross Joyce was doing some repair work on the telephone line, when the pole on which he was working snapped off and threw Gordon to the ground. Not only was his left broken, but one of the spurs he was wearing pierced his leg, which is apt to cause complications. He is at present in Kingston General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Joyce, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Moore, and Mrs. Earl Howell were visitors at the hospital on Sunday.

Mr. Vernon Joyce has been under the doctor's care with a severe attack of tonsilitis.

Mrs. George Burtch is spending a few days visiting with friends in Glenmore.

Mrs. Taylor Spencer is spending a couple of weeks visiting friends in Kent County.

The special Mother's Day service at Bethesy was a real success, with an attendance of sixty-five. The Superintendent of the Sunday School, Mr. George Burtch, had charge of the programme. Several of the junior girls gave an acrostic and sang a beautiful Mother's Day song. The choir also sang helpful numbers, and the minister gave an address. Bethany Sunday School reports progress week by week. Turn out, Bethany people, and lend a hand.

Mrs. Bonnie Miller, who has been a patient in Kingston Hospital, returned to her parents' home, at Tamley on Sunday.

The Bay West Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. L. T. Parks last Wednesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. W. Dillenbeck, was out again, after her recent illness, and took charge of the business part of the meeting. A group, consisting of Mrs. Peter Huyck, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Chalk, and Mrs. J. Gould, took charge of the program, which was a very enjoyable one. Lunch was served and the social half hour enjoyed.

The Hay Bay Ladies' Aid held their monthly meeting this Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. W. B. Pell.

Mrs. Dillenbeck, Sr., who has been spending a couple of weeks with her son, at Hay Bay, returned to her home last week.

During the severe electric storm of last Wednesday night a tree was struck near Mr. James Miller's and a telephone pole near Mr. William Goodman's. The fall of rain was very heavy.

The Hay Bay Sunday School held their special Mother's Day service on Sunday, under the direction of Mr. Clare Sexsmith, Superintendent. The Hay Bay School children presented the acrostic and the Gosport School children gave a chorus. The choir sang a number, and the minister presented an address. The Hay people are trying to make their Sunday School a success. Will you do your best?

Miss Gladys Huffman, who has been spending a few weeks with her son, at Sand Hill, left on Sunday to continue her training in the Brantford Hospital.

Mrs. Howie, who has been with her mother, Mrs. G. Brown, for some weeks, returned to her home in the U. S. A. last week.

Sand Hill Ladies' Aid will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hambly on Wednesday evening, May 23rd, at 8.30 o'clock.

The Dassenoy people presented their play, "Her Honor the Mayor," on Friday night in Sand Hill Church. Every member of the cast played their parts well. The play carries with it an excellent moral. Unfortunate that there is not a larger crowd present. At the close of the play, Sand Hill Ladies' Aid served lunch to everyone present.

The Mother's Day service at Anderson was a decided success, with seventy in attendance. The programme was in charge of Mr. Allan Baldwin, the Superintendent of the Sundsy School. The music was under the leadership of a male choir, with Mrs. Allan Baldwin at the organ. Several children gave an acrostic and the minister gave the Mother's Day address. Anderson Sunday School is making splendid progress in their contest.

Anderson Ladies' Aid meets this Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. J. Cord.

Mrs. Feckel of the Parsonage, is still in Kingston Hospital, and at time of writing is very weak and suffers very severe pain.

Rev. J. E. Feckel will be in Oshawa on Wednesday of this week, attending the funeral of his uncle, Mr. John Shemilt.

Services will be held on the Bay Circuit, Sunday, May 20th, at Sand Hill at 10 a.m., at Hay Bay at 2.30 p.m., and at Anderson at 7.30 p.m.

Mother of 13 Without a Wrinkle

What a rarity!—a woman with a large family and an unlined face. Read this letter she has written:—

"I am a woman of 59, have a family of 13 children, and have not a wrinkle on my face. Some time ago I passed through a very severe illness, and received no joy. Kruschen Salts, and am a new woman since taking them. I have taken Kruschen for twelve months—not a small dose, but half-a-teaspoonful every morning in a cup of hot water. I think Kruschen gives you a feeling of buoyancy and youth that nothing else does."—Mrs. E. T.

Many minor illnesses, depression and worry — which are the chief causes of wrinkles — are frequently due to the presence in the system of poisons bred by the waste products of digestion. These poisons are the root cause of rheumatism, headaches, kidney trouble and other complaints which make people old before their time. It is the unfailing effect of Kruschen Salts to expel these poisons and keep the blood-stream pure. And a rich supply of pure, vigorous blood is the secret of youthful vitality—millions of men and women have already proved that.

And to the father, a splendid hair dressing and reliable shaving lotion. Persian Palm tones and refreshes the skin. Makes hands delightfully soft and white. Indispensable to dainty women. Interesting Career Of Horace Colliver

Farmer, Politician, Business Man

In selecting H. S. Colliver, M.P.P., of Picton as their candidate, the Liberal-Conservatives of Prince Edward-Lennox have chosen a well-known, popular, successful and experienced man. Few men are so well and favorably known in both sections of the riding. All who have ever had any dealings with Horace Colliver have always found him fair and honest, and willing to do all he could to help. Evidence of this esteem in which he is held by the members of his party, is shown in the fact that he has been placed on important committees in the House every year he has sat there as member for Prince Edward. He has done a great deal for Prince Edward County, and if re-elected, as his friends are confident he will be, it will be his aim to do all he can for Lennox also.

Mr. Colliver is a practical speaker. He discusses issues fairly and plainly. Years of experience in the Legislature have qualified him to speak on any matters pertaining to the Government. He is nothing if not sincere and fair. Both parties admit this and honor him for it.

Serves Both Sections

If elected, he must be awake to both the interests of the farmers and urban residents of Prince Edward-Lennox. Once a practical farmer and for years a successful and progressive businessman, he is qualified to know the needs of both. He has held posts of responsibility and is still in his prime. He is close to the Government heads and so is able to better serve the interests of his constituency.

Born on Farm

Mr. Colliver's story is not uncommon. He was born on a farm and, without special advantages, rose by sheer ability and a desire to serve, to posts of importance. Mr. Colliver's birthplace was in Hallowell Township and there his boyhood days were spent. After his marriage, he owned and operated a farm in Athol Township. While residing in Athol, he became interested in the evaporator business and in partnership with the late John Clark of Picton, operated a plant at Oakville, and later one at Colborne. From these activities it was but a step to the canning business. With T. W. Kinney, of Picton, he purchased the Ed. McCaw Factory, in 1916 and this business was extended to cover a full line of canned goods, such as jams and other products. In 1923, this plant was sold to Canadian Canners. In 1924, in partnership with G. E. Bonter, of Picton, he built a fine canning plant at Cherry Valley, in Athol Township. He is still interested in this factory which, last year, handled raspberries, pumpkins, cherries and tomatoes. For some years he was purchasing agent for all the Canadian Canners evaporating plants in Ontario, buying all the apples used.

Long Municipal Experience

In the midst of a busy life, he has found time to devote himself to political and municipal affairs. While a resident of Athol Township, the Liberal candidate is now reeve, he was, for three years, a member of the County Council, being reeve. Coming to Picton, he became a member of the Town Council, serving some years as deputy-reeve, reeve and mayor.

He was also honored by his fellow members of the County Council, in 1915, by being elected Warden. His record of service with efficiency, at that time, is still recalled.

Defeated Hon. N. Parliament

In 1923 he offered himself as a candidate for the Ontario Legislature. He was elected over Hon. Nelson Parliament, the Liberal candidate. Only once was he defeated and that was by the late Hon. W. R. Raney, whose majority was very small. When Hon. Mr. Raney was elevated to a judgeship, Mr. Colliver was elected as member, by acclamation. Each time he has been re-elected over worthy opponents, by good majorities, and it is anticipated that, again, he will be given the opportunity of serving the people of Prince Edward-Lennox.

Valued in the House

During the last session of the Ontario Legislature, Mr. Colliver served on six committees. He was the chairman of the Printing Committee and also a member of the committees on Public Accounts, Agriculture, Fish and Game, Private Bills and Municipal laws. Each carries with it responsible duties.

Mr. Colliver succeeded in getting the Government to pave 3.6 miles of road from Trenton to Carrying Place, a stretch of road that was impassable in spring. This is the first link in the Scenic Highway from Trenton to Kingston, via Consecon, Wellington, Picton, Glenora, Bath and Napanee, which should bring all districts increased tourist traffic. Increased property values, as well as providing a scenic highway.

Conservatives United

That Mr. Colliver was chosen Conservative candidate by acclamation is a tribute to his popularity. That eight hundred should attend the nomination meeting in Picton, shows the interest of the public and also that the Conservative party is out to fight to elect Mr. Colliver by a record majority.

C. W. Hambly Retires

Mr. C. W. Hambly stepped aside and let Mr. Colliver have the nomination by acclamation. Thus, Mr. Hambly leaves the Ontario Legislature, where he served his constituents well. He will be missed by his fellow members, said Attorney General Price, who paid a high tribute to Mr. Hambly. Lennox, which was behind Mr. Hambly, is swinging in behind Mr. Colliver, and Mr. Hambly is with them.

The Prince Edward County people know Mr. Colliver intimately, and are still solidly behind him. Lennox people, who do not know him yet, can be assured he is a man worthy to represent them in the next Ontario Legislature as a supporter of a government with an enviable record of advanced legislation and efficiency.

Trenton Tax Rate Increased by 4 Mills

The Town Council has passed its estimates for 1934, and fixed the tax rate at 52 mills, an increase of four mills over the previous two years. It is said that the increase is due to the schools requiring more, to the extent of three mills, and one mill provides for relief expenditure. —The Quinte Sun.

Boys' Welfare League To Attend Divine Service

On Sunday, May 20th, at 11:00 a.m. the members of the Boys' Welfare League will attend church service at St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church.

The procession will form at the market square and proceed to the church, led by the Boys' Band. Venerable Archdeacon Dunnville will be the preacher, and Master Billy Sharp soloist of St. George's Cathedral in Kingston, will be the special soloist.

Master Billy Sharp had the honor of singing at the service in the cathedral, attended by His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough, a few weeks ago.

W. C. T. U. Convention To be Held at Trenton

An event of interest will take place in Grace Church, Trenton, the 22nd and 23rd of May, when the United counties of Hastings, Lennox, Addington and Prince Edward Women's Christian Temperance Union will celebrate its Silver Jubilee. A very interesting program is being arranged by Mrs. W. T. G. Brown of Kingston, Rev. Dr. Semple, Belleville and Miss Rosamund Duff, world's secretary of W. W. work, as speakers.

It is hoped large numbers will attend, to hear these outstanding speakers.

Baseball News

BY G.E.GIBBARD

The Lennox County League is already to go and the teams get under way this Saturday, May 19th. Gibbard E's go to Enterprise and Tamworth go to Hasburn; Forest Mills get a bye until next week.

If the showing which Gibbard B's made Saturday against the A's means anything, the Lennox County League will find plenty of opposition in the Napanee entry, this year. At some of the League's meetings it was intimated that the other teams wanted an entry in from the county town, so that some of the teams would be assured at least of one or two wins during the season. They may get them but they will have to play ball to do it.

There is nothing so uncertain as a ball game. The outcome of Saturday's practice tilt surprised one and all, including the players on both teams.

In case you haven't heard the news the Gibbard B's took the A's into camp to the tune of 4-0. It looks to us as though at one crack, all this talk about the Gibbard A's being unbeatable in the East, was knocked into a cocked hat. We wonder what the experts from Picton and Belleville will have to say now.

Don't let anybody tell you that the A's were not trying. If they could have beaten the kids 20-0 they would have done it and had no regrets. The B's simply played better ball and deserved to win.

The box score brings out some interesting facts. The A's got 5 hits and the B's 7, the latter bunching their safeties in the eighth to score three runs, with a wild pitch helping their cause to score one in the seventh.

Walt. Gerow worked three pitchers each club, with Dorey, Pointer and Blaezitch pitching for the A's and Harve Card, Bishop and Fraser for the B's, each working in the order named. For three innings Dorey and Pointer each held the B's hitless but the former's mates lads turned loose on George Blaezitch and didn't stop until they had tucked away the old ball game.

The A's got three hits off Harve Card, but could not score on him, while Vernon "Snowball" Bishop held the big boys hitless during his sojourn in the second. Doug. Fraser held his old team mates to one hit.

The A's fanned 13 times and the B's 14, which is very far from normal. Bishop led the pitchers with 7 strikeouts.

The feature defensive plays of the afternoon were both made by the "B" team. Jerry Simmons, at short for the B's, made a barehanded stop of Wilson's hot grounder and threw him out by inches. In a double play from Fraser to Lucas to McCutcheon in the ninth, wiped out the only real scoring threat by the A's during the afternoon. The A's had eight men left on bases as against two by the B's.

The teams lined up as follows:— For the A's— Card, third base; Gibbard, second base; Brennen, catcher; Dorey, pitcher; Dunn, short stop; Blaezitch, centre field; Bentley (F.), left field; Sweet, right field; Wilson, first base. Pointer relieves Dorey in the fourth, who went to centre field and Blaezitch relieved Pointer in the seventh. The starting line up for the B's, was:— Simmons, short-stop; Kinkley, first base; Lucas, second base; Murphy, left field; Curry, right field; Bentley (Ted), catcher; Andrews, centre field; Switzer, third base; Card (Harve) pitcher. McCutcheon went to first base in the fifth and Johnston to left field in the same inning. Bishop relieved Card in the fourth and Fraser relieved Bishop in the seventh.

In spite of the cold weather a nice crowd of fans was on hand to see the boys of both clubs perform for the first time.

It is to be hoped that no one will get the idea that Gerow is going to carry both these clubs all season the way they have started out. Doubtless before the dead line, arrives, several changes will be made, and the boys of both teams are working hard to hold their positions. There are still two or three holes in each club to be filled but Skipper Walt has plenty of material on hand and should have outstanding clubs in both leagues.

The A's go to Kingston on Friday night to take on the "Ponies" at the cricket field for the first game of the season in the limestone city. Then they go to Port Hope on Saturday for another exhibition game.

As stated above, the B's open the season at Enterprise this coming Saturday and the first regular game of the local season will be played here on May 24th. The "B" club will take on Bellrighton while the A's will play an exhibition game with an outside team, probably Gananoque.

ROOF NOW AND SAVE MONEY

USE TITE-LAP

More Covering Capacity for the Money

"Tite-Lap" Galvanized Roofing is true to its name. Every sheet has nine places to nail across the bottom—only 4 inches between nails. The end lap is so tight as to be invisible, and it positively excludes driving rain or snow. "Tite-Lap" is a development of the famous "Rib Roll" which we introduced ten years ago. It has all the good appearance and weather tightness of "Rib Roll" but, on account of the re-arrangement of the ribs, each sheet has greater covering capacity.

Galvanized roofing or siding offers the utmost in durability—and "Tite-Lap" is the type of galvanized roofing which ensures easiest application, and most permanent weather protection, at low cost.

Tell us what you want to roof, giving ridge and rafter measurements and we will send you TITE-LAP estimate and show you how you can save money.

MOOSE RODEO RIDER NURSES BRUISES

A would-be rodeo rider has been nursing a few bruises following his attempt to ride a New Brunswick bull moose. In Kings County, a bull moose came into a lumber camp from the woods and loitered around, according to information reaching the Fish and Game Department of the Canadian National Railways. The men fed it and after a while it would eat out of their hands. One of the lumbermen, more ambitious than the rest, tried to mount the monarch of the forest but this was too much for the moose and the rider found himself on the ground.

Mother's Day Observed At Local Churches

Mother's Day, Sunday, May 13th, was observed in the three United Churches of the town by special services in the morning. The program arranged by the Ontario Religious Education Council, was the basis for the order of service in each case.

Grace Church Service

At Grace Church the program was presented at 11 a.m., when the Sunday School attended the regular morning service of the church. Assisting Rev. R. F. Richards were the Superintendent, Mr. G. F. Smith, and his assistants, Mr. F. W. Barrett and Mr. Smith Hamilton. Mr. Smith gave a brief outline of the origin and reason for observing Mother's Day. Mr. Richards told a story appropriate to the day, and the choir rendered an anthem, "Faith of Our Mothers". A pageant, arranged for the occasion, was given by members of the Sunday School. It was entitled: "A Procession of Joyous People", depicting home, church and world groups. Mrs. Correll, representing "Spirit of Joy," was the central character. Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Elliott and three children portrayed the "home" group. Mr. and Mrs. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. H. Seymour and F. W. Barrett represented the church group, and five young girls, Marion and Iris Seymour, Anne Young, Vera Simmons and Eva Elliott, depicted the world group. The musical part of the pageant was sung by Mrs. G. F. Smith.

During the service Mr. Richards conducted the baptism of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil McTaggart and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell.

Trinity Church

At Trinity United Church the members of the Sunday School attended the regular morning service of the church at 11 a.m., to observe Mother's Day. The church was decorated for the occasion with ferns, a beautiful bouquet of roses in memory of the late Mrs. W. F. Hall, and bouquets of carnations supplied by the Young People's League.

On the platform with Rev. Harry Pawson, the minister, were Mrs. Waldo Smith, of Selby, the speaker, and Mr. C. E. Graham, the Sunday School Superintendent, who assisted in the service. The printed program for the day was followed with some changes. Mrs. Smith, who has recently come to Canada from London, England, where she was a teacher for a few years in the slum districts, gave an address which was of great practical value to her audience. At the morning she spoke especially to the children in a way which won their attention and interest. Her observations on what fathers and mothers and good homes can do for the cultural and spiritual welfare of children were entirely to the point, and were appreciated, especially by those who have to their charge the training of children.

During the early part of the service a group of young men sang a chorus, with the accompanist, Mr. W. L. Gray, at the organ. The story told by Miss Marion Exley not only interested the adults, but compelled the respectful attention of the children.

At St. Andrew's Church

At the morning service in St. Andrew's Church the Sunday School attended in a body to observe Mother's Day.

Under the direction of Mr. A. MacGregor, the Sunday School superintendent, who assisted Rev. A. J. Wilson, the minister, the program outlined by the O. R. E. C. was followed. The musical part of the service was led by the choir and the Sunday school orchestra.

After the opening exercises and the first hymn, Miss Mary Buchanan told the story "Jesus, the Man of Great Joy." Miss Violet Vincent's class of girls presented the pageant, "A Procession of Joyous People," in which home, church and world groups were portrayed.

Preceding the address, Miss Lois Williams, one of the junior girls, sang a solo, which was followed by a reading by Miss Lenore Vallentyne.

Rev. A. J. Wilson, spoke on a theme appropriate to the occasion.

The Late Mrs. Arthur Hankin

The death occurred at Kingston General Hospital on Saturday, May 5th, of Mrs. Arthur Hankin. Although in poor health for several months, Mrs. Hankin's death came with unexpected suddenness, while a patient at the hospital where she had been undergoing treatment for a few weeks.

Mrs. Hankin was formerly Marinda Jane Hinch, the daughter of John and Martha Hinch, of the Township of Camden. About thirty years ago she married Arthur Hankin, and went to live in Watertown, N.Y. About three years ago, with her husband, she returned to Canada, and resided at the home of her sisters, Lucy and Emma Hinch, in Ernestown Township. Since her return Mrs. Hankin had made many friends, who learned with deep regret of her passing.

She is survived by her husband and her two sisters, Lucy and Emma Hinch.

A quiet service was held at her late home on Monday, May 7th, and from thence to St. Luke's Anglican Church, Camden East, where the Rector, Rev. Canon Spencer, had charge of the service. Interment followed at Camden East.

ALL CHANGE!

Making New Airflight Type of Tires for New Models, While Older Models Switch to New Tires of Old Type

This, in the tire industry and the retail tire business, is the year of change. To meet the requirements of the new streamlined cars, Canadian tire manufacturers, such as Gutta Percha & Rubber Limited, have introduced new low pressure tires. But, at the same time, extensive reconditioning of cars now on the road to put them in shape for the open season on the highways, creates a brisk demand for tires which were standard throughout the motor industry till this season.

Of the million cars and trucks registered in Canada at the start of the season, notes Albert Head, of Gutta Percha, 80 per cent. are reported to have been in service for four years or more, and 50 per cent. for more than six years.

"In view of the situation, we are naturally keeping a careful check to see that the stocks of the tires specified for models which came on the market during the past six years are maintained throughout the country," Mr. Head notes. "At the same time, of course, production of the new low pressure tires, introduced some months ago, is fully launched".

Mr. Head noted that recent surveys had revealed interesting information on the effects of high speed and under-inflation on tire wear particularly tread wear.

After 32 miles per hour there is a very rapid increase in the percentage of tread wear. Four pounds of under-inflation on a balloon tire will double the tread wear on 4,000 miles of travel.

Rubber laboratories, Mr. Head said, were keeping pace with all tire and tube requirements through such advances as greater resistance in the rubber used in treads and by built-in shock absorbers of live gum rubber in the fires themselves.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the agricultural rooms on Tuesday afternoon, May 8th, with a fairly good attendance. The president, Mrs. J. G. Douglas, presided and the meeting opened with the Ode, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The roll call was answered by "A beautiful thought in prose or poetic." A communication was read from Miss Medley, of Brixham, England, asking the Napanee Institute to correspond with her, and it was decided that the secretary of each meeting correspond with Miss Medley.

The auditors' report was presented by Mrs. Albert Reid. The convenor for the program was Mrs. W. T. Ellis, immediate past-president, and she, in a few well chosen words introduced the guest speaker, Rev. T. Richards of Grace United Church.

Mr. Richards' subject was "Education," and remarked that some of the theory works of to-day are very productive, and also rivie consideration of the salaries paid to college professors and movie stars, to-day. The speaker's address was very educative and interesting. At the conclusion of his talk, he was tendered a hearty vote of thanks, which was moved by Mrs. Nicholsin and Mrs. Correll.

Current events from home and country were splendidly detailed by Mrs. P. Hatton. Mrs. Powell, secretary, gave an interesting report of the past year's work. The membership of the Institute is 107 and the average attendance was 47. The splendid sum of $166 was raised during the year, and the year closed with a balance on the right side of the ledger. During the past winter the Institute donated considerably towards relief work such as the Children's Aid and Santa Claus Fund.

Arrangements were made for the summer sales canvazer, who will be here in the agricultural rooms, on Friday, May 18th, at 2:30 o'clock. Miss E. J. Guest is the speak' speaker and will address the ladies on personal problems in a practical way. Miss Guest was brought up on an Ontario farm and is an honor graduate of the University of Toronto. She was, for a time, head of the Department of English and History in Pelleville Collegiate. From here she was called to active service during the war, in hospital work.

There will be four other branches join with the local branch for this meeting, including Ernestown, Maple Leaf, Maple Ridge and Mount Pleasant Pioneers.

MORVEN W. M. S.

The regular monthly meeting was held at the home of Mrs. W. Withers, with the president, Mrs. C. L. Shaw in the chair. A hymn was followed by the Lord's Prayer. The business period over, the president gave a few minutes reciting instances that occurred during her recent trip to Halifax. Hymn 193 was followed by prayer. The Bible reading with comments, was given by Mrs. George Frolick. The roll was called and answered by naming a mother of the Bible. A solo, "My Mother's Prayer" was sweetly rendered by Mrs. Withers. The Christian Stewardship secretary read a splendid article on "The Auxiliary meeting today." Mrs. E. V. Denyes read "Eyes that see," and Miss Marion Hagerty read "By the stream," from the May Missionary monthly. After another hymn, the interesting meeting was brought to a close.

MORVEN LADIES' AID

The May meeting of this society was held at the home of Mrs. W. Withers, with 142 and prayer by Mrs. Hawley. Mrs. Denyes was appointed secretary pro-tem. At the close of the business period, Miss Lillian Babcock rendered a pianoforte solo, a duet was sung by Mrs. E. Wright and Mrs. W. Close, Violet, which was followed by a pleasing instrumental by Miss Jean Close of Winnipeg. Mrs. Rayeraft and Miss Gwendoline Amey read short readings and Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Close, Winnifred, and Mrs. W. Close, gave helpful suggestions. The closing hymn was followed by the Mizpah benediction. A delicious lunch was served by the members of the east end group and a happy social time was spent.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Ontario Pastures

Over 25 per cent. of our crops are out of every four of the improved lands in Ontario is in pasture. The estimated total returns on pasture in the form of live stock products from June to October yearly is approximately $40,000,000. Of this $34,000,000 is derived from dairy produce. Results from experiments have shown that by proper management and improving fertility of the soil returns could be increased from 100—200 per cent. on a very large proportion of pasture.

The Best Varieties of Grain

A new pamphlet bearing the above title is prepared by the Cereal Division, Experimental Farms Branch is now ready for distribution. This pamphlet lists the varieties which are recommended province by province across Canada in the case of wheat, oats, barley, peas and flax for seed.

A separate pamphlet prepared jointly by the Cereal Division and the Ontario Agricultural College, dealing with both spring and winter wheat in Ontario, is also available.

Help Egg Production

Two factors that have most to do with the revenue from eggs are the prices received and the rate of production. Unfortunately, the price paid for the product is not always subject to the will of the poultryman, but the rate of production is in his hands and his alone. A much higher yield is within reach of any breeder who will give some care to his flock. A good male has been known to pay for himself many times over. At one of the Dominion Experimental Branch farms, a careful selection of breeders has resulted in an average increase over the years of 72 eggs per hen, the production being raised from 141 to 114. The Egg Laying contests also have demonstrated what is possible to be done in good farm flocks. Since the contest started in 1919 the average yield has increased from 120 to 178. The average production in the 1931-32 contest was 175 eggs, and as this average was taken from a total of 4,370 birds, entered by 437 breeders in the 13 contests throughout the whole Dominion, the average may be taken as fair for the better classes of breeders in Canada. Further, the hatchery approval and control distribution policies of the Dominion Department of Agriculture at the disposal of those building up poultry flocks.

Protection for the Shallow Well

Water of deep origin has probably travelled some distance and been filtered through a large depth of earth so that the danger of surface pollution is reduced to a minimum.

If a deep well cannot be sunk for reasons of expense or otherwise, it is desirable to take great care to protect the shallow well from surface pollution. This may be done by lining it with concrete or puddled clay to a depth of 10 to 12 feet carrying the protection up one foot above the surface of the ground. Surface water will then be filtered through, at least, 10 feet of earth seeping into the well.

Oats For Hay and Pasture

The dry season of last year followed by a long cold winter has resulted in feed supplies being pretty well used up and many farmers face the spring with hay. Under these circumstances it becomes necessary to sow some kind of annual crop in the spring which can be cut later. For this purpose there is nothing better than oats or a mixture of oats and peas. Oats grow fairly well in cool weather and for this reason seeding some oats as soon as the land is ready for sea is get a crop of hay early in the season. Peas thrive in cool weather also when mixed with oats improve the quality of the feed. Two bushels of oats and one of peas is the correct rate of seeding.

Orchard Sod Treatment

A very interesting experiment in the comparison of two systems of sod mulch and tilled orchard management has been in progress for many years at the Dominion Experimental Station at Fredericton N.B. Forty-three Jamesave and thirty-one McIntosh apple trees are under observation. In one block, the grass is cut and removed as hay. In the other block, the grass is cut and left as a mulch around the trees. No additional mulching material of any kind has been added, and the fertilizer treatments have been identical on the two blocks. For the 14-year period, 1920-1933 inclusive, the average yields per tree are considerably higher under the sod-mulch system and clearly indicate the advisability of this treatment. With the Famesave variety the average annual increase per tree has been 3.33 pecks, and with the McIntosh 2.76 pecks per tree.

Sanitation in the Brooding Quarters

Colony houses are preferable for brooding chicks as they can be moved to fresh ground. Feed and water containers should be scrubbed clean daily. Litter should be kept clean and sweet.

Stands covered with small mesh wire should be used to place feed and water vessels on, preventing chicks from picking up disease germs in the waste feed soiled in the litter. Do not use mouldy feed or dirty water.

A POSSIBLE ALTERNATIVE

Apart altogether from the question of war, which is remote, Britain has an Empire to police and obligations greater than those of any other nation. By refusing to join in an armaments race she has made it plain, by example, what her desires are; it may be necessary now for her to declare herself more pointedly. If the Powers cannot be stirred into agreement, they may be frightened into agreement. Britain still has a trump card concealed. There is a possibility that Britain may illustrate the futility and expensiveness of an armaments race by threatening to participate to the limit of her resources. That would be a dangerous expedient, but it might be a sound corrective. Britain does not willingly seek this last course; but it may be forced upon her. If it is, the other Powers must accept the responsibility.—The Australasian.

FOUR MILLION STEPS IN GIRL'S 1300-MILE WALK

Miss Esther James, a New Zealand girl, recently started on a 1300-mile walk from Melbourne to Brisbane, Australia, in 77 days. She is reported to have stopped at a number of places on the way, to lecture and admire the scenery.

With her she is said to have carried a pedometer which showed that she took four million steps, and as Miss James's shoes weighed one pound, her legs therefore lifted the equivalent of 178½ tons. It is reported that several years ago she walked 1600 miles through New Zealand in 138 days.

The attendance at the Rally Day service on Sunday morning was very small, however those who were fortunate in being present enjoyed the service of "The Boy Jesus," given by Pauline Denison, also the address, delivered by the pastor, Dr. Smith, who held the attention of all present with a fine sermon. A. were guests and an attendance of thirty-five members and visitors was on hand. The president, Mrs. Smith Gilmore, took the chair and opened the meeting with a hymn, followed by prayer by the president. The president then read a paper prepared by Mr. Pentland, P. S. I., who has just returned from a trip to the West Indies. The paper conveyed considerable information and was much enjoyed by all. One item of interest was that the schools are practically carried on by missionaries in the West Indies, and Mr. Pentland had asked some of the pupils question which were answered just as readily and intelligently as by our own pupils. Though the schools are not modern and as comfortable as our own, the good work is being greatly extended in a large way. The spirit of thank-offering was read by Mrs. F. McLaughlin, after which a duet was sung by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Pinner, in their usual pleasing manner. A few verses of prayer were read by Mrs. H. York. The secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting also some letters of appreciation from members, to whom cards of sympathy has been sent in time of bereavement. Town Council Decides To Re-Surface Streets Renew Traffic Signs

Several Delegates Heard at Meeting

The Town Council met in regular session on Monday evening with the Mayor presiding and all members present.

A delegation, for whom Mr. J. M. Joyce and Mr. Cavanaugh were spokesmen, asked that some action be taken concerning the number of dogs running at large and doing damage to lawns and gardens. Dr. Morden supported the delegation as did, also, Reeve Hughson and other members of the Council.

The Clerk advised that there is already a by-law in force stating that all dogs must be tied up. Any ratepayer can invoke the by-law by making a complaint to the magistrate.

It was moved by Councillors Cowling and Topping, and carried, that the Police Committee put a notice in the papers that no dogs be allowed to run at large in the town of Napanee.

P. W. Barrett addressed Council with reference to a sewer from the house he is building on Thomas St., in connect with the sewer at Centre Street. As there is no sewer in that section of the street, he asked that the town supply the tile and he would pay for the digging. On motion of Messrs. Morden and Cowling, the request was granted.

Mr. M. A. Eppletl was present to ask for aid for the Boys' Band. He said it was a town organization with a present membership of 32, which had grown from the original 14. The cost of maintenance had grown in proportion. On motion of Messrs. Laffman and Masters, a grant of $50.00 was given the Boys' Band.

Mr. Fred Henderson, Mr. C. W. Buchanan, and Mr. G. H. Switzer, were present to place before the Council the needs of the Lennox County Pair. They explained 'the benefit accruing to Napanee, from holding the fair in this town and asked for a grant.

On motion of Messrs. Cowling and Topping, a grant of $100.00 was given the Fair Association.

Communications Received

A communication from Mark Taylor asking to be appointed assessor, was laid on the table for later consideration.

The Clerk read a letter from A. E. Wilson Co., in reply to an inquiry concerning accident insurance on town employees, either regular or relief workers. It was moved by Messrs. Hughson and Cowling that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee, to report.

A letter was received from the Standard Paving Company, acknowledging the Clerk's letter, and stated that a representative would be in Napanee soon and that the Company would make good any work it was obligated to keep up. The letter was referred to the Streets Committee.

Deputy Reeve Wilson having withdrawn, Councillor Morden presented the finance report, which was received and adopted. The request of the treasurer for a voucher concerning his expenditure of $3439.07, since last meeting, was granted.

Councillor Morden presented the streets report, which was laid on the table to be dealt with at the next meeting.

Reeve Hughson asked the Pire, Water and Light Committee to bring in a report at the next meeting concerning the action the Utilities Commission intended taking in the matter of water main extensions promised some time ago.

Reeve Hughson, chairman of the Market and Police Committee, said that complaints had been received concerning fakirs on the market square on Saturdays. He felt something should be done as such people detracted from the business of the farmers bringing produce to the market.

It was moved by Messrs. Hughson and Exley, that a by-law be prepared to regulate the matter.

The report of the Social Welfare Committee for April, presented by Councillor Exley, was printed the first of May.

Centre Street—a Through Street

A by-law was presented naming Centre Street, from Dundas to the swing bridge, a through street and making the intersection at Bell St. a stop-street.

A by-law to appoint an assessor was introduced and, on motion of Messrs. Hughson and Laffman, was referred to the Finance Committee to report at next regular or special meeting.

Councillor Laffman reported that the Town Band would consider giving concerts in Springside Park, if a suitable platform and benches were supplied. On motion of Messrs. Laffman and Hughson, the matter of finding the cost of building platform was left in the hands of the Parks Committee, to report.

Chief Watts asked for permission for the Chamber of Commerce to use the north side of the market square for a street dance, on Friday evening June 1st. Permission granted.

The Clerk was authorized to have printed a proclamation asking citizens to observe May 24th as a public holiday.

Streets Committee Report

The Streets Committee report was dealt with in separate clauses.

The committee recommended that, as the streets without permanent pavement have not been re-surfaced since 1932 and are in bad condition, that the work be done. It was moved by Messrs. Hughson and Cowling and carried, that the work be done this season.

The report further stated:—

"According to the statement of the Roads Committee of the County Council, last year, there was available from the County Council, for connecting links' and for 'designated streets,' $569.00

Of this amount, $218.74 was expended on connecting links. There stands to the credit of th' Town Council $349.26 for designated streets. As the levy for 1934 by the County Council for road purposes will be 1½ mills instead of 1 mill as last year, there will be available for 'connecting links' and for 'designated streets' an additional $853.50."

The "Designated Streets" are Dairy Ave. and Thomas Street. The question of construction of a roadway for heavy traffic on Dairy Avenue, has been a contentious matter between the Town Council and the County Council. I understand that the Chief Engineer of Public Highways for the Province of Ontario, agreed to make a recommendation as to the construction of this road, but we have received no report from him as yet.

The claim of Mr. Geo. Greer through the breaking of a spring of his car, is placed before Council for action. Referred back to committee, with power to act.

A letter has been received by this committee from Mr. H. Ohlman, stating that the radiator of his car was damaged when driving into his driveway through the ditch on the street. He is asking that the Council shall pay for the damage. Moved by Messrs. Cowling and Laffman this matter be laid on the table until the next meeting of Council.

The committee desires that instructions should be given regarding the marking and parking areas on the streets. There is a question as to whether this is not under the jurisdiction of the Market and Police Committee. It was moved by Messrs. Hughson and Cowling that the streets be marked as in other years.

After passing of accounts, Council adjourned.

Game Fish Fry Distributed in Ontario

Distribution of game fish fry from Ontario Government hatcheries is continuing this year on a much larger scale. Two cases reported yesterday indicate the steady expansion of the Provincial efforts to restock lakes and rivers of Ontario.

At Campbellford 1,350,000 pickerel fry were received yesterday from the Glenora hatchery for distribution to owners of fishing resorts throughout that district, including Healy Falls, Crow Bay, Bradley Bay, Haig's Reach and Cassidy's Bay. The shipment arrived in good condition, and was immediately dispersed to the various destinations

From the Government hatcheries at Belleville 100,000 young pickerel were forwarded to Col. C. H. Anderson of Dumbarton Shores and placed in Frenchman's Bay, recently. It is estimated that these fish would weigh five pounds each in two years. Restocking of the bay has continued for several years, with 10,000 smallmouthed black bass from the hatchery at Brantford, placed therein in 1933.

Napanee Drama Group Hold First Open Meeting

The attendance at the first open meeting of the Napanee Drama Group, held last Thursday evening at the Collegiate auditorium, was evidence of the interest there is in this new organization. Over fifty people were present to hear the first program.

Rev. Harry Pawson was chairman of the meeting. He called upon the President, Mrs. William Templeton, to briefly outline the nature of the opening program. Mr. Pawson explained the aims and objects of the Drama Group and expressed the pleasure of the sponsors at the interest being shown by the public.

The first part of the program was musical, under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Madden, the music director.

Miss Mary Daly sang a group of songs: "Green Sleeves," a popular song in Shakespeare's day; "O Mistress Mine," from "Twelfth Night," and "Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind" from "As You Like It."

Mr. Gerald Smith sang "Hark, Hark the Lark," from "Cymbeline."

Both soloists were accorded well merited applause by the audience, which was supported by the words of appreciation of the chairman.

Mr. Herrington Reads Play

To many of the audience, hearing a play read in public, was a new experience. Mr. W. S. Herrington, K. C., who is recognized as an authority on Shakespeare, was asked to undertake this exacting duty. His performance far exceeded the expectations of the audience. He has chosen to read the play "Coronation," a play not well known to many of his listeners, and he succeeded in leaving a vivid picture of the characters of the story. He synopsized parts of the play and read from the text, scenes which were of greatest value in the development of the plot.

The interpretation of the various characters by the person requires unusual versatility. Mr. Herrington proved himself equal to the task and held the attention of his hearers throughout the recital.

Rev. Pawson expressed to Mr. Herrington the thanks of the gathering and forecasted the type of future programs which will likely include the reading of some of the modern works.

The group will hold open meetings again in the early fall. In the meantime, the executive committee will proceed with their work of choosing plays for reading and presentation.

Tues., June 19 Chosen As Polling Date for Provincial Election

Nomination Day One Week Earlier

The date for the Ontario Provincial election has been set for Tuesday, June 19th. The announcement was made on Wednesday night by Premier George S. Henry. It was made very shortly after the Lieut.-Governor, Dr. Bruce, had signed the order dissolving the legislature.

Writs were sent out immediately to the returning officers of ninety constituencies of the Province. Nominations are to be held on Tuesday, June 12th, and advance polls will be held on Saturday, June 16th, and Monday, June 18th.

The election is the first since Hon. G. S. Henry took over the leadership following the appointment of Hon. G. S. Ferguson as High Commissioner to Great Britain. It is the third election the present Conservative administration has faced, since assuming power in 1923.

Since the election in 1929, there have been many changes in the personnel of the legislature. At that time 112 men were elected. Of these only 96 have continued as representatives to the dissolution date. The balance have died or resigned to take other positions. Less than 70 of the remaining members are standing for re-election.

By the Government's Redistribution Bill, the legislature has been reduced in size from 112 to 90 members.

Already many candidates for both Liberal and Conservative parties are in the field and within a short time all candidates will have been chosen.

"The Napanee Beaver" Installs New Type-Setting Machine

The Napanee Beaver has recently installed a new type-setting machine. The new machine is a modern Linotype, similar to that which has been in use in The Beaver Office in recent years.

The Beaver has been quick to sense the change in modern methods of merchandising and news gathering. It has kept abreast of all the changes which these demand, and within the past three years. The Beaver has completely modernized its plant. It has installed one of the fastest and most up-to-date presses procurable. In addition it has installed a large flat-bed press for job work. And now they have added a new type-setting machine.

These changes are the result of the policy of The Beaver to give the public its very best in service and in news. Modern merchandising demands rapid service and accurate workmanship on the part of the newspaper. The Beaver is now one of the best equipped weeklies in the province, has a capable and loyal staff and is prepared to handle any work that may come to it. No matter how large or small the order, no matter how great the rush, The Beaver can cope with it with efficiency, care and accuracy.

Annual Inspection School Cadets Thursday

On Thursday morning at ten o'clock, the annual inspection of the Napanee Collegiate cadets, was held at the school grounds.

Captain Mann, of Kingston, was the inspecting officer. Major Gilbert Howitt was the commanding officer of the corps and with him, in command were Capt. Webb, Lieuts. Wm Boyle, Don. Embury and Frank Callaghan and Company Sergeant Major MacKinnon and Sergeant Woods had been re-engaged at their present salaries.

The Boys' Band, under the leadership of Mr. M. A. Eppiett, furnished the music on the drill.

The corps was put through company drill and platoon work by the officers. Following the inspection, Captain Mann addressed the cadets and made some pertinent remarks on them. He pointed out some of the mistakes made in the platoon commands and the need for training of the leaders and the rank and file. In showing the boys where improvements could be made, he told of the value on their future life of learning in order to work to be put to, to be on time, to obey and to work together.

Captain Mann's criticisms were all given in the kindliest manner, with the evident purpose of bringing about improvement in future work. He complimented the band on their smart appearance, their excellent instruments and their playing.

Mr. Alpine Woods, of the School Board chairman, addressed the cadets briefly on the visit of Captain. He expressed his pleasure at the splendid showing made by the cadets and the good reports in the academic work. He promised to try and arrange for a school holiday for the day following May 24th.

Supposed Author "The Yellow Briar" Fictional Character

Many people have been interested in reading "The Yellow Briar," one of the newer books in the local Public Library. It is a story centering around the pioneer life of 100 years ago centered in the district of Toronto and surrounding country. The author, according to the fly leaf of the book, is Paddy Slater and the story is the life history of the author.

Naturally, readers have concluded that the author is now dead, but it turns out that Paddy Slater is a fictional character. The real author is John Mitchell of Inglewood and Toronto.

Mr. Mitchell is a graduate of Toronto University. He is a lawyer in the city of Toronto and operates a farm as well, on the Caledon mountain.

These facts lend even greater interest to an already interesting book, which contains much valuable information about early life in our province.

The more currant a state is, the more legislation it has.—Tacitus.

Unique Entertainment Attracts Large Audience

An entertainment of unusual nature, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid group of Mrs. Francis Nicholson and Mrs. George Miller, was held in Trinity Church dining room on Friday evening. The affair was called an "indoor picnic", and proved as interesting and informal as the average outdoor picnic.

The basement was decorated with flags and bunting. In one corner Mr. George Switzer and Mr. Walter Reeves dispensed lemonade and popcorn, under the shade of a large garden umbrella.

Mrs. Ross Gerow and Mrs. D. L. Tucker, as the Lord Mayoress in London and the Lady Mayoress, in fancy costume, led the grand march, which circled the hall at the beginning of the program. After the guests had found their partners and were seated at the small tables, the Lord Mayor acted as master of ceremonies and announced the events of the first part of the program.

Prizes were awarded to Dr. Wolfe and Miss Blanche Hawley for contests, and to Mr. Gerald Smith, who succeeded in locating Miss Trinity, who proved to be Mrs. Pritz.

With Mrs. B. M. Black at the piano, and Mr. W. R. Gray as leader, some lively community singing was enjoyed before the second part of the program.

Rev. Harry Pawson, who was chairman, welcomed the guests, and thanked those who were to assist in the program. The following musical numbers were given:

Piano Duett—Mrs. Black and Mrs. Seymour.

Quartette—Mrs. Eppiett, Mrs. Nicholson, Mr. Owen, Mr. Gray.

Vocal Solo—Mr. Gerald Smith.

Vocal Duett—Mr. Owen, Mr. Gray.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Eppiett.

Vocal Duett—Mr. Owen, Mr. Gray.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Denison.

Piano Duett—Mrs. Black, Mrs. Seymour.

Following the program, delicious refreshments, picnic style, were served.

Rotary Welfare Boys Attended Service St. Mary's Church

Sunday morning the boys of the Rotary Welfare League attended the service at St. Mary Magdalene Anglican Church, where Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille conducted morning prayer.

Accompanying the boys in their annual church parade were the Boys' Band and the members of the Rotary Club. The procession formed at the Town Hall and proceeded to the church at 11 a.m.

Archdeacon Dumbrille preached a sermon most fitting to the occasion, based on the text: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth." He spoke of the benefit to the community of the activities sponsored by Rotary and by others, who are actively interested in boys' work in the town. He particularly commended the efforts of Chief Watts and Mr. M. A. Eppiett, the leader of the Boys Band.

He addressed his remarks particularly to boys and children and urged upon them moderation in all things. Moderation is another word for temperance. In order to become healthy and clean in mind and body, it is necessary to discipline the desires of the body, which, in themselves are perfectly natural. He spoke of the benefit to the powers of self discipline brought about by the good habits acquired in taking part in organized sports and playing the game with other people.

During the service, Master Billy Sharp, boy soloist of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, sang two beautiful solos, which were heard with delight by the large congregation

Lloyd Inquest Verdict is Accidental Death

Inquest Held at Sillsville

The inquest into the death of Edward Lloyd, which occurred at Sillsville on Monday, May 14th, was held at Sillsville on Friday afternoon, May 18th.

Coroner Dr. D. R. Hall presided. Mr. K. S. Ham acted for the Crown and Mr. J. M. Simpson, K.C., appeared in the interests of Mr. George Lloyd.

The jury was composed of James Rikley, foreman, and John Hooper, Harold Hough, Hugh Box, Frank Gallagher, Frank Ham, William Craven, Morley White and Robert Merritt. Evidence was taken from several witnesses and after a short deliberation, the jury returned the following verdict: "That Edward Lloyd came to his death on the County Highway, at Sillsville, at about 6:30 a.m., on Monday, May 14th, by being struck by a truck driven by George Ohlman, death being accidental.

Several Witnesses Heard

Dr. P. C. Wilson, who examined the body of the deceased, gave the cause of death as a fracture of the base of the skull. Other injuries included a broken leg and crushed chest.

Mr. J. M. Graham testified, that he had examined the brakes of Mr. Ohlman's truck and found them in perfect working order, with no mechanical defects.

Provincial Constable P. W. Barrett of Napanee, told of the position of the body on the road, the position of the truck, the width of the road and other technical evidence.

Mr. Durwood Garrison, a resident of South Fredericksburgh, who was riding in the cab of Mr. Ohlman's truck at the time of the accident, told of seeing the deceased on the road. He appeared to be picking up something off the road. When he saw him he seemed to become confused, started from the one side of the road, then turned back and went to the opposite side of the road. Mr. Ohlman swerved the truck to avoid the man, but it struck him, while on the north (or left) side of the road. His body passed under the rear left wheels of the truck.

Victim's Wife a Witness

Mrs. Hannah Lloyd, the wife of the deceased said she was standing in the barnyard at her home and saw the truck. At the same time she saw her husband on the road throwing off lumps of mud into the ditch. She saw her husband struck by the truck and the wheels pass over his body.

Mrs. Lloyd, who was in a highly nervous state, while giving evidence, fainted and had to be carried from the room.

Mr. George Ohlman, the driver and owner of the truck, the next witness stated he was driving at about 20 miles per hour at the time of the accident. He saw the deceased some distance away, apparently picking up something on the road. He seemed to be confused when he saw the truck coming and started to the south side of the road. When the truck was swung to the north side, Mr. Lloyd started back to the north side again, right into the path of the oncoming truck. The left front fender struck him, knocked him down and the loaded vehicle passed over his body.

Unusual Promise For Huckleberry Crop

Last week, Mr. Robert Milsap brought into the Beaver Office, a huckleberry bush with berries which he had picked on a trip to Cloyne. The sprig was a mass of bloom and was intended to have on it at least 200 blossoms.

Mr. Milsap said the sides of the hills in the north part of the county were literally white with huckleberry blossoms. Unless hurt by frost, and if favored by suitable growing weather, the huckleberry crop should be unusually large this season.

Capt. Brown Speaks of Lawrence and Arabia

Addressed St. Andrew's Men's Club

St. Andrew's Men's Club met for supper, last Thursday evening, with the President, Dr. Morden, presiding. The feature of the evening's programme was an illustrated address by Capt. L. T. Brown of the Royal Air Force at Trenton. Capt. Brown is a Scotchman who was residing in Arabia when the war broke out. He enlisted in the C. E. F. and was transferred to the Black Watch. He went with them to Mesopotamia and saw service under Allenby. He was later transferred to the Western front where he served eighteen months until the close of the war.

The first part of Captain Brown's address had to do with the present Arab uprising. The speaker characterized the uprising as a clash of tribal chiefs. He believed that the newspapers had magnified the trouble out of all proportion to its real importance. Capt. Brown, who had traversed the whole area, described the nature of the country and the climate.

Intimate Knowledge of Lawrence

The second address of Lawrence of Arabia. Indeed, when Lawrence first went to Arabia, Capt. Brown was assigned the duty of caring for him. In a vivid and intimate manner, he told of Lawrence and his work and the part which he played in securing the Arab allegiance to Britain during the war.

The lecturer then gave the historic background of the situation which faced Allenby as he entered Jerusalem. He then showed lantern slides of the capture of the city of Allenby's entry. The pictures were taken from the speakers own snapshots, and were a beautiful representation of actual scenes in and around Jerusalem, when the British forces entered the city.

After thanks had been tendered the speaker, on motion of Anthony Brought in a close a very instructive and entertaining evening.

Rev. W. P. Woodger At Rotary

Yesterday, at the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club, Rev. W. P. Woodger of Cobourg, was the guest speaker.

Mr. Woodger, who is always popular with the Rotarians, was given a rousing welcome when he rose to speak. He entered his remarks around the thought of Empire Day. Briefly, the speker sketched the meth lines of development in the march of Victorian era. He cited the advances made in art, literature and science. He paid a tribute to the masterful way in which the Victorians had solved the problems of a growing and expanding empire. Mr. Woodger then urged that the solution of to-day's problems might better be solved in the light of the past achievements, than in an untried way of novelty and experiment.

On motion of Archdeacon Dumbrille, the speaker was given the thanks of the Rotary Club.

ELECTION DAY SET

Premier Henry and his Cabinet have formally set the date for the Provincial election. It is to be held on the nineteenth of June. This is the first election since the redistribution and reduced membership of the House. Consequently many a stalwart who, for years, has held a seat, will be listed among the missing when the nominations are all in. In our own riding, Mr. C. W. Hambly, who has served the Party faithfully and well, has voluntarily resigned the Conservative nomination in favor of Mr. Colliver of Picton, who will bear the Conservative standard in the Prince Edward-Lennox riding.

As the campaign proceeds, it becomes clear that the issue is to be fought out on new lines. For a decade, the liquor question has played a large part in determining the fate of Governments in the Province. But in this election, with both Parties pledged to the same beer and wine policy, the issue, so far as the liquor qustion is concerned, is a dead one, and any attempt to project it into the campaign will prove abortive.

The issue is clearly one of the record of the Government. The Government points, with pride, to its road building, its expenditures on social welfare, its success in fostering the gold mining industry and its support and encouragement of the farming classes.. The Liberals, on the other hand, take those same facts as an evidence of unjustified expenditure of public funds. They point with growing concern to the increase in debt since the Henry Government took power.

The discontent of the times, based on four years of depression, and the desire for retrenchment, would probably have found a much more powerful appeal had the Opposition produced a leader in whom the electorate had confidence. Mr. Hepburn has displayed certain signs of political sagacity, but he seems a long way off from the political Moses for whom the Province is looking to lead it out of the quagmire of economic depression and the pottashes of spiritual defeatism.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

Scarcely a day passes but The Beaver receives a request from one or other of the large advertising firms, asking if it is the intention of this paper to accept liquor advertising "if and when it becomes legal." To each of these we have replied as politely as we knew how that we do not intend to accept any such advertising. We have consistently maintained that the Liquor Control Act is working as satisfactorily as any control act could work. And that there should be no attempt on the part of the Government to push the sales of liquor, by means of advertising. Any attempt to further the use of alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes cannot but have a very harmful effect on the life, particularly of the young people, of our Province.

It is often charged, even against noblest characters that when their own pockets are touched, they will scuttle their principles. That may be so in some cases, though we are inclined to think that the cases are much fewer than some would have us believe. At any rate, the advertising revenue which we stand to lose by refusing to contract for the liquor advertisements will not swerve us from the course which we have consistently followed.

We have a duty to the youth of our town and county; we desire to see no undue temptations that would shatter their lives or the lives of others, shall be placed in their pathway, which is difficult enough as it is. So far as we are concerned there shall be no inconsistency between the editorial policy of the paper and its advertising policy. Our duty in the matter seems clear, and we are, therefore, declining with thanks any offers of liquor advertising "if and when it becomes legal."

BACK UP THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Napanee Chamber of Commerce, which has recently been organized, with Mr. Joe. Marshall as president and Mr. A. MacGregor as secretary, is about to embark on its first Community enterprise. For several weeks, the Retail Merchants' Committee has quietly been holding meetings and devising ways and means of carrying into effect their plans for a united effort on the part of all citizens. And, now, the public are let into the secret. For three days, beginning the 31st of May, an opportunity will be provided, by the Chamber of Commerce, for the people to enjoy buying opportunities. The merchants of the town have all entered wholeheartedly into this community affair. They have made heavy purchases, at reduced prices. The bargains they will pass on to the public.

The movement for community buying is not new to Napanee people. It was inaugurated by The Beaver, last Spring, and carried on by them, last Fall, again. So successful were they, that they have long since passed the experimental stage. And the merchants, by the Chamber of Commerce, are determined to make them a permanent part of our town life. Next week's Beaver will carry a special supplement, which will describe in detail the way in which the merchants are co-operating to the success of the movement. Large purchases by the storekeepers and rapid turn-over enables them to do what, otherwise, would be impossible.

These three days are, in no sense, an attempt to unload old stock. Everything is new and fresh. The thrifty housekeeper, who has to watch the pennies, will undoubtedly take advantage of the unparalelled opportunity for early summer buying which is being provided by the merchants. And those who have been waiting to buy that heavier piece of furniture will, likewise, find in these sales, just the opportunity for which they have waited.

To add interest to the occasion, the Band has consented to take part in the programmes which will be provided, and prizes of one sort and another will be offered. So that all that is needed to make the effort a success, is the whole-hearted co-operation and enthusiastic support of the public.

MRS. F. F. MILLER WRITES FROM INDIA

Peshawar, N.W.F.P.,
April 9th, 1934.

Dear Mrs. Templeton:—

I expect our letters have crossed on the way. The last letter from you was dated January 28th, while mine so you, by air mail, was dated January 21st. I wrote you again March 7th. Your letters are very interesting and I do hope you will write again before long.

Had visitors nearly all the time our people were away, so had not time to be lonesome. We motored all over, generally taking our tiffin with us and though it was winter it was warm enough during the middle of the day for us to have it out of doors. We motored, one day, to Shabkudar Fort which is the nearest we have allowed to go, where the war was last summer. Before reaching there we had our tiffin beside a very pretty river, with an abandoned fort for a background. Capt. Wood, who is the soldier in charge of the fort, took us all over and we had a wonderful view of the surrounding country from quite a high building. Beyond Shabkudar Fort is tribal territory and so forbidden. I had hoped the ban would be lifted and that we could motor right through. Capt. Wood says it is going on here that one could go to something every day if one wished. Like last year, every afternoon has a sports day or afternoon. Point to point races are popular, tennis and hockey polo, and all sorts of races. I go to the sports often and occasionally to the other things, generally to see the prize-giving and have tea with friends. Had lunch one day with Major Mackie, whose father was a Presbyterian Minister, in Kingston, years ago. You may be sure we had some great talks over mutual friends there. He is at Fort Landi-Kotal, about thirty miles from here.

A visit, one day, to the Government Experimental Farm, was great fun. After visiting around their large peach orchards, etc., we had tiffin under an immense tree, then, though it was late in January, we "each took a rug and cushion and had an hour's sleep right out of doors. On one side of the lawn where we were was a small river and on the other side hundreds of orange trees loaded with ripe fruit. By the way, we have had some Jaffa oranges the other day but really prefer our native ones as, though they are smaller, they have a better flavor. Mangoes are just coming in but I don't like them so I am not interested. They are decidedly an acquired taste.'

Not long ago we went to the Kyber —other times I'd gone we were not allowed beyond the last constabulary station but on this occasion about a mile further on to the barrier that divides the Kyber and Afghanistan. Here we had our tiffin in these hills. Our road they looked so fierce, I decided very attractive, after our tiffin there. The scenery in Afghanistan is that part is not nearly as interesting as that through the Kyber. About two hundred miles away is Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan and two hundred miles beyond that is Russia. Ever since the assassination of the late King of Afghanistan men were allowed to go to Kabul but not further but they can go by very special permission, providing they have the necessary military escort. Miles and miles of wire have been laid this year, but the king's murder stopped their going. Theres no vegetation on their going. There's no vegetation on here and there are fields of grain, the inside or very near the native villages I think. I explained before that these villages are not very large but are surrounded by mud walls and have, as a rule, a watch tower in the centre, the same as the British have in their forts. In these villages live a man and his wife, or wives if he's well enough off to have more than one, his other relatives from the tiniest forty-second cousin to the greatest grand parents. One day we went was perfect, not too sunny and still warm enough that we could have the top of the car down, so had a splendid view of the country all around. We, of course, had snaps taken as the scenery was pretty and turned out badly. Better luck next time!

The Royal Signals gave a dinner at their mess awhile ago and as we all were going on to the bachelors' dance and ball at the Dorbar we let everyone came to dinner in fancy dress except yours truly. I went, last night, to a fancy dress dance but you remember. This year I wore an ordinary evening dress. I went over to the ball and watched them for about an hour. The ball-room was very prettily decorated and sent the navy; numerous ships, etc. and even the Loch Ness monster was there.

Two weeks ago we were invited to a recital by the Royal Signal mess to listen to the Royal Signal band from Jubblepore. The grounds of the mess were lovely, the flowers and the pipe and drum band marched around the lawn. We sat on the broad verandah and watched them. They played so well but when half way through the programme it began to rain, then hailed and in five minutes the lawn looked like a lake. It clearing again after a while and everyone and the members of the band, having put on their rubbers, finished the programme splendidly, marching in mud-puddles on the driveway instead of the lawn. That night, we had the worst electric storm there has been since I came out. We seldom have them, but this was a real one. Next morning all the lovely flowers were beaten down and under the orange trees (which were in bloom for the second time) the ground looked as if we'd had a heavy snowstorm. It did not hear of the storm doing any special damage. However, the garden has recovered and is a beautiful sight —hundreds of roses, sweet peas, iris etc., and a pomegranate tree, with its lovely red blossoms in between two orange trees, with still a few white blossoms and a number of green oranges, is something worth seeing.

We've house-cleaned twice since January and though I didn't turn my hand over to do a thing, I had to be Johnny-on-the-spot or everything would have been put back in the same condition it was when taken out There are what are called "white ants" which eat up everything, particularly anything woolen, so the carpets have to be taken up every month and well beaten. There were six servants beating the carpets. They dont do a regular beater as we do; each man has an individual stick and they work three at a side, the carpet being hung over a line. When brushing down the walls they use a long stick with a bunch of leaves tied on one end.

PORTRAYED VIVIDLY MANY IMPROVEMENTS

It is not generally known that DePoe, the author of the noted imaginative work "Robinson Crusoe" contributed many original and ingenious essays on social science. The book of "Robinson Crusoe" is Tobago Island in the British West Indies which are being visited by an increasing number of Canadians yearly to these sunny holiday isles of southern waters. In a work which he published in 1697 entitled "Essays on Projects" he gave expression to ideas often far in advance of his own times. He was with much sagacity on the science of banking. In this work would appear to be harsh rank, not only of modern branch banks, but of the corporation stock so much in evidence in their early days of the highways, he anticipated by more than two hundred years, the appointment of railway commissioners He turned to the Roman system of highways and supplied details of dimensions, drainage, paving and materials. He also wrote other essays on the higher education of women, on assurance, on the law of bankruptcy and on a national pension scheme. In many directions he was a genuine pioneer in sociological and economic directions, and while the world has been slowly realizing many of the projects he advanced, it is practically unaware of their literary origin.

He also published a newspaper called "The Review" which ran from 1704 to 1713 and wrote some supposititious history so vivid that one is inclined to doubt that they were the works of imagination and not reality.

AUSTRALIANS SAID TO BE GROWING TOO TALL

So steady is the increase in the height and weight of the average Australian, that Dr. Janet Greig of Victoria, visualises the time when it will be a serious inconvenience. "Already," she says, "doorways in trains and trams are too low for many men and soon, the average bed and ship's berth will be too short for a long time I have been astonished at the amazing height of our adolescents [illegible] but in recent years it is the height of girls aged 12 and 13 years that is surprising."

Dr. Greig, who is inspector for the Education Department, referred to statistics of evarges taken out on two groups over an interval of ten years. These showed that a like Australorian child in 1922 was taller and heavier at every age than in 1912. Freedom, sunshine and open-air life are one of the causes to which she attributed these symptoms of good health.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, MAY 27TH, 1934

MATTHEW 25 : 31 - 46

"THE LAST JUDGMENT"

The passage for our study, this week, is one of the most beautiful in all literature. It is peculiar to Matthew. There are no parallel passages in any of the other gospels. Though ideas of a similar kind seem to be found, for example, in Mark 9, 37 and Matt 20, 41-42.

In the Jewish world of Jesus' day the people were eagerly looking forward to the end of the world. They believed that the present world order was in its last stages, that it was soon to be wiped out and a new Kingdom to be set up in its stead. But before the opening of God's Kingdom there was to be a judgment at which the Messiah would act as Judge, in the name of God. He was to separate the righteous as members of that Kingdom and the evil wicked to be punished. The standard by which the division was to be made was the Mosaic Law. Those who had obeyed the Mosaic Law would be honorably rewarded, while those who had not kept it would be condemned to eternal punishment.

In this chapter the idea of a Kingdom, and a Judge separating the good from the bad, is carried over into Christian picture. The only difference is that in Christ's description the standard of judgment is to be not the Mosaic Law but loyalty to Jesus, as shown by a life lived in His spirit.

The lines which ordinarily divide men are done away with. There is no class line, no creedal line, no racial demarcation. A new and totally different distinction is drawn, a distinction between those who have done the Christ-like deeds of mercy and love, and those who have neglected those humble but brotherly acts.

Jesus, however, did not intend to teach by this, that an occasional crust to a beggar or a cheque made out to a good cause is a sufficient substitute for habitual goodness. Kindness is an attribute of character and has to be learned. The alms-giving is the outgoing of a noble spirit which can be kept alive only by our constant contact with Christ Himself.

The parable shows the surprise of those who find themselves on the right hand in the judgment. They had been so absorbed in their deeds of simple kindness and love that they never counted them or cashed in on them. "When saw we thee hungry," they exclaim when they are selected those acts were at a loss to know why they should be placed on the left. They had done no glaring wrong. No positive crime could be charged up to them. They had been law-abiding, respectable citizens. Like many since they had been so accustomed to judge by standards of conformity to conventional goodness that they were surprised to find that the judgments of Christ were on other lines.

The points which might be stressed in the lesson then are: (1) The solidarity of mankind; (2) the standards by which Jesus judges men; (3) the Unity of Christ and the believer; (4) the necessity of sharing with one another; (5) Love, the motive of life.

Editorial Comment

REVIEWING THE OTTAWA POLICIES

The correspondence between the New Zealand Government and our own puts the Ottawa agreements in what, to some people, seems to be a new light, though it was always in reality obvious enough where they were going to lead. In a nationally constituted world, and still more in a nationally constituted Empire, each national unit would concentrate mainly on those industries, agricultural or manufacturing, for which natural conditions or inherited skill, or even the accident of habit, best qualified it, and the products of each would be exchanged against the products of others. Yet when one of our own Dominions, New Zealand, urges precisely this, proposing to admit British manufactures into it more freely against a freer admission of her own dairy products in Britain, the British Government prevaricates and if it does not say flatly No, very emphatically refuses to say anything likes Yes. If New Zealand produce can once unsubsidised—an important point which needs attention in Wellington—to this country, and sell at lower prices than the domestic product, it is a serious matter to penalise consumers by making them pay the higher figure, and at the same time to penalise home manufacturers by turning down the New Zealand offer of freer entry for their goods.—London Spertator.

CANCER RESEARCH

The newer methods in cancer research are in their early stages. It is too soon to expect much from them. On the other hand they give promise of leading to real and lasting advances. They are getting us into closer contact with the enemy. They have shown us that cancer is to be respected, and that it is appallingly natural. They have made it clear that we are in for long war—one in which an attitude of patience, the increased support of research, and institutions with permanency of organization are essential. They have shown, however, given us renewed hope and encouragement to strengthen us in working for eventual victory.—Clarence Cook Little in The Forum (New York.).

MAN-MADE: MAN-PREVENTED

Abroad, dictators bend their energies to preparing their peoples for what is euphemistically called national defence. Exponents of dictatorship propounded the doctrine that war is a salutary thing—that death on the battlefield is glorious. Does this mean that war is inevitable? If people believe that, war will arrive as inevitably as the equinox. Equally, if people thrust, this poisonous idea of inevitability aside, work incessantly against war, strive day-by-day, to perfect the machinery of peace, the dreaded tragedy will never arrive. Wars are made by man—they can be prevented by man.— London Daily Herald.

THE CANADIAN SCENE

In the meantime interest in all these questions is being intensified by the proceedings of the Stevens Committee, which was set up three months ago by the House of Commons to inquire into business practices in Canada. The main object of the Committee is to discover the causes of the wide spread between the prices paid by consumers and the returns received by producers; but its terms of reference were deliberately framed to enable it to investigate allegations of sweating, of unfair methods employed by department and chain stores to crush the small retailer out of existence, of malpractices in the flotation of industrial companies, and the manipulation of stocks. Some of the evidence given has been very disquieting, and has strengthened the agitation for industrial regulation. Another investigation is being conducted by the Banking and Commerce Committee, to which the Bill for the revision of the Bank Act has been referred. It is not only inquiring into the working of the banking system but also into the fundamental principles of financial and monetary policy and is giving a careful hearing to witnesses from all camps, some of whom have propounded extraordinary theories and suggested the most revolutionary remedies for the depression. Many Canadians are frankly uneasy over these developments, but there is a robust commonsense in Canada which should reassure the alarmists. They may be confident that what is sound in the old system will survive the present ordeal, and will perhaps be all the stronger for having been put to the question and compelled to justify itself in the light of present conditions.—London Times.

EXCESS FAT DUE TO RHEUMATISM

ONE REMEDY FOR THE TWO TROUBLES

Having rheumatism so badly that she could scarcely walk, this woman began to put on a load of superfluous flesh. In a letter just received, she writes:—

"I had a severe attack of rheumatism in both knees. It was so bad that for three weeks I could not put my feet to the ground. I was also getting terribly fat — through not getting the usual exercise. I started taking Kruschen, and persevered. The first thing I noticed was the tonic effect it had; the next that my rheumatism went, and — better than anything—I lost the wretched fat. I am a woman of 50, and when I tell you I do exactly the same work as women half my age without one least difficulty, I think you will understand why I swear by Kruschen Salts and recommend them wherever I go."—M. E.

The six salts of Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day the wastage and poisons that encumber the system. Then, little by little, that ugly fat goes—slowly, yes—but surely. The rheumatism and headaches disappear. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life.

Is The Cheese Industry Worth Saving?

At the present time approximately 26,000 farmers are depending for their principal cash income, on milk that is being manufactured into cheese, yet our principal market, Great Britain, is rapidly being lost to our chief competitor, New Zealand. For instance, as shown by a recent report of the Dairy Commissioner, our respective positions on that market for the year 1923 to 1932 are :—

	1923 lbs.	1932 lbs.
Canada	112,180,544	83,604,464
New Zealand	153,299,243	227,567,216

A decrease for Canada in the period of 1923 to 1932 of 28.4 per cent. and an increase for New Zealand in the same period, of 35.4 per cent.

The chief reason for this condition may be attributed to the price at which New Zealand is willing to sell their cheese as compared to what we are asking or is it because the New Zealand producers are spending more money to advertise and bring their goods before the British public. In 1932 N. Zealand spent $50,000 advertising various New Zealand products and this year $150,000 is to be spent. The principal type of advertising followed is the giving of prizes for the best display every window displaying New Zealand products. This no doubt keeps before the British consumer the New Zealand cheese, but it is stimulating the good will of the grocery monopoly who is in a direct contact between the consumer and the distributing agency this may have a marked quality of product, due principally to the fact that our cheese is made from unpasteurized milk, whereas that of New Zealand is made from pasteurized. Pasteurization is detrimental to a favorable development in the maturing process. The premium asked or our cheese over the competitor is around two cents per pound, and with a quality that approaches that of the finest English and Scotch Cheddars, it appears that in taking a lead out of the book of New Zealand we would undoubtedly be able to market our goods more advantageously for the producer.

The cheese industry — a very old branch of the dairy industry in this province is at the present time facing the most critical period in its history. Factories are closing down because of lack of milk; factories that are turned on, not being supplied; others are becoming so small in output tha they are near the point where it is uneconomical for them to operate, with the result that a large percentage of the milk that was used for cheese, is finding its way to creameries. Butter on an export basis is not profitable to the farmer. Ontario butter in Great Britain has no place insofar as quality is concerned. Our cheese is considered the finest, along with Scotch and English Cheddars yet the position that faces us today is that the trend is towards decreased production in cheese and increased production in butter. Will this trend be stopped this year? If so, what will stop it? Before answering this question, let us deal with solutions to the existing conditions as viewed by some authorities.

One school holds to the opinion that by doubling or trebling our production, we would remain our position on the British market. This opinion is based on the argument that due to our low production, the British importers have become disinterested because of a lack of continuity of supply. Another school maintains that increased production through better bulls and the elimination of poor cows, would put our producers in a better position to compete with New Zealand whose production per cow is greatly in excess of our own. The next school adheres to the policy that development of the home market is the solution, pointing out that our consumption of 8½ lbs. is greatly below that of other countries, Great Britain, for instance, consuming 42½ lbs. per capita. The opinion of the writer is that all three are essential but as considerable time is necessary to develop them, and as something of a more immediate nature is absolutely essential if we are to save the industry, we will have to look elsewhere.

This brings me to the question in the previous paragraph, "Will this trend be stopped this year? If so, what will stop it?" My answer to this most difficult question is just "Interest"—interest on the part of the producer for his industry. The cheese industry is, and has been, suffering from lack of interest by the producer himself for the past fifteen years with the result that it has been neglected and other channels for the disposal of milk have been utilized which have not always proved profitable to the farmer.

The writer, in his capacity of Secretary-Treasurer and Organizer of the newly-formed Ontario Cheesemakers' Association, has had the privilege during the past three months of addressing large meetings of cheese patrons in every cheese producing county in the Province. These meetings have been held in the afternoons and evenings and farmers have travelled long distances to attend them at the sacrifice of their time which is so valuable to them at this season of the year. They are looking for leadership today because they realize now that the time has come when more interest must be shown by themselves in their own industry. This newly-formed association has been financed by the Provincial Government. The Ontario Dairy Development has in charge a staff of high calibre of its instructors, and the Agricultural Representatives are always willing to lend their co-operation. Never before has there been the interest shown by the producers in the cheese industry, and never before has there been such an opportunity for them to reanize for the purpose of looking after their own business. With such an organization functioning the cures for the unfavorable condition of the industry, as previously mentioned, viz, continuity of supply, increased production, and the development of the home market, will undoubtedly follow.

What is the reason for the lack of interest by the producer? In answering this question the writer does so from his own personal observations. First, lack of uniformity in production. The marketing of cheese in the Province is disgraceful. It is estimated that only 2½% is sold in open competition, which is setting the price for the balance. Personal agreements for sales are made, which in the end reacts to the disadvantage of the producer. No uniformity exists in annual statements returned to the producer, and in many cases no statement is returned at all. Comparison between these factory returns and returns from other centres through which the milk might be disposed of is practically impossible for the average producer to make. These conditions are not the fault of any particular class engaged in the cheese industry, but rather the fault of a system that has developed through many years of indifferent and haphazard methods of marketing by the producer. An overhauling is absolutely necessary and if any progress is to be made in trying to bring this old and well-established industry back to a position near its former position, it will be absolutely necessary for all interested, whether they are producers, manufacturers, or distributers, to work together for the common weal.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel needed

When you feel blue, depressed, sour on the world, that's your liver which isn't pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels.

Digestion and elimination are being slowed up, food is accumulating and decaying inside you and making you feel rotten.

Don't dose with salts, pills, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or use enemas. They're for weaklings.

You need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills is the best one. Safe. Purely vegetable. Sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists. 33

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation warranted to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly, and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

FREE SHOTS ON Local Sport

Not being able to attend Saturdays game at Enterprise, we sent one of our trusted scouts. He reports that after the smoke cleared the score board read Enterprise 7, Gilbard B's 4. Now let him tell it:

Manager Glen Wagar deserves credit for the showing his boys made Saturday. He only had a week to whip them into shape, but made good with a bang. Ike Boone had better watch his job, not to mention Wally Gerow.

H. Bell, the starting pitcher, is only 17 years old and Saturday was the first game of organized ball he ever pitched. This boy is green yet but with plenty of work should win some games this summer

Spratt hasn't forgot any of his old stuff; he can still keep them whistling when he bears down.

Gilbards acted like the Giants the first two innings, but blew up in the fourth and Enterprise stole everything but their socks.

Fraser pitched good ball, but errors let him down.

Napanee may win this league, but the Enterprise cloutsmiths are going to have a lot of fun before snow flies again.

More New Books At the Napanee Public Library

YOUNG FU OF THE UPPER YANGTZE — by Elizabeth Foreman Lewis. The author of this book was awarded the John Newbery medal for the most outstanding contribution to American literature for children. She lived many years in China and every detail of the text and illustration is a true portrayal of China and the Chinese as they actually are today. It should be in great demand for old and young.

THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON — by Wyss. This is a new and handsome edition of what William Dean Howells called "one of the dearest old books in the world." Boys and girls who love "Robinson Crusoe" will love this delightful tale of a shipwrecked family who have all sorts of exciting experiences and who exhibit much ingenuity in the use they make of everything that comes to hand.

HEIDI — by Johanna Spyri. In this story of child life among the Swiss mountains the author gives us a realization of the freshness of mountain breezes, of colorful flowering meadows which invite to a new enjoyment of the great outdoors. It is a genuine story of a happy little girl, the kind of child who in real life would make an ideal playmate.

MARY AND COMPANY — by Rose B. Knox. Naturalness is the keynote of Miss Knox's success as a writer for young people. Here we have the ideal setting for this naturalness — a present day southern farm. This is one of her finest stories and will find favor with all boys and girls who are interested in life on the farm.

GOLDEN RAIN — by Margaret Widdemer. The romance of Iris Lanning, who had no money and created it, who was born and bred in the small Pennsylvania town, and found herself suddenly in sophisticated, artistic and literary New York and of Morgan, who had money and hated it. She was "Iris—a cross between sun and rainstorms."

A MAN NAMED LUKE — by March Cost. A pen picture on its own, vastly humorous and portraying in amusingly accurate detail the troubles and conflicts of a surgeon's life — a picture that is ever welcome from the pen.

RADIO ADVENTURES — by Grace Livingston Hill. This famous author has written over thirty books and each has found a large audience of enthusiastic readers. This is one of her best and at all her characters are very human.

GODS ADVENTURES — by Marjorie Hope Hermon. Illustrated narratives of the exploits of fifteen brave men and women of our own generation who became pioneers of the Gospel in strange places and far-off lands.

THE GOWK STORM — by N. Bryson Morrison. In Scotland the country people still speak of the Gowk Storm, that early summer tempest which comes at the beginning of May to ruffle the serenity of quiet waters, and Miss Morrison has happily used the term to describe the excellent study of a similar phase through which her exquisitely drawn characters pass.

SEA LEVEL — by Ann Parrish. Never has Anne Parrish's genius for subtle characterization been so delightfully and deftly exhibited as in this new novel of Americans abroad. With delicate satire and an unerring feeling for hitchhiker and shadow she creates a series of human beings brought together by chance, and reveals them to us with all their pleasant pretensions, their childish defiances and endearing pretenses.

GENTLEMEN, THE REGIMENT— by Hugh Pollard. It is a vivid piece of work, and successfully recaptures the atmosphere of England in the fifties and sixties. The extravagances of the past road strange by; hunting balls, regimental banquets, lee-carnivals, garden-parties, parade-grounds and battlefields.

FU MANCHU'S BRIDE—by Sax Rohmer. This author, a second Sherlock Holmes, has been described as the most popular mystery writer in the world. If the reader is looking for complete horror, breathless suspense and hair-trigger adventure he need seek no further. Here it is.

OCEN'S STRANGE STORY— by Edison Marshall. In this exciting story of the Northwest, Edison Marshall has returned to the scene of his earlier novels. His many trips to Alaska have given him tales of strange adventures but none stranger than the survival of the hero of this novel, alone, and starved in these endless forests.

NEW METHOD OF MAKING SHOES IN ONE OPERATION

A machine has been invented in England by which rubber soles and rubber heels on men's, women's and children's shoes are attached direct to leather uppers, without the need of nails, thread or adhesive, according to details supplied through the London office of the C. N. R.

No leather insole is necessary, and high heels are made of rubber throughout. Shoes soled and heeled by the machine are waterproof. Re-soling is possible, but rarely required, the original soles usually outlasting the life of the shoes.

Time Has Tested It.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil has been on the market upwards of fifty years and in that time it has proved a blessing to thousands. It is in high favor throughout Canada and its excellence has carried its fame beyond the seas. If it were double the price it would be a cheap liniment.

There are some failings which men confess with ease, and others with difficulty.—Epictetus.

BASEBALL NEWS

Season tickets for the coming season are now on sale at Mr. Fred Scott's Barber Shop on John Street, and at the Gilbard office. Family tickets are available and all tickets may be purchased to include admission to the grandstand if desirable.

The game in Port Hope, played last Saturday, showed that the A's are slowly but surely hitting their batting stride. They pounded two Port Hope hurlers for twelve safeties and on five occasions drove the outfielders back to take long drives. Tommy Pointer held their hitters to three scattered safeties; only three men reached first safely throughout the game. The team played errorless ball behind him. Tommy taking thirteen by the strike-out route. By the way, the score was 9-1 for the Athletics.

The game in Kingston on Friday night was a repetition of earlier games between the A's and the Ponies. Once again the Ponies won out late in the game when, in the eighth they combined two errors, a safety and a home run to score four runs. The A's had led from the first of the game by 3-2.

George Blazetich held the hard-hitting Ponies to four safeties, and, had his infield not cracked in the eighth, no doubt would have won. The A's nicked Jamieson and St. Louis for six hits. Strange as it may seem, the Kingston Ponies have yet to outhit the Gilbard Athletics.

Mrs. Patrick Yorke Former Napaneean Passed Away, U. S.

Mrs. Mary Ann O'Connor Yorke, widow of Patrick Yorke, died very suddenly Saturday evening at 6.15 in the family home, corner Maiff and Walnut Streets, Washington, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Yorke had been critically ill for some months during the winter, but had been able to be up and around home for the past four weeks.

Mrs. Yorke, a daughter of Moses and Elizabeth Fitzpatrick O'Connor, was born near Napanee, Ontario, July 20, 1861. After graduating from Napanee High School, she taught school for a short time and then finished her education at the Teachers College, Ottawa, resuming her teaching until her marriage to Mr. Yorke in 1887. She had a very high rating in educational circles in the Province of Ontario and possessed its permanent teacher's certificate.

After her marriage to Mr. Yorke, they were located for short periods at Warren, Pa., and Youngstown, coming to Washington the latter part of 1897, this city having been their home ever since.

One sister, Miss Kate O'Connor, whose home is in Napanee, Ontario, survives, as well as the following children: Patrick Henry, Mrs. Kathleen O'Brien, Eloise Veronica and Florence, all of Washington and Mrs. Edith Bendix Wayland, Michigan. A daughter, Edna, died in 1916 and Mr. Yorke died in 1922.

Mrs. Yorke was a consistent member of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, having been President of its Ladies' Aid Society for several years and its oldest living member. She was also a charter member of the local American Legion Auxiliary unit.

Funeral was held from her late home at 8.30 last Wednesday morning with Requiem High Mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock. Interment will follow at the Immaculate Conception Cemetery.—Washington Observer.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Choosing the Site of a Farm Well

The situation of the farm well is often the factor which determines whether the family will have pure and wholesome water to drink or water that is unsanitary provoking disease.

It is desirable to locate the well 150 feet from any polluting source such as the barn, manured fields or gardens, septic tanks, open ditches, roads, garbage heaps or even away from the dwelling house where waste water may be thrown out or where there may be poultry runs or dog kennels.

Check up on the Food Supply of the Bees

According to the Dominion Apiarist more colonies of bees are lost during the latter part of March and throughout April than at any other period of the year, simply because of starvation. Most bees are given enough food in the fall to carry them through until the following spring, provided the winter is not too severe, and the spring flowers yield early, but many do not live to see the flowers bloom. The winter of 1933-34 has been long, steady and severe and spring promises to be very late in many places, therefore, the keeper of bees is well advised to check up the food supply of the bees and be prepared to supplement it as soon as ever weather conditions will permit.

Sow Onions and Sweet Corn Early

The onion being a long season crop requires to be sown as early in the spring as soil and weather conditions will permit. Early sowing ensures the plants becoming well established before the dry, hot weather occurs. For short season sections advises the Dominion Horticulturist, the Early Flat Red or Early Yellow Danvers, and for those regions where the later maturing varieties do well the Large Red Wethersfield, or Southport Red Globe and for yellow varieties Yellow Globe Danvers or Southport Yellow Globe.

Early sweet corn brings the best prize, hence the importance of planting as early as possible. Successful sowings made at intervals of ten days apart in the same field is a means of having the first early corn. Should the first planting succeed the second and third plantings can be hoed out or on the other hand should the first plantings be killed by frost the third or fourth planting may develop unhampered.

Fertilizer Mixtures

The plant food content of commercial fertilizer mixtures is expressed by formulae such as 4-8-10, 2-12-16, etc. These figures denote the guaranteed percentages of nitrogen, available phosphoric acid and potash in the order in which they occur in the formula. For example a 4-8-10 mixture will contain 4 per cent of nitrogen, 8 per cent of available phosphoric acid and 10 per cent of potash. A fertilizer offered for sale in Canada must contain not less than 2 per cent of nitrogen or 5 per cent of available phosphoric acid or 2 per cent of water-soluble potash and not less than a total of 14 per cent of these constituents.

Use Mose Alfalfa

Good soils in the Ottawa Valley are capable of producing fine crops of alfalfa. Experiments over a period of years on the Dominion Experimental Farms show that alfalfa and mixtures which contain alfalfa have yields much larger yields than when the alfalfa was not included. The feeding value has not been considerably increased. The inclusion of 3 or 4 pounds of alfalfa seed in the timothy, red clover, alsike mixture is well worth while and should be adopted as a regular practice. The best varieties are Ontario Variegated and Canadian grown Grimm.

Combating Couch Grass

Couc hor quack grass presents a very serious problem in Eastern Canada. Experiments have shown that ploughing as early in the summer as the crop can be removed, cultivating the land during the fall, and refreezes constitute a very satisfactory method of control. If this procedure can be followed the next year by a cultivated crop, or a smoother crop practically complete eradication will be secured. It is surprising and disheartening sometimes, to find that couch grass will persist even after considerable work has been done on the land. However, when right methods are followed, and provided reasonably dry weather is enjoyed, complete success may be assured. In Western Canada the application of commercial fertilizers with a combinating fertilizer and grain drill has proved very effective in controlling many weeds.

Severe Winter Killing

From all parts of the province come reports of serious damage to fall wheat, alfalfa and clover. Following are extracts from reports received from representatives in various counties.

Bruce: Fall wheat has not wintered well and many fields are completely killed out. There has been considerable winter killing of alfalfa and clover, too. Dufferin: New seeding of fall wheat is improving and is much more promising than we expected, but most wheatfields will have to be seeded to barley, Talton: A conservative estimate would say that 75 per cent. of the fall wheat will have to be torn up or patched. A heavy increase in acreage of annual hay and pasture mixtures for this purpose are being used. North Simcoe: The majority of farmers report total loss of wheat, clover and alfalfa. It is not now expected that more than 2 per cent. of the wheat crop will be a normal crop, while another 15 per cent. may be partially saved as a feed grain crop by patching. Waterloo: Over 70 per cent. of fall wheat acreage will be resown to barley or mixtured hays. Fully 40 per cent of clovers and alfalfa will have to be plowed up and an annual hay crop sown. Elgin: Fall wheat is very spotty. Some fields wintered well while others are badly winter killed. Haldimand: Reports indicate that fall wheat, alfalfa and clover will be a good 80 per cent. crop. Middlesex: Fall wheat, alfalfa and clover have shown considerable growth during the warm weather of early May. While the majority of fields look quite promising, there are some wheat fields in many sections being seeded to spring grains and some clover fields being plowed up and in many cases seeded to an annual hay mixture. Durham: Most of the fall wheat acreage has been cultivated and sown to barley or re-cleaned western spring wheat. Hastings: Fall wheat and clovers have been severely killed out and farmers are finding it difficult to secure seed. Ontario: Fall wheat is almost a total loss. Alfalfa and clover are badly damaged, but the warm weather has brought them along. Northumberland: About 75 per cent of the fall wheat is killed and will not recover from the severe winter, and the same applies to new seeding of alfalfa. Prince Edward: Due to all fall wheat being killed as well as a great percentage of clover and alfalfa farmers will have about double the spring's work to do this season. Victoria: Now that growth has started, fall wheat acreage that has escaped, can be estimated at 5 per cent. York: It is estimated that in this county, 90 per cent of the fall wheat will be reseeded to spring grains. This is the heaviest winter killing on record. Frontenac: For a distance of about 25 miles back from the river front, alfalfa and fall wheat have been from 90 to 95 per cent. killed. Some fields are totally bare. Strawberries would be about 80 per cent winter killed, raspberries and other bush fruits about 50 per cent. Lennox and Addington: Fall wheat estimated to be practically a total loss and alfalfa and clovers fully 75 per cent.

That is true wisdom, to know how to alter one's mind when occasion demands it.—Terence.

NEWBURGH

Newburgh, May 21. — Mrs. W. J. Ramsay is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Russell Price, of Toronto.

The May meeting of the Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. J. N. Lucas, on Thursday, May 24th, at 2.00 p.m. A grandmothers program will be given. All the grandmothers of the village, whether members of the Institute or not, are invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed. Shorey, George and Elmer, of Cannifton, were the guests of his sisters, Misses Clara and Emma Shorey, on Sunday.

The members of the Bath Badminton Club motored to Newburgh and played a friendly game with the Newburgh Club, the score being 6 to 3 in favor of the Bath club. At the conclusion of the game, a dainty lunch was served and a delightful social time was spent.

The drama sponsored by the Young People's Society of Tamworth United Church, "My Dixie Rose," in the Municipal Hall, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Johns Church, on Wednesday evening, March 16th, was a decided success. There was a good attendance and the members of the cast each took their part well. The orchestra, under the leadership of Max Miles, rendered good music between the acts, and at the end of the play the ladies served the guests a dainty lunch.

The Newburgh friends of Mr. Solomon Clancy, were shocked on Sunday evening, when they received the news that he had suddenly passed away. He had a bad spell on Friday last but had recovered and was able to be around again when he suffered another attack and passed away suddenly. Deceased was 75 years of age and the youngest son of the late William Clancy of Wesley, where he had always resided. Safe, Sensible, Simple Rules To End PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, Etc.

Ugly, disfiguring blotches and pimples are almost certain signs that your blood is clogged with impurities. Don't rely on their natural urge of spring to help the blood stream. Help may delay they are—but don't be misled by them. Most regularity is unnatural. But regularity deceives thousands, because regularity is not always confidence.

To ensure complete elimination of body wastes, eat moderately, get all the rest your system demands, take exercise and fresh air—and one or more glasses of drink a healthful, bracing, pleasant-tasting glass of Andrews Liver Salt.

What Andrews does for you is to stimulate the system to normal, healthy action. Taken at regular intervals—say twice a week—Andrews will keep your whole system pure and vigorous. Then skin imperfections will tend to disappear and you will enjoy a clear skin and a healthy, active body.

Follow these easy, sensible Andrews health rules. Get Andrews Liver Salt from your druggist, in two sizes 35c and 60c. New, large bottle, 75c. Sole Agents: John A. Huston Co., Ltd., Toronto.

Mother of Nine Can Do Day's Work

Mrs. Lee Suffered With Inflammation of The Bladder

But Now Well Thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills

Caledonia, Ont. May 22. (Special.) "Dodd's Kidney Pills are good Pills. I used them when I was in Nova Scotia but stopped for awhile," writes Mrs. Thomas C. Lee, a well known and respected resident of this place. "I suffered from inflammation of the bladder, and when I felt it coming on I took Dodd's Kidney Pills and can safely say they did me a lot of good. I have been using Dodd's Kidney Pills for six years and I am still using them. I am sixty years of age, and am married, with nine children, all living, and can still do a good day's work."

Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in good working order and all the impurities and poisons are strained out of the blood. The result is that new strength is carried to every part of the body. That's why so many sufferers, relieved by Dodd's Kidney Pills sum up their condition. "I feel like a new person."

PUBLICITY FOR CANADA

That it is worth while going out of our way to bring tourists from all over the world, and especially from the United States, to Canada, no one will question an industry which brought us $300,000,000 in 1930, even admitting that this is a record figure, merits cultivation. As Theodore Morgan well said before the Senate committee, the money spent on publicity to make Canada known outside is one of the best and most profitable investments. Let us have no fear, therefore, to appropriate adequate sums of money for a vast campaign of publicity to make known the advantages of Canada, both for business, industrial establishments, farming, touring, summer and winter sports, etc. We will not regret it, for it will bring back a thousandfold return. — La Presse, Montreal.

MAPLE LEAF W. I.

The regular monthly meeting of the Maple Leaf W. I. was held in the North Fredericksburgh Hall on Thursday afternoon, May 10th. The meeting opened by community singing, and was followed by repeating the Lord's Prayer. The roll call was responded to by giving suggestions for next year's programme.

As this was the annual meeting, the Secretary gave a report, and the Auditor's report was read and adopted.

A paper on Mother's Day, prepared by Mrs. Hugh Milling, was read, telling the origin of Mother's Day. In 1914 the United States Congress passed a law declaring the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, and now that date is kept as a minternational memorial to motherhood.

Mrs. Will Pretty gave a paper on Father's Day. She said the mass of fathers are surely worthy of some special notice at least one day in the year, and now June will soon be here, so let us set the second Sunday in June and make special attention to our fathers. She also mentioned that the details of the home belong to the mother, the task nature gave her; but the share of the true father in the home is financially protecting, bringing in the food supplies. The duties are different, but they are corelative.

After the programme, the officers for the coming year were elected.

The meeting closed by singing God Save the King.

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Agricultural Room was filled on Friday afternoon when Miss E. J. Guest, of Toronto, the Summer Series speaker, representing the department, gave a very interesting address.

In addition to the members of the Napanee Institute, there was a splendid representation from the following Institutes: Ernestown, Maple Ridge, Maple Leaf, and Mount Pleasant Pioneers.

The President of, the Napanee Women's Institute, Mrs. J. S. Douglas, presided, and introduced the speaker.

The meeting opened with the ode, after which the secretary, Mrs. Powell gave a synopsis of last year's work. It was decided that the meeting for June would be "Grandmothers Day."

Miss Guest, after being introduced announced her subject, "Meeting urgent problems in a practical way." The speaker referred to the fact that she had been a teacher in the Belleville Collegiate Institute and had visited Napanee on several occasions. Miss Guest paid a splendid tribute to the Institute and remarked that women were the better by being Institute workers. She also referred to health, and stated that more time should be alloted to the schools, for this important subject. Economics were also referred to by the speaker, who stated that the finances should be handled in an economic manner and urged upon the members to study points in an economic way and the manner in which to spend, save and give.

For her interesting address, Miss Guest was tendered a hearty vote of thanks which was moved by the District President, Mrs. Shore Loynes and Mrs. Albert Reid. Miss Guest asked each Institute present to give a report, and excellent details were given, the branches on the whole having a very successful year.

Mr. Herrington, K.C., has kindly consented to give an address at the June meeting.

Miss Guest was brought up on an Ontario farm and is an honor graduate of the University of Toronto. She was, for a time, head of he Department of English and History in the Belleville Collegiate and was called from these duties to active service, during the war, where she rendered excellent services in hospital work, food conservation and the organizing of Womens Institutes in England and Wales, under the British Government. She has given special attention to vocational guidance for young people and is head of the Ontario Women's Institutes Department on Immigration.

At the conclusion of the address of Miss Guest, a social half hour was enjoyed during which time refreshments were served under the convenorship of Mrs. Raymond Moore.

EMPEY HILL LADIES' AID AND W. M. S.

The W. M. S. and Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. William Penny for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. E. Price, president of the Ladies Aid was in the chair. "My Hope is built on Nothing Less," was sung and prayer was offered by Mrs. W. H. Woods, Scripture reading by Miss Bea. Mowers, Ex. 2, 1-9. "Tell Mother I'll Be There," was sung and Mrs. Husband gave a splendid reading "Mother." Mrs. Frank German gave a reading, "Mrs. Pickett's Mandolin Box," and Mrs. Roy McMath sang "Christ is All," which was much enjoyed. A reading by Mrs. Wilbert Winter, "God Cares." Roll call was answered by each one present by an interesting clipping. Mrs. Penny served pop corn, pea nuts and candy, and Mrs. Price moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

ONTARIO
DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
MOTOR VEHICLES BRANCH

AN OPEN LETTER TO PEDESTRIANS:

Are motorists right when they say you are more than half to blame?

While figures cannot be depended upon to tell the whole truth, last year's accident records leave no room for doubt that there are reckless walkers as well as reckless drivers.

Last year 2,821 pedestrians were killed or injured in Ontario in automotive accidents. Many of these persons came to grief while violating a simple rule of safety . . . crossing a street between intersections . . . crossing diagonally at intersections . . . crossing against traffic signals . . . "hitching" . . . or coming from behind parked vehicles. Of the total number, 1,107 were children playing in the street.

Records show that in many of these cases the driver never had a chance. Accidents happened while he was doing his best to drive safely!

This department is more deeply interested in making the streets and highways of Ontario safe, especially for children, than in any other public duty. The conscientious motorist has been appealed to in many ways; several of his privileges have been restricted in an effort to make life safe in traffic for all. I know that this appeal to the pedestrian will find ready response among those who walk more often than they drive, and especially in the hearts of fathers and mothers of little children.

Will you co-operate? Will you help to stem the tide of needless bereavement and suffering by observing the simple rules of safe walking that make all the difference between safety and the jeopardy of life and limb? And you parents—will you not give your children a chance by teaching them the need of care for their own safety?

Coroner's Jury Decide Fatal Accident Caused By Careless Driving

Driver of Car Considered Negligent

Coroner Dr. T. M. Galbraith of Napanee conducted an inquest into the deaths of Jack McGibbon and Vincent Kilgannon at Odessa on Tuesday, May 22. Mr. K. S. Ham, the County Crown Attorney, conducted the case for the Crown.

The accident in which the deaths occurred happened about two and one-half miles east of Odessa on the evening of May 11th about 11.30 o'clock during a thunderstorm. Besides the two who were killed other members in the party were George Powley and Oscar Heath of Odessa, Vivian Clark of Yarker and Thelma Aylesworth of Westbrook. The car in which the six young people were driving crashed head-on into a Clark transport, driven by Eric Ricketts.

Hishway Traffic Officer L. O. Rawlins, who was called to the accident, was the first witness to be sworn. He testified as to the position of the touring car driven by McGibbon, one of the deceased, when he arrived, also the position of the Clark truck, driven by Eric Rickets of Belleville. He identified some of the bodies and marks on the road.

Provincial Constable Barrett corroborated Officer Rawlins' evidence. He said the condition of one of the passengers of the McGibbon car—Geo. Powley, indicated that he had been drinking.

Afraid to Pass Car

Alec Stevenson, a salesman for the Coleman Lamp, of Toronto, said he had followed the McGibbon car for nearly two miles on the highway previous to the accident. The car was swerving from one side of the road to the other, so badly that he was afraid to pass it. He saw the McGibbon car crash into the truck.

Eric Ricketts, the driver of the Clark Transport, which was struck by the McGibbon car, said he was "doing about" when he left Napanee for Odessa at about 2.30 p.m., he saw a car coming, swerving from side to side in the road. He (Ricketts) pulled to the south and slowed down. The oncoming car struck the left front fender of the truck, then struck again behind the truck cab with sufficient force to break the drive-shaft of the truck and render the brakes almost useless.

Evidence of Passengers

Vivian Clark told that in company with Thelma Aylesworth, Geo. Heath, George Powley, Vincent Kilgannon and Jack McGibbon, with the latter driving the Chevrolet touring car, She had left Odessa about 8.30 p.m. for Kingston. On a side road, some distance beyond Odessa, the car was stopped and she bore that some beer. They proceeded to Kingston and stopped at a cafe for some lunch. Some more beer was drunk at the cafe. She did not remember much about the accident, but saw the lights on the approaching truck, heard the crash and found herself lying in the ditch later. When she recovered sufficiently she saw McGibbon and Kilgannon lying in the road and the others in the ditch. The two men in the road were dead and the others were taken to Kingston General Hospital for treatment.

The other occupants of the car corroborated the evidence of Miss Clark, with some variation in a few details.

Jury's Verdict

After a short deliberation the jury returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury, come to the verdict that Jack McGibbon and Vincent Kilgannon came to their deaths by accidental collision with Clark's Transport on Highway No. 2, two and one-half miles east of Odessa on May 11th, about 11.30 p.m., caused by the apparent negligence of the driver of the car."

The jury was composed of C. L. Sharp, foreman; Wray Kayler, Roy Kennedy, Steward Lund, Matt Shetler, Harry Sloots, Pemon Reid, Clarence Menor and Byron Jackson.

Interesting Address On Indian Customs

Given at Collegiate by Miss Loft

On Thursday, afternoon Miss Bernice Loft, who has been the guest of Mrs. Herbert File for some weeks, spoke to the pupils of the Collegiate in the school auditorium. Miss Loft is a full blooded Mohawk Indian, the daughter of Chief William Loft, of the Six Nations Reserve on Caledonia. Miss Loft's Indian name is Da-wen-dine—the dawn, and that of her father is Sah-re-hn-wa-ne, meaning Mohawk Iroquis Tree, one of the names of the six hereditory sachems of the Six Nations.

Miss Loft was born on the Six Nations Reserve, at Ohsweken the place of the Mohawks. She received her education through the public schools of the reserve and the high school at Caledonia. For some time in colloboration with her father, she has been giving talks on the legends and lore of the Indians and has done valuable work with various Canadian museums on Indian History. Miss Loft is a wood carver of exceptional ability. Last year she displayed her work at the Handicrafts exhibition at the Eaton Auditorium in Toronto.

Beautiful Indian Costume

Miss Loft displays the natural grace of her race in her movements and presented an appearance of striking attractiveness and dignity as she came on the stage in her native costume, made by herself. It was a beautifully tanned deer skin with long trousers, three-quarter length tunic, moccasins and feather trimmed head dress. Each part of the costume was trimmed with bead work and the edges finished with long fringe. She wore a valuable relic, a necklace of genuine wampum. The art of wampum making is one of the lost arts of the Indians. It was made from conch shells, found in the ocean, and each bead required two or three days to make.

Difficult to be An Indian

Miss Loft's beautiful voice and clear diction lent much charm to her short talk. Briefly she gave a history of the Indians and told something of their language and problems. There are 457 dialects of the Indian language in use, she remarked: it considered the most beautiful.

Despite the fact that for four centuries an attempt has been made to decimate the Indian, the Indians have left traces in the country which will never be erased. Particularly is this true in the Indian names so profusely scattered over the continent.

The Indians are proud of their race, just as other nations are. They have their cultural—standards, different but not inferior. It is a different thing, Miss Loft said, to be an Indian these days. The Indian standards are continually being questioned and comparisons are being made with Anglo Saxon standards. In school there are all kinds of difficulties due to prejudice. The Indian is not a citizen according to the English sense of the word, yet he is the oldest citizen of Canada, and the Indian civilization goes back farther than Christophe: Columbus.

Lost Arts of the Indians

Miss Loft spoke with regret of the lost arts of her race. Even to-day, though, many of the crifts, of her people, are being carried on. One of the unfortunate losses, was the art of tempering copper, known centuries ago to the Indians but forgotten and never rediscovered by him or the white man.

In closing her address Miss Loft recited Duncan Scott's poem, "The Half Breed."

The school listened with close attention to Miss Loft's address and expressed their pleasure in spontaneous applause. Mr. Jamieson, the Principal, thanked Miss Loft for her entertaining and instructive talk.

Premier Announces Increased Grants To Schools

Last week Premier Henry announced increased grants for 1934 to, public separate and vocational schools. The announcement made in the Premier's office read as follows:

"The Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Education, announces a change in the legislative grants to public, separate and vocational schools. In 1933 it was found necessary, in order to balance the budget, to reduce these grants by 20 per cent. For 1934 the deduction on public and separate school grants will be 10 per cent. instead of 20 per cent., and on vocational school grants 15 per cent., instead of 25 per cent. The deduction on high school grants, which has never been more than 10 per cent., will remain at that figure.

"The Minister hopes that in the following year, with improving conditions, we may discontinue any remaining discount on the earnings under the Government."

London Chamber of Commerce Will Aid Trade Crusaders

A De V. Leigh, M.B.E., M.A., Secretary of The London Chamber of Commerce and England, writing to the Central Ontario. Commerce Crusaders offers a fine spirit of co-operation in their trade work. The work of the Belleville Trade Crusaders is attracting wide attention not only in Canada but England and with the visit here last week of a distinguished Britisher, the work has received a great impetus. — Belleville Ontario Intelligencer.

Co-operation Urged For Community Days To Insure Success

J. A. Marshall Write Letter to Public

To the Citizens of Napanee and the County.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week are Napanee's Community Days. The merchants have been planning this event for some time. They have gone to considerable expense in advertising and offering special prizes to induce the people of the surrounding country to visit and shop in the "County Town" during these three days. Advertising matter is going into thousands of homes, in this issue of the "Beaver". Many householders who receive the advertising are not familiar with the shopping facilities of Napanee.

Chamber of Commerce Duties

The newly organized Chamber of Commerce has as one of its duties the encouraging of better business and social relationships between county and town. As President of the Chamber of Commerce I am inviting the people outside the town to pay Napanee a visit, do their shopping here and get acquainted with the finest bunch of business men in any community of the province. Napanee has attractive places of business, with up-to-date stores and the best of all it has the finest assortment of merchandise at the lowest prices obtainable.

I ask the merchants and citizens of the county town to show the thousands of visitors we expect this week that we are all pleased at the event. Get your flags out and have them flying. Decorate your stores and homes. Get out and mingle with the crowds and join in the spirit of the occasion.

If these two requests are complied with, Community Days will be a success—the merchants will be satisfied and the public made happy.

(Signed)
J. A. MARSHALL,
President.
Napanee Chamber of Commerce.

Ohlman Dismissed On Charge of Manslaughter

On Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Geo. Ohlman appeared in the Magistrate's Court, on a charge of manslaughter, in connection with the death of Edward Elliott, who was killed at Sillsville, when run over by Mr. Cleman's truck.

The evidence taken was, in effect, the same as that submitted by the witnesses—the coroner's inquest. Mr. J. M. Simpson, K.C. appeared for Mr. Ohlman, and Mr. K. S. Ham, the crown.

The magistrate reserved his judgment until Saturday, when he dismissed the charge.

Magistrate Graham's judgment follows:—

Napanee, May 26th, 1934.
REX VS. GEORGE OHLMAN.

CHARGE:—That George Ohlman, on the 14th day of May, did skid and kill one Edward Lloyd in contravention of Section 268 of the Criminal Code.

The Criminal Code, in no uncertain terms, imposes a duty on every operator of a motor vehicle to take reasonable precautions against and to use reasonable care to avoid accidents. He must not do an unlawful act in the operation of a motor vehicle which will result in accidents. He must not do an unlawful act in an unlawful manner, or by wilful misconduct or wilful neglect, cause bodily harm to any person.

In this case a man was killed and to place the accused on his trial, the evidence must show that he did some act in place of safety and this being done or that he did negligently some act which he had a right to do, or that he omitted to do some act which it was his duty to do, and which act resulted in the death of the person killed.

After a careful review of the evidence, I find that Lloyd must have been aware of the approaching truck, that the truck was in clear view for a considerable distance, that there was no other traffic on the road to detract his attention from the truck, that there was no reason why he could not move off the road to a place of safety and this being the case, it was his duty to take precautions himself to avoid being hit. I am further satisfied that the accused had his truck under proper control, that he was driving at a reasonable rate of speed, that the brakes of the truck were in proper working order, that on approaching close to Lloyd he applied his brakes and made the natural moves to avoid the Lloyd.

I find as a fact that there is no evidence of negligence on the part of the accused and I therefore place him on his trial, and he is dismissed.

MARK P. GRAHAM.
Police Magistrate.

Heavy Damage To Cadillac Car On Thursday Last

A motor car accident, causing heavy property loss, occurred on the No. 2 Highway at 8.45 a.m. Thursday. The cars involved were a Cadillac sedan owned by Vernon G. Cardy, manager of the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, driven by J. A. Scherrer, and a De Soto sedan owned and driven by Thos. J. Geggie, of 116 Dowling avenue, Toronto.

The cadillac sedan was coming west near Percy Madden's home about two miles east of Napanee. The driver pulled over to pass a truck driven by Mr. Hogeboom, also going west. On account of a slight rise in the elevation of the road Scherrer did not see the Geggie car approaching from the west and crashed into it.

The Cadillac was damaged to the extent of about $2,000 and the De Soto received about $100 damage. Mrs. Cardy who was a passenger in the Cadillac, received slight injuries and was suffering from shock.

On Friday morning Cherrer appeared in the magistrate's court and pleaded guilty to driving in a dangerous manner. He was fined $10.00 and costs a total of $23.45.

Invitation Extended To Visit Agricultural Farms, Ottawa

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 13TH

The local Agricultural Office reports:

We have received an invitation from Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director of the Experimental Farms, Ottawa, to be extended to the farmers in the County to visit the Experimental Farm on Wednesday, June 13th, when a Pasture Conference and Farmers' Pasture Day is to be held. Considerable work has been done on the farm in varieties of pasture crops and experiments with fertilizer as a means of increasing the yield of grass on our pasture farms. The programme, as outlined below, will make a full day and should be time well spent by any farmer. We hope that the County of Lennox and Addington will be well represented at this important event. Plan now to attend.

Premier Henry Issues Pre-Election Manifesto And Outlines Policy

Forcasts Some New Legislation

Last week Premier George S. Henry issued his pre-election manifesto, in a document which contained a resume of his administration and which forecasts some important changes in legislation, if the Conservative Party is returned to power.

The statement included a review of the financial position of the government, in which it was shown that the decrease in controllable expenditure of over 11 million dollars was made in 1933 as compared with 1930. The government had put into effect the legislation which decreased the representation from 112 to 90.

The Premier said, in part:—

Paralleling the cutting down of the ordinary expenditure of the Province came a 25 per cent. as above referred to, I felt it was the duty of the Government to see that in the period of stress, when so many people were out of work, aid of one kind of another should be available to all.

Consequently, the Government has prevailed work wherever possible, and where no work was obtainable or was impracticable, or would place too great a burden on the municipalities, direct relief was inaugurated.

Aid to Agriculture

During the past two years Ontario was the only Province in Canada to make loans on farm mortgages, and to date it has advanced $5,000,000. In other Provinces Federal loans have been obtainable, but at a higher rate of interest. The Government proposes to reduce the rate of interest on loans from the Ontario Agricultural Development Board from 5% to 3 per cent.

Agriculture is the bedrock of our stability and prosperity. What have we done for it? Have we left it to fend for itself? Have we neglected to promote its interests? Have we failed to assist in finding markets? Have we let chances for co-operative action drift by? The following show otherwise:

1. Active campaigns by the Department of Agriculture have secured wider markets for our products, and the provision of storage facilities has improved their quality and strengthened prices of our perishable products.

2. Partly due to the activities of the Government the prices of farm products in this Province have improved, and in some lines are double those received by American farmers.

3. Financial aid to co-operative organizations has been given, and will be extended.

4. A good-roads network has furnished easy access to marketing centre.

5. Farmers' rural transmission lines have been bonused to the extent of $10,000,000, and rates are being steadily lowered, while the twenty-year Hydro contract for rural users is being reduced to five year.

The proposed new legislation include:

1. That the Province should assume 80 per cent. of the cost of King's highways.

2. That the Hydro Commission should be asked to consider the possibility of a zoning system designed to reduce the spread in service costs, between city and rural.

3. That agricultural development rates should be reduced by one-half 2 per cent.

4. That land settlement should be encouraged in Southern Ontario and undertaken on a wide scale in th North.

5. That steps should be taken to amplify the Mothers' Allowances Act and bring into existence a minimum wage law for men.

W. D. Black Chosen Addington Candidate

Kingston, May 22.—Addington Conservatives today unanimously chose W. D. Black as their candidate for the Ontario general elections, June 19. Mr. Black has represented this district for twenty-three years, though redistribution changed the riding.

DAMAGED LIVES

For long, society has been subject to four scourges, Cancer, Tuberculosis, Alcoholism and Venereal diseases. Within the past century a careful and scientific study of the first three along with an intense educational programme, has very much lessened the mortality due to their ravages.

It is only within recent years that any real effort has been put forth to combat the fourth. The history of Venereal Disease shows that it is not as old as some would believe. It is a comparatively modern disease, probably not over three or four hundred years old. But in that time, it has grown and flourished beyond calculation. Probably, the reason for its rapid spread has been the darkness in which it has been permitted to live. This is due to a large extent, to the unwillingness on the part of society to deal with the disease as it deals with any other scourge, such as Tuberculosis or Cancer. Happily, through the researches of pathologists and scientists and particularly the marvellous discovery of Paul Ehrlich, we possess a therapy which can be trusted, and cures are not only possible, but assured.

Possessing that knowledge, it is a social crime that any who suffer should not avail themselves of its value. Not until we treat these diseases as we do Cancer and Tuberculosis, is there hope of finally eradicating it.

The Social Hygiene Council is doing much pioneering work in this connection. They have produced a splendid educational film, with accompanying lecture. This is being shown to all persons over sixteen, in Wonderland Theatre, on Wednesday, May 30th and 31st. The picture was produced in Hollywood, which assured its technical accuracy. This film will be shown throughout the Empire. At its initial production, in Toronto, 25,000 people saw it.

The organization which is responsible for putting it on, is one of the most reputable in Canada. The official patrons of the Canadian Social Hygiene Council are Their Excellencies The Governor-General and Lady Bessborough. For the showing of "Damaged Lives," the following, in addition, have extended their patronage: The Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, The Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren, The Hon. Dr. J. H. King and Mrs. King, The Hon. Charles Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, The Hon. W. D. Euler, Rr. Hon. Arthur Meighen and Mrs. Meighen, Mr. Henry Spencer, M. P. and Mrs. Spencer, The Hon. T. Rinfret and Madame Rinfret, Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P., The Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb and Mrs. Robb, Sir James Woods and Lady Woods, Mr. J. Allan Ross and Mrs. Ross, Mr. J. E. Atkinson, Mr. H. H. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Col. J. T. Clarke and Mrs. Clarke, Mr. J. A. Machado and Mrs. Machado.

ROTARY INVITES AMERICANS

The Napanee Rootary Club is staging a Stag Party for Members of the small town Rotary Clubs in the immediate vicinity of Napanee. To this, they have invited the Rotary Clubs of the various small towns which are across the Border on the American side. This, which is a new feature of Rotary, in this district, has proven very popular in other places where an invisible line separates the two countries. The Rotarians will gather in the town on Friday, the eighth of June. They will register at the Town Hall, at eleven o'clock in the morning, and will be formally received by the Mayor, on the steps of the Town Hall, at noon. The Napanee Rotary Boys' Band will then entertain the visitors for a while, to a musical programme. Following that, there will be boat trips down the river and a general holiday for the visitors for the rest of the day and on Saturday.

This is a practical demonstration of that spirit of International Goodwill which is one of the principles of Rotary. When men get together on the basis of friendliness and goodwill, it is surprising how little thought is given to differences. The men visit, fraternise, and enjoy themselves in a way which completely obliterates those artificial and nationalistic loyalties which are so often played upon by super-patriots, for selfish and monetary ends.

This is a most impressive time of the year in our northern climate. The Spring, which is somewhat delayed, is now here; the lakes and streams with which our county abounds, will doubtless lure many visitors. And others will find, in the rugged hills and unspoiled backcountry, that freedom from care which is so hard to secure in the midst of the more populous districts to the south of us.

Napanee will give the visitors a warm welcome, for which its citizens are noted. We hope that they will leave with a lasting memory of our Town and County, and with a stronger sense of the unity of aims, interests and ideals of the two great English speaking peoples.

THE SWEEPSTAKES BILL

Last week the Sweepstakes Bill, which was designed to permit the holding of lotteries on a large scale, throughout Canada, was defeated in the House of Commons, after twice passing the Senate. The Leaders of all three Parties spoke against the Bill, and the members were allowed to vote as they desired, without reference to any party affiliation. Our own representative, Mr. Weese, we are glad to note, voted against the Bill. The debate was on a high level and varied all the way from history of lotteries in Egypt to the consideration of the rights of the poor man to make bets. As the debate developed, it was quite evident that the issue at stake was not the need for more money for hospital purposes. This thinly veiled pretext for urging a national sweepstake, was soon perceived by those who opposed the Bill.

Mr. Fraser, of Carlbas, who introduced the Bill, pointed out that, in the case of the Irish Sweepstake, only 17.99% of the money taken actually went to the hospitals for which they were held. The rest of the money was used up in prize money and expenses. A review of the eight Irish sweepstakes shows that over $20,000,000 was used in paying sellers' commissions and over $9,000,000 on other expenses.

This is a large amount of money. It is not unlikely that, when the great institutions of wealth see so much to be made, they will make a more determined attack on the Government than was made last week.

Mr. Woodsworth, in summing up the arguments against the Bill, expressed the sentiments of the great mass of honest and industrious people, when he said: "After all, we, in this country, come from pioneer stock. We have been told that the way to gain wealth is by honest toil. Surely we have been brought up to believe that. I quite frankly admit that the greater part of the wealth of this country has not been gained by honest toil. I say that under the conditions which are being revealed in the committee, on price spreads, we are learning that a great deal of wealth has been built up through the possession of special privileges of various kinds. No doubt, that is only too true, but at the same time, I would like to cherish the old tradition that the way to gain wealth is, by honest toil."

When the people of Canada learn that and are willing to practice it, then much of the difficulty from which we are suffering will melt away.

SERIOUS SYMPTOMS

The strike in Toledo, last week, coming to soon after the strike and disturbances in Detroit, are evidence of a restless state of mind on the part of the workers of the United States. These strikes, because of the number involved and the bitterness with which they were fought have secured a good deal of publicity. But there are numerous strikes going on all over the Republic which have not attracted so much attention. Scattered as they are, over as wide an area, these labor troubles are a warning that all is not well in the nation to the south.

In the Toledo strike, the Troopers had to be called out and several times, when tear gas bombs failed, they fired on the crowd and killing some of the rioters and injuring many more, over two hundred were placed under arrest.

The causes of these strikes vary in different locations, but taken as a whole, they are indicative of a widespread discontent among working people. The nations have come through four years of depression. The men who toil and do the world's work, have shown commendable self-control and patience. Now that there are some signs of recovery, all the pent-up feelings of those who have been out of work and have suffered, is vented against those whom, rightly or wrongly, they blame for the past disaster.

The whole undertone of American labor is one of muffled discontent. The Recovery Act has started the wheels of industry turning. It has fired the unemployed with hopes of permanent work, under satisfactory conditions. Should the N. R. A. fail in its objective; should the men feel that they have, once more, been deceived by the powers that be, these disturbances are a warning as to what might be expected on an unprecedented scale.

The man of perfect knowledge should not unsettle the foolish whose knowledge is imperfect.—Bhagavad Gita.

MRS. F. F. MILLER WRITES FROM INDIA

With my different guests I went, several times, to Peshawar City. There last time we went was most interesting. Before we left we phoned the head of police asking if it were necessary for us to take an armed white escort or would our colored orderlies do. He said we'd be perfectly safe with the native orderly. As it was the last day of a three-day religious festival, the city was packed with all sorts of people. The first two days of the festival were devoted to special services in the mosque, but the third day there was a feast and merriment. It is a Mohammedan holy-day but except for the morning of the first day, the servants go on with their work as usual. All our servants are Mohammedans except the Khansama and the Ayah. The former is a Benalese, a Buddhist, the latter, a Hindu. To return to the city. We walked around the different bazaars bought some Indian baskets and some very fancy bedroom shoes. We went through the thieves' bazaar, but did not get any of the moor—there did not seem to be a clean step to walk and the smell was terrific. We were fortunate enough to find the Anglican native church open. Workmen were decorating, and the native pedro was over-seeing the job. He very kindly showed us all around. The pulpit, choir, stalls and the screens behind the altar were all beautifully carved; a very lovely brass lamp hung in the chancel. Any number of white marble memorial tablets were around the walls, some of very famous Englishmen, generals, etc. others for natives; one was for an Afghan who had been a robber and had become a Christian and later a clergyman in the Anglican Church. His son was in the church and the clergyman introduced him to us—a very fine-looking young man, who spoke English quite well. At one side of the church was a huge font made of white marble. The top was about one foot above the floor and five or six steps led down to the bottom. This is used in the summer to immerse all those who wish to join the church. I'd never seen anything like it, not even in a Baptist Church. I asked about a funny looking instrument and was told it was called a "tans" and was used with the drums to accompany the hymns at services. The word "tans" means a peacock. The instrument looks very like an enlarged banjo and has a very long handle with a peacock carved at the end. The clergyman went across the street and brought over an old man who played several English and two native hymns, for us. The tone was very pleasing. The church is always packed for services and has a membership of two thousand. We spent about an hour in there and enjoying every minute. In spite of it being a holy-day, the crowd was very orderly. That was in the morning; goodness knows what it would be at night.

There was quite a hold-up on the Nowshera road, not long ago, not far from here. A motor-bus and a lone girl were coming into Peshawar to a dance and were held up by dacoits putting their tongas across the road and demanding that the two in the car should get out. Everything that could be moved, including their suitcases, was taken, and two of the ladies were left. They couldn't leave another man with him and did not have a revolver on him.

We are going to Nowshera Wednesday, for tea, but you may be sure we'll be properly equipped.

Awhile ago rumors were flying around that there would surely be a war late in the summer or early fall and every officer was trying to get his two months' leave early in the spring. The rumors have died down, much to everyone's relief. It all depends on how things go in Afghanistan, whether we have a war here or not. If there should be an uprising the tribes all along the frontier would start and those in Peshawar city would join, and in no time there would be a real war.

Miles will get his leave early and will get the extra month to make up for the one he lost last year. He'd spend both months when there was broke out, and every officer is supposed to have two in the summer. The earthquake didn't do so much damage, occurred Calcutta way. Awful five days' journey from here, and we didn't feel even a tremor. Over seven thousand people were killed and there was terrible damage. The earth seemed to open up and swallow hovels, palaces and people and the hundreds of relief funds England have come to their relief, but it will be years before the stricken cities and villages will be rebuilt. Many very rich Indians have contributed to the Viceroy's appeal for help. It was feared that epidemics of different kinds might develop, but so far, none of them have come out.

Our people came back from Belgaum both looking remarkably well. They enjoyed their three months there, particularly each week-end, when they would go to some place or another, where they had all sorts of fish food, marvelously cooked. For the holidays, at the middle of the school term, called the "buak", they went to Bombay, where they were entertained by their numerous friends. They were, I think, glad to get back to Belgaum for a rest. Miles' confidential report of the work he had done during the course was splendid. He found the work quite strenuous and was certainly glad when it was over. They motored back leaving Belgaum on March 30th, and reaching here late the night of April 1st.

Peshawar is very gay just now—two garden parties last week and a garden At Home today. The garden party was at Government House and there was very little difference between it and the one last year, only last year the Acting-Governor and Mrs. Cunningham received, and this year, the Governor and Lady Griffith, were host and hostess. The grounds around Government House are beautifully large and well laid out. The inner garden party was given by the Padre of St. John's Anglican Church, in honor of the Bishop of Lahore. Sannnas were put up and we had tea under them, at small tables. We had a luncheon party for the Bishop, previous to the "At Home". After the garden party I went with friends, to see "Henry VIII," but didn't like it nearly so well as "Rasputin," which I had seen the week before. Last night, after playing contract bridge all afternoon we went after dinner to see Berkley Square, certainly a very odd play. Next Friday I am to be the hostess of the polo games. To-night we have a dinner at about ten and then we all go to the "At Home."

The garden party at Commissioner Cunningham's was a great success. It was a lovely night and one did not need a wrap even when sitting out-of-doors. Very spacious grounds lit with thousands of electric lights in a huge dancing space, with a shamiana (canopy) overhead for the band, number of smaller places with chesterfields for sitting out made everything delightful. The regimental band furnished the music, while others played bridge in the various rooms. The room we were in, looked out over the grounds and was far enough away so that the music did not bother us. Supper was also served to us, there. The whole effect was like fairyland.

All the gaiety is about over now, as everyone, the women of the different regiments, with their children, are either going to England for the summer or are pushing off to the hills. In about three weeks' time it will be too hot to stay here.

Peshawar is looking particularly lovely just now. I thought the roses in Vancouver were wonderful, but they are even more so here.

Editorial Comment

WHY RUSSIAN?

We are eating less British salmon and more foreign salmon. In the first three months of this year we spent £42,000 less than in the same period last year in purchases of salmon from British countries. But we spent £90,000 more in salmon from foreigners. Canada lost business in this market amounting to £40,000. The Russians gained £50,000 worth. It is monstrous that we should transfer these orders from the Canadians to the Russians. Canada spends £17,000,000 a year in Britain. Russia spends £3,000,000.—Daily Express, London.

PLAYING WITH FIRE

Mr. Runciman is playing with fire. Quotas have been suddenly and arbitrarily applied to Japanese into the Colonies. The Tariff Advisory Committee has been instructed to resume its inquiry into the demands for a duty on Japanese cotton and rayon goods imported into this country, and other important, marshal their strength anese manufactured goods under quota. Plainly this is a situation that may develop into an all-round trade war between the British Commonwealth and Japan. Ever were the cotton trade with the Colonies much greater than it is and if the cuota policy proved a complete success, the benefit to the British industry would prove illusory. For, baulked in these particular markets, the Japanese would simply intensify their competition in the more important neutral markets. There is only one method by which international competition can be regulated, and that is the one envisioned by the World Economic Conference. — London Daily Herald.

FOOLISH POLITICIANS

Whether it is a matter of butter or potatoes or fruit the plain duty of all the Governments concerned is to fix a duty and allow the trade thereafter to take care of themselves. It is humiliating to the people of all the Dominions that their Governments should so sadly misrepresent them in tariff questions. The Ottawa conference was acclaimed as a great Imperial example, a great beginning of a great Imperial plan, yet in detail the Dominions are failing to reveal the Empire mind and purpose. Small sections of the producers in each of them, representing so many votes affecting so many individuals whose prosperity in politics is of vital importance, marshal their strength and successfully assail quota and the reverberations are heard around the world. The pound of New Zealand butter in Canada is turned into a ton. A sack of Australian or New Zealand potatoes becomes the food of a city. Trade which would be mutually profitable and create employment is killed at the secure all because politicians fail to give effect to the aims of the average mind.—Auckland Weekly News.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JUNE 3RD, 1934

MATTHEW 26 : 21 - 46

"IN THE SHADOW OF THE CROSS"

During the past few months we have followed the daily life of our Master. We have seen Him as He passed serenely through his hours of personal trial and temptation; we have followed Him through His brief hour of enthusiastic popularity. We have observed the growing opposition to Himself on the part of constituted authority and orthodox religious leaders.

Now, as the tent up wrath of the opposition is about to break upon Him. The final hour of testing and decision has come. He warns His disciples of what they may expect as they enter Jerusalem. Peter, impetuous as ever, declares that though all would forsake, yet he would remain true, and all the other disciples raid the same thing.

Proceeding to Gethsemene Jesus left Peter and James and John to watch which He Himself went off a short distance to pray. After a time, He returned to find them asleep. Three times this was repeated and in each case He found His disciples sleeping.

We ought not, perhaps, to be too hard on the disciples. They had been with Jesus for some two years, it is true. And yet it is quite unlikely that they understood the significance of His mission. Had they known the full extent of what was taking place that night, they would undoubtedly have acted differently. To them Jesus was simply away for a season of prayer. Doubtless there was nothing unusual in that. They had seen Him at prayer many time before. The difference between this which they were witnessing and similar seasons of prayer, was not evident to them.

That, very frequently is the case in life. We never know what mighty plans God has for us in what may seem simple and customary practises and conditions. Events may be often immature and worrisome to a conclusion, while we are the instruments in God's hands for its accomplishment.

Had Peter and James and John been called on to do some great thing—to exert some power or to fill some difficult task—how much would they have put to it. But to watch, to sit and keep merely awake at midnight, with the cool air and the quiet rustle of the leaves making one drowsy, lacked what seemed any worth while challenge to their ability and spirit.

But, that too, is often, one of life's greatest tasks. In the face of events, over which we have no control, simply to sit and watch, is at once unnerving and challenging. To watch those we've known and loved plunging headlong into sin, while we are helpless spectators, to sit at the bedside of those whose life is ebbing away without being able to do anything that will stay the course of disease, is a test which is far more difficult than many another which seems to demand another sort of courage and strength.

The testing of one's loyalty may take many forms. It may be a sudden challenge, as with Peter in the court yard, when he denied his Lord. But more often it comes in the simple round of our daily routine.

In whatever form it may present itself, depend upon it, our loyalty to principle, our loyalty to the church, our loyalty to Christ will be challenged. Against that time of testing the only safeguard is the continued practise of the presence of God, the continual reinforcement of our spiritual reserves and the day-by-day communion with Him, who is the author and perfector of our faith.

TO REACH YOUR GOAL

Most people have an objective they would like to reach—protection for old age, travel, education. Regular savings deposits of even small amounts, accumulating at compound interest, lead step by step to security and the attainment of one's goal.

THE ONTARIO GOVERNMENT SEARCH FOR MINERALS

Through its Department of Mines, the Ontario Government has been going to it that the young as well as the old prospector need not enter upon their search of the rocks, trusting to blind chance. Classes for the training of prospectors in the elements of geology, mineralogy and the identification of economic minerals, are conducted throughout the winter months in the various mining centres, and also at Toronto and Ottawa. These classes have become increasingly popular in recent years, no less than 800 men enrolling at the two classes held in Toronto last year.

These classes, important in themselves, are merely a sideline in the multifarious activities of the Department of Mines. The field parties that have gone north, from year to year, have amassed a wealth of geological information which is of invaluable service, both in the search for mineral and in practical mining operations. When the parties return in the Fall, the geologists in charge prepare preliminary reports of their survey for the benefit of prospectors, and these are followed by carefully compiled detail reports with geological maps of the explored areas.

Through the initiative and enterprise of the Hon. Chas. McCrae, Ontario holds an enviable position in the mining world.

Canon Arthur Jarvis Celebrated 84th Birthday

Canon Arthur Jarvis was 84 yesterday. He is the eldest of the Jarvis family, whose name has been well known in the history of the city and province since George Stephen Jarvis, father of Canon Jarvis, stood a lot of fifteen at the side of Brock when he fell at Queenston.

Canon Jarvis was born in Cornwall. He attended the very school building in which Bishop Strachan opened his first grammar school in Upper Canada. At the age of 17 he matriculated from Trinity College school, then located in Weston and now at Port Hope. After a year in the Bank of Montreal, he entered Trinity College to study for the ministry. He was ordained in 1872.

The social activities of Toronto in the 60's are vividly recalled by Canon Jarvis. Chief among them were the balls and amateur theatricals held in the Old Mechanics Hall, at the corner of Church and Adelaide streets, sleighing, yachting and cricket.

Among the many outstanding events was the ball held in the Mechanics Institute for Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught, in 1869. In 1872 a fancy dress ball was held which attracted Toronto society en masse.

Canon Jarvis recalled that he attended one of their parties as an Albanian, accompanied by his cousin, Sheriff P. W. Jarvis. The weapons they carried had been captured by Admiral Skynner, uncle of the sheriff's wife.

After graduation, Canon Jarvis went to Eastern Ontario. After 62 years spent in the service of the church, he is still active as rector of Napanee.

The stirring days of the middle of the last century are especially keen in the memory of the canon. When the Fenians threatened invasion, he joined the defence forces at the age of 15. He was living at Cornwall at the time and also helped to describe the winter of 1866, when a large camp of Fenians was situated across the St. Lawrence, with remarkable clarity.

Mrs. Jarvis, the canon's father, served at the Battles of Quenston and Lundy's Lane. He was with Pitzgibbon at Beaver Dams when Laura Secord came through the lines. It was to him that she was turned over after her terrifying experience in bringing news of an American attack.

Canon Jarvis' grandfather was Lieut. Col. Stephen Jarvis, who came to Canada from Connecticut as a United Empire Loyalist. He moved to York in 1809 and spent the rest of his life at Rosedale. His youngest son was high sheriff of the home district and was the member of the legislative assembly who introduced the bill which incorporated the city of Toronto.—Toronto Star.

John Draper Met Instant Death In Coal Cars Mishap

John Draper, aged 53, truck driver for the Independent Coal Company, was killed instantly in the coal company's yards in Westboro recently when he was thrown between two moving railway coal cars and crushed to death.

The body was removed to Tubman's Funeral Home, 143 Richmond Road, Westboro, and a preliminary inquest was opened by Dr. J. F. Craig, coroner. After being sworn in a jury viewed the remains and inspected the scene of the accident, and the inquiry was adjourned until Wednesday evening at eight o'clock at the Westboro town hall.

Draper, who resided at 1 Hillon avenue, Ottawa West, a married man with two children, had been employed by the Independent Coal Company as a truck driver for the past 14 years.

Mr. Draper was born in Napanee, Ont., a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Draper of Ottawa. He lived the greater part of his life in Ottawa and was married here 11 years ago to Lillian Fisher. He is survived by his wife, two children, John, aged 6 and Clifford, aged 3; his parents and four brothers and three sisters, all living in the Ottawa district. He was a member of St. Matthias' Anglican church, and his tragic death will be mourned by the congregation and by many friends in Westboro and the surrounding district.

Enthusiastic Meeting Liberal-Conservative Napanee Women

On Thursday afternoon, a meeting of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for the Town of Napanee, was held at the committee rooms, Dundas Street. A very representative gathering of the Conservative women of the town was present and were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Grace McLaughlin, who was assisted in receiving the ladies, by Mrs. C. W. Hambly.

Mrs. McLaughlin, in her opening remarks, said it was fitting the ladies should be planning their work on Empire Day. She believed it was a patriotic duty for women to work for the betterment of their country.

Addressed by Mrs. Powell

Mrs. Katharine Powell, one of the speakers of the afternoon, reminded the ladies that, although we celebrate May 24th as Empire Day, we should not lose sight of the fact that it is the birthday of Queen Victoria, a woman called upon to assume responsibility at a very early age.

Mrs. Powell said that women set standards, whether in the home or in public life. Men take the leadership and in many things try to govern the country according to women's ideals. She thought it the duty of all Conservative women to be conversant with public questions and the platform of their party.

She mentioned that Mr. Hepburn had declared Mr. Henry had stolen his platform. In reality, the Henry platform is very little different than the Conservative party has been acting on, during its tenure of office. It now has a little broader scope than formerly.

The Candidate Speaks

Mr. Colliver in addressing the ladies expressed the regret of Mrs. Walmsley and Mrs. Weese of Prince Edward who were unable to be present at the meeting. He explained the proposed change in the liquor legislation and compared the favorable results of the present law with the apparent failure of the 18th Amendment in the United States.

Mr. Colliver said that the surplus achieved by the Ontario Government had been attained by cutting expenses wherever possible. He compared Ontario's position in this respect with the deficits shown by the other Liberal controlled provinces of Canada. He stated Ontario's good roads, representing an investment of 189 millions, as one of the greatest assets of the province. There are more paved and graded highways in Ontario than in any other province in the Dominion. The good roads mean a saving to motorists and attract tourists who last year left in Ontario 125 million dollars. Motor car licenses in Ontario are cheaper than in other provinces and the 6 cent gasoline tax is lower than in all provinces except one.

Speaking of his work in the legislature Mr. Colliver said he had been able to get reversed the decision for farmers who were in difficulties, regardless of their politics. He promised that he would continue to work in the interests of all the constituents of the riding.

Mr. Hambly Commends Mr. Colliver

Mr. C. W. Hambly, the former member for Lennox, also spoke at the meeting. He commended Mr. Henry as a man of fine qualities, who had, he believed, all fair minded men of all parties behind him. In his association with Mr. Colliver there had always been a close harmony and splendid co-operation. He intended to give Mr. Colliver all his support, as he was in sympathy with the aims and the party.

Mrs. McLaughlin, during the meeting, read the resolution of confidence passed at a recent meeting in Picton, in Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Henry.

Splendid enthusiasm was shown by all who were present for the candidate and belief in the success of the party was expressed.

Qualifications for Voters in Coming Provincial Election

In view of the coming Provincial general election every voter should know the qualifications which entitle a person to have his name entered on the voters' list.

Qualification of Voters

1. The person must be 21 years of age at the time of voting.

This means that even if he or she is not 21, yet will be 21 on the day of the election, his or her name should be on the list of otherwise qualified).

2. The person must be a British subject.

This means a British subject by birth or naturalization.

The Election Act provides that a man who was not on the 12th day of April, 1917, a British subject, is not entitled to be entered on the list unless he has since that date become naturalized as a British subject.

When Women are Deemed to Be Naturalized

For the purpose of the Election Act, a woman is deemed to be a British subject by birth, naturalization, marriage or naturalization of her parent.

3. By Birth:

If she was born a British subject and is unmarried.

If she was born a British subject and is married to a British subject.

And in both cases has not changed her allegiance, and has not become a subject of any foreign power or a citizen of any foreign state.

4. By Naturalization:

If she was naturalized in her own right prior to the 12th day of April, 1917, as a British subject.

If since the 12th day of April, 1917, she has become naturalized under the laws of the Dominion of Canada or of Great Britain.

And in both cases has not become a subject of any foreign power or a citizen of any foreign state.

5. By Marriage—or by the naturalization as a British subject of her husband, provided she was a minor. Certificate required.

Where a woman has become a British subject by marriage or by the naturalization as a British subject of her parent while she was a minor, and has not forfeited her status as a British subject.

Before she may be entered on the voters' list—she must first obtain a certificate under the signature of

A judge of the supreme court or a judge of the county court or district court, certifying that she has personally appeared and has satisfied him that she is of the full age of 21 years; she has resided in Canada for a period of 12 months preceding the day of polling; she possesses all such requirements as would be necessary to entitle her, if unmarried to become naturalized as a British subject; she has taken the oath of allegiance to His Majesty. She must, of course be otherwise qualified.

6. The person must be and for a period of 12 months next preceding the day of polling a resident and domiciled in Canada.

5. The person must be ordinarily resident in the City, Separated Town or Township, at the date of the issue of the writ of election.

BASEBALL NEWS

By G.E.GIBBARD.

Local fans seemed quite pleased at the showing made by the Athletes against Gananoque on the 24th. The same brand of ball beat the strong Port Hope team the week before and held the Kingston Pointers to two runs for eight innings. There is still plenty of room for improvement and the boys are working hard to iron out the kinks. A hard three-hour practise was held, Saturday afternoon, and a short workout on Monday night in Wall Gerow should have his lads right on edge to open the league in Picton on Wednesday.

Tommy Pointer, who sprained his ankle in Port Hope, was working out again Saturday but whether or not he will be ready to pitch in Picton is a problem. The big boy will have to be careful of the injured member for some time.

* * *

After the locals held Kingston Pumles to four hits, sport writers in Peterboro and Belleville weren't long in telling their public that the Pumes must be very weak and that this year, giving George Blazetitch no credit whatsoever for pitching a real game. According to the same way of figuring, Peterboro must be none too strong this season because the "weak" Ponies took them into camp last Saturday, 9 to 6, overcoming an early four-run lead.

* * *

They are already quite excited over in Picton about this team's chances this year. Three weeks ago Napanee was far too strong for the league but now the tables are turned. After acquiring Prout of Adolphustown, and players from Wellington, Bloomfield, Belleville and Cressy, the champions figure that they can take all comers and can hardly wait for May 30th to see what their so-called "home-brew" team looks like against the "upbuilt" Gibbard A's.

Personally, we will let the scores settle all arguments and want to say that Picton have better than an even chance of winning the pennant another year, but they will have to play better ball than they exhibited at any time during their triumphant march last fall.

The B's won their first home game on Thursday when they shut out Bayburn while catherine so generously chartered. The game last Wednesday with Forest Mills should be a rousing contest. The latter have won both their starts to date and mean business this year. "Snowball" Bishop gave another impressive display holding George Dickson's boys to one hit.

Games this Week

Wednesday, May 30th—
Gibbard A's at Picton.
Belleville at Brighton.
Forest Mills at Gibbard B's.
Enterprise at Tamworth.
Saturday, June 2nd—
Gibbard B's at Bayburn.
Tamworth at Forest Mills.

Last Week's Scores
Gibbard A's 12, Gananoque 1.
Gibbard B's 6, Bayburn 0
Enterprise 10, Tamworth 0.
Forest Mill 12, Bayburn 6.

Magistrate's Court

Thomas McDonald, of Sheffield convicted of taking a car without the owner's consent. Fined $10 and given a year's suspended sentence and ordered to pay costs of $26.30 or go to gaol for twenty days.

Maxwell McDonald of Ernestown, convicted of assault on Ray Peters, was placed on suspended sentence for six months and ordered to pay costs of $19.50.

George Powley and Oscar Heath, who were with Vincent Killgannon and Jack McGibbon, on the night they were killed in the tragic accident, near Odessa, were convicted of consuming liquor in an illegal place and fined $10.00 and costs, each.

A driver of the Colonial Coach Lines, convicted of speeding on the highway, was fined $10 and costs.

A young man from Belleville appeared on a charge of destroying a highway sign. He was assessed $5.00 and costs and the amount of the damage to the sign.

On Sunday evening, about 11.30 o'clock, Constable Connolly and Nicholas Tomaso, while driving into Napanee from the north, through Selby, crashed into the rear end of Gourlay's store and did considerable damage. Evidently they were driving too fast to make the turn. On Monday morning they appeared in police court, Tomaso was convicted of reckless driving and fined $10 and costs or 10 days in gaol. He was also fined $25.00 and costs or 20 days in gaol for leaving the scene of an accident. In addition his permit for driving was cancelled for six months. Failing to pay his fine, he went to gaol for thirty days.

Tomaso, who was with LaPointe, was convicted for not stopping at the scene of an accident and fined $25.00 and costs or thirty days in gaol. The fine was not paid, and he is now serving the goal sentence.

The Dominion Fruit Branch fruit and vegetable crop report for the month of May contains the following notice: We have been advised by the Destructive Insect and Pest Act Advisory Board that the Agricultural and Marine Products Board, Nassau, Bahamas, has recently made a ruling that all fruits and vegetables imported into that colony must be accompanied by a certificate from the Department of Agriculture at point of shipping that the products are free from insect pests of every description.

More New Books At the Napanee Public Library

THE MENACE OF JAPAN — By T. O'Conroy. The author of this interesting volume lived many years in Japan, married into an aristocratic Japanese family and was a professor in Keio University, the Oxford of Japan. He is qualified to deal with the subject treated in this volume.

THE YOUNG MRS. MEIGS — By Elizabeth Corbett. Numerous incidental torrents, humorous, exciting, pathetic, play around the central theme to make "The Young Mrs. Meigs" a story of almost universal appeal. Through it all, however, it remains a lovely portrait of a remarkable woman — the "grand old girl" who gives her name to the story.

THANK YOU, JEEVES—By P. G. Wodehouse. Of all the humorous writers of today, none is so popular as the author of "Thank You, Jeeves". His books sell all over the world and by the tens of thousands. This is one of his best.

JONATHAN'S DAUGHTER — By Lida Larrmore. In this time of hectic travels, a genuinely delicate and charming story marked by spontaneity will come as a treasure to many fiction readers. The delightful charm and atmosphere of this book will hold you enthralled.

THE OPPERMANNS — By Lion Feuchtwanger. In this interesting novel the author paints a harrowing picture of the persecution of the Jews in Germany.

BEYOND CONTROL — By Rex Beach. A rapid moving strong novel of love, piracy and the struggle against the desire for drink.

THE RIDGE OF WHITE WATERS — A novel by Norman Giles. At last a novelist has constructed a story out of the romantic history of South Africa which, in its fineness and breadth of outlook truly reflects the spirit of the Dominion that is richest in historical associations for this country.

INTERLUDES—By Edward Orleans The author has had a wide experience in journalism and eventually attained the position of general manager of the McClure newspaper syndicate. This volume is a bitter arraignment of the futility of hypocritical conferences and tongue-in-the-cheek diplomacy.

CAPPY RICKS COMES BACK — By Peter B. Kyne. Here is an old friend back once more to make you chuckle at his waspish shrewdness and weep a little at his unselfish generosity. No one understands old men as well as Peter B. Kyne.

THE SILVER BRIDE — By Ethel M. Dell. This is the story of a woman who, after marrying the knight of her girlhood dreams and becoming the mother of his two children, finds herself far from having attained the ideals of her youth. Interwoven with the story are many romantic episodes in the life of a nurse serving at the front in the Great War.

WE RIDE THE GALE—By Emilie Loring. A stormy romance teeming with amusing and thrilling adventures.

T. E. LAWRENCE — By Liddell Hart. The book gives a new interpretation of the Middle East campaigns for Jerusalem and Damascus, the major operations to which the Arab Revolt was tied. It reproduces much fresh evidence from War Cabinet records to soldiers' stories of what they actually witnessed; and includes some striking reconsiderations of hitherto accepted ideas.

United Church Council Meets in September

Executive Prepares Important Matters For Presentation At Kingston

Toronto. — The sixth General Council of the United Church of Canada will meet on Sept. 12 next at Kingston, Ontario. It has been rumoured that Winnipeg will invite the seventh General Council which meets in 1936. The recent meeting of the Executive of General Council has prepared some reports, including missionary education, secondary schools, methods of evangelism, and other important business for the Council next autumn. There will be many other matters arising from the meetings of Presbyteries and Conferences.

The Executive requested the Board of Governors of the United Theological College, Montreal, to hold over the discontinuance of the Chair of Christian Ethics for revision of the Council itself. The plan for re-organization of the department of missionary education was adopted and sent on to the General Council for final consideration.

The last General Council ordered the appointment of a committee to consider the whole situation in regard to an amalgamation of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service with the Board of Home Missions. The committee reported adversely, and the recent Executive sent it on to the General Council.

The foregoing are only a few of the important matters which will come before the General Council in September. Meanwhile, they will engage the interest of many church members and ministers.

Conferences, which meet in the next few weeks in all parts of Canada, have opportunity to send on memorials through the Conferences or directly.

The Executive arranged that sessions of the General Council will be held in Svndenham Street United Church, Kingston.

Most infants are infested by worms, which cause great suffering, and if not promptly dealt with may cause constitutional weaknesses difficult to remedy. Miller's Worm Powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms and will so act upon the system that there will be no recurrence of the trouble. And not only this, but they will repair the injuries to the organs that worms cause and restore them to soundness.

WEDDING BELLS

PARTINGTON—DOWDLE

A very quiet but pretty spring wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, April 11th, 1934, when Laura Elizabeth Dowdle, second youngest daughter of M. and Mrs. Wm. H. Dowdle, Newburgh, was united in marriage to Thomas Donald Partington, formerly of Liverpool, England.

The ceremony took place at the rectory at Camden East, the Rev. R. W. Spencer, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, officiating.

The bride was a picture of loveliness in her wedding gown of royal blue silk crepe with gold trimmings, blue hat, grey kid shoes, hose and gloves to match. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie Dowdle, wearing a becoming gown of brown printed crepe, while Mr. Walter Dowdle ably supported the groom. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful walnut cabinet of "Lady Hamilton" pattern. Community plat flatware.

Among those who witnessed the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham, Selby.

Mr and Mrs. Partington left for a short honeymoon. The bride travelled in an all-wool blue crepe dangora suit with accessories to match. Upon returning, Saturday evening, a reception and shower were given in their honour. The bride and groom received many beautiful and useful gifts.

On May the fourth the members of St. John Anglican Church and the A.Y.P.A. gathered at the bride's home and presented the bride and groom with a solid walnut occasional chair and parlour stand.

The following address was read by the Rev. R. W. Spencer:

Dear Mr and Mrs. Partington.

We, the members of St. John's congregation wish you God speed, happiness and prosperity as you travel life's journey together, and we ask you to accept these gifts of furniture for your home, being in some measure an outward and visible token of that desire. May God give you health, strength and many years of happiness to worship with us.

WIFE'S DELIGHT AT HUSBAND'S LOSS

30 POUNDS OF FAT !

Here is something all wives of fat men will be glad to know. It is the experience of a woman whose husband recently weighed 230 lbs. She writes:—

"I really feel I must write and tell you that, after taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months, my husband has got his weight down from 230 lbs. to 200 lbs. This has been achieved by nothing else but Kruschen, I am too heavy also, and I started taking Kruschen only three weeks ago. Already I have got down from 153 lbs. to 144 lbs. We are delighted."—(Mrs.) C. D.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

SMUDGE FIRES FOR CAMPERS

In the course of an address to the Quebec Society for the protection of plants, Mr. M. B. Dunn of the Dominion Entomological Branch, gave some interesting advice on methods of protection against mosquitoes and blackflies, while camping, hunting and fishing. A smudge is an excellent emetic measure, he said, and in combatting insect attack, especially the onslaught of blackflies. A good smudge will completely rout blackflies, however numerous and vicious they may be. The beginner usually derives little benefit from a smudge because he adds the smoke-producing material to the fire too soon, with the result that the fire goes out completely. A good smudge should last an hour or more. A small but brisk fire should first be made and allowed to burn till a bed of glowing embers is produced. Then several pieces of dry wood should be added and allowed to become well lighted. Over this should be placed damp, rotten wood or debris from the forest floor. A dense and lasting smoke will result. A small smudge built in a tin pail or can, and carried in the canoe or boat, is a source of unbelievable comfort when fishing in a territory where flies are numerous. Several inches of sand should always be placed in the bottom of the pail to avoid burning the bottom of the boat.

Mosquitoes can bite with ease through one thickness of an ordinary garment, such as a flannel shirt, wherever it touches the body. Shirts made of closely woven duck, however will put a kink in the proboscis of almost any mosquito, and if light underwear is worn inside the shirt, the insects will be completely foiled. A favourite habit of blackflies is to crawl inside one's clothing and bite all parts of the body. If these insects are numerous, therefore, the shirt should be kept buttoned and a large handkerchief worn around the neck, covering the shirt collar. The shirt sleeves also should be kept closely buttoned and held at the wrists with elastic bands.

HAYBURN LADIES' AID

The regular monthly meeting of Hayburn Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. Gordon Furrs on May 18th with a splendid attendance of twelve members and six visitors. The president had charge of the meeting. The hymn, "Pass Me Not O Gentle Saviour," was sung followed by prayer by Rev. H. P. Sanders. The Scripture reading was 103rd Psalm. The roll call was responded to by a verse from the Bible. After the business was transacted, a short program added much to the interest of the meeting. Rev. and Mrs. Sanders sang a duet in their usual pleasing manner and Mrs. Arthur Brooks gave a splendid reading.

Mrs. Lacey, President of an Aid Society near London, was present and gave many helpful suggestions. The beautiful old hymn, "Lily of the Valley," was sung and Rev. Sanders brought the meeting to a close. Mrs. Furrs served refreshments and a social half hour was enjoyed. Lunch fees amounted to $2.00. The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. James Dickson.

WESLEY LADIES' AID

The April meeting of the Wesley Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. S. Anderson with the president, Mrs. Moore, presiding. The meeting opening with a hymn, followed by sentence prayer by the members after which Mrs. Ross McKeown gave the scripture lesson, taken from John 14. Business followed which included plans for a social to be held in the near future. Mrs. Robert Nugent was appointed to prepare the programme for the May meeting. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, after which a very lovely reading, entitled "April Showers," by Miss Ellen McKeown. Mr. Anderson, who was present, had a very splendid paper on "The League of Nations." It was in the form of a play in which Mr. Anderson was the leader and each member had a part when on which questions were asked and were answered by the leader. The paper was interesting and educative and pointed out, that although the League of Nations is not all that could be desired, yet it is, to a great measure, helping to keep nations from war and is worthy of our sincerest prayers. "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," was then sung after which Rev. Mr. Anderson closed the meeting with prayer.

NEWS AND INFORMATION FOR THE BUSY FARMER

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture)

Farm Plan:

Draw a plan of the farm marking on each field the kind of crop grown this year, the variety, rate of seeding, application of manure and fertilizer, and any other information that may be of use. If a record of this kind is made each year it will be found of great value in the future.

Percherons in Demand

Sales of Percheron pure bred stock this spring have been very heavy, the demand is much greater than the supply, and it is only those who are willing to pay good prices that are able to buy at all. Breeders are reaping a really good harvest from those who want to get Percherons these days. Prices are at least $200.00 per head higher than they were a year ago, and the demand for two-year-old stallions because they do not cost just as much as the more matured horse, is tremendous.

Outlook Encouraging for Poultry Farmers

According to reports received at the Poultry Division, Central Experimental Farm, there has been considerable indication of much poorer hatching results than were ordinarily obtained in previous years. These comparatively small hatches will undoubtedly leave their impression on the supply of dressed poultry and eggs available in Canada this coming autumn. With these results in mind it should be safe to forecast that farmers throughout Canada should receive comparatively good prices for poultry produce in the coming fall and winter.

Toronto Fruit Auction

A new development in Toronto, during the past couple of weeks, is the establishment of a fruit auction, located in the Terminal Warehouse, at the foot of York Street.

So far, facilities are available only to straight cars of imported fruits and vegetables. Sales are being held three days a week commencing at 7.00 a.m., while the display rooms are open one hour earlier in order to permit buyers to inspect products to be put up for sale.

Commenting on this development, J. W. Buchanan, secretary, Ontario Growers' Markets Council, said: "Whether or not the facilities will be made available to domestic produce, lies entirely with the management. However, in my opinion, the scheme is worthwhile watching and, if made available to Ontario growers, might prove a partial solution to our Toronto marketing problem."

Liming Material:

Ground limestone, slacked lime, and marl are employed as soil corrections to correct acidity and furnish lime for plant growth. Of these sources of lime ground limestone, its composition and fineness should be considered; a good grade material will contain at least 80 per cent of carbonate of lime and for a prompt action in the soil 60 per cent should pass a sieve of 40 meshes to the linear mesh sieve.

Must Spray Hawthorn

It is now compulsory that all apple and hawthorn trees within three hundred yards of an orchard the owner of which has applied for certification must be thoroughly sprayed for apple maggots or cut down prior to July 1. All spraying must be effected in accordance with the recommendation set forth in the official spray calendar. This action is necessary to meet the requirements of the British Government with regard to Canadian apples exported to the Old Country market.

Grain Pamphlet Offered

A new pamphlet bearing on the best varieties of grain and prepared by the Cereal Division, Dominion Experimental Farms Branch, is now ready for distribution. This pamphlet lists the varieties which are recommended, province by province, across Canada in the case of wheat, oats, barley, peas and flax for seed. A separate pamphlet prepared jointly by the Cereal Division and the Ontario Agricultural College, dealing with both spring and winter wheat in Ontario, is also available.

Egg Grade Responsibility

In case of dispute about properly marked cases of graded eggs, the Canadian egg regulations are quite explicit. No case or container of eggs is considered to be properly marked if, upon examination by an inspector, the case is found to contain more than an average of 6½ per cent. below grade, apart from breakage. In transactions between wholesalers, or between a wholesaler and a retailer, any complaints by the purchaser with respect to eggs below grade must be made to the seller within 36 hours after receipt of the eggs. Thus, responsibility as to eggs below grade is upon the seller for the period 36 hours after delivery to the buyer. After the expiration of the 36 hours the responsibility as to eggs, below grade is upon the person in whose possession such eggs are found.

Slow Sale at Yards

Recent shipments of cattle to the Union Stock Yards at Toronto according to the Ontario Marketing Board, show too many unfinished loads. This, of course, has resulted in extensive hold-overs. Stocker cattle of good type and in good flesh, on the other hand, met with ready sale for the export market.

Lateness of spring and shortage of feed have forced more unfinished stock on the market than usual. Until more grass is available, however, slow selling may be expected.

Ontario Honey Export: 80% of Dominion Total

Exports of Canadian honey have been increasing steadily for the past five years, from 1,744,871 pounds in 1929 to some 2,806,770 pounds in 1933. Of the total exported in 1929, 1,213,225 pounds went to the United Kingdom, while in 1933 approximately 2,213,509 pounds were sent to the same market, definitely indicating a growing preference for Canadian honey in Great Britain.

It is gratifying to note that for the years 1930 to 1933, according to an estimate of G. R. Paterson, secretary, Ontario Export Association, Ontario has contributed about eighty per cent. of all honey exported from Canada.

Feeding Baby Chicks:

The average farmer or poultryman has but little time to experiment with feeds and methods of feeding. There is no need for them to do it. Government institutions and feed manufacturers have done the experimenting and have made available a balanced feed or a formula whereby the poultryman may buy the separate ingredients and mix a balanced feed at his own plant.

Brooding chicks in large numbers, whether in the brooder house or battery brooders, has called for extensive experimenting on the part of someone in order to determine what is the most suitable mixture of feeds for the first three or four weeks, and then in what proportions they should be mixed for developing the chick over it's growing range.

It was possible to use bread, oatmeal, onion tops and hard-boiled eggs to feed young chicks when there were only 3 or 4 dozen being brooded by hens, and at a season when the weather was quite warm. In those days eggs were scarce and high priced during the late fall and winter months, but by artificial incubation and brooding chicks are hatched and raised at all seasons of the year, and winter eggs are almost as common as summer eggs. The scientists and the manufacturers have combined many ingredients to make a feed that has taken the guesswork out of feeding. It is largely a matter of keeping the feed before the chicks, the brooder house clean, and the proper temperature and suitably ventilated. The chicks live and grow.

GROWING LILIES FROM SEED

Raising lilies from seed is one of the most fascinating phases of garden work. Like most of the open pollinated plants the seed will produce the greatest range of variation that it is possible to imagine and sometimes if a few varieties are grown in close proximity and become cross pollinated. It is by this method that new and distinct varieties are obtained. Some varieties require to be hand pollinated to insure seed setting. This is easily done by taking the pollen from the dangling anthers of one flower and dusting it on the tip of the central stigma of the flower that is to produce the seed. The pollen grains will stick to the stigma and can be seen quite readily. Some of the species that require hand pollination to be sure seed will set are L. Brownii, L. Candidum, L. Hansonii, L. Longiflorum, L. Speciosum, L. Sulphureum, L. Testaceum, L. Tigrinum, as well as some varieties of L. elegans.

If the freshly gathered seeds are sown soon after they ripen they will germinate much more quickly than where the seed is kept and allowed to dry out before sowing. In localities where there is a heavy snowfall the seed may be sown in cold frames in which light or sandy loam soil has been placed. Before winter sets in the beds should be mulched with leaves to give protection. Where the snow fall is light it is much better to sow the seed in pots with good soil and good drainage, and store in a ventilated pit or cellar where growth will not take place. In the spring, bring these up to heat and the young plants will soon appear.

It has been found that lily seeds will sometimes remain in the soil for two years before germinating as in the case of the seeds of L. auratum, while in the case of others like L. Tenuifolium germination will take place in a month or less. It is a good plan to sow the seed thinly as it will be much easier to separate the seedlings, besides producing much finer plants. Transplanting to nursery rows in frames with good potting soil as soon as the plants are large enough to handle well. By the end of the third or four season many of the young plants will be large enough to be planted out in the permanent position.

Once a seedling has bloomed and it is found to be outstanding it is an easy matter to propagate it from scales, bulbils or offsets.

Every garden should have, at least, a few lilies to fill in the awkward gaps in the season of bloom.

CHURCH CO-OPERATES WITH DR. GRENFELL

Mission Boat to be Built for Northern Coasts of Newfoundland

St. John's, Nfld. Evangelistic and pastoral work in co-operation with Dr. Grenfell in northern Newfoundland is to be carried on in future by a mission boat, under the direction of the United Church of Canada. Hitherto the United Church has been serving the St. Anthony and Griquet fields in the extreme north of Newfoundland with one married missionary and one student, both working overland. By operating a boat, one missionary will be able to do the work of two. He will be a married, ordained minister.

Besides preaching and teaching, the marine missionary will administer the sacraments, which have not often been available to the student-fields for a generation or more.

St. Anthony, where the Grenfell Hospital is located, will be the missionary's residence and home port. The United Church's Mission Board has authorized the construction of the boat by Captain Walter Jones at Little Bay Islands. The boat will have provision for carrying a nurse and several patients whenever necessary.

A year ago mission boats were placed on the Green Bay and White Bay fields by the United Church, thus economizing in man power and covering territory more frequently. Dr. Grenfell has been much impressed with this improved service to the people of the Coast, and has arranged for the new missionary to have the full use of his medical mission boats whenever necessary.

TOOK 2000 MILE TRIP JUST FOR TRAIN RIDE

Vancouver, B.C. — There is, at least, one man off in North America who doesn't give a whoop about speed or hurry or far-flung ambitions or any of these things which harrass the life of the average individual. He is a farmer and he lives near North Battleford in the northern section of Saskatchewan. He arrived in Vancouver at 9.30 o'clock one morning recently on one of the one-cent-a-mile excursions of the Canadian National Railways. Instead of following the crowd of sight seers he approached the ticket agent and inquired timidly if it would be all right for him to hang around the station until the next train left for the east. That would be at 2.45 in the afternoon.

"None whatsee," replied the ticket clerk, "but wouldn't you like to walk around and see something of Vancouver while you are here?"

"No sir," said the traveller, shedding his overcoat and hat and ignoring the shining beauty of a Pacific Coast city that never knows real cold weather. "I just came west for the train ride. It has been a good one and I'm satisfied. I'm going home on the next train."

It is 1025 miles from North Battleford to Vancouver.

High Speed Cause Of Many Accidents In Ontario

With the growth in the use of motor vehicles, the development of faster and more comfortable cars, and improved highways, there has come a tremendous movement of traffic, particularly each summer and fall, to the open road. These changes have combined to make the accident problem on rural highways of increasing importance during the past few years. With the paving of many miles of rural roadway, not only the King's highways, but also county and township roads, travel now presents but two important differences from that found in urban driving; namely, the lack of fixed artificial lighting, and secondly, and most important, the generally higher speeds prevailing.

A comparison of the results of rural and urban accidents which occurred in Ontario during 1933 gave convincing evidence of any were needed of the truth of the statement that the higher the speed—the worse is the accident".

Despite the fact that traffic, both vehicular and pedestrian, is less concentrated throughout the year on the rural roads, deaths by motor vehicles on these highways exceeded those from urban accidents by more than fifty-five per cent. Rural accidents comprised only forty per cent. of the provincial total but resulted in sixty-one per cent. of the total fatalities, and sixty-three per cent. of the total property damage. From the standpoint of fatal injuries, the "collision with pedestrian" type of accident was the most serious on both urban streets and rural roads. But on the urban streets there was one death for every twenty-four accidents of this type reported; while on the rural highways the ratio was one killed to every six accident".

The higher death rate at higher speeds was also very clearly indicated by the results of accidents involving collisions between motor vehicles. Urban accidents of this type numbered 1,743 and caused 19 death. Accidents of this type on the rural roads numbered 1,500 and resulted in death to 45 persons.

Collisions at main highway and non-collision accidents, which are almost all the result of driving off the roadway, and which in the majority of cases involve excessive speed, together comprised forty per cent. of the rural accidents, but made up only five per cent. of the urban total.

When statistics of accidents on the King's highways, which include main provincial roads in southern Ontario, were considered alone, even more convincing evidence of the results at higher speeds was shown.

About one of every four accidents reported during 1933 happened on these highways, and they resulted in one of every three fatalities from motor accidents throughout the Province. The property damage per accident averaged $170, or about $100 more per accident than at all other locations. Collisions with pedestrians caused forty-nine deaths and was the most serious single type of accident classified. There was one pedestrian killed for every five pedestrians injured on the King's highways as compared with a rate of one to twenty at all other locations. Collisions between motor vehicles resulted in one fatality for every 33 injured. On all other streets and highways the ratio was one to sixty-two.

The highways of the Province have been built with the object of providing a safe, convenient and reasonable rapid means of transportation. They have not been constructed as speedways, but rather to afford the maximum of safety and comfort to traffic travelling at no more than the legal limit of thirty-five miles per hour. While there may be times w a somewhat greater speeds may be considered safe, there are even more occasions on which a speed of thirty-five miles per hour is dangerous. For this reason, the judgment of the driver is the major factor in determining the speed which is safe and proper at any time, always remembering that while conditions may apparently warrant greater speed, it is always improper to exceed the legal limit.

The claim is frequently advanced that the present limit is archaic and that the development of vehicles has made much higher speeds possible. But the accident figures speak for themselves. On the roads today the average speed of traffic is approximately thirty-five miles per hour, perhaps at times a trifle higher. Nevertheless, the ratio between fatalities and the total number of accidents is 140 per cent. higher on the rural roads than on the urban streets. What then might one expect if the average speed increased to perhaps 45 miles per hour?

Driving today, more than at any time since the invention of the motor car calls for good judgment. Facility and adeptness in the handling of the vehicle is not nearly sufficient. Based upon human judgment that the safety of every user of the road rests and excessive speed which shortens the time during which a driver may judge the situation when an emergency arises is a factor which better cars, better tires and better brakes cannot possibly overcome.

History of Seeding Machines

It is said that the first notice of a machine for drilling grain occurs in Theophrastus. Of wheel-barrow form with a hopper for seed, it had three spouts which conducted the grain through three tree openers into the ground. An old account in the British Ministry of Agriculture states that a seeding drill has been used in India almost from time immemorial. Through unwritten writing and illustration mention is made of a seeding machine of Assyrian origin about 500 B.C. The description leads to the belief that it was very similar to that used in India, being a crudely formed plough of wood with a bowl-shaped seed container. Seed was carried to the furrow through a wooden spout.

Two thousand years elapse before history again mentions seeding equipment. In 1605 A.D., the Roman perfected a machine for seeding grain in drills or rows. Mounted on two wheels, with a rectangular seed container, three or four rows of seed were deposited into a broad, shallow furrow formed by a single broad furrow opener. In 1623 Alexander Hamilton in Britain wrote regarding his sowing machine, "for small grains, but saw no explanation of his method. The first real explanation of the invention of a seeding machine was given by an Austrian, Joseph Locatelli, in 1662. This was mounted on wheels, had a rectangular hopper fitted with mechanism for carrying out seed which fell on the ground, and was then covered by a toothed device dragged behind. There is evidence that it was manufactured in Madrid in 1664, and sold at a price fixed in the country.

In 1669 John Evelyn presented one of these machines with printed instructions and operating directions to the Royal Philosophical Society of London, recommending its use. Later in 1701 Jethro Tull made some improvements on the machine but he was too far ahead of his time. After Tull many improvements were made by Dr. James Cook, an English clergyman. Through the 19th century, advancement in seeding machinery was rapid. Hornsby, an English inventor, brought out the modern rubber conductor tubes or spouts, still used to some extent in modern grain drills. Between 1830 and 1850 the hoe furrow opener was perfected; this type is still used in some sections of the United States as well as in other countries. After 1850 agricultural engineers, recognizing that accuracy in placing the proper quantity of seed in each furrow was vital to producing best results, occupied many years developing the seeding mechanism now found on grain feeds or distributors—W. L. Bradley at the World's Grain Conference, Regina.

FROZEN RICE PUDDING

The following is a recipe for frozen rice pudding, taken from the Dominion Department of Agriculture pamphlet on home-made desserts. Ingredients: two tablespoonfuls of rice; one-third cup sugar; three-quarter teaspoonful vanilla. Wash the rice and cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain, then add the milk, and cook in double boiler about 20 minutes. Press through a sieve and pour over the egg until the pudding thickens. Remove from the fire, cool, add the flavouring and freeze. Whip the cream and add it when the ice cream is nearly frozen. Left-over cooked rice may be used (about 6 table-spoonfuls.'

CANADIAN HOG QUALITY INCREASES

Statistics alone, do not reveal the benefits which have been derived from hog grading. The general quality of all hogs has been improved because of the greater attention which has been paid to producing the kind demanding and any retrogression in the quality of Canadian hogs now would have to be immediately sought after as the grading data compiled each year, entirely eliminates any carelessness which might be attributed.

Persian Balm—the one toilet requisite for the dainty woman. Delightful to use. Leaves no stickiness. Swiftly absorbed by the tissues. Delicately fragrant. Imparts a velvety loveliness to the complexion. Tones up the skin. Soothes and banishes all unpleasant roughness or chafing caused by wind and other weather conditions. Makes hands soft and white. Creates an elusive, essentially feminine charm. Persian Balm is indispensable to women of refinement. Invited to ignorance.

A man, I felt, is justified in shooting dead any man who borrows a volume out of a set and does not return it.

I spent the evening cleaning my automatic pistol. The next night at six o'clock Henry Beemis had not returned the book. I called up his number again.

'This is George Wippert speaking,' I said: 'Is Henry Beemis there ?'

'No, he is not here,' his mother's voice answered, and I thought it trembled even more than before.

'Where is he ?' I asked.

'He has gone out to borrow some books,' she said.

I hung up the receiver and picked up my automatic. I put on my hat and coat and went down to the street. I walked the eight blocks to where Henry Beemis lived and hid in a dark doorway opposite his dwelling place, releasing the safety catch on my pistol.

I must have waited half an hour before I saw Henry Beemis. He stood a moment in his doorway and then stepped into the street, and I raised my pistol and fired. At the same instant a machine gun up the street chattered its 'tut-tut-tut-tut' and a man stepped from a doorway two houses up and fired two barrels of a double - barreled shotgun at Henry Beemis. He fell dead instantly.

I ran across the street just as the man with the shotgun came running to where Henry Beemis lay, and to my surprise I saw that the man with the shotgun was none other than Henry S. Gryce, the book publisher.

'I got him! I got him' Mr. Gryce cried happily. 'I've been laying for him quite a while, but I got him at last.'

'What did you kill him for ?' I asked, for my curiosity was somewhat aroused.

'I'll tell you why I killed him,' said Mr. Gryce. 'He deserved to die. Do you know what he is ? He is one of the fellows who borrow books. When he borrows books he doesn't have to buy them. When he doesn't buy a book I don't sell it. He's been hurting trade.'

Just then the man with the machine gun came to us. He was doubleless delayed by the weight of the machine gun, which was a heavy one. I was surprised to see that he was Gerald S. Cutts, the publisher.

'Good !' he exclaimed. 'I got him this time.

'And what did you kill him for?' I asked.

'The rascal got what he deserved,' said Mr. Cutts. 'He has been employed by our League for two years and paid a good salary to borrow books and not return them. That clears the shelves and people can buy more books. But this wretch double-crossed us. He returned a book.'

He looked at me more closely then and recognized me, and he saw the automatic in my hand.

'Did you kill him, too?' he asked.

'Yes, I said I would and I did.'

'What did you kill him for ?' asked Mr. Gryce.

'I killed him for not returning my book.'

'Really ?' giggled Mr. Gryce. 'I killed him for borrowing that book.'

'And he took it back to you tonight,' chuckled Mr. Cutts. 'I killed him for returning it to you.'

It was so funny that we just stood there and laughed and laughed. It was then that Henry Beemis raised his head to utter his last words.

'Gentlemen,' he said, 'if you will pardon me for a moment, it seems to me that the complexities of modern life may well puzzle the ordinary citizen.'

How Deep Should Various Crops Be Seeded ?

Wheat, oats and barley should be seeded at a depth of about two inches. Buckwheat gives better results at one inch. Peas and vetches do well at two inches, corn at one to two inches and sunflowers at two inches. Potatoes should be planted deeper and do best between two and four inches. The smaller seeds such as grasses and clovers must be planted shallow and give best results at about one-half inch deep.

These figures are presented, based on the results of experiments conducted for the past four years, by the Field Husbandry Division at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. In this experiment thirteen different crops have been used. Wheat, oats, barley, buckwheat, peas' vetches, sunflowers and corn have been seeded at depths of one, two, three, four, five and six inches. Timothy, alsike, red clover and alfalfa were seeded one, two and three inches deep and potatoes at two, four six and eight-inch depths.

The proper depth of seeding has been influenced quite considerably by the amount of moisture present. In an extremely dry season most crops will germinate more satisfactorily if planted deeper than in a normal season due to the greater amount of moisture at the lower depth. The opposite is true in a very wet season. When very shallow seeding produces better results. The above figures are based on a normal season and represent conditions in an average season in Eastern Canada.

It will be noticed that the the general run of field crops the most suitable depth to seed is about two inches with the exception of the smaller grasses and clovers, while the most suitable depth is approximately the same for most of these crops it has been noticed that some crops are more seriously affected than others by a departure from this depth. Common vetch, for instance, germinates almost as satisfactorily at a depth of five inches as at two inches. The two inch depth, however, is recommended. Next to vetch, peas were least affected by deeper planting although they were considerably better at two inches than deeper. The germination and yield of wheat, oats and barley dropped rather gradually following planting from two to four inches, deeper plantings were followed by very marked decreases in germination and yield. The germination of corn was reduced to a greater extent than sunflowers by sowing deeper plantings but both fell off quite markedly when planted deeper than two inches. Buckwheat was influenced most of all the crops and germination was depressed very considerably when planted deeper than one inch.

The above recommendations refer to crops grown on sandy loam soil. On heavier clay soils, generally speaking, slightly shallower plantings should be employed.

THE CASE —OF— HENRY BEEMIS

The complexities of modern life may well puzzle the ordinary citizen. I, for instance, am a chemist, and I specialize in pulp products. I know all about wood pulp and rag pulp and paper making. One morning Henry S. Gryce, the book publisher, came to me.

'Wippert,' he said, 'we publishers are not selling one-tenth the books we should, and something has to be done about it. My idea is that books are too durable. They last forever. A man has only so much shelf room for books, and when his shelves are full he has no place to put more books and he stops buying books. Now I want you to get to work and produce a paper that will distintegrate in one year, leaving nothing but a thin film of dust. I want you to create a paper that will perish in twelve months. Then the overloaded bookshelves will clear themselves automatically, making room for new books, and the public will buy ten times as many books.'

I told him I would begin my experiments at once, and I did.

When I reached home I looked at my own shelves and I saw at once that what Cutts had said was true. My shelves were full of books except for the width of one volume. Volume IIII of my fine set of Thackeray was missing. I had loaned that book to Henry Beemis two years before and he had never returned it, although I had spoken to him about it several times.

What angered me now was that the set, if complete, was worth a lot of money, but with one volume missing it was merely so much junk. I went to the address that called Henry Beemis's number; his mother answered.

'I want to talk to Henry Beemis,' I said.

'Who is it ?' she asked in a voice that I thought trembled.

'This is George Wippert,' I said, 'and Henry borrowed a book from me two years ago and never returned it. You tell him that if that book is not back here by six o'clock tomorrow night I am going to take an automatic pistol and shoot him dead.'

I spent the evening cleaning my automatic pistol. The next night at six o'clock Henry Beemis had not returned the book. I called up his number again.

'This is George Wippert speaking,' I said: 'Is Henry Beemis there ?'

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . . Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels and life certainly gets gloomy. That sluggish flow of bile allows up digestion and stagnation and makes you "feel punk." Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, sourness. Quit. Your breath is foul and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is blotchy. All, of course, because your system is full of poisons.

A few bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral waters, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum may be good enough to correct this condition entirely. You've known that and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again.

Any calomel movement, you'll be thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They never upset you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and safe; but how they do change you!

Don't waste your money on substitutes. Demand Carter's Little Liver Pills and see that you get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c, at all druggists.

WHAT HAS GOODYEAR DONE TO MAKE THE NEW PATHFINDER THE TIRE SURPRISE OF THE YEAR?
(SEE THE NEW FULL CENTRE-TRACTION PATHFINDER AT ANY GOODYEAR DEALER)
YOU HAVE TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT.

● THE TIRE SURPRISE OF YOUR LIFE is waiting for you — Goodyear's new Pathfinder. When you are shown this new tire you will conclude you are looking at the most expensive tire made. You'll see a centre-tread pattern never equalled for firm traction — a flatter tread and broader non-skid shoulders — thicker rubber to give 25% more tread wear than formerly — a tire oversize in all dimensions — the handsomest and by all odds the best tire in its price class!

But what you see is only half the story. The inner carcass of the Pathfinder is actually heavier and stronger than most top-price tires of other makes. Goodyear's exclusive Supertwist cords put sinewy toughness into the Pathfinder which yields greater mileage. Two cord breaker-strips under the tread — sometimes called "extra plies."

Prices on the new Pathfinder are not higher, but 10% to 15% lower than the prices of so-called "standard" tires . . . in fact they are very little higher than the prices of risky "bargain" tires.

See the new 1934 Pathfinder at your dealer's today.

Lucky Ticket Numbers For Community Days Prizes Announced

Community Days an Unqualified Success

Napanee Community Days, held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, were an unqualified success. With very few exceptions, the merchants of the town enjoyed exceptionally good business.

Over forty of the merchants entered into the Community Days' promotion. This time it was sponsored by the recently formed Chamber of Commerce, retail merchants' section. The special 10-page advertising supplement carried in The Beaver of last week, contained a long list of special values, which the merchants offered for three days. Enough extra copies of The Beaver were sent out to cover the whole community within a radius of from 25 to 30 miles.

Mr. J. A. Marshall, in his open letter to the citizens of Napanee and community, asked for co-operation between the town and county. The results of the three days' sale is clear evidence that the public acceded to his request.

Many of the merchants reported that they hadn't had better business in many a day. The buying public was satisfied with the values offered.

Special Entertainment

The entertainment provided by the Entertainment Committee, under the chairmanship of Chief Watts, was no small factor in the success of the occasion. On Wednesday evening, before the sale days, the Napanee Citizens' Band gave a splendid street concert. They played in the various sections of the business part of the town and drew the people with them, wherever they played.

On Thursday evening, the Napanee Boys' Band gave a concert on the Market Square. A large number of citizens turned out to hear this fine musical organization.

The block dance, arranged for Friday evening, was a splendid success. People came from far and near and everyone had a good time. Splendid music for dancing was provided by The Ramblers, and Cy. Middleton called-off for the square dances.

The closing event was the drawing for the prizes at the Market Square on Saturday evening at 11 o'clock. The merchants of the town banded together to provide three grand prizes of $20.00, $10.00 and $5.00. Numbered tickets were given with each purchase of 50 cents and thousands of tickets were turned in for the drawing. In addition, several of the merchants offered special prizes in their own stores.

By 11 p.m. on Saturday, the Market Square was filled with people awaiting the drawing, which was made by Mayor Tustin:

Electors of Switzerville Hold Enthusiastic Meeting For H. S. Colliver

One of the most enthusiastic meetings in the interests of Mr. Horace Colliver and the Henry Government was held on Thursday, May 31st, in the school house at Switzerville. J. M. Spafford, in his usual capable and amiable manner, fulfilled the duties of chairman.

The first speaker called was Mr. Charles Hambly, ex-M.P.P. for the riding. Mr. Hambly gave a summary of the benefits enjoyed by the constituency through the means of the Henry Government, legislation giving benefits enjoyed by no other part of the North American continent. Mr. Hambly's account of his stewardship was listened to attentively and was received with well merited applause, on his resuming his seat.

Mr. Horace Colliver, Liberal-Conservative candidate for Prince Edward-Lennox, after being introduced by Mr. Hambly, first thanked those responsible for bringing his name forward and selecting him as the Liberal-Conservative standard bearer in this old U. E. L. riding.

Mr. Colliver showed what the Henry Government had done in the past. Besides carrying on the usual routine of government, it had been faced with extraordinary problems, such as providing for the unemployed. He pointed out how each problem was met and dealt with intelligently and fearlessly. The Henry Government, which he was proud to support, had no need to be ashamed of its administration. Even its enemies were forced to admit that Ontario, today, is in better shape financially, better able to meet the better times that are coming, and also that Ontario people suffered less actual hardship through lack of activities of the government, than any other province in Canada.

As Mr. Colliver and Mr. Hambly were on the programme at Roblin, they were reluctantly forced to curtail their speeches in order to keep the other appointment.

Capt. A. S. Hudson, Reeve of Napanee, was the next speaker called. He brought to the attention of his audience the importance of both parties publishing the truth in their statements. He regretted that some times, perhaps in the excitement of the campaign, those responsible, or their agents, neglected to maintain a check on what was given the printer. The Captain drew particular attention to a recent charge, published in the Kingston Whig-Standard, and signed by George Bawden, Liberal candidate for the riding of Kingston, in which the Henry Government was quoted as taking an assessment tax from welfare funds. If Mr. Bawden had looked into this matter, before he allowed his name to be used, he would have found that the Henry Government had made arrangements to look after such situations as quoted. More than once, had he (Capt. Hughson) applied for and received authority to have the amusement tax remitted, as the cause was for charitable purposes.

Evidently, Mr. Bawden does not familiarize himself with the true facts before making his charges.

The speaker spent some time on the cause of the depression and what the Liberal-Conservative Government were doing to relieve it.

Dr. G. W. Morden, of Napanee, gave an interesting and instructive review of what the Henry Government had done, and was doing for the farmers in Ontario. He compared some GENTLEMEN, THE KING !

The Birthday of the King recalls the strange years through which he has been permitted to serve as the constitutional monarch of the British Commonwealth of Nations. During the past decade the British Empire has withstood unusual strains. It has maintained its power and its cohesive life as it has centred around a human personality, in the person of King George. While other nations have thrown off their age-long allegiance to Ruling Houses, changed their form of government for new and untried experiments, the Empire has retained its unshaken faith in a limited monarchy and an undying loyalty to His Majesty.

That does not mean, of course, that the British Commonwealth of Nations has been immune to change. For nations and individuals do not live in a vacuum. They are part of the historic conditions of their day and generation. Perhaps one of those changes, the full extent of which we scarcely recognize as yet, was enacted under the statutes of Westminster, when the British Empire made the most daring experiment in history. By those statutes, the old political empire was broken up and the new commonwealth erected; not on a basis of political alliance, but on ties of sentiment and allegiance to a common ideal and a common King.

Since the enactment of the Statutes of Westminster, however, a more definite and planned effort to erect an economic empire, to take the place of the old political one, has been worked out. This was sponsored, to a large extent, by our own Prime Minister Bennett, and is the real meaning of the Ottawa Conference. That this binding together of the diverse elements in the Commonwealth, on the basis of economic security and interest, is only an experiment, need not be stressed. But that it is succeeding partially, is a tribute to the vision of those who planned it, and augurs well for the future. Perhaps it will pave the way for a larger economic union yet to be, in which all the nations of the world will share.

That our beloved King should have watched these changes, and have found himself, year by year, more deeply entrenched in the love and loyalty of his people,must, indeed, be a great source of gratitude and happiness in the evening of his life.

AS THE CAMPAIGN PROCEEDS

As the political campaign warms up, aided by the unusual heat of the past few days, the nerves of speakers and hearers, alike, are on edge. It is regrettable that there has been so much disturbance in the political meetings at which our Premier has been present. This is something new in Ontario politics and certainly reflects no credit on the communities in which the meetings have been held. To be sure, a speaker must be prepared to be heckled, and a certain amount of intelligent banter and question is not a bad thing, as it sustains interest in the meeting, sharpens the wit of the speaker and often elicits valuable information on questions of the day. In Great Britain, to which we look for much of our leadership in the conduct of public affairs, this art of gentlemanly good-natured heckling is developed to a fine art.

But this is quite a different matter from boo-ing and cat-calls, which have marked an increasing number of the political meetings of the Province. To be sure, the prevailing unrest unemployment, and depressed economic conditions may have some part in it. Men and women who are out of work and have suffered, must naturally have someone to blame. So they blame the Government. But, suraly no government is responsible for the world-wide conditions which prevail. There are other and deeper causes which no one government can change, acting alone. It is a world wide condition and must be settled by governments co-operating to that end.

At any rate, it is a manifestation of poor breeding, bad sportsmanship and spleen, to continue an uproar in any public meeting, and more especially in a meeting where intelligence is needed to the understanding of the questions discussed—and hoodlumism is never an indication of great intelligence.

EGGING THEM ON

We are all getting far too fussy and anxious. Somebody at the Ministry of Agriculture has now discovered that eggs, when packed for travelling, ought to be packed round end upwards; put the pointed end upwards and the air inside tries to rise, "and that is apt to lead to deterioration."

It sounds like a new excuse for bad eggs — "No madam, I can assure you the egg was absolutely new laid when it left here; I fear you must have taken it home the wrong way up."

THE LATE T. B. WALLACE

Napanee and surrounding community was totally unprepared for the news of the passing of Mr. T. B. Wallace. He has seemed so much a part of our town, that we had all taken him for granted, and never gave a thought to his probable death. He has been so prominent a business man, that it will be a long time before we shall get used to being without him. His genial and familiar figure will be greatly missed from our midst.

Mr. Wallace is a plendid example of what diligence, care for details, along with native endowments, may do for a man. As a boy, he was without many of the advantages of wealth which is supposed to be the sine qua non of success. But he studied and worked, received his education and finally entered the drug business in Napanee There, in that one corner store, his whole life's work was carried on. That he made a financial success of it, is known to all.

Though trained and brought up in an older school of thought in business and politics, Mr. Wallace preserved an unusually open mind to all the movements of the newer generation. No one was more alert to anticipate changes in business and to prepare for them, than Mr. Wallace. None was more interested in the new approach to the modern world, no one was more keen to see the implied changes in the whole international and social trends of the day.

It is a tribute to a really fine character, that he who made a success under certain prevailing conditions, was broad enought sympathetic and honest enought to see and admit the weakness of the very system under which his success had been achived.

Mr. Wallace recognized his inability to face the rough and tumble of municipal and political life. Consequently he took no active part in the Town and County administration. But he was trusted by all, and his judgmeht was sought by many a mayor, councillor and reeve. In his own way he excited a vital influence on the Town and Community.

He will be missed by many who regarded him as guide, counsellor and friend, but most of all by that intimate circle of friends and family who, alone, realized his true worth.

CONFERENCE TIME

The month of June is conference time in the Church life of the great Protestant Denominations. All over Canada, in the next two weeli, church representatives will gather together to review the work of the year and to plan for the future. The Anglican Synod of this district, and the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, had their sessions last week. Other groups are holding their meetings this week.

During the last few years of depression, the Church, through its ministry, has retained a deep place in the hearts of the people. It has acted as a bulwark of strength against the encroachments of defeatism and despair. To be sure, they have suffered very materially in contributions, but the remarkable thing is not that there have been failings—but the givings to the Church, but that they have fared so well. Of course, the Church has had to adjust its activities to reduced budgets. But, in many cases, the sacrifices and hardships borne by the clergy are worthy of a place in the world's roll of honour.

Perhaps more than the average man knows, the Church, in a sane and balanced manner, is helping to guide their members through the storms and stress of a changing civilization. With progressive and capable commission at work on the great problems of the day, the Church is exerting a real and powerful influence on the trends of modern thought, particularly in the application of the religion of Jesus to the vexed problems of our day.

But, perhaps its greatest worth, through these years, has been the way in-which it has exercised a quiet and helpful ministry to distressed and harrassed individuals and communities. Its humble service, its generosity in face of unprecedented need, its unselfish sharing in things both physical and spiritual, has made it a veritable city of refuge for countless thousands.

The great periods of the Church's life have never been in periods of material prosperity and easy wealth, but in days of stress and strain. The reports which come to us of the activities of the Church, in these weeks, would indicate the testing of the depression years is giving the Church a deeper place in the life of countless thousands..

HISTORY A LA MODE

While Socrates has been called upon by noted Chicago attorneys to answer the question, "can an ex-wife sue her former husband for breach of promise while he is still paying her alimony," Dr. C. C. Eckhart, professor of history, is debating whether it is possible to give credit to students in the Modern European history course for the wisecracks they made on their mid-term examination.

"Relief is when the daughter of a serf gets married," the history student wrote, and yet he did not designate to whom the relief was for. A herriot is "when a serf dies and his belongings and everything is left to his heirs and they have to sacrifice a cow to the Lord." Another avowed that "nuns and priests were the only educated people in the 15th century.

TIME

He that will not apply new remedies must expect new evils. The time is the great innovator: and if course of time alters things to the wpge, and wisdom and counsel shall not alter them to the better, what shall be the end? ! : : It were good, therefore, that men in their innovations would follow the example of time itself, which indeed innovateth greatly, but quietly, and by degrees scarce, to be perceived.—Francis Bacon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE CAMPAIGN IN PICTON DISTRICT

To The Editor of The Napanee Beaver,

Dear Sir, Readers of your news items will perhaps be interested to know what is transpiring in the political section of Prince Edward.

A series of meetings have been held at various points in the county, and within a short time, similar meetings will be held in Ernest.

Mr. H. B. Colliver, the Conservative candidate, states he is very pleased at the reception tendered him at the meetings, to-date In most cases, capacity audiences have attended. A surprisingly large number of Liberals who are not in accord with the type of leadership Mitchell Hepburn offers, have come forward to offer Mr. Colliver assistance.

Mr. Colliver, at each meeting, gives a clear-cut review of the Government's record. Knowing it well, he is able to clear up many questions which have caused doubt Followers have gone away from his meetings enthused.

Mr. Colliver has been supported on his speaking tour by such well known men as Brigadier-General B. R. Hepburn, John Weese, M.P., P.L. Ward, Emmett Picton barrister, L. B. Calnan, editor of the Picton Gazette; ex-Mayor Anderson, Reeve R. Zuefelt of Ameliasburg; ex-Reeve Alva Collier, of South Marysburg; Philip Dodds, editor of the Quinte Loyalist; E. M. Young and Lancelot Nethery, local lawyers, and others.

Every phase of the Government's work is dealt with in an interesting way. Mr. Colliver is a convincing and interesting speaker.

Recently, Mrs. K. Powell, of Napanee, addressed a ladies' Conservative rally here. The women are rallying to Mr. Colliver's support.

Prince Edward people are looking to Lennox to give Mr. Colliver a substantial majority. Mr. Colliver is known as a friend of the people, not only at election time, but all the time.

He has served on important committees in the House, and not one single criticism has been heard of his record. It is admitted he has served his constituents, well.

Mr. Colliver is pleased with the manner in which Napanee and district electors are working in his interests. He is remaining during his terms as member for Prince Edward, over $100,000 in special grants.

If elected, he promises to do all he can for Lenhox people as well. His record is not one of words but of deeds.

PICTON VOTER.

Editorial Comment

OUTLAWED WARFARE

There is universal abhorence of the idea that civilized nations should sink to methods of barbarism to the extent that they set upon one another by bombardment from the air. It is sometimes lightly argued that bombardment from the air is no worse than artillery bombardment. Materially and morally it is infinitely worse. Its destruction must be more indiscriminate, and once action had been engaged it would involve women and children and the accumulated wealth of civilization in slaughter and misery, and even the bankruptcy of statesmanship to attempt that it is a legitimate form of warfare for a nation to destroy its rival's capital from the air, and that the correct procedure of the attacked nation is to destroy the attacker's capital and all the life in it with high-explosive, noxious and bacteriological bombs . The one aspect of universal disarmament which is still unattainable possible, writes Lord Lothian, is the universal abandonment of bombing from the air under appropriate sanction against a violator. The question of what form the sanctions should take is, of course, an extremely difficult one. But that is no reason why a short multilateral anti-bombing agreement should not be signed which would make any country that resorted to the practice merely the enemy of the bombed country but of every signatory; and the knowledge that it would call down retaliation not by one, but by many nations, would in itself, be a formidable deterrent.— The Times, London.

A LESSON FOR BRITAIN

Britain, being the first modern industrial nation, is still wedded to individualism. While the cotton textile industry in Japan is one single chain made up of links of buying, shipping and delivery of raw material at the mills, and of manufacture and distribution of the finished product, the British industry is composed of innumerable small units. Where the few rule in Japan, the many rule in England. Such solidification of industry as there is in Japan has no counterpart in England except in the finishing sections and subsidiary companies. However, the advantage contained in this superior organization remained in the potential stage till the Japanese workman came abreast of the British workman. Still there seems to have been achieved. Then, in the differential between British and Japanese wages must be considered. . . . British industry, if it wishes to hold its supremacy in the world-textile trade must learn this lesson. It must realise from its own pupils that the flight of technics has robbed the British of their monopoly in manufacturing skill. The trade war that brought out this great historical fact is a vivid light. — Christian Science Monitor.

Dad, what is meant by inflation?
Well, instead of not having the money we haven't got now, we wouldn't have twice as much and it would be worth only one-third of what we haven't got.

AT THE CROSS-ROADS

(A Warning to Women)

The falling dusk was damp and raw,
The dress was not in sight,
But as I waited there I saw
A vision of delight.

A maiden waited by the road,
A prettier is perfect posy;
Her features positively glowed.
They were so pink and rosy.

It did not look to me like paint.
But Nature fresh and fair.
But then I looked away. It ain't
Respectable to stare.

And still we stood; within our ken
No bus swung into range, .
But when I looked at her again,
My goodness, what a change !

Gone was the glow that lately dressed
Those features with such grace;
An awful pallor now possessed
That sadly altered face.

Beneath that pallor, deeply spread,
She looked a perfect clown,
Or one who 'as they say' is dead
But won't as yet, lie down.

Good gracious ! what on earth could make
Her features alter thus ?
A heart attack A stomach-ache ?
Annoyance at no 'bus ?

But even as I gazed, afeard,
The roses bloomed once more;
The pallor passed and she appeared
As peachy as before.

"My hat ! what is this strange complaint ?"
I asked myself, perplexed;
"One moment she's as fresh as paint
And then the truth broke in for good:
The traffic lights were nigh !
Yes, there they shone; and there she stood
Beneath their winking eye.

'Twas underneath their baleful blink
Those strange effects were seen.
For, first of all, they struck her pink
And then they struck her green.

When they said "STOP" her beauty left her
Like roses in July;
But when they said "GO," alas ! she seemed
About to putrefy.

So fared the ladies, when I say
This tale is wholly true,
And shun the signal lights lest they Should do the same to you;

Lest as they flicker to and fro
They take you unawares;
Beware those lights at dusk, for lo !
The Evil Eye is theirs !

HYDRAULIC ANARCHY

We English are not the only people in the world with a serious drought problem. The Sahara, too, has been suffering from the prevalence of what one of its high officials terms "hydraulic anarchy." The limelight has been turned on the state of affairs in the course of a conference held with the aim of standardizing date production in Algeria, so that the French Government will feel justified in encouraging the crop and in backing its competition with the dates of other lands. Dates have to be grown in desert oases, for the subsoil there is water-logged, or, at any rate, very damp. Hitherto the carefree Arab has had almost complete freedom to sink a well of any depth, wherever he liked, a state of affairs which has produced many unfortunate fluctuations in the quality of crops and in the prosperity of the local population.

Those days are now over. A supervision as strict as that of our own water boards is to be applied to the Sahara oases. Pipes are to be installed, leaks and wastage promptly stopped. Thus Romance continues to recede. Soon Bedouins will be summoned for neglecting to replace the washer on a dripping tap, or for installing a sprinkler on the lawn without paying a special hose rate.—Miscellany.

U. S. A. IN GERMANY

Now that the Hitlerites have taken a good slam at "foreignisms" in the history, literature, and orthography, it should think they might very well set about purifying their own gazetteer. Do you realise that Germany has a village called New York, and another called Pennsylvania, which, being without a school, sends its infants to Morven every morning ? Havana village aspires to a post office of its own; Saratoga is bigger than Maryland and Pennsylvania combined. Scrambled geography of this sort is possible within easy motoring distance of Berlin itself because Frederick the Great once took it into his head to drain swamps. Reclamation of the swamplands some eighty miles east of the capital of the Reich was to be offered brides in the form of land, building grants, farm animals, and tools. In consequence, a number of Poles and Germans who were packing up the old kitbag to emigrate to the New World, settled in the Warthe Bruch district instead. There were 15,000 of them by 1773.

The first-comers called the local settlements after their intended destinations in America, and from a friend of mine went through there three or four years ago, the transatlantic names were still on local signposts and maps. Somehow or other, however, the German doubles have not waxed so large and prosperous as their prototypes overseas. They had four houses. Plainly there was nothing to write home about. Boston's population was about 120, and the entire flob of Prussian Newarkers could be comfortably tucked into one of Dutch New York railway stations.—Miscellany.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JUNE 10TH, 1934

MATTHEW 27: 33-50

"JESUS ON THE CROSS"

We have followed the life of Jesus through from his birth in a stable at Bethlehem. We have seen his brief hour of popularity, as the masses looked to Him as a Messiah who would redeem them from the overlordship of Rome. We have watched them first turn away as they realized the futility of their hopes of an independent Israel, and then turn in active opposition, demanding his death. This week the cumulative effect of the whole process is seen in His death on the Cross.

Death on a cross was the most degrading form of death ever devised. But, thanks to the cross the symbol of degradation and hate, has, since the time of Christ, become the noblest expression of human aspiration.

It has become this symbol because it represents two eternal principles. The first of these is the eternal struggle between the higher and the lower. In plant life and in the animal world, this continual strife goes on. The plant struggling against the weeds and the higher form of animal life against the lower. In human life, that struggle goes on unremittingly. Every effort to lift mankind to a higher form of life, every effort to establish a new order of society is fought more or less openly by the brotherhood, is beset with tremendous opposition by the lower instincts and the baser and more selfish desires. God is not watching this struggle. God is in it. Suffering and struggling, too. Seeking, through all the agencies of His creation, to accomplish His divine purpose.

The death of Jesus was not an incident in time. It was the culmination of this whole process, which has been at work ever since the dawn of history. Since, His was the noblest, the most Divine life the world has known, it was necessary, in the constitution of the universe, that He should suffer.

That process, however, did not end with the completion of the New Testament records. The struggle on the Cross is still the struggle of God to triumph over evil and wickedness, selfishness and hate. It is a battle which takes place in every man's soul. It is a battle which takes place in every family, in every town, and every country.

The other aspect of the Cross has to do with the innermost sufferer. The struggle for the triumph of the good always involves the innocent in suffering. It is easy to understand a person suffering for their own sins. But a large part of human suffering is due to causes for which the sufferer is not to blame—a father for the waywardness of his son—the organization for its members—the nation for the blunders of its scheming politicians and selfish profiteers—and Christ for the mistakes, the machinations and the evil of others. Why that should be so, is God's secret.

Vicarious suffering is God's way of accomplishing His will. But, a lot of suffering is, in no sense, necessary or essential. Pain is caused others by thoughtlessness, self-will and bad disposition, for which, in no way, is God responsible. There is a lot of suffering and evil of others, who employed, the distressed and the downtrodden, which is not a cross voluntarily accepted to the accomplishment of a Divine purpose, but imposed by others because of their power and their position, and by a system which, in its operation, works havoc on the weak. This is not a cross, it is a burden and should find no place in a society which is seeking to build up a Kingdom of God, on earth.

STRATHCONA

Strathcona, June 4. — What is so rare as a day in June, unless it be two days?

Most of us have been wishing for warm weather, and judging by the way this month started out, we shall yet have our share.

Painting seems to be the order of the day in the village, and killing mosquitoes the order of the evening. Yes sir, they are thick!

Strathcona softball team has not carried away any laurels so far this year, but the boys are good sports and are taking it all just as a little "rough luck". There is still a chance for a come back, and we hope to see them make a good showing yet this season.

Quite a number in the village are under the weather with bad colds, which seem to hang on with a vengeance this time of the year.

Mrs. Bruce Finlay and Mrs. George Finlay spent Friday last at Moscow.

The June meeting of the Mission Circle was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morgan, Newburgh, on Thursday evening. A good attendance added much to the success of the meeting. The next meeting is to be held at Varty Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell and family, of Desmond, were Sunday visitors at G. R. Finlay's.

Miller's Worm Powders prove their value. They do not cause any violent disturbances in the stomach, any pain or griping, but do their work quietly and painlessly, so that the destruction of the worms is imperceptible. Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and an entire cessation of manifestation of internal trouble.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER
Wake up your Liver Bile
— Without Calomel
You are "feeling grouchy" simply because your liver isn't pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Bile is necessary to digest fats, to make you feel "up and doing." Without enough bile your food just decays in the bowels, and you are constipated, sick and miserable.
If all you need is a liver stimulant, something that goes further than salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum or products which only move the bowels—ignoring the real cause of trouble, your liver—
Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. No harsh calomel (mercury). Safe, sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists. 42

"SHELL" SERVICE STATION

A cheapjack at a country fair was trying to get his audience into a good humour before offering his goods for sale.

"Now, ladies and gents," he said, holding up a shilling, "here's a real chance for everyone. A silver shilling—how much will you give me for it?"

As he expected, bids came quickly. Finally, a small boy said: "Eleven-pence."

"Very well, my lad," said the cheapjack, "the shilling's yours. Hand up your eleven-pence."

The boy shook his head.

"Take it out of the shilling and give me the change," he said.

The Sills Team Work For a Win From C. D. S.

Sometimes, what looks in anticipation to be an easy job, turns out to be a real task, in accomplishment. The Sills team certainly found this a fact on Wednesday evening when they met the C. D. S. bunch. It looked like a cinch to beat the C.D.S. But did the Sills' men have to work? They haven't got over the effort yet! As for the C. D. S., some of them will never be the same, again.

Evidence of how good both teams were is seen in the score of 12-7 in favor of Sills.

Gallery and Egone of Kingston, made up the battery for the C. D. S. Frank Correll played centre-field, Jimmie Gilbert, short; Goldwin Smith, 3rd base; Frank Thompson, 1st-base; Leo Bedore, left-field; Freddie Huffman, right-field, and Maurice Verney, 2nd base.

The Sills line-up was: Blakely, lf., Stinson, ss., Haycock, rf., Miller, 2b., Webster, 1b., Knuth c., Sills, c.f., J. Plumley, 3b., R. Plumley, p. Miller replaced Plumley as pitcher, in the 7th innings, and Stinson took Knuth's place as catcher. Cook replaced Haycock and Ballard replaced Blakely, in the sixth.

Correll wasn't taking any chance in missing a strike. Every ball looked like a strike to him. He was put out at first the first time at bat, struck out the next three times, but in the ninth, scored.

Gilbert—Smith was a good picker. Out of four times at bat he walked twice and like the manager, scored in the last innings.

When Jimmie Gilbert swung at the ball it was just like the spinning of a top. He might have been spiralling yet is the "ump" had not called "play ball" "Jimmie walked twice, struck out once, was caught out once and scored in the sixth.

Frank Thompson walked three three times and scored twice, but then Prank is right in the pink of form. He made a homer in the sixth when the ball was badly fumbled in the field.

"Ty Cobb" Bedore brought down the house when he scored the first time at bat. The next time up he was put out at first and the other three times, fanned.

Freddie Huffman wished it was hockey and then he would show them. As it was he only got as far as second base in the eighth. He fanned twice and was put out at first, the other time he was un.

Jarvis singled in the second and got as far as second base. In the fifth, he was put out at first. In the seventh he made first on an error by Haycock and in the final innings crossed the home plate.

For Sills, Blakely, in the first, scored after getting a walk. In his two other times at bat he was put out at first. Stinson, in four times up, scored in the fifth and eighth. Haycock walked in the first and got as far as second, scored in the third and was put out at first in the fifth.

Miller starred in the scoring area, with four runs to his credit. But when he came to pitch he was not so hot. He just walked four men in the three innings he was on the mound and C. D. S. got four of their runs, off him.

Webster scored twice, made one hit and walked twice. Sills was nearly knocked out when the ball hit him, in the eighth. He scored in the seventh, made two hits, walked once, struck out once and was put out in the third, at first.

Altogether, it was a good game for the Sills' team to win.

Currie as umpire and Joynt on the bases gave good satisfaction.

First Camper—"Is this the first night you ever slept in a tent?"

Second Camper—"I don't know—yet!"

BELLEVILLE 10, BRIGHTON 6
Belleville Victorias defeated Brighton on Wednesday last, in Brighton, by 10 to 6, and thereby share the leadership of the Bay of Quinte League with Gibbards of Napanee.

The Vics presented a number of new faces and had little trouble defeating Brighton's ace, Campbell.

Wilkens, on the other hand, had the homesters under control at all times.

GIBBARD B's 16, FOREST MILLS 8
While their clubmates were trouncing Picton, last Wednesday, the "B's" were clouting the offerings of four Forest Mills hurlers to all corners of the lot, to gain their second league victory by the above score. Doubles and triples were common occurrences and the B's scored 10 runs in the second, off Breese, before he was detached. Bishop relieved Card in the sixth, but the locals were never in danger.

GIBBARD B's 11; HAYURN 1
The B's won another victory from southpaw Ed. Gallagher, on Saturday, in a seven innings game, when they accounted for eleven runs while holding Hayburn scoreless. Hayburn were holding George Dickson's lads to one run. The B's took an early lead and the outcome was never in doubt.

GIBBARD A's 3; GIBBARD B's 2
The A's squeezed out a win from the B's on Saturday in the ninth innings, and with one out the fixture was the second-sack of a double ball and the terrific heat bothered both clubs, what a little.

Walt Gerow, again handling both clubs, started Tommy Pointer for the A's, and sent in Blanchett in the eighth, since Pointer's ankle is none too strong, yet. Only one man reached first off Pointer until the sixth, when two hits, a walk and a couple of errors gave the B's two runs. The A's all weakened in the seventh, but a double play pulled him out of danger. The B's could do nothing with Blanchett's slants, at all.

"Snowball" Bishop again held the A's well in check and was aided on numerous occasions by spectacular catches by his outfielders. The game was lost for him in the ninth, when his team mates threw the ball away during a rally by the A's.

Gibbard Athletics Win Opening Game With Picton

"B" TEAM ALSO WON TWO LAST WEEK

The Gibbard Athletics defeated Picton in the first league game in the current season, by 10-6, last Wednesday, and right in the champion's own ball yard, too.

While George "Dey" Blanchett yielded thirteen hits to last year's finalists, his team-mates were pounding Ron. Church for fifteen safeties. Both teams made errors that meant runs, but Picton led in this respect, being credited with five.

Dunn and Brennan led the Napanee hitters, with three bingles each, while Leavens, now playing second for the Pictonites, not only notched four hits, but played a spectacular game afield. Rorke, Prout, Card, Bentley and Blanchett hit safely on two occasions, each.

The teams were:—

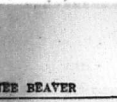
Gibbard—Card, 2b, Kinkley, 2b, Dorey, c.f., Dunn, ss., Brennan, c., Bentley, r.f., Wilson, 1b., Andrews, l.f., Blanchett, p.

Picton—Hudgin, l.f.; Leavens, 2b, Green, c.f., Rorke, s.s., Prout, 3b, Powers, r.f., Cole, 1b., Durnford, c., Church, p.

The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Gibbard's	2	0	0	0	0	4	3	1	0	—10	15	2
Picton	0	0	3	0	0	0	3	0	—	6	13	5

Umpires: Woodley and Young.



Mr. Percy Laidley has donated a beautiful cup to go to the player on the Athletics having the highest batting average during the Bay of Quinte League games, the only stipulation being that the player must be credited with thirty-six unofficial times at bat. The average, however, will be computed in the usual way, using the "official" times at bat.

The boys greatly appreciate Mr. Laidley's generosity and the battle for the cup promises to be close. Each week we will publish the names of the three players in the lead and their averages. After the first game they stand:—

Dunn	.600
Brennan	.500
Bentley	.500

The Bay of Quinte League season opens here Wednesday with the band in attendance and flag raising, etc. Belleville Victorias will be here and the leadership of the league will be at stake.

The B's will not have a game this week, due to the fact that Tamworth have dropped out of the Lennox League. Therefore, on Saturday, the A's and B's will meet again and a red-hot contest is assured. Since each team has won a game, this should settle the matter for a while at least.

The B's maintain that they did not get a fair shake Saturday, playing a double-header on so hot a day and that the A's were lucky to win anyway. Feeling between the two clubs is running high at present, but the fans are all pulling for the B's.

Saturday, Walt. Gerow told the B's that he would likely lend them Dorey if Bishop needed help. He was thanked politely but told in no uncertain terms that they would use their own pitchers if any more were needed.

LAST WEEK'S SCORES:
Gibbard A's, 10; Picton, 6.
Belleville, 10; Brighton, 6.
Gibbard B's, 16; Forest Mills, 8.
Gibbard B's 11; Hayburn, 1.
Enterprise, 7; Tamworth, 4.

GAMES THIS WEEK:
Wednesday, June 6th—
Belleville at Gibbard's.
Picton at Brighton.
Enterprise at Forest Mills.
Saturday, June 9th—
Hayburn at Enterprise.

Gibbard's Won From Forest Mills Team Wednesday

Gibbard B's and Forest Mills baseball teams came together at the Gibbard Memorial Park on Wednesday, May 30th, for their first game of the season. The game ended in a decisive win for the Gibbard team, with a score of 17 to 8. The Gibbard battery outclassed the Forest Mills battery and the team work of Gibbard's generally, was superior to that of the boys from the north.

Tommy Tyner started to pitch for Forest Mills, but was replaced by Breese in the second, and Breese also was replaced by another of the Breese brothers before the second innings was played out.

Harve Card pitched for the "B's" until the sixth, when Bishop went on the mound for the balance of the game.

Until the end of the fourth, it looked as if Forest Mills were going to be completely shut out. Up to that time Gibbard's had fourteen runs. In the fifth, when Forest Mills came to bat, J. Breese singled. J. Young doubled, scoring Breese. I. Young was caught out by Card. C. Breese put out at first. H. Breese made a three-bagger, scoring J. Young. N. Dafoe singled, scoring C. Breese, and Arnold caught out.

In the sixth, Forest Mills had another scoring inning. T. Tyner, R. Dafoe, J. Young and G. Young all scored. And again in the eighth, J. Breese scored for Forest Mills.

Gibbard's big scoring innings was the second, when they chalked-up 10 runs. Thirteen men came up to bat and nine of them scored. Bill Sweet got two runs in the innings and Lucas made a home run.

McCutcheon, in the third, made a home run, scoring the only run for Gibbards in the innings.

The score by innings was as follows:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Gibbard B's	3	10	1	1	0	1	0	0	— 17
Forest Mills	0	0	0	0	3	4	0	1	— 8

Those who missed Saturday's game between the A's and the B's missed one of the best games which has been played in Napanee. There was plenty of excitement. We understand that the clubs will meet again this Saturday and all arguments should be settled for some time to come.

• • •

Some of the fans maintain that the B's are playing over their heads and will crack sooner or later, and others are of the opinion that the A's are laying down. However, most of the crowd backs the B's in these games and they are pulling hard for a win.

• • •

Many were of the opinion that the game could have been saved on Saturday, had Johnston caught Gibbard's fly. This is not so because Card would have scored after the mid-out, unless Johnston could have thrown him out at the plate, which is not likely.

In the report in the Kingston paper about last Wednesday's game with Forest Mills, the fact that Harve Card was the victim of the hidden ball trick was commented on. The report of this stunt would lead one to believe that Card was more or less asleep. This was not the case, because the umpire erred in allowing the play to be made on Card, since the ball had been knocked foul, and since the ball had not been put into play, no play should have been made on him. The Napanee club protested loud and long but to no avail.

The game over in Picton on Wednesday saw plenty of free hitting and errors on both sides. Picton fans maintain that Gibbards were lucky to win, while supporters of the Athletics claim that the Napanee club is much the better. So take your choice.

• • •

The golf season officially opened on Monday and was a real success. The greens are gradually getting back into shape after a hard winter, and those in charge must be given credit for their fine work. The fairways, however, are at present, suffering from the drought. Unless rain comes soon, they will be in bad shape.

• • •

In an effort to boost club membership, the management have included additional sport with no raise in the fees. They have provided countless mosquitoes which can be swatted as well as the ball. The pests are particularly thick near the woods, and some members have led us to believe that they exist as big as crows.

• • •

The tennis club has taken on new life. Tournaments have been played on two or three occasions. It is too bad that this excellent sport has not enjoyed more popularity in the town, and it is to be hoped that this new lease of life will mean something.

• • •

Napanee B's broke the ice by shutting out Hayburn. Bishop had no trouble going the route. He didn't need much to stop Hayburn—they will never get out of the cellar unless they show more stiff in the future. Bishop and Lucas were outstanding for Napanee. Lucas is playing a great game at second. Napanee will be a hard team to head, from now on.

Up at Tamworth, Forest Mills took Enterprise into camp, to win their first start. They have a good team and should be in the play-offs, or thereabouts. Tamworth miss Tommy Thompson, but their new manager, Rev. Brown, is trying hard to get them going. We wish them luck!

• • •

Jack Williams, ex-pro, Verona's gift to baseball, won his first start of the season up at Belleville, Thursday. He looked good, but Oshawa is far from being a good senior team. We are going to wait till we see the good ones in his own league, before making any statements whether he'd stick or not.

• • •

Enterprise Cubs hung it on Tamworth to the tune of 10-4, Saturday. Tamworth showed, very little ability, at bat or in the field. Spratt fanned 11 and allowed five scattered hits. G Wagar was also a star, collecting three hard hits.

Max Miles saved Tamworth from a complete fade out. There is no better ball player in the "B" league than the same Max.

Forest Mills made it two in a row by beating Hayburn, Saturday afternoon. That puts them on top, tied with the Cubs.

Dame Rumour has is that Napanee are out for revenge and can hardly wait to get at Enterprise her again. They want to be on their toes all the way, if they wish to come out on the big end. These boys from the sticks are hard to beat on their own ram pasture.

The flowing stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of her who once sat there.

Her life was one loving sacrifice,
Her heart was true and tender;
She toiled with hand for those she loved,
Then left us to remember.

Wedding Bells

SNELL — RUSSELL

More New Books At the Napanee Public Library

A NICE LONG EVENING—by Eliznbeth Corbett. This new novel is delightful in every page. Its subtle humor, keen characterization and smooth plot, will insure its popularity.

THEY WERE DEFEATED—by Rose Macaulay. While telling a human love story of great beauty and introducing many actual people of the time, Miss Macaulay contrives to give also a picture of mid-seventeenth century England that reads as rank as a piece of invaluable historical, literary and sociological research.

FEAR AND LE SLAIN—by General Seely. has been tersely described as "the best of all antidotes to the blues."

THE BOOK OF NATURAL WONDERS—by Ellison Hawks, contains a vivid description of moving mountains, disappearing islands, prehistoric animals, causes of earthquakes and a host of other remarkable wonders. It is profusely illustrated.

RECENT HEROES OF MODERN ADVENTURE—by Bridges and Tillman. The boy who reads these tales will find little left in fiction to thrill him.

MURDER IN THE CALAIS COACH by Agatha Christie. Another mystery book in which the author presents a plot with a galaxy of characters, every one of which is a masterpiece of shrewd depiction.

A MILLION MILES BY SAIL — by John Herris McCulloch. This is a tale for the blue water men—a tale written by a sea captain who has sailed over a million miles in windjammers—a tale which speaks with all the authority of the quarterdeck.

TWENTY THOUSAND MILES IN A FLYING BOAT—by Sir Alan Cobham. This is the narrative of an historic event—the encircling of the African Continent for the first time, by sir. Sir Alan Cobham's journey was the final flight prior to the establishment of a permanent Trans-African air route. The book is illustrated with many unique photographs taken by the cinematographers who accompanied the party.

THE CHILDREN OF THE DEEP—by William Guy Carr. From beginning to end the book is intensely interesting. It tells, in vivid detail, the amazing adventures of British submarines that forced thy mined and netted passage of the Dardanelles. Some of the incidents narrated would be incredible were they not vouched for officially.

MANDOA, MANDOA—by Winifred Holtby. Mandoa, Mandoa! marks a further achievement in the field of fiction, in which Miss Holtby has had previous phenomenal success. The scene is laid in Central Africa.

MAN MADE THE TOWN—by Ruby M. Ayres. A lovable and dramatic romance.

THE CANTLEY CONUNDRUM—by A. Fielding. A detective story in which the author presents a real brain-teaser.

THREE CITIES— by Sholem Asch. A great novel of the same type as Tchekoff's masterpieces.

THE TRAITOR— by Frederick Niven. This book has been pronounced a triumph for its author. The scene is laid partly in South America and partly in Scotland, countries in which Mr. Niven is equally at home.

CHARLES DICKENS—by Stephen Leacock. Mr. Leacock tells the story of Charles Dickens, simply, vividly, making him live with all his vitality, his charm, his limitations, and his faults. He reclothes with flesh and blood the man who has become distorted into a legend and makes a new and fresh evaluation of his works.

Enthusiastic Meeting For H. S. Colliver At Bethany

A most enthusiastic meeting, in the interests of Mr. Horace Colliver and the Henry Government, was held on the evening of the 28th inst. at Bethany. Elmer Allenbrack, in his usual capable and amiable manner, fulfilled the duties of Chairman.

The first speaker called was Capt. A. S. Hughson, of Napanee. Capt. Hughson repudiated the statements of the Rev. L. M. Sharpe, made at Murvale, recently, that Ontario taxes were exhorbitant, but proved that Ontario was rather a seller o fservices and that taxes were taken from those who were able to pay for them, not from individuals who did not participate in the services.

Comparing Ontario with other provinces in the Dominion, in that Ontario stood alone. Her public utilities standing assets. At the same time, they provide service to the public and a revenue more than will provide interest and every charges. That fact speaks for itself, in spite of emotionally intoxicated fanatics, who are endeavoring to deceive.

Mrs. Katherine Powell, of Napanee, especially addressed the ladies present and was attentively listened to by all. Her opening remarks brought to the attention of her audience, how Mr. Hepburn was responsible for the unconventional and heartless unseating of Mr. Sinclair from the leadership of the genuine Liberal Party, and that it would be rather a dangerous adventure for Ontario to advance into power with anyone without previous cabinet experience. Although Mr. Hepburn has served in the Dominion House of Commons, his leader the Hon. McKenzie King, never considered him of Cabinet calibre. His experience with an unqualified person should convince all that in 1919, when Mr. Drury was suddenly brought from practical obscurity and planted into the chair of Premier, Mowat and Hardy, with disastrous results, not only to Ontario, but to the members of his cabinet, as well.

Mr. John Wesse, M.P., for Prince Edward-Lennox, was called, and explained the difference between the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture—shorter digests are acquainted with the workings and responsibilities of the two departments, would be so good as to say that they overlapped or interfered with each other. Each had their own work and responsibilities to look after, and were doing good work.

The Dominion Marketing Bill, looking into foreign and domestic fields, was explained and the function of these markets for Canadian products, foretold. Mr. Wesse was most attentively listened to, as his subject was of great importance to those present.

Mr. Horace Colliver, Liberal-Conservative candidate and Mr. C. W. Hambly, ex-M.P., entered the hall at this moment, and proceeded to the platform, where they were most enthusiastically received by all present.

Mr. Hambly very ably explained the position in the riding, where Mr. Colliver had offered to support him (Mr. Hambly) if he would run, but that owing to various reasons, he found it impossible at the present time. He was delighted to support his friend, Mr. Colliver. Mr. Colliver had always been willing to assist him in any way he could. One only had to go to Prince Edward, to see how well Horace Colliver was though of, and to Toronto to hear that no member had secured more for his riding than Mr. Colliver. The applause after Mr. Hambly had finished his remarks, evemgilfied the respect and affection Mr. Hambly held in the opinions of those he served so faithfully and well.

Mr. Colliver, on being called, owing to the applause, was unable to proceed for some time, and after expressing his gratitude and pleasure at being there to make the acquaintance of those he hoped to represent in the near future, gave a brief summary of the work of the Henry Government during their last term of office. It was with no excuse, but with pride, he placed himself as a follower of Mr. Henry, and a supporter of his government.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, God Save the King.

AN ORIENTAL OFFSPRAY

The minister of a small town was endeavouring to brighten the long winter evenings for his congregation by a series of lectures of an educational nature. The first, upon the origins of nations, was well attended and followed with great interest. Evidently it opened up startingly new trains of thought to the audience, for an old man was heard to observe to his wife as they left the hall, "Eh, well, well, so Mr. I. has come to the conclusion that we're just the offspray of the 'Indoo I'" trade agreements and cited the advantages to the producers. The increased price of pork is one of the examples of benefit. In order to make the agreements really effective, there must be co-operation from the provincial governments. It is essential that the Henry Government be returned, as Mr. Hepburn has denounced the Empire agreements.

Mr. Wesse said why chance from he certain to the uncertain. We know what the Henry Government has done for the benefit of the country. Mr. Hepburn is a very uncertain proposition.

Mr. Colliver and Mr. Hambly Arrive

At this point in the meeting, Mr. Colliver and Mr. Hambly, who had been speaking earlier in the evening at Switzerville, entered and were given a hearty round of applause.

Mr. Hambly, in his address, spoke of the fine feeling existing between himself and Mr. Colliver. He gave his reasons for withdrawing his name and re-affirmed his willingness to assist Mr. Colliver in his election.

He paid a high tribute to the Premier, Hon. G. S. Henry, as not only a most honest man, but one of the best business men in the province. No country in the world has a better standing, to-day, during this time of depression, than Canada. Ontario, under the leadership of the Conservatives, is in the best shape financially of all the provinces in the Dominion. He dealt at some length on the Ontario Government's policy of aiding farmers, financially, through the Ontario Government Agricultural Development Board. By it, farmers in need are able to receive assistance at a very low rate of interest. Continuing, he spoke of the welfare legislation introduced, which had so much assisted the needy people.

As he concluded, Mr. Hambly said he thought this, one of the most serious elections in the history of the province. He urged the people to vote for a government, with the high record that the Henry Government has behind it.

Mr. Colliver Reviews Record of Government

Mr. Colliver, in his remarks, carefully reviewed the proposed liquor legislation. He said the temperance question was not really in the campaign. He is finding that many people who opposed the Government on the Liquor Control Act question, now intend to vote for the Government. The consumption of hard liquor has greatly decreased under the Liquor Control Act. There has been a decrease in drunken motor car drivers, and in crime in general. The desire of the Premier, in submitting the new law, is to further decrease the consumption of liquor. He said beer and wine will not be sold except in recognized hotels and will not be served in restaurants in Napanee.

The Province of Ontario, last year, had a deficit of nearly half a million dollars, while the other provinces, under Liberal governments, had deficits. Speaking of the roads, Mr. Colliver said the 189 million dollars invested was a revenue producing investment. Our good roads drew tourists who spent millions in the province. They mean a saving to motorists of about 24 millions, annually. In addition, a large part of the public debt of the province is revenue producing.

Ontario under the Conservatives has come through trying years in good shape. Mr. Colliver does not intend, himself, breaking down or down a good government in the coming election.

Perhaps, moreover, he whose genius appears deepest and truest excels his fellows in nothing save the knack of expression; he throws out occasionally a lucky hint at truths of which every human soul is profoundly, though unutterably conscious.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Rural Ontario Hydro Service Is Unsurpassed

Hydro service in rural Ontario is unsurpassed for any comparable area and circumstances. In rural parts of certain countries the density or distribution of population will not permit an equally good service over some favored districts of limited area, but the rural service given by the "Hydro" extends over thousands of square miles and in many cases rural lines have been extended to serve but three or four customers per mile.

Citizens of most Ontario cities, towns and larger villages are now using freely the low-cost electrical service resulting from their co-operative efforts under the guidance of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission. They want their fellow citizens in rural Ontario to have help in overcoming the handicap to electrical service in sparsely populated areas.

Rural Consumers Receive Special Consideration

The success of rural electrical service in Ontario is due to the active co-operation of successive Provincial Governments, whose action has received sympathetic endorsement by citizens of Ontario's urban municipalities.

Recognizing the fundamental importance of agriculture, the Provincial Government has given special and generous aid to the movement for electrical service to rural dwellers. The Government pays half the initial capital cost of distribution lines and equipment required; lends money to farmers and others for the purchase of wiring and equipment, and enables the Hydro Commission to fix reduced maximum service charges by guaranteeing the difference between the service charges fixed and the actual cost of service as determined by the Commission. The reduction in the service charges to farmers through this guarantee has in certain districts reached up to 40 per cent.

Service Charges Are Reasonable

The service charges incorporated in rural rates is designed to meet the capital charges and operating costs of rural distribution lines and equipment. To serve each rural consumer requires twenty to fifty times greater length of distribution lines than to serve each urban consumer, with a resulting increase in expense. However, the greater the use of the equipment, the less each unit of power costs, and farmers who make generous use of the service and secure the co-operation of their neighbors to the same end, reap benefits in reduced service charges. Already more than 40 per cent. of rural consumers pay less than the Government-guaranteed maximum service charges.

Because electric service in the rural home is now so widely used that it can be considered a necessity, a five-year contract with the consumer (instead of the usual twenty-year contract) is available in districts where the townships concerned so approve.

There has been some misunderstanding and some misrepresentation respecting the relative cost of service in rural power districts and in urban communities. Comparisons have been based upon service charges applicable to entirely different classes of service, as, for example, the service charge of 33 cents (33 cents net) which, in the cities, is applicable to service for lighting and small appliances only, and the service charge of $2.75 (=2.50 net) per month for the comprehensive farm service, including three horsepower of agricultural power, supplied to farmers. Such comparisons ignore the fact that in most cities and towns there is an extra service charge of $2.50 per month net for a three-horsepower motor. The proper basis of comparison, however, is not service charges alone, because the other part of the monthly bill — energy charges — is in general on a more favorable basis in rural power districts than in urban municipalities. It is necessary, in making comparisons, to consider the total cost for comparable service.

Urban domestic service is similar in character to the hamlet service in rural power districts. For those who make reasonably full use of the service, the net monthly bill in hamlets in progressive districts, though somewhat higher than in cities and towns, is actually less for equal consumption than in many urban villages.

A Comprehensive Service for Farmers

The uses a farmer can make of electrical service in his productive operation alone are more diversified than the uses to which electricity can be put in the home, whether urban or rural.

More than 90 per cent. of new contracts for Hydro farm service are either in what is known as Class 2B for farms of 50 acres or less, or in Class 3 for ordinary farms. These services include the use of a 3-horsepower or 3-horsepower motor respectively. The total monthly charge a farmer pays for his comprehensive domestic and farm service, including 3-horsepower of agricultural power, is less than the low charge in many Ontario towns for a corresponding domestic service plus a 3-horsepower power service.

The enthusiastic support given by the great majority of rural consumers is the best evidence that the charges for rural electrical service are reasonable. It is a noteworthy fact that since 1928, and notwithstanding the industrial depression, the service has doubled itself.

Co-Operation Pays in Reduced Rates

The advantages of co-operation and of making generous use of the service, are particularly evident in rural power districts. Not only do the service charges go down, but energy rates are also reduced when equipment is more fully utilized.

Energy rates in the rural power districts are already low. More than 65 per cent. of all rural consumers pay a first consumption charge per kilowatt-hour of 3.6 cents net or less, and this rate applies only on from 30 to 42 kilowatt-hours (hamlet and ordinary farm services). For additional energy consumed, the rate to any rural consumer does not exceed 1.8 cents per kilowatt-hour, and thousands obtain it for as little as 1.33 cents per kilowatt-hour.

A specially low follow-on energy rate of 0.67 cents net per kilowatt-hour has recently been approved for rural users making liberal use of the service. This is a lower follow-on rate than is available for domestic service in almost any city, town or village.

There were several readings, one by Mrs. Rod Sharpe, "The Straight Furrow", one by Mrs. George Sharpe, "The Fault Finder", and one by Mrs. A. Mellow. Discourse on "Empire Day", by Rev. Mr. Sanders. Minutes of last meeting and treasurer's report were read and approved. There were several bills ordered paid. Arrangements were made for the Sunday School convention to be held in Sillsville United Church on Friday next, June 8th. "Saved to the Uttermost" was then sung, and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting. Grace was sung and a very delicious lunch was served and a pleasant afternoon came to a close. Lunch, $3.75.

THE UNDERGRADUATE SEES HIS CHANCE AND TAKES IT

I happened the other day to sit in with a group of Scots who were telling the traditional tales of their several universities. A Glasgow man said that when Lord Kelvin was only Prof. William Thomson, the students admired him immensely, of course, but they preferred to be instructed by his assistant, a young man named Day, who could more easily descend to their level, whereas Thomson escaped them to apprehend problems which were beyond them. When Thomson was called to London to receive the honor of knighthood, he had so good a time that he delayed his return. But finally word came that he would be back on the following Monday, whereupon there appeared on the blackboard this Biblical quotation: "Let us work while there is yet Day — for the Knight cometh when no man may work."

This story was capped by Edinburgh man, who said that sixty or seventy years ago there was a pompous and pretentious professor in the medical school, who slipt into his classroom early one morning to write on the blackboard that he had been honored by an appointment to be "Surgeon-Extraordinary to Her Majesty." But when he came back to meet his class he found that a student had written under his announcement "God save the Queen."

And this led a Princeton man to tell a true tale about that stern Scotsman, James McCosh, who ruled the sons of Nassau with a strong hand. Of course, among themselves the undergraduate always called him "Jimmy," just as the undergraduates of Harvard about the same time called President Eliot "Charley." McCosh was rigid in enforcing the curfew, and late one night when half a dozen students were playing poker one of them heard a firm tread in the hall, and then all of them heard a sharp rap on the door. The least scared of the party asked, "Who's there?" The answer came back, sharply, "It's me — President McGosh!" There was an awed silence and then the least scared of the party laughed loudly and cried out, "Go away! You can't fool us!" If you were Jimmy, you would have said, "It is I!" And history records that the discomfited president scribbled swiftly, depicting on the difficulties of our illogical language. For once a Scotsman was baffled by a bluff.

THE DOG AND THE BAND

Llandrillo-y-Meriionedd, in Wales, sports a criminal, and charges for trials were held recently, before a large crowd. There was an amusing incident at the trials. While a dog was working the sheep a band struck up a march in the adjoining field and the sports were being held and the dog halted in the sports field. After a short interval, he returned and penned the sheep. — Manchester Guardian.

ALL'S WELL—The Captain's at the Wheel

When storms are raging it's a comforting thought that an experienced captain, a man of courage and resourcefulness, is safe-guarding the lives of the passengers.

Now with the storm of economic hardship and depression passing and Ontario business safely headed towards the harbor of better times, it is being suggested to the people of Ontario that they transfer Ontario's resources from the capable hands which piloted them safely through one of the greatest financial crises in the world's history.

It is being suggested to the province that it should remove from the experienced hands of the Henry administration the trusteeship of its agriculture, its forests, its mines and its varied industries.

The voters are being given a suggestion that they should transfer their billions of dollars of assets.

ONTARIO CANNOT AFFORD TO EXPERIMENT

The province needs the constructive, courageous program to which the Conservative Government is pledged.

AND STILL PLAYS A LITTLE GOLF

How many of us, when we are 82, will be as equal in health and activity of the old Scottish engineer? In a letter he says:—

"I arrived here from Scotland on the 7th April, 1870. I am over 82 years old. I drive my Ford car 40 miles over the hills and dales to a factory, and can till play a little golf. I have taken the little dose of Kruschen Salts in my cup of coffee every morning for some years, and I believe it is keeping me in good health and enabling me to keep on working at the factories as engineer." —L. A.

Whether you are still in your 'teens or past your prime, it is neither too early nor too late to start on the "little daily dose." Just a tiny, tasteless pinch of Kruschen Salts in your morning cup of tea or coffee! They ensure internal cleanliness and keep the blood-stream pure. New and refreshed blood is sent coursing to every fibre of your being. Rheumatism, headaches, indigestion and backache all pass you by.

NO MONEY IN LOTTERIES

The State recognizes that the total prohibition of gambling is impracticable, but endeavours to control it perfectly, it may be—to keep within limits what might easily become a frightful social scourge. Should this policy be continued, with such improvements and rectification of anomalies as experience may suggest, or should the state reverse its policy and provide facilities for that section of the gambling instinct? There is no doubt what the man in the street thinks. He would like to see a State-run lottery established as proposed by Dr. Reitz, in the House of Assembly, recently. The man in the street could not be more enthusiastic on this subject if the lottery was an automatic machine for the creation of wealth beyond the dreams of avarice. Instead of merely a device for diverting a portion of the existing income of the nation into new channels, Lottery enthusiasts believe that there is hardly any desirable social object that could not be attained through the lottery. Sober citizens, however, realise that the actual amount that could be raised by a lottery in a country like South Africa, is limited, and in any case to get the largest results an immense and undestrable amount of boosting by the Government would be necessary.—The Cape Argus.

No Depression for Advertisers

Dodds Medicine Company Reports Increase Over All Previous Years' —Give Credit to Advertising.

The Dodds Medicine Company Limited, Proprietors of Dodd's Kidney Pills and other well known medicines, report that their sales for the past six months have far exceeded any similar period in the history of the Company.

The whole credit for this remarkable record is attributed to advertising. Mr. John McKee, the President of the Dodds Company, says that his Company has turned the deaf ear to all talk of depression, and has continued a policy established half a century ago, under which Dodd's advertising appears practically daily in every worthwhile daily and weekly newspaper.

"We may be a little old fashioned" says Mr. McKee, "but it seems very strange to us that so many Companies cut down their advertising when business falls off. We do the very opposite. When business shows any signs of slacking, we increase our advertising."

Of course, we know that Dodd's Kidney Pills and our other medicines must be medicines of real merit to have survived for over half a century, with increasing sales each year."

JUST AS IN CANADA

The overseas market for imported foodstuffs, and especially for fruit, is extremely sensitive. It is swayed to a remarkable degree by habit, fashion and prejudice, but, as the consumer has a virtually unlimited choice of the world's best, these likes and dislikes are subject to sudden changes and rapid fluctuations. Thus it is quite possible for one inferior consignment of any particular variety of South African fruit to ruin for a considerable period a demand that it has taken years of painstaking endeavour to create. To the average overseas consumer a bad South African peach brands even a good South African peach all South African peaches as bad; and will not enter him from its rivals unless it is more attractively displayed. For many years that argument served to fail entirely to impress a number of South African fruit-growers. At length, however, it appears to be sinking in. But it cannot do that, with half the world seeking to offer or use strongly to emphasize off-load its surplus fruit on to the other half, only products of the finest quality, carefully graded and alluringly packed, stand any chance of success.—Johannesburg Times.

ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS
Leopold Macaulay, Minister

CONSCIENCE is torturing not one, but hundreds of careless Ontario motorists because of tragedies like this. Honest, decent citizens for the most part, perhaps neighbours of yours, but —somewhere in Ontario are the drivers who last year killed or injured 1,942 innocent children. For the rest of their lives these men and women will vainly regret having failed to obey the few simple driving rules which keep motorists out of trouble and save life, limb and property.

Because so many drivers ignored these rules 8,280 persons were killed or injured on our highways in 1933. Every death, every accident was caused by human negligence! Isn't it time for us to do a little thinking?

Do you drive carefully . . . always? You should, if only for your own protection. Remember that over 50 per cent of the victims of fatal accidents last year were occupants of motor vehicles.*

FLINTON

Flinton, May 28. — There passed away in Belleville General Hospital early Monday morning, May 21, Dr. T. J. C. Tindle. Almost two months ago Dr. Tindle was taken ill and although the best of medical aid was given him at both Kingston and Belleville Hospitals, his condition grew worse and he gradually became weaker until the end came Monday morning. Thomas John Tindle was born on July 19, 1876 in Peterborough County, where he received his elementary education. He attended Albert College at Belleville and was graduated as a doctor from Trinity College, Toronto. Then he began his practice in Flinton and has been here for the past thirty-one years. Although his territory was a very large one, he served it willingly and well, making many friends in all parts of the surrounding country. His place will not soon be taken. Always a staunch Conservative, he will be missed in the coming election. He was a strong supporter of temperance and a member of the United Church, having held various offices in it. He was twice married, first to Miss Belle Bryden, who died some years ago, later he married Miss Minnie Grant, who survives him. He also leaves a half-sister, Miss May Jory of Peterborough. The funeral was held from his home on Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. W. A. Edwards, who spoke feelingly of his long and faithful career among his people. The bearers were, Messrs. J. F. Davison, Robert Campbell, Tom Juby, Eli Allaire, Jos. Demore, and Dennis Trepanier. Interment took place at the United Church cemetery. Mr. Pringle was a life-long resident of here and Port Colborne, where he worked in the cement plant. He leaves one brother, Andy, and a sister, Mrs. Baldwin, both residents of here. His widow, three sons and two daughters, mourn his loss. The funeral was held on Wednesday morning at eleven o'clock to the Anglican Church, Rev. A. F. Powell, of Plevna, conducting the service there and at the cemetery.

FACTS ABOUT HYDRO—No. 4 of a series of official announcements by the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, representing the Municipalities who own the Hydro-Electric System of Ontario.

ONTARIO MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION

How Hydro helps Rural Ontario

ELECTRICAL service in the rural municipalities of Ontario, as provided under the administration of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, is unsurpassed for any comparable area and circumstances.

About 365 Township municipalities have contracted with the Commission to supply power from the extensive transmission networks serving the urban municipalities.

Rural power districts generally include parts of several townships to give the most economical distribution costs. They are operated by the Commission as agent for the Townships. Rural consumers receive special advantages not conferred upon urban consumers. The Provincial Government helps in three ways: it pays half the capital costs of rural distribution lines and equipment; it makes loans for the purchase of wiring and equipment; and, by its guarantee, it has enabled the Commission to establish reduced maximum service charges.

Rural hamlet service corresponds to urban domestic service. Farm Hydro service includes both lighting and power and thus is a combination of urban domestic service and power service. Here are some uses for Hydro service on farms:

In the House		On the Farm
LIGHTING	COOKING	LIGHTING BARNS	CREAM SEPARATING
WASHING	REFRIGERATION	PUMPING WATER	CHURNING
IRONING	VACUUM CLEANING	MILKING	FEED CHOPPING
		COOLING MILK	ROOT PULPING
			SAWING WORKSHOP
			SILO FILLING HOT BEDS

On account of the fact that electric service in the rural home is now so widely used that it can be considered a necessity, a five-year contract with the consumer is available in those districts where the townships concerned so approve.

The service charge incorporated in rural rates is designed to meet the capital and operating costs of rural distribution lines and equipment required to deliver the power to the rural consumer. To reach each rural consumer there is required twenty to fifty times greater length of distribution line than to serve each urban consumer, with a corresponding increase in expense. Nevertheless, Government aid and economical operation make it possible to supply farm service in Ontario, combining household use and three horsepower of agricultural power, at even less monthly cost to the farmer than the low charges in many Ontario towns for a comparable domestic service plus a three-horsepower power service. Co-operation pays. In districts where farmers make full use of service, rates go down. More than 40 per cent. of rural consumers pay less than the government-guaranteed maximum service charges.

Energy charges are also low. More than 65 per cent. of all rural consumers pay a first consumption charge per kilowatt-hour of 3.6 cents net or less, and the rate applies only on from 30 to 42 kilowatt-hours (hamlet and ordinary farm services). For additional energy consumed, the rate to any rural consumer does not exceed 1.8 cents net per kilowatt-hour, and thousands obtain it for 1.35 cents net per kilowatt-hour.

A low follow-on energy rate of 0.67 cents net per kilowatt-hour has recently been approved for rural users making liberal use of the service. This is a lower follow-on rate than is available in almost any city, town or village for domestic service.

Ten Years of Progress in Rural Hydro Service

Year	Miles of Rural Primary Line	Number of Consumers	Peak Load Horsepower	Capital Investment	Government Grant Actually Paid
1923	1,050	7,790	1,700	$1,328,000	$425,000
1928	4,100	31,060	16,980	$7,298,000	$3,617,000
1933	9,175	61,850	32,370	$17,694,000	$8,793,000

Hydro service brings to the citizens of the Township municipalities the comforts of urban life. No other material agency can contribute so much to the maintenance of a standard of living whilst makes life in rural districts more attractive. A service that has doubled its business under the difficult conditions prevailing since 1928 has proved its worth.

Funeral Services Of The Late T. B. Wallace

THE LATE T. B. WALLACE

On Thursday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, St. Mary Magdalene Church was filled to capacity with a very representative gathering of people, who had come to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of the late T. B. Wallace.

Previous to the public funeral at the church, a private service was conducted at the home on Piety Hill.

Venerable Archdeacon Dumbrille had charge of the service. He was assisted by the Bishop of Ontario, Rt. Rev. John D. Lyons, D.D., Venerable Archdeacon Coleman, and Canon Spencer. In addition, the Bishop's chaplain, Rev. A. U. Smart, and Rev. R. E. Harrington, Kingston, were present.

The honorary pallbearers were W. A. Daly, Dr. Calderia, J. S. Daly, Dr. Hall. A. F. Tomlins, W. A. Grange, W. K. Huston, J. E. Miller, C. Adams, J. S. Hall, J. S. Berrington, J. L. Boyes and C. E. Jamieson, of Napanee, and Dr. McVittie of Toronto, and Mr. J. S. McKeown of Belleville.

The active pall-bearers were Harry Vanalstine, Harold Matthews, Milton Vanalstine, William Oliver and Carl Barratt of the Napanee Iron Works and Mr. Arthur Babcock.

Important Industry Recently Developed

Only Slate Mine in Operation in Canada

Near the village of Madoc, Ontario, the only slate quarry operating in the Dominion of Canada has just completed its maiden shipment. Hitherto all slate used in Canada had to be imported. Tariffs and the economic exigencies of these last three years compelled builders to seek at home, for this essential commodity.

Attention was directed to the enormous deposit of more than ten million tons of slate, blue gray in colour, in quality second to none, deposited near Madoc. It fortunately lies near a main highway, not more than thirty miles from Belleville water front; it is adjacent to the C. N.-R., with hydro readily available, and has a natural water supply on the property.

The present excavation is more than sixty feet deep, forty feet across and extends, approximately, seventy feet. Mr. Ernest H. Jones, British Home Office, Mining Engineer and Surveyor, No. 806, states that approximately 63,000 tons of workable slate is actually visible without the necessity of boring. He estimates that this amount is negligible compared with the quantity of excellent slate which obviously exists a few feet below the surface.

Many Uses for Slate

Mr. Charles Aylsworth, C.E., father of the present owner, Mr. James B. Aylsworth, surveyed the quarry in the eighties, but at that time, only roofing slates were of value. In the last decade or so, research has shown that polished slate slabs are excellent material for switch-boards, tiles, billiard table-tops, soda-fountain backs, etc. Slate granules are used in the manufacture of roofing shingles, and slate flour is unexcelled as insulating material. It is also extensively used in the manufacture of linoleums and paint. The immediate operation of the quarry is particularly fortuitous in view of the extensive work on the highways this summer. It requires approximately 120 tons of slate flour for a mile of ordinary asphalt highway paving.

Canadian Company Operates Quarry

The quarry is being operated under the direction of the Canadian Slate Mines, Limited, with head office at 47 Yonge Street, Toronto.

Obviously, mineral resources in Old Ontario are still a long way from being all uncovered. The depression, at any rate, taught us to open our eyes to a few more natural assets. It revived the pioneering spirit in many of our good Canadians.

It is interesting to note that Madoc is so namesake of Fort Madoc, the great slate mining centre in Wales.

Hon. Chas. McCrea Minister of Mines Speaks for Colliver

Addressed Large Crowd at Armouries

Yesterday afternoon, about five hundred citizens attended the political rally in the Armouries, to hear the affairs of the Province discussed by the Hon. Charles McCrea.

Mr. Charles Hambly was chairman of the meeting, and with him on the platform were the officers of the Liberal-Conservative Association of the riding and the chairmen of municipal committees, along with the mayor of the town.

Mr. Hambly introduced first Mr. Ed. Harrison, ex-warden of the county, who spoke of the way in which the Henry Government had benefitted the farming community. Most of his life, he said, had been spent among farmers, and it was his conviction that the Government had done more than any other government in the world to create a condition of happiness and prosperity among the farming community. He quoted the situation in the United States where farms are now selling at $3.25 a hundred and in Ontario they are being sold at $8.00.

Mr. Newman, of Deseronto, who next spoke, drew a comparison between the situation under the Henry Government and the Drury Government. He tied Mr. Hepburn to the Socialist Party, quoting Mr. Hepburn's words to the effect that he leaned to the left.

Mr. John Wrese had only nicely got started with his address when Mr. McCrea was announced, and in deference to the guest, readily gave way.

Mr. McCrea Speaks

Mr. McCrea, on opening, paid a fine tribute to Mr. Charles Hambly, whom he said was a hard worker and a well respected member of parliament.

Mr. McCrea quickly swung into action. He is a pleasing speaker, has a good command of language, and a persuasive manner. Though he spoke for over an hour, he retained the attention of the audience throughout. The audience was very demonstrative, but listened thoughtfully as the speaker took point after point of the Hepburn policy and showed the weakness of it. He dealt first with the history of the past thirty years, in which the great development of Ontario had taken place. This development had been carried forward, largely, by the energy and good sense of the Conservative Government, who had nothing to fear from the electorate, who would not be swept off their feet by wild statements, such as Mitchell Hepburn.

Mr. Hepburn's Policy

The policy of Mr. Hepburn and the board of strategy, was two-fold, first to discredit the Conservative Government and then to promise anything and everything that the people wanted—more relief in some places and less debt in others. Mr. McCrea in his speaker pointed out, did not represent the old Liberal party. Indeed, Mr. McCrea read from Mr. Sinclair's statement after he had been dismissed as House Leader from the Liberal party. Mr. Sinclair, said: "the Hydro had prospered because he had not co-operated enough with Mr. Nixon and because he had promised to work with the Conservatives in their policy of reconstruction."

Mr. McCrea dealt at length with the Aird investigation and quoted the finding of the judge who, on the evidence submitted found that there had been nothing irregular in the transaction and that there was no relationship between these transactions and the Hydro.

The Conservative Party, Mr. McCrea contended, were responsible for the Sir Sinclair Lewis' splendid ownership project in the world. Mr. Hepburn had threatened if elected, to scuttle this. He would dismiss the Commission and fire Mr. Gaby, the chief engineer, under whose guidance the Hydro had prospered.

The speaker then pointed out that had the people of Ontario paid in the same proportion for their electricity as the citizens of New York State, last year, they would have paid $30,000,000.00 more than was paid.

The Conservative Policy

Mr. McCrea then turned his attention to the Conservative policy of protection, which was designed, he said, to protect the producer and the workmen. As a result of the Ottawa Conference business was already decidedly on the up-swing.

It was when he came to deal with the question of public debt, that Mr. McCrea was most devastating. He showed that last year, at the close of business, the debt was $502,000,000 but of this amount $185,000,000 had been advanced to Hydro and was an investment. $130,000,000 had been invested in the T. & N. O., the only railroad in the world that was paying interest on debentures. $50,450,000 had been advanced to farmers and would be repaid; loans to settlers had amounted to $9,250,000, so that the total non-paying debt was less than $306,000,000. And of this amount $185,000,000 was invested in roads.

Mr. McCrea concluded his address in a strong appeal for the support of the voters on election day.

Former Bath Minister Died Suddenly At Trenton

Rev. Geo. Ross, Well Known in District

Trenton, June 7. — Rev. George E. Ross, a retired minister of the United Church, was found dead in his home on Dundas Street, Trenton, Wednesday morning. His wife died last March, and most of the time since then he had lived alone. When he was not seen about on Wednesday morning, the neighbors became alarmed, and, entering the house, they found Mr. Ross lying dead upon the floor near a chair from which it is thought he fell when seized with the attack which caused his death. It is not known when death occurred, but it was either on Tuesday or early, Wednesday morning.

The late Mr. Ross was born in Ireland and came to Canada when quite young. He studied at Albert College, Belleville, and later at Victoria University, preparing himself for the Ministry of the Methodist Church, to which he was eventually ordained. He served successfully for many years and was very highly esteemed by his congregations and by his fellow ministers. His last charge was at Redneersville, having left there two years ago to live retired in Trenton. Mr. Ross was an excellent speaker and writer.

The sick and needy always found a friend in him, and during his retirement from active work he spent much time visiting the sick. He was also a friend of the unemployed, and on several occasions addressed a meeting of unemployed men in Trenton. On Tuesday of this week he made a trip to Bath and visited a sick friend.

Mr. Ross will be much missed by many friends and acquaintances. He is survived by Grace United Church in Trenton. At one time he was a member of Bath Circuit, a few years ago.

150th Anniversary Of U. E. L. Landing

MARKED BY ADOLPHUSTOWN CHURCH

On June 16th, 1784, that intrepid band of United Empire Loyalists, after making their way through difficulty and hardship in open boats from Carleton, finally landed at Adolphustown on the Bay of Quinte and there built their new home. Thus was established the first white settlement in Ontario; and these hardy pioneers, true to the British flag and Empire, laid the foundations of British traditions and institutions "in honour, loyalty and the fear of God."

One hundred years later, on June 17th, 1884, as part of the Centenary celebrations there occurred the unveiling stone of the Church of St. Alban was laid by the Hon. Alexander Beverly Robinson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and the building was finally completed by the United Empire patriots who became founders of the Province of Ontario."

Next Sunday, June 17th, is therefore of double significance to this parish, marking the 150th anniversary of the coming of the United Empire Loyalists and the 50th anniversary of the building of their memorial church. With this in view, a special service of commemoration has been arranged for next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock (Daylight Saving Time) (2 o'clock Standard Time) when the preacher for the occasion will be the Very Rev. W. W. Craig, D.D., Dean of St. George's Cathedral, of Kingston.

The church itself is of deep interest and well worthy of a visit, being one of the finest country churches in the Province and containing many memorial tablets to the pioneer U. E. L. settlers. Descendants of U.E.L. stock, and others interested in the early historic associations of this part of the Province will do well to make a point of attending this service.

Mackinnon & Co., Investment Brokers of Napanee, who will get complete and detailed returns through their market ticker. Mr. Mackinnon very kindly offered to pass on the information for the use of the general public, through the Chamber of Commerce, who have secured a lantern and screen for the purpose.

Celebrates Sixty-Fifth Anniversary of Wedding

On Saturday last Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson of South Napanee celebrated the 65th anniversary of their wedding. The day was spent quietly in their home, where they received the felicitations of the various members of the family and many interested friends. St. Andrew's Church, of which they are members, through a delegation of the session presented them with a resolution of congratulations and a bouquet of roses.

Mr. Gibson and Mrs. Gibson, formerly Mary Jane Tripp, were both born in the township of Tyendinaga. In 1882 they moved on a farm in Lonsdale. There they continued to live until 1912, when they retired from active work and moved to Napanee. There were nine children, seven of whom are living and all were able to be present at the anniversary. The children are Mrs. Rine of Napanee, Mrs. William Anderson of Napanee, James of Gananoque, Wellington of Napanee, Frank of Wellington and John of Napanee.

Mr. Gibson, who is 92 years of age, has been somewhat unwell of late. But he has recovered and both he and his wife are bright and cheerful in spirits. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson have, all their lives, been active in every good cause, for upwards of 70 years, an elder in the Presbyterian Church at Lonsdale, and gave his time and energy freely to its work.

Since coming to Napanee they have won many into the heart of all whom they have met. Throughout the county there are scores of people who have been the recipients of their kindness and generosity. They have a much wider influence than the average Christian, and opportunities of a small town might indicate. Friends and neighbours, fellow churchmen and acquaintances, are relieved with them in their 65th anniversary.

Large Crowds Hear Hon. W. D. Black Speak

Enthusiastic Meeting in Addington

The Hon. W. D. Black received a great reception at Tamworth and Erinsville last Monday.

Four hundred people packed the hall at Tamworth and over a hundred crowded around the doors and windows, in order to hear the clean cut record of service of the Hon. W. D. Black to his constituency.

He told of the new roads secured, the fish hatchery being built at White Lake, and the game preserve question now being made in the riding. If this is secured, it will supply the whole northern section with game for the future, and will induce thousands of tourists to establish camps in the County. He also told how, in 1911, that 19 townships, then forming the riding, received only $1,900 of Government assistance, and now over $80,000 annually is being spent by the Province in this riding for good roads, bridges, and drainage. The platform was beautifully decorated with flowers, and when Mrs. Black arrived and took her seat on the platform, there was a thunder of applause.

Mr. J. Bell Harrison gave an outline of Mr. Black's faithful service to the community, and proved by the Royal Bank report of May, 1934, that Ontario was fast shaking off the depression. Though full recovery would be slow, still, with the perseverance of able and experienced representatives, Ontario was leading the world in steady improvement of general business conditions on a sound economic basis.

The Danger of Left Wing Doctrines

A. O. L. Burnese, of Toronto, clearly exposed the danger of left wing doctrines which, he said, are a step toward Radicalism and Socialism, and which would utterly ruin our whole economic and social structure. If introduced in our Government institutions they would result in a greater depression and a chaotic condition such as this country has never seen. He exhorted his hearers to support a sound government with a known policy, led by a man of great experience and foresight.

The Rev. Mr. Redding spoke on education, and reminded the audience that it would be necessary to hold fast to the good educational and health system of the present government, and not to allow the left wing policies of the opposition to introduce Radicalism in our system, which, he said, would ruin the future of the youth.

Meeting at Erinsville

At Erinsville the Pavilion was much too small to accomodate the 700 people who crowded around to hear the speakers. Mr. O'Neil was chairman, and when Mr. Black, Mr. Harrison and Mr. Burnese were called upon, the dance became a second-ary consideration.

The audience gave a very attentive and orderly hearing, and each speaker received rousing applause.

When the Hon. W. D. Black was leaving, they gave him promise of their support and three rousing cheers, which shook the hall.

Mr. Black states that he has never known of such attention and enthusiasm as is shown at his meetings throughout the riding in this campaign.

Magistrate's Court

On Monday a resident of Kinaston appeared in the Magistrate's Court on a charge of dangerous driving. The offence occurred on Saturday evening, June 2nd. The owner of the car was not driving the car at the time, but he was held responsible and was fined $10.00 and costs, a total of $15.00.

The woman from Belleville who was driving the car, was charged with operating a motor vehicle without permit and was fined $10.00 and costs.

Napanee Rotarians Hosts at Inter Club International Meeting

Annual Meeting Of The Lennox - Addington Poultry Pool

The annual meeting of the Directors of the Lennox and Addington Poultry Pool was held in the Agricultural Board Rooms on Tuesday evening, June 5th. The following officers were elected for the coming year :

President—W. A. Ballance, R. R. No. 1, Napanee.

Vice President—Irvine Brooks, R. R. No. 2, Napanee.

Secretary-Treasurer—T. D. Creighton, R. R. No. 2, Bath.

Three speakers were in attendance: Chief Market Poultry Inspector for at the meeting: Mr. E. D. Bowman, the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa; Mr. F. H. Baker, Senior Poultry Promoter, Brockville, and Mr. J. P. Haggerty, Assistant Poultry Promoter, Belleville.

Mr. Bowman outlined the poultry marketing as carried on in a cooperative way throughout the Dominion. He spoke of the results of the Pool methods and the success they had attained, particularly in Western Canada. The Old Country market has taken considerable of our poultry products, and with the creative system as carried out, this market will be an outlet for our surplus products.

Mr. F. H. Baker and Mr. J. P. Haggerty reported on the work of the Pools in this part of the Province.

The Directors of the Pool are enthusiastic about carrying on this work, and are planning a number of meetings to be held throughout the districts in the early fall. It was decided to have only one Pool of three days, to be held at the close of the Poultry Fair, which will likely be held sometime during the latter part of November.

Crate feeding was discussed by the members and the feeling was that to bring our hatching up to the highest quality this should be carried out, as quality at all times will bring higher prices. Grading and Marketing is essential, that the buyer may know exactly what the kind is he is purchasing and the buyers are depending on this as a means of guaranteeing a quality to the trade.

Gananoque Allen—Guest Speaker

Governor "Billy" Allen, the retiring governor of the 28th Division, of which Napanee and all the clubs represented at the meeting are a part, gave a brief address filled full of information.

He spoke of the privilege of being invited to attend such a function as the inter-city dinner and the pleasure it afforded him of joining in the fun. He said, however, that it was his duty to bring in the more serious side of Rotary. He said: "Rotary is an organization which plays and works. We must not lose sight of this note in Rotary."

Speaking of the advance of the movement, he mentioned that during the year just past 3000 new members have been added and eight new clubs formed. The international aspect of Rotary is, in his mind, one of the greatest features of the organization. In his opinion, Rotary is the greatest single movement for good, in modern times, next to the Church.

Significance of Rotary Colors

In a very graphic manner, the Governor explained the significance of the Club's colors—gold and blue. The three primary colors are red, yellow and blue. Red brings up to the mind, blood, fire, heat, force, strength, power and war. Red, fortunately, does not enter into

District Governor Allen Principal Speaker

On Friday, the members of the Napanee Rotary Club were hosts at an inter-club, international meeting. Members of the clubs of Montreal, Gananoque, Kingston, Smiths Falls, Clayton and Saranac Lake were present. The meeting was the result of an inter-club attendance contest staged between the clubs of Kingston, Smiths Falls, Gananoque and Napanee, in which the Napanee Club were winners by the small margin of .27 per cent over Gananoque.

Mayor Presents Key of the Town

During the afternoon, the visiting members were entertained at golf at the Napanee Golf and Country Club. Following registration at the Town Hall, Mayor O. J. Tustin, who is also president of the Napanee Rotary Club, gave an address of welcome to the guests and presented governor "Billy" Allen of Montreal with the key of the town. The Napanee Boys' Band, an organization sponsored by the Napanee Rotary Club, were present at the Market Square, where they played several selections. At about 6:30 p.m., the band led the procession, which proceeded to the Masonic Hall dining room, where dinner was served to over a hundred men.

After dinner, George Tustin took charge of the entertainment. He expressed his own pleasure at the opportunity of welcoming the members of five clubs and called upon Jack Simpson to extend an official welcome, as chairman of the programme committee.

Gavels Presented to Presidents

An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation by "Wilf" Wilson, on behalf of "Jim" Moffatt, president of the Gibbard Furniture Shops, of neat walnut gavels in the shape of an "N" with the Rotary emblem inlaid, to the presidents of the various clubs present.

"Ted" Byers, president of the Gananoque Club, responded for the Canadian clubs, and Ed. Smith, candidate for governorship of the 28th Division, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., replied for the American clubs.

"Jack" Adams, a member of Napanee Rotary, and manager of the Detroit Red Wings, who has just returned to Napanee for the summer, was given a hearty welcome by the assembly and was heard with interest, when he made a short speech.

"Billy" Graham, chairman of the International Relations Committee, introduced the speaker of the evening, "Billy" Allen, governor of the 28th District.

Taking as the subject of the sixth object of Rotary, the furtherance of international good-will, as being one of the most important functions of Rotary. He commended each member of the clubs present to preach peace and maintain the spirit of accord now existing between Canada and the United States.

A STATESMAN IN THE PULPIT

On Sunday, Hon. H. H. Stevens occupied the pulpit of Trinity United Church, Toronto. Mr. Stevens, by his fearless attack on modern conditions of manufacture and selling and by his rugged honesty and indefatigable efforts to get at the cause of the trouble, has well earned the right to speak from a Christian pulpit. More than any other minister at Ottawa, with the possible exception of the Prime Minister, he has laid the axe at the root of the tree. For the first time in Canadian politics, a responsible Minister of the Crown has had the courage to lay bare, the great social injustices contingent upon modern methods of production and distribution.

Some of the cases which Mr. Stevens cited, have been brought out in the evidence given at the committee of which he is chairman. Women making ladies' smocks at 88 cents a dozen; wages of the same eaners cut from $20 a week to $12.50, while the firm which did the selling, was heaping up millions. Mr. Stevens then asked what would happen if all the women in Toronto refused to buy sweat-shop articles, and he hastened to answer his own question: "There would be the greatest scurrying in the world of high salaried buyers to get stuff not made by sweat-shops."

This, however desirable, is not so easy as it sounds. In the first place, vast numbers of people in Toronto and elsewhere, are on reduced wages—or on relief. They are forced if they are to buy at all, to purchase at the lowest possible figure. No matter how well-intentioned they might be, the situation iforces them to buy at bargain counters.

In addition to that, there is no method yet adopted by Canadian merchants, which will enable the shopper to distinguish between the sweat-shop article and that produced under decent conditions. There is, no doubt, but that the present enquiry will lead to some stringent Government regulation of the working conditions of men and women. The Government might well take into consideration the granting of some identification mark or stamp, to be placed on goods which come up to the Government requirements for the laborer. A small Beaver, for example, could easily be stamped on every article and that would be a guide to the conscientious buyer.

THE MINISTER OF MINES

Hon. Charles McCrea, the Minister of Mines in the Henry Government, had a hard task on Thursday last when, when he entered the Armouries. The audience had listened to several addresses and was in a restless mood. The cheering which greeted him as he entered was anything but whole-hearted and spontaneous. But from the minute he began to speak, he had the audience with him.

Mr. McCrea is one of the best of Mr. Henry's Cabinet and his presentation, yesterday, must have impressed even the most bitter opponent of the present Government. In the present campaign, we have had very little to become enthusiastic over. Those seeking office have, for the most part belabored their opponents, instead of dealing with the great issues of the day.

It was a relief, therefore, to hear a gifted speaker, logically and calmly appeal to the intellects of his audience. The rapt attention he received shows the keen desire on the part of sanely and without passion. Quietly and confidence between the electorate and the elector, to have public questions discussed sincerely, Mr. McCrea passed under review the various departments of the Government and the record of each — Hydro, agriculture, markets, tourist traffic, roads, mines, forests and the problem of debt. There was only one phase of the Government policy which Mr. McCrea left out and that is their attitude on beer and wine. We would have liked him to have enlightened us on this issue. But apart from that, it is doubtful if we have ever had, in Napanee, a saner and more convincing discussion of public questions.

After hearing him, we do not wonder at the marvellous development of the north country, which has taken place, largely, under his inspiration and leadership.

CONVERSATION

I conceive that speaking generally, conversation ought to consist more frequently of ordinary and gallant things than of great things; but I also thing that there is nothing that may not enter it, that ought to be free and diversified according to the time and place and persons about us; I think that the secret is to speak nobly of low things, simply of high things, and very courteously of courteous things, without too much forwardness and without affectation."—Mademoiselle de Scudery.

The trouble with business is that business leaders do not attend to it.—Louis E. Kirstein.

There is one point on which we would differ from Mr. Stevens' diagnosis of the situation. He is reported as having said that the prevailing "system was all right—it was those who oprated it who had failed. No system can be better than those who operate it," he said.

Now, it is hardly conceivable that the men who are leaders of our present business world, are deliberately dishonest. They work within the system of unrestricted competition. And knowing the rules of the game, they are able to play it to win. It is true that there is much good in the present system, which has not been fully achieved. But ultimately, this system of unrestricted competition must give way for one in which co-operation is the dominating motive.

Editorial Comment

LOTS OF "DEFAULTING CREDITORS"

The British have found a phrase for—"Defaulting creditor." That's what they call the United States for refusing to let British pay her war debts to us in goods. The term is a good one, with applications far broader than the war debts. The creditor class in this country, which has refused to let its debtors pay, is perhaps the best example. By fighting against an increase in mass purchasing power, the creditor class conceives itself as protecting its own interests. As a matter of fact, it injures those interests. The debtor defaults, according to the old economy. But we know now, that a creditor can default, too.—New York Post.

THERE IS A LIMIT

Since President de Valera's Government took office its political philosophy has been developing more and more rapidly towards Socialism. From the outset the President and his Ministers have made it fairly clear that they propose to follow the example of Robin Hood—to take from the rich in order to give to the poor. Most of their new imposts have been directed against the rich. They have been careful to do little or nothing to affect the interests of the bulk of their supporters, while they have not hesitated to pile on the agony in the case of all those who have something to lose. That process may be admirable in theory, but in practice it will always produce the desired results. In every country the "haves" must make sacrifices for the sake of the "have nots"; but there is a very definite limit to the extent to which they can be mulcted. —Dublin Irish Times.

SELLING INVISTES BUYING

The Finance Committee of the American Senate, which has the new Tariff Bill before it, is getting some salutary shocks. The purpose of the Bill is to give the President power to negotiate tariff reductions with other countries, and the committee was startled on Monday by finding that the friends of the automobile industry declaring the increase in duty asked in favour of the Bill. What the motor manufacturers want is large export markets, and they have had to recognise that foreign countries will not buy American products while American keeps out their products.—Spectator (London.)

"DEFENSIVE" WEAPONS

The wretched nonsense about the difference between "offensive" and "defensive" weapons is worse still. No weapon is offensive or defensive; it is the use of a weapon which is offensive or defensive, and the offensive or defensive use of a weapon has nothing to do with the offensive or defensive intention, politically speaking, of the side using it. If you are determined to destroy your society, although you wish him no ill, must be resisted; and you can resist him best by an offensive. If you are to resist him with success. There is no such thing as a defensive war.—The Spectator in The Forthnightly Review (London.)

QUI BONO ?

"By artificial means, however, situations can be imposed upon the animal which are incapable of being resolved. For instance, in dogs Pavlov built up one conditioned reflex linking the sight of a circle with the anticipation of food, and another linking the sight of an ellipse with the absence of food. Pavlov then day by day made the shape of the ellipse more circular. When it was almost circular the dog's power of discrimination broke down, there was a tendency for two opposing units of nervous activities to be thrown simultaneously into action. The result was the canine equivalent of a nervous breakdown."—From an article by Professor Julian Huxley.)

Any gems of modern learning I can anywhere collect
If their value seems uncertain, then it's I who must be dense;
I attribute any failure to my own inferior sense.
But there seem to be occasions when the experts have exhumed
Facts which might have been more easily and decently assumed
Oh, I try to be respectful—but they sometimes make me sick,
And before I leave this subject, may I say that I regard

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, JUNE 17TH, 1934

"THE RISEN LORD AND THE GREAT COMMISSION"

MATTHEW 28: 1-10; 16-20

The story of the Cross, which occupied our attention last week, is followed in today's lesson by the account of the resurrection. And here, we touch the heart of our gospel. No incident in the life of Christ has caused so much controversy, as the article of faith in the Christian's belief has been the subject of such intense and heated debate. It is true that much of obscurity surrounds the events of our Saviour's death and resurrection. There are glaring differences in detail in the various gospel stories. Were we dependent on historical documentary evidence, for proof of this greatest event in religion, we would be sorely disappointed. The documentary evidence is seriously lacking at certain points. While this is true, yet all the records are in agreement on the essentials. That something tremendous happened, none can gainsay. In no other way can we accounfit for all that took place in the days immediately succeeding Christ's death. Men who had fled when they thought their life's work shattered were seen back in Jerusalem, filled with a new enthusiasm for the cause to which they had set their hearts. Those who had seen their Master brutally done to death, were now convinced of His Divinity.

This resurrection of our Lord, in addition to being an historical fact, has been the most cherished and potential article of faith of Christian people for two thousand years. By it, men have been sustained in their hours of depression and need. The consciousness of an ever present living Lord, has inspired to heroic deeds of self-sacrifice, men and women who, but for that, were incapable of any worthwhile achievement. Historic and literary criticism has done much to clarify the uncertainty surrounding the records of Christ's resurrection. It has, likewise, tended to deepen the faith of Christendom in the reality of His living presence. There is nothing which the Christian Church holds and will hold more tenaciously than this faith in a living ever-present Christ.

The concluding section of our lesson deals with what is known as the "Great Commission." In this, the disciples of Jesus are commissioned to go into all the world and preach the gospel, "for," said He, "Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world"— and they went forth and preached everywhere. "They" did not mean a few well chosen and well trained priests or ministers. It meant men in every walk of life, women from all conditions of experience, boys and girls, young men and young women—radiant with enthusiasm and devoted to a great cause.

In the next few generations, the greatest spirit ever let loose on the world, wrought marvellous and far-reaching changes on the civilization of the age. Slaves and the down-trodden took new lease of life—men and women without hope in the world of the present, found a hope and a new life. Gradually, before the crusading spirit of the new converts, ancient faiths toppled, age-old religions were made over, and deeply entrenched customs, wiped out.

It is that same spirit still available—which alone is powerful to transform human society in our day. But it can become operative only as it reflects itself in human personality in men and women, who possess the spirit-filled life.

Farmers Get Benefits From Trade Agreements Says J. A. Weese, M.P.

Ottawa, Ontario,
June 8th, 1934.

The Editor,
Napanee Beaver.
Napanee, Ontario.

Dear Sir :—

I am addressing to you one of what I hope to be a series of letters on what the Bennett Government has done and is doing for the farmer.

I am not acting from a partisan motive, but because I believe a straight-forward statement on any matter which your readers may either condemn or approve is due to them. Unquestionably, they are entitled to ask: "What has this Government done for me, a farmer ?" I imagine they feel, and I agree, that these are no days for playing the old Party game of the "ins" versus the "outs" —that for the most of us the ordinary problem of day-to-day living is sufficient and uppermost.

My letters will be a brief statement of facts, and, if your readers find any error in them, I will be glad to have it pointed out and will welcome all expressions of opinion. This letter will deal with the Imperial Trade Agreements, and in subsequent letters I hope to deal with the Marketing Act and other legislation of this Session, including the work of the price spreads on mass buying.

Imperial Agreements

In respect to the Imeprial Agreements : It is not only conceivable but natural that there should be a failure to realize just how important these have been since they went into operation just seventeen months ago. We live so close to facts habitually that inevitably we come to simply accept them, without asking what is their background. For instance, when you sell your hogs at $8.00 per hundred or better, you do not trouble to inquire why the United States farmer selling his on the Chicago market, receives only $2.25 per hundred. Nor do you ask why. The probability to consider why all the winter you received from 30 to twenty cents or more per dozen for your eggs than the United States producerman, or why tobacco exports to Britain from Canada have gone up 6,500,000 pounds, apples up 1,800,000 hundredweight, and bacon exports up almost six-fold, while United States' exports to the United Kingdom have dropped by approximately the same amounts.

In every case the explanation lies in the Imperial Trade Agreements. These pacts have given Canada a reserved place in the greatest commodity importing market in the world. The situation in the United Kingdom is such that Canadian offerings must be sold before foreign produce has so much as a chance. Then, when the foreigner gets what, over balance of the market may be left, he must pay a customs toll to enter, from which the Canadian exporter is entirely exempt. Do you remember last year Canadian exporters of farm produce to Britain, if it had not been for the preference, would have had to pay customs duties totalling $12,044,834.00 That is one straight cash dividend which the trade treaties paid the Canadian farmer in the past twelve months.

Substantial as it is, this $12,044,834.00 is but insignificant in relation to the total benefit which the agreements have yielded. Their greatest value has been in their effect upon the domestic market. By virtue of the quantities of commodities which the Dominion has been able to export, domestic prices have been strengthened. One example is live cattle. Since the renewal of British restrictions by the treaty, their export has been resumed and last year 50,000 head which would otherwise have remained in the country to depress the home market went abroad. The consequence is that beef prices, from an extreme low of 2½ cents per pound, have recovered to around 5 cents per pound. Last fall, furthermore, 2,000,000 dozen storage eggs were shipped to Britain under the preference. The result was that the home market was relatively bare when producers started to sell in the winter and a spread of from 8 to 20 cents per dozen in favour of the Canadian producer resulted. Even the United States farmer, was maintained for several months. Then Honourable Mitchell Hepburn, British Minister of Agriculture, decided to raise farm prices in the British market. That meant raising them to the Canadian producer, because he had his guaranteed status in the British market. Consequently, Canadian hog producers are, to-day, getting from $8 to $10 per hundredweight. The United States producer, simply because he has no preference, has to take $3.25 per hundredweight. In Chicago. Testifying before the Parliamentary Committee on price spreads and mass buying, a few weeks ago, J. S. McLean, head of Canada Packers, Limited, whose opinion is expert and non-political, estimated the value of the bacon preference to Canada's farmers last year at $36,000,000—with the prospect that ultimately it will become three or four times more valuable. If any corroboration of Mr. McLean's testimony was needed, it was supplied by J. A. Law, general manager of the Wilsil Limited packing plant at Montreal, who, before the same committee, stated that on June 1st, the price of hogs on the Chicago market was $3.50 per hundredweight and on the Montreal market $9.25 per hundredweight. And Mr. Law added, "The increase in exports is entirely due to our free entry to the British market at the present time."

Bacon exports from Canada to the United Kingdom, showing : (a) product; (b) rate of duty of foreign origin; (c) Canada's domestic exports to the United Kingdom fiscal year 1934; and estimated duty collected if of foreign origin.

(a) Product	(b) United Kingdom Rate of duty	(c)Canada's Exports to United Kingdom Fiscal Year, 1934	(d)Estimated duty collected
Wheat	6 cents per bushel	Bushels .. 112,787,849	$ 6,767,271
Cheese	15 per cent	Dollars ... 7,901,077	1,186,000
Butter	3 cents per lb.....	Pounds ... 3,718,500	111,555
Apples, fresh ...	$1.25 per barrel..	Barrels ... 3,057,897	3,822,371
Evaporated milk	1c a lb. plus duty on sugar content...	Pounds 11,985,900	139,036
Eggs	2½ cts. per dozen	Dozens 1,920,055	48,001
Bacon exports of duty collected on above products if of foreign origin			$12,044,834

And, particularly worthy of note :—

Bacon exports, first four months of 1933, 15,267,200 lbs., valued at $1,235,696.05.

Baron exports, first four months of 1934, 44,790,100 lbs., valued at $6,911,227.00.

There are but some of the more striking figures, telling only a part of the story, but is it not a sufficient part ?

Mr. King pledges himself to abrogate these agreements. In view of the forgoing facts would that be good business—not from the standpoint of politics, for we cannot afford politics these days—but from the simple standpoint of dollars and cents ? What would the United States farmer not give to see our preference in the British market abolished and the door thrown open to him ? Mr. Hepburn also spoke against the agreements in the House, on October 18th, 1932, as follows :—

"Personally, I intend to vote against this measure and I will state my reasons why I shall do so. There is no mistake about it—there is no any longer—we are not going to get any more for the things we have to sell, as basic producers."

If is not contended that conditions in agriculture have been or are what we should like to see them, but I do submit that, due to the Conference Trade Pacts, we have known at worst, difficulties where we might have known despair. The record shows that in these agreements, we have something worth real money to us, which makes us the envy of every farmer south of the international border. It is well that we should realize that and determine that we shall not lightly give up this advantage.

Yours faithfully,

JOHN A. WEESE.

Recipe for Iced Tea

Use six heaping teaspoons of "Salada" Black Tea. Brew tea in one pint of freshly boiled water for six minutes. Strain, and pour tea liquid into a two-quart container. While hot, add 1½ cups of granulated sugar and juice of two lemons. Then shake or stir contents well, until sugar is fully dissolved. Fill container with cold water—DO NOT ALLOW TEA TO COOL BEFORE ADDING THE COLD WATER—otherwise, liquid will become cloudy. This is now ready to serve in tall glasses with chipped ice or cubes of ice. Lemon may be added if desired.

The above will make two quarts of iced tea, or seven tall glasses.

STAGNATION AND MORTIFICATION

Ontario's Liberal leader would cut the cost of government fifty per cent.

A tall order, but quite possible if Mr. Hepburn and his party are prepared to sacrifice progress and give the people of Ontario stagnation and mortification.

To cut his expenditure Ontario's Liberal leader, among other "economies" would wipe out the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

He has placed himself on record to effect this.

The Toronto Globe, in reporting his speech at a banquet in Toronto on December 15, 1932, says:

"The departments of Game and Fisheries, AGRICULTURE, Labour, and Mines, the Motion Picture Bureau, Research Work and Colonization were a few which Mr. Hepburn cited as instances where curtailment or ABANDONMENT of one service could be effected without hurting administration."

WHAT OF THE FARMER?

Possibly administration would not suffer.

But what would happen to the farmer?

Where would he be with his overseas selling agent gone merely to set up a record for low spending?

Would it be true economy to wipe out, at one enthusiastic gesture, the agricultural research which makes available to every farmer, without money and without price, all the resources of science, skill, knowledge and experience for the enlarging of output and the improvement of quality at lower operating costs?

WOULD THESE HELP?

Would it help the farmer to wipe out the department which held, for farmers and farm women, in 1933, a total of 93 courses in agriculture and home economics at as many centres throughout the province?

Would the monetary saving justify the elimination in every county of the trained agricultural representative, the man to whom the farmers look for advice in cases of plant or stock disease?

Through abandonment of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Ontario's Liberal leader would abandon the Ontario Marketing Board.

Can the Ontario farmer afford to be without this board, or would its abandonment be another of the Costly Economies which Mr. Hepburn proposes.

The Ontario Marketing Board knew that fruit produced in Ontario was good fruit, but it knew also that it was not reaching outside markets in a way which made potential buyers aware of its goodness. Through co-operation with fruit growers, cooling places and a grading system were established.

In 1929, the year this policy was decided on, Ontario sold 45 carloads of apples beyond its own boundaries.

In 1933, after ten cooling places had been established, sales in Great Britain alone totalled 450,000 barrels, valued at $1,080,000.

In addition to this, there were correspondingly large sales on the continent of Europe and in the Canadian West.

In the same five years the export of pears and plums grew from practically nothing to more than 100,000 packages.

This is one service rendered by the Henry Government, which the Ontario Liberal Party would wipe out in its effort to make good on the rash "economy" promise of its leader.

But this is only a small part of what the Ontario Marketing Board, product of the progressive Conservative administration, has done for the farmer.

PRICES WENT UP

In 1932 it saw another opportunity and this year saw Ontario farmers who had abandoned Ontario barley using 1,000,000 bushels of the Ontario product at a price $150,000 above the current market quotation.

The board turned to the problems of the turnip grower. As a result of its first season's work the board obtained one contract for 1932 for 40,000 bushels and the price obtained now by the farmers is between 50 and 100 per cent. better than before the board became interested in the situation.

Export sales of cattle in 1933 for the whole of Canada totalled 50,317 head, valued at $3,180,194. Aggressive sales methods of the Ontario Marketing Board were responsible for TWO-THIRDS OF THIS TOTAL—33,781 HEAD, VALUED AT $2,014,471—GOING FROM ONTARIO.

What the Ontario Department of Agriculture and its subsidiary, the Ontario Marketing Board—the Department which Liberal Leader Hepburn would wipe out—has done for the bacon industry needs no comment. The figures speak for themselves.

BACON SALES JUMPED

In 1932 Ontario sold thirty million pounds of Bacon in the British Market. In 1933 the figure has grown to 40,000,000 pounds. AND THE FIRST FIVE MONTHS OF 1934 HAVE BROUGHT INCREASED BACON RETURNS OF MORE THAN $15,000,000 TO THE FARMERS OF THIS PROVINCE.

Export of dressed poultry has grown from a negligible figure to a total, in 1933, of $1,216,000.

To improve live stock herds of the province it agreed to pay twenty per cent. of the cost of pure bred sires. In 1932 alone there were 430 applications and $37,000 was paid. In the five years 442 approved herd sires were sent into Northern Ontario. On these the Ontario Government paid 30 per cent. of the cost, plus the freight.

Efforts of the department and co-operation of dairymen have improved the quality of the 86,000,000 pound annual production of Cheddar cheese from 89 per cent. first quality in 1924 to 96 per cent. first quality in 1932 and Ontario Cheddar Cheese now brings a premium of from two to three cents over cheese from other countries.

Ontario is the only province which loans money to farmers on the security of their lands and chattels. In 1933 it loaned in round figures, $6,700,000 to 3,415 applicants.

PLEDGED TO ELIMINATION

This is the department which Mitchell Hepburn, leader of Ontario's Liberal Party, has pledged himself to eliminate.

In one fell swoop he would wipe out a department which has done more than anything else in the Dominion of Canada to see the farmers of this Province through the period of agricultural depression.

Ontario cannot afford the loss of its Department of Agriculture.

Ontario must have construction under the progressive Henry Administration.

Destruction under Liberal leader Hepburn would mean ruin.
